Only Stewart Congratulates Detroit Wings

DETROIT (AP)—Only one member of Montreal Canadiens — forward Gaye Stewart—congratulated Detroit Red Wings after they won the Stanley Cup hockey finals Friday night.

A former teammate of many of the Red Wings, Stewart attended a victory party after Detroit's 2-1 victory and said:

"I guess I should apologize for some of our fellows. They felt like I did and wanted to come out on the ice and shake hands all around. But we were restrained from higher up."

Stewart was traded by Detroit four years ago to New York Rangers for Tony Leswick, whose dramatic goal in the "sudden death" period gave the Red Wings their sixth Stanley Cup.

Detroit newspapers noted the fact that none of the Canadiens, except Stewart, offered formal congratulations.

Ferguson Sets Record In Steeplechase

LAWRENCE, Kan. (CP) — Rich Ferguson of Toronto, Iowa University distance runner, set a meet record of 9:20.4 in the 3,000-metre steeplechase at the Kansas relays Saturday. Ferguson, defending champion, easily trimmed the old mark of 9:27 set by Tommy Deckard of Indiana in 1937.

Wes Santee of Kansas ran the mile in 4:03.1—second fastest ever run by an American—in winning that event. Santee holds the American mile record of 4:02.4.

Took 70 Years, Mackinac To Get Suspension Bridge

By JAMES CROWE

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—"Shall it be a bridge or a tunnel?"

That's the title the Grand Traverse (Mich.) Herald used in 1884 over an editorial kicking off the first drive for an all-weather route across the Straits of Mackinac.

It took 70 years, but the answer is here.

Construction will start this spring on what will be the longest suspension bridge in the world, spanning the "seas of sweet water" French discoverers described to their king three centuries ago.

The Straits of Mackinac, sparkling in the summer sun or supporting a crackling plain of ice in winter, connect Lake Michigan with Lake Huron. They also separate Michigan's wild upper peninsula from its heavily populated mitten-shaped lower peninsula.

Though only four miles wide, the straits are 250 feet deep. Winds of up to 78 miles an hour whip up formidable storms. In the winter tons of ice funnel into the straits, choking them with jagged windrows.

FERRIES AT PRESENT

Ferries are operated by the state of Michigan at present. But the normal hour-long wait for these boats has often stretched to eight or 10 hours in the peak of the summer tourist season or during the fall hunting season.

As a result the water barrier has long isolated the upper peninsula from the other two-thirds of the state, and has restricted through traffic.

The new span will bring easy access to the Michigan lower peninsula to motorists from the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., area, a few miles to the north.

The bridge already has been dubbed in some quarters as the engineering feat of the century. It will cost just short of $100,000,000 and stretch 26,444 feet, slightly more than five miles. It will take four years to build.

The bridge design calls for a central span of 3,800 feet, hanging free between two 552-foot steel towers. This is second only to the 4,200-foot free-hanging span of the Golden Gate in San Francisco. Most of the remainder of Mackinac's total length will be made up of truss spans to carry the four-lane roadway across shallow water to the suspension span.

NAMED BY INDIANS

The fort, the straits and the island all got their name from the Indians. They thought the round island, carved by glaciers into the shape of an inverted bow, looked like the shell of a turtle. So they called it Michilimackinac, their name for turtle.

The whites dropped off the first four syllables and corrupted the pronunciation to Mackinaw, with the accent on the first syllable. But they retained the final "c" in the spelling.

Despite the bridge's record-breaking length and the extremes of weather, David B. Steinman of New York, the chief designing engineer who has had a hand in all the major bridges of his generation, says it presents no insurmountable problems.

The structure will be designed to withstand winds of up to 120 miles an hour and four feet of ice —well over the greatest wind and ice pressures ever recorded in the Mackinac area.

Last December, the Mackinac bridge authority, an agency of the state of Michigan, floated a $99,800,000 revenue bond issue to build and finance the structure.

Prentiss M. Brown of Detroit, chairman of the authority, expects that traffic will be heavy enough to pay off the bonds through tolls in 25 years. When the bonds are all retired, the bridge will be operated without charge by the state.

The authority plans to charge the same tolls, figured on weight of the vehicle and the number of passengers, as are charged now on the ferries. Last year, the average toll was $2.73.

The big difference will be the saving in time. Cars, trucks and buses will shoot across the bridge in 10 minutes.

SEE FIRST YEAR SURPLUS

Cloverdale and Colpitts, New York consulting engineers who studied the future traffic possibilities of the bridge, calculate that in the first full year of the bridge's operation 1,927,000 vehicles will cross and pay at least $1,000,000 more than will be needed to meet the year's interest and bond retirement payments.

Each year thereafter, they figure, traffic will increase by at least 100,000 vehicles, more than enough to make the scheduled payments.

In the face of this, there are pessimists who insist the bridge is going to be a financial flop.

One of these is state Senator Haskell L. Nichols of Jackson. He brought a state supreme court suit challenging the validity of the bonds. But a few weeks later the high court threw out the suit, and the last obstacle to building the bridge was removed.

Thirty years ago, state highway department engineers drew up plans for a straits bridge which then would have cost $30,000,000. The price tag now is more than three times as high, but Michiganders are not dismayed. After all, think of the bargain they could have got in 1884.

THEY ALL SCREAM FOR ICE CREAM —The ice cream supply at a Cleveland, Ohio, hospital is dwindling and here's the reason—the six Teets children had their tonsils removed at the same time. Dr. Jerry A. Zinni, at right, handled the surgery, after the hospital staff set up two surgery rooms. In three hours the operations were completed. Left to right: Pricella, 11; Douglas, 9; David, 8, and Shirley, James and William, all 7.

Private International Army Guards UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) A private international army keeps constant guard over the United Nations headquarters here, providing protection for the world's diplomats when they set foot inside the UN boundary fence.

The 135-man group probably contains as many nationalities as the French foreign legion.

Except for an occasional tussle with a crank or people who would like to set up a picket line inside the building, the force has little excitement in its daily work.

The UN cops stand guard on doors; make sure that people coming in have the right to enter working areas of the building; watch out for tourists who get separated from their guides; and stand around looking alert so that delegates can spend all their time worrying about international problems and not whether somebody will fire a pistol at them from behind a palm.

NO BOMBS FOUND

Nobody has tried that yet, and although there have been several bomb scares no bombs have been found. Only a few key officers of the force are armed. The others carry billy clubs and a small cloth restrainer, to bind the arms of anyone who gets obstreperous.

The few cases of this kind are turned over to Bellevue Hospital for mental tests.

In case of a full-blown demonstration, the UN police force can call on New York city police for help. But unless the New York city police—or other peace officers —are invited by the UN, they're supposed to stay off the grounds, under the headquarters agreement between the UN and the United States Congress.

There are British, Dutch, Nicaraguan, Chinese, Danish, Norwegian, United States, British West Indian and Icelandic citizens on the UN police force. They wear a light blue uniform.

Besides their policing duties, the UN cops are fire-fighters. They haven't had much to do along that line, however.

During the business period Mrs. Randall Anderson extended an invitation to her home for the evening of May 13.

The. Rev. R. G. Newman conducted the re-organization of the Sunday school executive of the Rush Point United church. With April 25, at 10:30 a.m. as the re-opening date the following officers were chosen: Superintendent —Earl J. EASTER CHURCH PARADE was the largest ever attended in the city's history; it was invariably a case of standing-room only. All dressed up and ready to go (left photo, left to right) were Johnny Pearson, Cynthia Blakemore, Donna Hickey and Josephine Blakemore. They attended late mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, following the older people (right photo) into the crowded church.

Worst Easter Traffic Has Few Mishaps Drivers Take Care

Although some of the heaviest traffic on record for this time of year was reported on some district highways Sunday, accidents were few.

For the most part, drivers were reported using special care as the first holiday weekend of the new season brought out hordes of families to enjoy the balmy weather of another spring.

Although some slight injuries required hospital treatment, only one Sunday accident victim remained in hospital today.

Mrs. Stanley Sutherland, 41, of 28 Shelbourne St., was reported in satisfactory condition today. She was admitted to Civic Hospital late Sunday afternoon suffering from several cuts.

FAMILY AFFAIR

By an odd coincidence, Mrs. Sutherland suffered her injuries in the second of the only two accidents reported in the Apsley district, one involving her husband as driver and the other his brother.

The first occurred about 8 a.m. Saturday to John W. Sutherland of RR 10, Peterborough, when the right rear tire of his car blew out on Highway 28 about seven miles north of Apsley.

The car rolled over in the ditch, causing about $450 damage; but Mr. Sutherland, who was driving alone, escaped uninjured.

About 4 p.m. Sunday, Mr. Sutherland's brother Stanley was driving south on Highway 28 when his car hit a soft spot on the shoulder about 14½ miles north of Apsley. The car went out of control and clipped off a mailbox and four guard-rail posts, injuring Mrs. Sutherland. Damage to the car was estimated at about $375.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry, who investigated both accidents, reported that traffic was not unusually heavy in the Apsley district over the weekend. In other sections the story was different, however.

Although OPP headquarters at Peterborough reported no accidents Saturday night or Sunday, one serious smash, involving five cars and a tractor, occurred near Lindsay. Although damage was heavy, no injuries resulted.

Otherwise, Highway 7, while carrying heavy loads of family sightseers and holiday visitors, was relatively free of mishaps in this area.

The only casualty was a Colonial Coach lines bus which sank in the mud on the shoulder of the highway about three miles east of Marmora, when it halted to make a transfer of drivers about 6 p.m.

The bus had slowed almost to a stop when it got stuck in the mire. There was no damage to the bus and no one was injured. But the 17 passengers were delayed in their westward journey for a couple of hours while a tow-truck was brought from Peterborough to extract the bus. Toronto-bound passengers were transferred to the 10 p.m. express bus shortly after their arrival in Peterborough.

OPP Constable Tom Lummis of Madoc investigated.

In the Cobourg district, where the traffic on Highway 2 was reported heavy for this time of year, only a few minor accidents occurred over the weekend.

Traffic was so heavy Sunday afternoon and evening that cars were travelling bumper to bumper from a mile east of Cobourg right through town past the Main St. traffic lights. Police had to use manual traffic control to keep vehicles moving.

Generally speaking, the season of heavy traffic got off to an auspicious start in this district.

Main Street Topics

NO COURT

Magistrate's court was not opened today, Easter Monday. People charged with offences over the weekend were remanded to a later date by Justice of the Peace Gordon Puffer.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Two of the men who will attend a convention of Ontario Industrial Arts Association Tuesday and Wednesday are Leo McColl, shop teacher of Kenner collegiate, vice-president of the association and Don Rintowl, of the Lakefield High School.

CLOSING MIXUP

Trenton merchants who normally have 9 p.m. closing Friday evenings ran into trouble Thursday night before the holiday when they stayed open to 9 p.m. They were warned by the Chamber of Commerce that action would be taken if they stayed open. Later, during the evening, police constables visited the open stores and told them a summons would follow. One merchant said the town was going "bylaw crazy" another said that the extra business he did was worth paying a fine.

PARKING FOR CHURCHGOERS was a headache. Water St., from the Post Office to Edinburgh St., was lined solidly at both curbs and cross-streets were also jammed. Three dapper children (insert) arrived early at St. Paul's Presbyterian church before the big rush started.

7 Varieties Of Ducks Seen

Members of Peterborough Nature club and friends held an outing to Buckhorn and Pigeon lakes on Saturday morning to observe flocks of ducks assembled there for their northern migration. They found thousands on the lakes and some of the species noted were: scaup, golden-eyes, buffelheads, baldpates, ring-necks, and mergansers. There was also a flock of geese.

Other species of birds noted during the three-hour outing were loons, hairy woodpeckers, phoebes, tree swallows, chicadees, crows, robins, starlings, house sparrows and meadow larks. There were also red-winged blackbirds, goldfinches, juncos and song sparrows. The observers returned to the city at noon.

N. Dakota Dust Drops In For Easter

The warm sun of Easter did its best to show off Sunday's parade of fashions in downtown Peterborough; but it had some opposition.

Dust—the scourge of the hungry thirties—all the way from North Dakota, descended in a fine pall to mar slightly the otherwise spring-like weather of the festival day.

Strong winds had lashed across the farmlands of the north-central United States, sending loose, dry specks of topsoil eddying high in the air. The Dominion public weather office reported that the layer of dust was 10,000 feet thick.

The winds snaked their way eastward across the continent, slackening long enough to deposit part of their cargo on several points in central Ontario.

DAZZLING SUN

Meteorological technicians measured the dust layer over Toronto to an altitude of 12,000 feet. Above that, they said, the sun was dazzling in its brightness.

At Malton airport, the weather office reported visibility was cut to two miles. Without the dust, visibility would have been unlimited.

The unwelcome visitor tarried around Peterborough long enough to film Sunday night's full moon with a heavy haze of silver.

Early Dip

A father taking his two small daughters to Nicholls Oval at 5:30 a.m. Sunday to see the sun rise, saw something he didn't expect to as he crossed Inverlea bridge. Down at the edge of the river, two small boys had their shoes and socks off and one was drying his feet. Whether or not they had gone wading or swimming wasn't evident, but there was no doubt they were rushing the day and the season.

ANGLICANS AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH attended four services Easter Sunday. The Rev. F. G. Ongley was able to spend only a few minutes greeting parishioners at the main entrance before the 11 a.m. service.

Church Attendance Reaches New Record For Easter Sunday

Easter Sunday church attendance in Peterborough and district was the largest in history, according to the clergy and a survey conducted by The Examiner.

Starting with a steady stream of communicants at St. Peter's Cathedral at 6 a.m. mass, services continued each hour on the hour at various denominational churches until the great flood at 11 a.m.

The weather was balmy. Churchgoers ignored the North Dakota dust storm that darkened the blue sky and sifted down brown dust on their Easter finery and shining cars. But serene Easter Sunday tempers were strained at the downtown church-parking problem.

City police viewed the situation seriously especially the downtown section in the Murray Street-George Street-St. Paul's-St. John's church areas. Cars were lined solidly on both sides of Water Street, from the Post Office almost as far north as Dublin. Cross streets from Hunter St., north were jammed east and west for three blocks. Police shuddered to think what could happen if a downtown fire broke out at churchtime in that general area. The church-going parking problem, they say, is acute.

Following the unanimous comment from clergy throughout the city that church attendance was at an all-time high, a cross-section shows that:

George Street United church was filled, both main church and Sunday School in 40 minutes. The Sunday school children were detained in their rooms during the first part of the main service and were brought up to the auditorium for the Bible story preceding the sermon. The choir presented "The Messiah" at the evening service with soloists James Goldie, Ross Moore and Chester Carson and Messrs. R. Peters and R. Aspinall.

Attendance at Murray Street Baptist church was hte largest the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan said, since he has officiated there.

SUNRISE SERVICES

Salvation Army Temple service started at 7 a.m. with a sunrise service but a similar service was held before this by the full body of the CGIT, Lakefield United church, on the banks of the Trent Canal in the village.

The Army band played at morning and evening services, at two street meetings and on Sunday afternoon on the ground of Civic Hospital.

Their second Easter services were held at the new Pentecostal church. Attendance was large and the first appearance of their 32-piece band at the evening service was well received.

Mark Street United church couldn't have held more communicants, Dr. N. D. Patterson said, although it was not necessary to accommodate the overflow in the parish hall rooms.

Anglican churches held as many as five services on Sunday. Attendance was excellent. At St. John's children and some adults overflowed into the Sunday School. Accommodation was a problem also at All Saints', St. Luke's and St. George's.

The Rev. Gilbert D. Smith marked his second Easter in Canada on Sunday. It was on Easter Sunday 1953 that Mr. Smith, a recent arrival from Lisburn, Ireland, was introduced to the St. Giles' Presbyterian congregation. The congregation was then only six months old and was worshipping in Confederation public school. One year later the congregation, while still worshipping in the school, expects to move into its new modern church late in May.

On Sunday the largest basement playroom in the school was filled to capacity with an overflow in the corridors outside. A junior choir of 45 and a senior choir lead in the service of song and Mr. Smith took as his subject "Victory Day."

A dramatized presentation of Easter message was given at evening service at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. There were eight players under the direction of Roger Davis, Glen Hagerman, Rita Mitchell, Edgar Kee, Graham Gordon, Jane Hougton, Ray McFaydyen, Bert Ross and Jean Leach.

Mountain Climb Fails Save Woman's Life

FORT WILLIAM, Scotland (Reuters)—Police and air force mountain rescue teams today climbed Britain's highest mountain in a vain effort to save a London house wife who had been dangling from a 120-foot rope since mid-afternoon Sunday.

Upon reaching the slippery summit of 4,406-foot Ben Nevis, the climbers said the woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Emery, 39, was dead. They abandoned efforts to retrieve her body until tomorrow.

She had slipped on snowy Tower ridge during an Easter mountain climb.

Passenger Hurt Driver Charged In City Accident

Nine accidents were investigated by police over the Easter weekend and two men were treated for injuries at Civic Hospital.

Stanley Roscoe, 21, of 207 Rink St; suffered a concussion and was in a "dazed condition" when admitted to hospital, Saturday evening. He was a passenger in a car driven by Bruce G. LaRoche, 22, of 636 Little St; involved in an accident in front of 176 Rubidge St; with another car driven by Norman G. Hunt, 26, of 341 George St.

LaRoche was charged with careless and drunken driving and will appear in court, Tuesday. The Hunt car received baout $150 damage, and the LaRoche car, $100. Roscoe was released from hospital, Sunday.

William C. Douglas, 16, of 677 Frank St; received out-patient treatment, Sunday, at Civic Hospital for a lacerated chin. Douglas, driving a motorcyle, was in collision with a car driven by Albert J. Warne, 31, of 455 Hunter St; at George St. and Parkhill Rd; Sunday. Warne's car received about $125 damage. The motorcycle was only slightly damaged.

A car driven by Andrew L. Meiklejohn, 20 of RR 4, Peterborough, received about $35 damage at George and Charlotte Sts., when in collision with a car driven by Harold Foss, 22, of 164 Aylmer St., Saturday. The Foss car was undamaged.

Cars driven by Blake Hanna, 24, of RR 1, Port Hope, and Giovanni Folinazzo, 23, of 561 King St., collided at Charlotte St. and Monaghan Rd., Saturday. The Hanna car received about $25 damage, and the Folinazzo car, about $30.

All four accidents were investigated by PC Gerald Emmons.

Two cars driven by Carl Simmons, 19, of 273 Dalhousie St. and James K. Hargreaves, 20, of RR 5, Peterborough, both received about $15 damage in front of St. Alphonsus' church Sunday. PC James Armstrong investigated.

Another slight accident involving cars driven by Victor Rogers, 24, 567 Aylmer St., and Aleric Courneya, 36, of 79 Neilson Ave., was investigated by PC Armstrong at Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts., Sunday. Both cars received about $15 damage.

A car driven by Harold Smith, [illegible] phone pole at Park and Princess Sts., resulting in $200 damage to the car and $100 to the pole. PC Cecil Bowyer investigated, Sunday.

PC Bert Howden investigated an accident at Rubidge and King Sts., Friday, between cars driven by Edward A. Potter, 24, of 544 Donegal St., and Henry H. Reynolds, 38, of Ville Emard, Quebec. The Potter car received about $150 damage, and the Reynolds car about $300.

A minor hit-and-run accident occurred Saturday, when a parked car owned by Jack L. Sorg, 555 Spruce St., was struck and received about $5 damage, by an unknown car. PC John V. Williams investigated.

Firemen Busy Answering False Alarms

Although there was only one actual fire in Peterborough over the weekend, and it was just a chimney fire, city firemen were kept busy answering false alarms.

At 7:49 p.m. Saturday, someone thought they saw smoke from a fire in Wigley's Transport and Express garage at the rear of 330 Water St; so they turned in an alarm. But a thorough investigation by firemen revealed nothing.

Five hours later, at 12:11 a.m. there was another false alarm when the sprinkler system at the former Timber Structures plant on High St. went off.

But when the alarm sounded less than three hours later at 3:01 a.m. it was the real thing. An oil space heater in the home of M. H. Byers, 430 Rose Ave; flooded and caused a chimney fire.

Firemen removed the heater from the house and used 18 pounds of carbon dioxide and a handpump to put out the blaze. No structural damage was done but there was slight damage caused by smoke.

The firemen were given a respite of 14 hours until 5:58 p.m. when another sprinkler alarm went off, this time at Kesco Electric Supply Ltd. 383 George St.

But the series of alarms was crowned by an act of sheer deviltry at 7:58 p.m. Sunday when someone phoned in to say there was a garage on fire at 578 McKellar St. The fire department found no evidence of any fire.

Branch Knocks Rider Off Horse

Frank Merritt, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Merritt, 698 Little St., is reported in fair condition in Civic Hospital, today, following a horse riding accident on the River Rd., Sunday.

Pte. Merritt, home on holiday leave from Lakeside, near Toronto, where he is stationed with the RCEME, was riding with a group of friends on rented horses, Sunday afternoon, when knocked to the ground by a low hanging tree branch. He received a shoulder injury and undetermined internal chest injuries.

Falls From Car Boy Escapes Serious Injury

COLDSPRINGS (ENS)—Cameron Hogg, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hogg of Harwood, fell out of the car on Thursday evening, going down Pine hill north of Coldsprings, when returning home from Cobourg with his mother.

While rolling the right rear window down, the boy's sleeve caught on the inside door handle. The door opened and jerked him out of the car as it swung open. He landed on his head on the edge of the road, sustaining many cuts and bruises about his head and face, which required several stitches.

He was taken quickly to Cobourg where Dr. D. H. Gear attended him, and had him removed to Cobourg General Hospital for observation.

He was able to return to his home on Friday afternoon.

His injuries may have been more serious, had he fallen out of the left car door, and onto the cement pavement.

UNEXPECTED ARRIVAL—Mrs. Mike Cifra, of Wawanesa, Man., thought she was merely suffering from stomach 'flu and said the arrival of her first child, Judith Anne, was a complete surprise to her, her husband and her doctor. She finished her evening shift at the telephone company and said she was going to call a doctor first thing in the morning about her "stomach 'flu." However, the four-pound, 13-ounce baby was born before the doctor could arrive.—(CP Photo).

Miss M. A. Miller

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—The funeral service for Miss Margaret Ann Miller, who died in hospital on Wednesday, was held from the Hendren funeral home Friday afternoon.

Born in Douro, Miss Miller had resided in that district all her life and had spent the past 10 years at Warsaw. She was a daughter of Stephen Miller and Margaret Methuen and was 83 years of age.

Miss Miller was an active member of the Warsaw Presbyterian church and for many years taught in the Sunday school. She was also a member of the Warsaw Women's Institute and of the LOBA.

She is survived by two brothers, Robert of Warsaw and David of Lakefield.

The service was conducted by the Rev. H. C. Wolfraim of Lakefield United church, assisted by the Rev. George Dyson of Warsaw. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough.

Pallbearers were Percy and Stuart Cullen, Keith Ross, Mel Miller, James Hawthorne and Donald Davis.

9,000 To Attend

TORONTO (CP)—Thousands of persons interested in education converged on Toronto during the week-end for the 94th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association. Meetings will be held Monday through Thursday and about 9,000 persons are expected from various parts of Ontario.

President Hostess To Harwood WA

HARWOOD (ENS) — The WA of St. John's church met at the home of Mrs. R. S. Johnson, president, who presided.

After the devotional and business meeting, the program consisted of readings by Mrs. Walter Johnston and Miss Muriel Young.

Plans were made for the annual meeting in Toronto and for Easter and for the Easter party in the hall. Miss L. Drope read the bulletin.

No Canadians

VICTORIA (CP) — Secretary of State Pickersgill said Saturday he sees "no possibility" of Canadian troops joining the fighting in Indo-China. Mr. Pickersgill spoke to newspaper men after he arrived in Victoria with Mrs. Pickersgill and their four children on a visit.

Fruit Centre Burned

HAMILTON (CP)—Fire did an estimated $100,000 damage when it raged out of control for four hours early Sunday and destroyed the three-storey warehouse of the B. Wright Fruit Company. Fireman Norman Soles suffered minor injuries when a floor caved in.

Checker Champ

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A. Crawford of Hillsburg won the Ontario checker championship here Saturday and was presented with the Dr. Annis trophy. In Class B competition, J. H. Markle, Drumbo, was winner. W. J. Lowrie, Kingston, was third, and T. B. Gardiner, Kingston, fourth, in this class.

Retired Rector Preaches In Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Easter Holy Comunion service was celebrated in St. John's Anglican church, Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. A. E. Slemin, recently retired rector of St. Agnes' church, Long Branch, Toronto, and now living at Brighton.

There were 105 communicants at the largely attended service, which included friends from St. Michael's church, Westwood, and Christ church, Norwood. Also there was a group of Boy Scouts from St. John's church, West Toronto, who with their leader John Boundy are spending a week at Mrs. E. M. Williams' cottage, Round Lake.

Mr. Slemin spoke on the two greatest proclamations which were ever made: when the angels proclaimed the birth of Christ, our Saviour, and "He is risen."

Special music under the direction of the organist, Mrs. D. D. Kirk was offered and included a solo "The Holy City" by Mrs. William Goadsby and Easter anthems by the junior and senior choirs.

Flowers, placed on the altar and in the chancel were from the Curtis family, the Haryett family and Joseph Mills.

Mr. E. J. McDonald, lay reader of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, and who is in charge of the Norwood-Belmont parish assisted in the service.

Mr. Slemin was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. MacLean, formerly of Long Branch, who were his parishioners when he was rector there.

Restorating Hindu Temples Links Java Past With Present

WASHINGTON — The ancient Hindu temples of Prambanan, long threatened by vandals, wars decay, are rising again under the tropical blue skies of south-central Java.

First to be completed is a monument to the Braham god Siva, the huge, elaborately carved structure that crowned the temple group known as Loro Jonggrang. At official restoration ceremonies held recently, the president of the Republic of Indonsia hailed the achievement as symbolic of the rebirth of the nation's independence.

Loro Jonggrang belongs to Java's Golden Age of architecture, says the National Geographic Society. Lasting from the 7th to the 10th centuries A.D., this era of prolific construction represented the flowering of the religious art brought to central Java by early Indian colonists.

BRAHMA VS. BUDDHA

The Loro Jonggrang cluster (built about 900) was only one of the many temple groups that dotted the plain outside the old Hindu capital of Mendang Kamulan, now Prambanan.

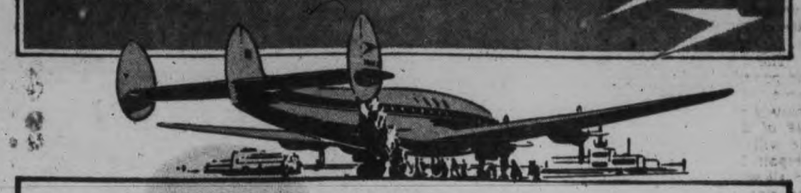
Some were dedicated to Buddhism. Others, like Loro Jonggrang, honored Brahmanism's triple deities Braham, Vishnu and Siva. At one time, the two rival sects flourished side by side.

In all Java, the outstanding example of Buddhist architecture is Borobudur, a massive series of terraced stone monuments and shrines that stands in restored form about 25 miles northwest of the Prambanan temples.

In bygone days Borobudur's chief competitor was probably Loro Jonggrang. The latter buildings came into being, at any rate, about the time of a revival of interest in pre-Buddhist Brahmanism.

While Borobudur was architecturally impressive because of its enormous size, Loro Jonggrang was noted for the number of its structures. More than 150 individual temples were ranged on three tiers surrounding the center group of six main temples.

MYSTERIOUS SHIFT



Mid-Java's Golden Age ended abruptly and mysteriously after the 10th century. The focus of political power shifted from the dynasties of the central part of the island to those of the east.

Gradually both Buddhist and Brahman faiths faded. They were supplanted by the religion of Islam, spread vigorously between the 14th and 16th centuries by Arab and other Moslem missionaries and traders.

Today, more than 90 per cent of the Javanese people are Moslems. Their faith in the Koran, however, has by no means dissipated old primitive beliefs in spirits, charms and witch doctors. Rural folk also still repeat the Hindu legends and make the traditional fruit and flower offerings to the gods of ancient Hindu temples.

The restoration of Loro Jonggrang marks the first stage of plans to recall Java's artistic past Initiated in the 1880's under the Netherlands government, the work has been delayed by necessary research and handicapped by the loss of many of the original stones. It was further held up by Japanese occupation of the Indies during World War II and the struggle that followed for Indonesian independence.

Hold Big-Scale Exercises To Try Out New Weapons

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — New weapons, atomic cannon, guided missiles, rockets, are giving the U.S. Army fire power undreamed of not many years ago but they also are creating serious problems in the already intricate business of running an orderly, efficient battle.

These are among the problems to be worked on in manoeuvres, involving 100,000 army and air [illegible] the Carolinas. They are the first big-scale exercises involving the firing or simulated use of virtually all new weapons.

Deciding what weapons to shoot at what target has been a source of argument even with conventional artillery and aircraft. The advent on the battlefield of "artillery" that can range out from 20 to hundreds of miles and has a much greater demolition radius is compounding the problem.

ATOMIC EXPLOSIVE

The army's new 280-millimetre cannon, which like the "corporal" missile or the "honest John" heavy bombardment rocket fires either atomic or conventional explosive, is an example.

The 11-inch gun has a maximum range of about 30 miles. Under present organization, the gun is sidered "corps artillery." That means that control of batteries of the gun rests with the headquarters of a corps (a corps usually is composed of two or three army divisions.) The control does not go back to a higher headquarters, such as a theatre command, where co-ordination of tactical bomber and fighter-bomber aircraft of the air force and navy is maintained.

Yet the range of the 280 mm. gun and bombardment rocket, and especially of the guided missile, reaches out far ahead obliquely to either side of the normal fighting front of a corps.

SEE DANGER

Some tacticians see in this rigidity of corps control both potential inefficiency and danger, contending that:

1. A corps headquarters can decide to strike a target which is scheduled for or indeed already may have been taken care of by bombing planes sent by a higher headquarters.

2. Without co-ordination, planes heading for a target may fly into the path of fire from atomic cannon, missles or rockets.

The Carolina manoeuvres will involve ground forces equal to an average corps.

Operating on average terrain and under average condition, the exercise will provide an opportunity for the army to prove its claim that its 280 mm. cannon can hit an enemy accurately under conditions which ground the air force's tactical bombers—in darkness or storm.

You can't go ALL-OUT

IF you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

Archbishop Sees Hope World Spared H-Bomb

LONDON (AP) — Although the outlook may be dismal, the Christian is justified in hoping the world will be spared destruction by hydrogen bombs, the Archbishop of Canterbury said in an Easter Sunday sermon at Canterbury cathedral.

"These things make war more hideous, but not more evil," said the Church of England's leading prelate, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher. "War always was and always will be evil. These things may extinguish all hope of man in this world.

"But Christian hope never rested in this world, but in God."

MUST KEEP TRYING

Efforts to reach agreements to prevent use of vastly destructive weapons must go on, Dr. Fisher said.

The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, second ranking prelate of Britain, also used the hydrogen bomb theme.

"The Christian believes that by the power of God sin can be overcome," Dr. Garbett said. "He resolutely refuses to believe that the use of this weapon is inevitable. He will not sit down in fatalistic despair before its threat. He will do all within his power to conquer the sins which might lead to its use."

Speed Limit 60 MPH On Express Highway

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Speed limits on the New York state Thruway — express highway between Buffalo and New York city —will be 60 miles an hour for passenger automobiles and 50 miles an hour for trucks and busses, it was announced Saturday. The highway is expected to be opened by the middle of next year.

Siamese Easter Egg

TRENTON (CP)—John Triemstra, a Trenton henkeeper, probably received the strangest easter egg in Canada. One of his hens laid a Siamese twin egg. It had two yokes and whites and was joined by a narrow neck. The shell was soft and rubbery.

Damage Exceeds Take

HAMILTON (CP)—Thieves left a theatre in disgust Saturday night after hacking vainly at an office safe with a pickax. They left a note: "Better luck next time." Police said the work, apparently done by amateur safe crackers, resulted in $150 damage to the safe, which contained only $100.

Expect U.S. Ask Canada To Curb Lead Shipments

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States likely will ask Canada shortly to curb shipments of lead and zinc into the American market.

The request may take the form of a suggestion that Canada volunteer to reduce exports, just as it agreed earlier this year to reduce shipments of oats, U.S. informants say.

Canadian exports of lead and zinc to the U.S. totalled almost $100,000,000 in 1952. The U.S. domestic industry, faced with a declining market, has appealed for some form of tariff protection.

The industry's appeal, together with a request by Congress for a complete survey of the domestic situation, has been given consideration by the U.S. tariff commission.

The six-man commission likely will complete its survey today and send it to a congressional committee.

CANADIAN VIEWPOINT

Some knowledge of the U.S. point of view is understood to have already reached Canadian officials and may have prompted the appeal made by Canada's Public Works Minister Winters here Saturday.

Speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Winters urged the U.S. to buy its raw resources from the cheapest supplier. . . Canada, he said, does not want to be treated as a marginal supplier, to find the U.S. doors open in war but closed in peace.

And in a time of emergency, he added, "all the high-cost mines of the U.S. taken together cannot possibly meet strategic raw material requirements."

Would Ask UN Act In Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Thomas Kuchel (Rep. Calif.) proposed today that the United States seek United Nations action and avoid any single-handed military attempt to save Indo-China from the Communists.

Kuchel said "I don't believe we can put fires out all over the world single handedly."

"We ought to take the case before the United Nations and ask for united action there," the California senator said in an interview.

"The 16 nations that signed the Korean truce pledged themselves to a joint effort to prevent aggression and our allies should be called upon for help," he said.

Scientists Off To Africa To Look For Life On Mars

WASHINGTON—Is there life on Mars? A team of astronomers leaving for South Africa hopes to have an answer within the next six months.

In June, earth's near neighbor will come within 40,000,000 miles, its closest approach since 1941. A "Mars Expedition" to Bloemfontein, South Africa, sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Arizona, will play a leading part in world-wide observations of the Red Planet.

Dr. E. C. Slipher, famed for his studies of Mars, will direct operations at Bloemfontein. He will use the 27-inch refracting telescope of the Lamont-Hussey Observatory, most powerful in the southern hemisphere for detailed photography of the planets.

Throughout the summer, 17 other observatories in Australia, Argentina, Egypt, France, India, New Zealand, Japan, Java, and the United States will study and photograph Mars. Both the 100-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson, California, and the 200-inch instrument on Palomar Mountain will be turned on the planet.

IDEAL CONDITIONS

At its near approach, Mars will be high in the southern sky. At Bloemfontein, Mars will pass almost directly overhead each night. Orange Free State skies are usually clear and steady in late spring and summer. For these reasons, the South African station is expected to contribute the major observations of the atmosphere and surface phenomena of Mars.

The international Mars committee, formed last year, has a triple objective: greater knowledge of Mars' atmosphere, its exact size, and its changing surface features —indicating perhaps some form of life.

The commitee hopes the forthcoming round-the-world study of Mars will enable science to gain its most searching look at Martian "areography"—astronomers' term for what on earth is called geography.

An exact measurement of Mars' diameter might change the accepted idea of the genesis of the solar system. If its diameter were known, scientists could figure out whether Mars has an iron core as does earth. If it is proved there is no core—and indications are there is none—then Mars could never have been liquid. The theory that all planets might have been torn out of the sun, or thrown out of it, would be open to serious doubts.

SIGNS OF LIFE

Markings on Mars are a dark greenish blue in the Martian summer, turning to a browner shade as fall and winter approach. This has led to conjecture that they are caused by vegetation.

If the Mars study group can substantiate the presence of plant life — by finding evidence of chlorophyll, for instance — it would prove that life exists on both planets in our solar system capable of supporting it. Thus life ceases to be unique to earth and may be present in other solar systems as well.

Astronomers are also anxious to nail down whether there are "canali" on Mars and, if so, what they are. A network of thin, straight lines frequently has been observed over vast areas of the planet, but the pattern never has been photographed satisfactorily. The "canali" behave like vegetation, but they may simply be natural features. The Mars group hopes to learn what produces them.

BLUE CLOUD MYSTERY

A fundamental feature of the Martian atmosphere is the "blue envelope" that clouds the planet's surface when pictures are made by blue light. By red light the opaque cloud is penetrated and surface details may be seen with a powerful enough telescope.

At rare times, however, and particularly near the "opposition" point when the planets approach more closely, the cloud barrier disappears. Then the surface of Mars may be photographed by blue light. The "Mars Expedition" at Bloemfontein will make an intensive study of this unusual "blue clearing".

Unlike the moon, only other body in the heavens whose surface astronomers can photograph regularly, Mars rotates like the earth. Both sides can be seen. Also, like earth, it is subject to changing weather.

A day on Mars, its period of one rotation, is only 37 minutes longer than a day on earth. By having observatories in operation all around the globe, a round-the-clock watch can be kept on the planet's entire surface.

Amateur astronomers will aid the Mars committee's work by keeping careful watch on Martian weather during 1954. They will help map cloud cover, polar caps, and other rapidly changing features.

Queen Receives Chiefs In Ancient City

By GOMER JONES

KANDY, Ceylon (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth sat on a carved throne flanked by mounted elephant tusks today to receive the bejeweled chiefs of this ancient city.

The chiefs paid homage to the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in the ancient audience hall of the kings of Kandy, who ruled Ceylon up to the 15th century.

In contrast with the gem-studded robes of the chiefs, their attendants were bare-chested and wore white sarongs splashed with scarlet trimmings.

Fifty-two of the 55 chiefs in the five provinces of Kandy were drawn up before the royal couple. With them were 20 members of the chief hierarchy of the Buddhist priests in their saffron and yellow robes. Their heads were shaven and they carried ceremonial fans.

The ornate dress of the chiefs followed various patterns but was based on the theme of gold-ornamented shoes called jutas and linen trousers frilled at the ankles, covered by up to seven layers of skirt—each more elaborate than the last.

VOLUNINOUS SKIRTS

A gold-studded, jewelled belt, clasped over the stomach, supported the heavy skirts. Some of the skirts contained 36 yards of material.

The Queen and the duke were greeted by beating drums and dancers as they approached the audience hall, where in 1815 Ceylon was ceded to Britain.

Replying to the address of welcome, the Queen said she hoped Ceylon, with its ancient civilization and traditions of good government, would use its freedom to ensuring the happiness and well-being of all her people.

She wore a full-skirted dress of yellow silk with a small hat of yellow mimosa blossom and green leaves. The duke wore the white uniform of an admiral of the fleet.

Father Of Two Takes Up Life As Woman

ROME (Reuters)—Miss Roberta Cowell—formerly Mr. Robert Cowell, father of two children—left Rome for London Saturday to face life in England as a 37-year-old woman.

Miss Cowell, a wartime fighter pilot and racing car driver, had spent six weeks in Italy for final plastic surgery on her face after a sex-change from man to woman.

She wore scarlet lipstick and her shoulder-length hair was golden brown. She attracted no attention at Rome station.

Miss Cowell, tall, big-boned, with a slim waist, wide hips and a 36-inch bust, told reporters:

"I have one definite aim—to continue to collaborate with the doctors in research on the problems my case has revealed.

"One thing that is certain is that I shall not make my public appearances for money. My first appearance as a freak will be in a large bottle of formalin in the laboratories of the Royal College of Surgeons."

Speaking in a husky voice, she said she would like to get married, "but the trouble is that I can see through the average boy friend a mile off."

Miss Cowell added that among hundreds of letters she has received since her change of sex was announced, "there has never been a nasty one."

"Eighteen months ago I cut loose completely from everyone I knew and began to live entirely as a woman.

"I don't think I was very pleasant as a man. I hope to be nicer as a woman."

TEETH POWER — Andre Le Gall, of Saint-Malo, France, isn't trying to get rid of an aching molar. The 53-year-old farmer is merely showing skeptics in the crowd that he can plow up a field by pulling the farm implement with his teeth.

Youth 16, Dies Of Gunshot Wounds

CADILLAC, Que. (CP) — Laure Fecteau, 16, died of accidental gunshot wounds near this northern Quebec village Thursday despite an heroic effort by a 15-year-old companion to bring him medical aid.

Fecteau was hunting with Viateur Fugre, 15, and Marcel Boivin, 16, of Cadillac, when he accidentally shot himself through the stomach with a 16-gauge shotgun. Fugre immediately ran for a mine four miles away to bring help.

Half way to the mine his boots became filled with water and he discarded them and continued running in his bare feet. The help arrived too late to save Fecteau's life, however.

2 Terrorists Attack Women In Nairobi

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Two Mau Mau terrorists armed with jungle knives attacked and injured two white women in the sitting room of their house in a Nairobi suburb late Sunday night, police headquarters announced today.

The terrorists attacked Mrs. Vane Pennell, whose companion, Mrs. B. W. Knight grabbed and threw a coffee tray at them. The terrorists then attacked her.

Both women today were in serious condition in the European Hospital here.

Police detained 108 Africans for interrogation.

Would Inspect Local Meat

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers has recommended to the provincial governments that they introduce regulations governing the inspection of meat sold locally.

In a report released Saturday of the April 9 semi-annual meeting of the association's board of directors consumer research chairman Mrs. John Butterfield reported on a trans-Canada survey to determine the percentage of meat officially inspected.

She said that the survey revealed the inspection of meat sold on farmers' markets or from door to door is lax. It was also found that there are no provincial regulations governing the inspection of meat.

She said that 10 to 30 per cent of the meat consumed in the country is obtained from local sources and is subject to municipal inspection only. This is often casual, she said.

Woman Shot In Lip

TORONTO (CP)—A 35-year-old woman was taken to hospital late Saturday when she was shot in the lip while walking along a Toronto street. Hospital authorities said the injury to Annie Sole is not serious. Police are looking for a well-dressed man, about 45, who is reported to have discharged the gun when he tripped and it fell out of his pocket.

Elevator Fatality

TORONTO (CP)—The body of David McLaughlin, 45, father of four children, was found Saturday, 40 hours after he had fallen 70 feet down an elevator shaft to his death. Employees at the Canadian Bank of Commerce head office found the body when they investigated why the elevator would not work.

Nixon's Indo-China Speech Brings Quick Reaction

NEW YORK (CP) — If Vice-President Nixon was looking for expressions of opinion when he made his "off-the-record" suggestion that U.S. troops may have to move in on the Reds in Indo-China, he certainly wasn't disappointed.

Some of the responses were favorable. Some were opposed. But none of the statements that hit print following Nixon's appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday could be called lukewarm.

The Chicago Tribune's Col. Robert R. McCormick said Nixon "talks like a gibbering idiot." Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.), runner up for his party's presidential nomination in 1952, was "disturbed" over the administration's foreign policy.

But Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.), unlike many of Nixon's Republican colleagues, said he favors sending U.S. combat forces to Indo-China if it is found to be the only way of halting Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

UNPOPULAR VIEW

Flanders conceded that this is an unpopular view at present but added he is confident that the public and congress will eventually reach the same opinion.

He won limited support from representatives John Vorys (Rep. O.) and Melvin Price (Dem. Ill.), who agreed in a radio-television debate Sunday that the U.S. may have to become more deeply involved in Indo-China.

But both urged that the government consider all other possibilities before committing the U. S. to an all-out war.

The newspaper men themselves were unhappy over the way Nixon's address was made public.

Appearing "off the record" before the ASNE, Nixon replied to a hypothetical question that U. S. troops may have to be used in Indo-China in "the unlikely event" that other means fail to hold the country against the Communists.

PREVIOUS AGREEMENT

Competent sources said it had been agreed beforehand that Nixon's talk could be used in news stories but that the identity of the speaker should remain anonymous.

The London Times soon dug up the information that Nixon was the only high government official to address the editors Friday. Then Representative Clare Hoffman (Rep. Mich.) denounced the statement and identified the vice-president as its author.

McCormick called it "ridiculous to say that anything was off the record that's said before 700 people or even five people." Mark F. Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times called it "very risky and dangerous for man so high" to express such a proposal "by indirection."

Swab Decks 6,000 Miles 2 Ethiopians Refused Entry

HALIFAX (CP)—Two Ethiopians who swabbed a ship's deck across 6,000 miles of ocean to get to Canada were held in custody here Sunday by immigration officials who refused them entry and said they had to go right back.

The pair, Youssef Abrag, 24, and Tzegei Mahari, 22, arrived without passports aboard the Dutch cargo-passenger vessel Soestdijk.

Officials lodged the pair in the Halifax detention barracks and let them contemplate another 6,000 miles of deck-swabbing on the return trip.

A port physician said Youssef's hot-weather constitution had fallen victim to a slight case of pleurisy on the frigid North Atlantic but he'd be fit as a fiddle in no time.

SOME CONFUSION

There appeared to be confusion as to whether Youssef and Co., were stowaways. Youssef, who clutched a hot water bottle to the place where his pleurisy hurt, claimed loudly that the skipper told them they could work their passage.

Tzegei sat hopefully on the other bunk and beamed to make up for his total lack of English.

The immigration department said flatly they were stowaways. At any rate, they were going to get the stowaway treatment, which is the gate.

South Korea Will Attend Geneva Meet

By BILL SHINN

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee announced today that South Korea will attend the Geneva conference opening next week. But he warned it is "a final time-consuming attempt" to unite Korea by peaceful means.

Rhee didn't say what his government would do if the conference fails. But there was a thinly-veiled threat in his statement that "we obviously cannot continue to sit idly by while the Communists exterminate or exile our people to the north and make a Red Chinese province out of half our country."

The peppery 77-year-old president said "clear and encouraging" assurances from the United States "enable us to go to Geneva with confidence and considerable hope."

Rhee didn't elaborate on the assurances. But in New York You Chang Yang, Korean ambassador to the United States, said his country had been assured the United States will aid in greatly increasing Korea's army and that a prime objective of the conference will be to re-unite all of Korea and eliminate Red Chinese troops from that country.

SAYS IKE MADE PROMISES

A highly-placed Korean source said the assurances were contained in a letter from President Eisenhower delivered to Rhee Sunday by U.S. ambassador Ellis O. Briggs.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai, head of the RoK delegation to Geneva, said in Seoul he had two primary objectives: Unification of Korea and "removal of the Chinese Communist aggressors from Korea."

Pyun said South Korea would not tolerate a buffer zone that would cut Korea in half. "Any buffer zone," he said, "must be north of the Yalu river.' The Yalu is the boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

Evening Auxiliary Form Nursery School

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Mrs. James Wilde was hostess to the Evening Auxiliary of Havelock United church.

Mrs. R. G. Newman gave the Easter message. Mrs. James Watson was in charge of the devotional service and the study was given by Mrs. Donald Dafoe.

A letter was read from Wilfred Waddell, a Canadian missionary at Pusan, Korea, thanking the auxiliary for 10 cartons of clothing they sent to that country last November.

It was decided to hold the June meeting in the Sunday school auditorium and entertain the members of the choir.

A nursery school, held each Sunday in the Sunday school room during the morning service, was organized six weeks ago by the auxiliary in order that parents with small children might attend the service. The schedule for May with the names of those responsible for each service was drawn up at the meeting. About 12 children are cared for each Sunday.

The president, Mrs. L. Parnall, presided. Twelve members were present and the meeting closed with the benediction. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Charge Proper Use Of Soil Should Concern Every Canadian

OTTAWA (CP)—The proper use of Canada's soil should concern every Canadian, one of the country's foremost agricultural experts believes.

Dr. E. S. Archibald, retired director of the federal experimental farms service, said:

"Canadian soils, properly fed, carefully and scientifically cultivated, are without doubt capable of producing many times our present production for untold generations to come."

Dr. Archibald, writing in the current issue of the bi-monthly magazine of the Agriculture Institute of Canada, urged support of an over-all understanding on soil conservation between the federal and provincial governments.

"Land use is entirely a national problem, involving every taxpayer of today and tomorrow," he said. "We do not have to make the mistakes that have been made in ancient countries where abuses of land through de-foresting and overcropping have created poverty and starvation."

Some people are disturbed about the idea of a national plan for soil conservation, he said. While the provinces have full responsibility for their natural resources, the federal government does much of the research.

FEDERAL TRAGEDY

"When tragedy occurs, it becomes federal." Thus there was federal aid during Prairie drought and for reclamation of Maritime soil being lost to the sea.

"Federal aid is as much needed in insidious deterioration as in drifting mountains of rich soil, or sea encroachment."

Dr. Archibald took an optimistic view of the future of Canadian agriculture.

Present farming methods may not create surpluses once Canada's population reaches the 50,000,000 mark, he said, but improved methods should bring greater production.

"It is true that the rural populations may not increase, or may even decrease, with higher mechanization of both crop production and livestock production. But this is no great tragedy as long as our land is properly protected."

Easter Theme Religious Play

The religious play, "What Shall It Profit a Man?" was presented at the evening service in St. Paul's Presbyterian church. The play, which had the Crucifixion and Resurrection theme, was the climax of a great Easter Sunday. Full use was made of centre right and centre left aisles . . . One setting was the house of Joseph of Arimathea and the other the palace of Pilate Graham Gordon skilfully portrayed the character Joseph, the man who was concerned with his prestige, his influence, and his dream of an earthly kingdom. Edgar Kee was Nicodemus a friend of Joseph's who although a follower of Christ was torn between admitted failures and a search for the truth. The highlight of the play was Esther the wife of Joseph by Rita Mitchell. Her convictions were suddenly shattered in the Crucifixion and then a new joy is brought to her when she received the word from her maid, Jane Houghton, that she had seen the risen Christ in the garden.

In the palace of Pilate, a much more difficult part of the plot to portray, were Pilate, Roger Davis, who also was the capable director of the play; Procula the wife of Pilate, Jean Leach, who moved by a dream sought Pilate to have nothing to do with sentencing of Christ to death. Finally when she discovers Pilate had condemned Jesus in spite of his promise to her she denounces the Roman desecration of power. Ray McFadyn was the centurion who from his hardened callous position at the court of Pilate was shaken by his experience at the cross and the tomb. The play was beautifully costumed and skilful use was made of the lighting effects in the church.

Glen Hagerman was the narrator and the choir brought the play to a close with the Hallelujah chorus.

350th Anniversary Of Discovery Of St. John River By Champlain

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Details are being worked out for celebrations here in June of the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the St. John river by Samuel Champlain.

The commemorations will centre on June 24, the date Champlain named the river when he first saw it on that feast day of St. John the Baptist in 1604.

Under the general chairmanship of E. M. Slader, vice-president of the New Brunswick Historical Society, numerous events have been planned for the week starting June 20.

INTERNATIONAL EVENT

The historical society has invited prominent Canadians to a June 24 dinner at which the main speaker may be a French government official. The United States ambassador to Canada, Douglas Stuart, hopes to be present. The 450-mile river, along its northern stretches, forms part of the international border with the United States.

Plans include visits by Canadian, American and French naval vessels; parades, a regatta and a public dance.

Organizations in Saint John and adjoining Lancaster are supporting the program. The commemoration will receive international attention through the Canadian government travel bureau.

After Champlain's discovery in 1604 the first recorded settlement was a fishing village in 1612 on an island in the Long Reach above the site of Westfield. Charles La Tour built his famous fort in 1635 on the site of the present city of Saint John.

A WONDER DRUG HELPED CHANGE THIS . . .

Handy for everything from recipes to rubber bands, the old fashioned spike-file could be a very depressing thing. Very often, especially after a prolonged illness, it was piled high with doctors' bills, receipts for a variety of medicines, nurses' bills, special treatments, hospital charges . . . charges for many things.

Today, because of antibiotic wonder drugs, many illnesses are no longer prolonged, nor are the expenses. And the charge for the miracle drug is reasonable.

It is only because truly staggering sums have been spent in research and development by the leading pharmaceutical houses that we can buy today's wonder drugs at all. And buy them, moreover, at prices that are very reasonable when compared to what grandfather had to pay for treatments—many of which are no longer necessary!

YOU CAN DEPEND ON YOUR NEIGHBOURHOOD DRUGGIST

You will always be sure of reasonable prices at your neighbourhood druggist's. He is highly-trained in the profession of pharmacy, a friendly man . . . and you can depend on him as surely as you can depend on the wonder drugs he stocks. See him soon for whatever you need.

DOROTHY DIX

Man Vacillates On Divorce Wife Urged Have Patience

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: My marriage of five years is in an awful mess, and I wonder if anything can bring order out of its confusion. Three years ago I felt my husband was getting indifferent to me, so I accepted a date with another man. I thought it would make Charles, my husband, take an interest in me. But, instead, he shifted his attention to another woman. My small affair simmered down to nothing, but his became quite serious. He fell in love and asked for a divorce. I refused to agree to a divorce, and later he said he didn't want it anyway.

For two years now we have gone on in this uncertain way. He begs for a divorce until I am ready to give in, then says he doesn't want it. One day he talks about breaking off with the girl, the next day he's madly in love again. I don't know where I'm at and the constant worry is making me ill. I want so much to get our marriage back on its old footing, but I guess I'll never get co-operation from Charles.

ANSWER: Instinctively Charles wants to do the right thing, but he's receiving no worth-while encouragement from you. You know what you want—a good marriage—but you don't know how to go about re-establishing it. First of all, you must hold clearly and definitely to the ideal you want, then go about making Charles realize that he wants the same thing. Don't vacillate; if he mentions divorce, point out the reasons why it's impossible.

When his ideas swerve and he says that he wants to stay with you, prop him up with every moral support available so that he'll stick to the decision (at least for the time being). Bear in mind that when he's with the other girl, she takes advantage undoubtedly, of every means to hold him. However, no human element alone can bolster a weak soul. The help both you and Charles need is no farther away than the nearest church, and the nearest rectory. Go to your clergyman; who will help you clear away the confusions of the past three years. Your marital mess is far from hopeless and I'm sure you and Charles will win your way back to happiness with prayer and determination.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young woman of 26, very unhappy. Because I'm a divorcee, nice men look down on me and I would like some good friends. The reason I divorced my husband was because he drank heavily; now I'm afraid every man I meet is addicted to liquor. Do you think my life has been ruined by one mistake, or do you think I can find a worthy man?

Estelle M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You seem a bit confused, Estelle. On the one hand you feel the nice men you meet look down on you, then you look down on them because you're afraid they might be drinkers. Though you beat about the bush quite a bit in coming to a conclusion, your object is to acquire a husband. What you overlook is the fact that you must make friends before you find a mate. Begin by losing your distrust of all males. Give a man a chance to prove what he is before you decide arbitrarily that he's (a) a snob or (b) a drunkard. The fault, dear Estelle, is not in the men, but in yourself—you lack understanding.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For two years I've been going with a boy who still has six months to serve in the Marines. He has asked me to marry him, but wants to wait until he's out of service. I don't see any sense in waiting, but he wants to have a good job before he marries.

G. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The young man's attitude is very sensible; don't sway him against his better judgment.

Two Sites Venerated At Christ's Tomb

By WILTON WYNN

JERUSALEM (AP)—Where was Christ buried?

For almost 2,000 years the tomb of Christ has been the sacred goal of pilgrims.

But in Jerusalem today, the pilgrim had to make a choice between two sites, either of which may be the authentic burial place.

The more famous is known simply as "the Holy Sepulchre," located inside the city wall and enclosed in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. This is the tomb for which the Crusaders fought and which was the sole shrine of pilgrim devotions for 1,700 years.

The other site is known as the "Garden Tomb." Discovered by Gen. Charles Gordon in 1883, it is the favorite of Protestants. Roman Catholics and Oriental Christians cling to the traditional holy sepulchre.

The Garden Tomb follows closely the biblical description of the place where Christ was buried. It is located in a quiet garden of olive, palm and cedar trees. The tomb itself is a rock-hewn grotto, with a groove in front for a heavy round stone door. The entrance is so situated that the disciples could easily have stooped to look in and see and an empty space where Christ could have lain.

ORIGINAL GOLGOTHA

Not more than 100 yards away is a "green hill" which many call the original Golgotha. The hill is only a few hundred yards from the main gate of the city wall, the nearest hill of that size to the old city. If Christ were crucified on a hill outside the wall as it now stands, this would be the most likely spot.

Christ was buried 'nigh unto Calvary" and his tomb was that of a rich man. This grave also fits the biblical statemen that Christ was buried in a new tomb.

Whether authentic or not, the site so nearly meets the biblical description that the Easter morning visitor feels he is near the actual empty tomb where the angel announced 'He is not here, for He is risen.'

Inside the old walled city, the traditional holy sepulchre offers little to recall the biblical scene. Both the Holy Sepulchre and its traditional Calvary are located inside the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, an ancient structure shored up with temporary supports which practically hide it.

This Calvary is reached by walking up a flight of stone stairs to an ornate chapel. Underneath a gilded icon of the Virgin Mary a glass covering encloses a bit of rock—the only glimpse the pilgrim can get of what is considered the original hill of crucifixion. Traditions say this hill has been slowly chopped away by relic-hungry pilgrims.

PIONEER ROUTE

The Assiniboine river, flowing 450 miles through Saskatchewan and Manitoba, was an important channel of the early fur trade.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Many Cooking Questions Receive Quick Answers

By MARY MOORE

On the day that this is scheduled for release Pete and I will be pounding the highway back from near Chicago—for we are going to visit my friend Garny over the Easter weekend.

Obviously I will come home loaded with new food ideas for you, for Garny is a skilful cook who outdoes herself when I am visiting.

The reasons for the trip are twofold. No. 1 is obvious—we want a little holiday. No. 2; Pete is more than a little sweet on Dora Jean—Garny's gorgeous little 17-year-old daughter. The two mothers are watching starry-eyed from the sidelines.

So it will be two weeks from now before I can give you any news of our trip or how the romance progressed, and I have made a resolution to cut the stack of mail on my desk down to reasonable size before I leave. So today's is an extra answer column.

NOTE: Please remember to put 5c stamp on your self-addressed envelope enclosed with your letters to me.

QUESTION: I turn to your page very first thing each night . . . could you give me a bran muffin recipe with honey and could they be made with other flour rather than white. I would like to start baking with other flours — please tell me names of whole grain darker flour. Where is dark rice bought? Have you a white cake made with honey, also applesauce cake and banana cake made with honey and a spice cake? We have turned to skim milk powder now. Could it be used in above cakes? Do you have a recipe for mashed banana, honey and cocoanut How do you cook beef liver: Is it soaked first . . . Does angel food mix have a lot of sugar in it . . . Mrs. J. R.

ANSWER: Write to Michigan State College, Extension Division, East Lansing, Michigan, for bulletin entitled "Honey Flavor Harmonies" No. 213. It contains the honey recipes you are seeking. I have mailed you whai tnformation I have on millet meal. Yes, angel food cake mix contains a great deal of sugar. Go to the flour and feed store for the unbleached unbolted dark flours you mention. However, you cannot substitute all flours for white flour. The way to test is to use your regular recipes—BUT substitute ½ cup soy flour or buckwheat flour or whole wheat flour or millet or sunflower seed meal for ½ cup of the flour in the original recipe. See if you like the texture and flavor of the result. If so, imcrease the amount of the special four until you have added an optimum amount. You cannot do what I have just suggested in yeast mixtures, because wheat flour contains gluten which gives yeast mixtures their elastic quality and it cannot be arbitrarily replaced.

I have a vague recollection of the mashed banana, honey and cocoanut mixture you refer to. If I were trying it I would mash a banana, add solid honey and work it into the banana, then add cocoa nut until it is stiff enough to shape into balls. Let the balls stand at romm temperature on wax paper to dry and harden on the outside. I cook beef liver, by having it sliced ¼-inch thick, dipping it in flour, sprinkling with salt and pepper and very quickly pan-frying it in butter until it is barely set. Do not overcook liver or you will toughen it. Serve as soon as cooked. Please write to the editor of this newspaper for information for obtaining the book you refer to. It have no way of knowing. Brown and unpolished rice may be bought in the large chain stores.

6—In Memoriam

HALL—In loving memory of our dear son Ivan, who passed away April 19, 1953.
He is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us;
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Lovingly remembered by Father and Mother.

HALL—In loving memory of our dear brother Ivan, who passed away April 19, 1953.
One year to-day our brother was called
To his eternal rest;
Gone where the angels sing so sweet,
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh;
But we will in heaven to meet,
Where no one says good-bye.
—Ever remembered by Brothers, Sisters, and their Families.

WADDELL—In loving memory of a dear mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. M. Waddell.
Away in the beautiful hills of God
By the valley of rest so fair
Some time, some day, we know not when
We will meet our loved ones there.
—Lovingly remembered by Eva and Mary.

Chimpanzee Has Active Weekend

NEW YORK (AP) — J. Fred Muggs had an active week-end. He bit two women — Television comedienne Martha Raye and her pretty blonde understudy, Vicki Carlson—and it wasn't just monkey business.

The chimpanzee, a regular TV performer himself, nipped Miss Raye's elbow during a rehearsal Saturday night, and later bit Miss Carlson above the left eye as she was giving him a goodnight pat.

"I think he just got excited at Miss Raye's antics and lost his head," her manager, Nick Condos said. He said the elbow wound was just a scratch.

But Miss Carlson got a more severe injury—two, inch-long teeth cuts. She said a National Broadcasting Company doctor told her it would leave a permanent scar.

"I still think Mr. Muggs is sweet," she said. "There had been so many people around, upsetting him, that he just did it unintentionally."

Western Europe Building Up Huge Defensive Air Power

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe is spending more money on air power than ever before in peacetime.

Allied strategists believe that if war comes the first blinding phase will be fought out between giant atomic air fleets.

The western European nations are building protective umbrellas of jet fighters, but the theory is some bombers would get through. So statesmen such as Prime Minister Churchill frankly are preparing to fight if necessary through crippling devastation.

To deter attack, Britain's Royal Air Force is creating a powerful counter-punch, a spanking new fleet of atomic jet bombers.

The West European countries plan this year to put more than one fourth of their defence budgets—about $3,000,000,000 — into their air forces.

BUILD ATOMIC BOMBERS

British spending on air power this year will include hundreds of millions for the development of supersonic, missile-firing fighter planes and atomic weapons to be carried by the new Valiant, Victor and Vulcan medium jet bombers. The Valiants already are coming off the production lines and atomic bombs are stored for their use.

France and the other allies on the continent are adapting their growing air power primarily to support the ground formations and for interception. This calls for plenty of fighters and light bombers.

The French Air Force, which will be expanded from 30 to 38 wings in 1954 and then to 51 wings with 1,000 frontline aircraft the following year, gets 24 per cent of the defence budget.

Neutral Sweden, whose fighter squadrons rank in West Europe only behind those of the RAF, has earmarked 34 per cent of her record peacetime budget estimate of $389,768,000 to air power.

Ducking Issue Of Racial Discrimination

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Rev. William P. Oliver says racial discrimination against Negroes in Nova Scotia is proving harder to beat, in some ways, than "Jim Crowism" in the southern United States.

Nova Scotia has 14,000 Negroes, more than any other province. Mr. Oliver, president of the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says Negroes in the province are banking on steadily improving public relations to win their fight for equal rights.

Adult education and discussion forums are being organized among Negroes to equip them better for the campaign to get a fairer deal in housing and employment.

DISCRIMINATION SUBTLE

Mr. Oliver, 42-year-old pastor of the largely Negro-attended Cornwallis St. Baptist church in north-central Halifax and a wartime army chaplain, said discrimination by whites in this province is harder to offset because it is so subtle.

"We have found that whites are ducking the issue that both we and they know must ultimately be faced," he said.

The minister, himself a Negro, said his race always knew exactly where they stood in the southern United States where segregation was practised. He did not advocate segregation here or anywhere in Canada but its absence meant that Nova Scotia Negroes were often running head-on into problems created by the very freedom they enjoyed.

"We are working quietly for fair employment practices and civil rights because we don't want to get people—Negroes or whites—emotionally aroused to the point where hatred sets in."

Mayor Richard A. Donohoe said he "supposed" there was a certain amount of discrimination but it might better be defined as "economic pressure."

He said Negroes "probably find it difficult to find certain types of employment" but he believed Negroes were "treated about the same as any other race in the same economic group."

URGENT PROBLEM

Mr. Oliver gave an example of the problems facing Negroes in this province.

The Halifax slum clearance committee proposed some time ago to raze 73 homes on four streets in a tumble-down section of Halifax. Fifty-one of the houses were occupied by Negroes.

The committee proposed simultaneously to build modern apartments on the vacant lots between the rundown houses now standing. These apartments would have been rented. Thus a Negro who had succeeded in buying his home would be obliged to return to tenant status.

Mr. Oliver said the committee had bowed to association pressure for a postponement of the plan pending more study.

Mayor Donohoe said he felt the proposers of the re-housing plan hadn't taken the racial question into consideration before they advanced it.

"Now," said the mayor, "I for one frankly don't know which way we're going although whatever is done, there will be absolutely no discrimination."

The majority of Nova Scotia Negroes are descended from American slaves brought here by Britain after the War of 1812 and given their freedom.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

Seek To Restore Geisha Girl To Prewar Glory

OSAKA, Japan (Reuters)—Japan's leading Geisha teacher, Yuzaburo Sakaguchi, is trying to restore the Geisha girl to her prewar glory.

Sitting on the polished oaken floor of his Yamato-ya Geisha school in Osaka, Sakaguchi said that Geishas today have become part of a vast bureaucratic system. Twelve government forms have to be filled in before a Geisha can accept a customer, he explained unhappily. What is more, the morals of today's Geishas are distinctly less rigid than they used to be.

As Sakaguchi talked, 20 young girls in kimonos were practising the motions of a traditional Geisha dance.

Sakaguchi says that all the Geishas working in Japan today are either untrained or "rather old." It takes five years to train a Geisha and all the schools were closed during the war.

Genuine Geishas are dinner companions and entertainers at expensive Japanese-style restaurants. They help to serve the numerous dishes and converse wittily and intelligently with their customers. On request, they will sing and dance.

Woman Shot Three Times

EDMONTON (CP)—Two policemen are holding wounded Joseph Geczy, 34, in hospital custody here following a shooting fracas Saturday night in which a 41-year-old woman was shot three times.

Mrs. Nita Sculthorpe's condition is described as critical by hospital officials who give her a 50-50 chance of survival. She was shot in the chest, abdomen and right arm with a .22 calibre rifle.

Police said Geczy entered the woman's home carrying the rifle, followed her to her landlords' basement apartment, and "without warning" put the gun to her chest and fired three times.

Geczy was said to have then gone to a lane several blocks away where he shot himself in the chest. He is in good condition in hospital.

Police said Mrs. Sculthorpe was not living with her husband. They added the Geczy had been keeping company with her but she had told him she wanted nothing more to do with him.

May Charge Doctor In Operation

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Copenhagen police say they are investigating to determine whether charges should be brought against the Danish doctor who performed an operation last year that initiated the transformation of an American ex-soldier into a woman.

The American, formerly Charles now Charlotte McLeod, 28, arrived in New York Saturday after a year's treatment by Danish doctors.

A police spokesman said Charlotte was questioned by police before she left here. She had told newspaper men in Denmark that she had the initial operation performed by a quack on a kitchen table.

FIND DOCTOR

The police spokesman said that doctor who operated on the young American has been found and that although the operation was illegal no charges have been brought thus far.

"Actually," the police spokesman said, "it is doubtful if the doctor will be brought to court. Danish lawmakers have evidently not envisaged that this kind of operation would ever be performed illegally, and the maximum punishment could be no more than a fine."

Port 1,000 Miles Inland Brings Sea To Paraguay

WASHINGTON—In the heart of South America, an old river port a thousand miles from the ocean is taking on transatlantic business.

Asuncion, capital of landlocked Paraguay, recently turned out to cheer the first freighter of a British merchant line. The service will operate monthly from Liverpool without the usual transshipment at Argentina's Buenos Aires.

For Paraguayans this new overseas traffic is a break in the vast land barrier that has long made their country one of the world's most isolated regions, says the National Geographic Society. It is another example of the usefulness of their many rivers.

Asuncion is linked to the Atlantic by two of the country's three great rivers—the 2,000-mile Parana and the Paraguay which drains the heart of the nation. The capital stands at the confluence of the Paraguay and the Pilcomayo that starts in the Andes of southwest Bolivia.

HIGHWAY OF EXPLORATION

More than four centuries ago the Parana was the highway of exploration into central South America that led to the founding of Asuncion. In 1527 Sebastian Cabot sailed up the river to its junction with the Paraguay and then on to the Pilcomayo.

A decade later, another Spanish party came that way, seeking the "northwest passage" to the continent's legendary wealth of gold and silver. Its leaders, including Domingo Martinez de Irala, governed the regions for the next 20 years.

They built a "refuge and a shelter" on a fine bay of the Paraguay River. The crude settlement, originally considered only a base for treasure-hunting expeditions, became the permanent city of Asuncion and capital of the future Republic of Paraguay.

Asuncion today—with its cobbled streets, its colorful market, and scenes of donkey-riding country folk—still has the air of a frontier city. Its languid charm is accentuated by rows of fragrant orange trees along broad avenues, luxuriantly flowering parks, and patio gardens of roses, magnolias, jasmine and gardenias.

Asuncion's population is more than 200,000, one-seventh of the whole nation's. It is Paraguay's only big city. As a port, it handles 90 per cent of the imports (textiles, machinery, fuels) and the exports (cotton, timber, cattle, products, tobacco, and yerba mate, or Paraguayan tea).

TRAGIC HISTORY

Modern growth of Asuncion has followed a tragic course.

Not only geography isolated Paraguay and its capital. Under the dictatorship of "El Supremo" —Rodriquez de Francia who came to power in 1814 after the overthrow of Spanish rule—all foreign trade and travel were halted. Even communication with the outside world was broken off.

El Supremo's successors put an end to the fanatic isolationism. But a series of events led in 1864 to a devastating struggle against the triple alliance of Paraguay's neighbors, Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay. In five years of war, half of Paraguay's estimated half million people were wiped out.

With most of its young men lost, Asuncion and the rest of the country turned to the huge tasks of rebuilding the shattered towns and economy. Only recently has the normal balance between the sexes been reestablished.

News Service Widened In '53

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press produced during the last year "the most ambitious series of enterprise stories in AP history" in an ever broadening effort "to meet the news," the board of directors said today.

The board, noting that the AP now serves a record 6,791 newspaper, radio and television members and subscribers throughout the world, said in its annual report:

"From an organization 'waiting for the news to happen,' the AP, broadening out carefully over a period of years, now goes to meet the news—wherever it may be; then goes behind and beyond it for greatest possible clarity, balance and understanding."

The report was read at the annual business meeting of members of The Associated Press, worldwide news-gathering co-operative.

The board of directors said "nothing is more significant in the increasing value and usefulness of the service" than stories that explain, interpret and background the news.

Mrs. Robert Shatford sang "The Holy City" immediately before the sermon.

At the 10 a.m. Sunday school session, the pupils brought in their mite boxes. After receiving a short Easter message from the assistant superintendent, W. J. Cottrell, they paraded to the church to present the boxes just before the church service.

STOUFFVILLE (CP) — Oshawa Truckmen defeated Stouffville Clippers 6-2 Saturday to win the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior B semi-finals 4-2.

The Clippers went ahead 2-0 in the first period but Oshawa scored three goals in each of the second and third periods. Holden and Samolenko each notched two goals for the winners. Singles went to Scott, Samanski and Etcher. The Stouffville snipers were Bell and Lewis.

Weatherman Spoils Fun

Easter Finery Slightly Wilted In Parades

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Much Easter finery looked a little wilted after fashion parades in Canada Sunday. Many centres got rain and even snow.

In some provinces, however, the traditional Easter parade blossomed under sunny skies. Hundreds showed off the latest spring outfits and thousands jammed boardwalk areas to get a look.

Few parades were unspoiled by wind or bad weather of some kind. But the weather didn't stop throngs that crowded churches for prayer and special services on the anniversary of Christ's resurrection from the grave. Morning and evening services were held.

In the Jewish church, the second seder night or Passover feast was held in remembrance of the escape of the Israelites from bondage in Europe.

ROUGH IN WEST

In some areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan, sunny skies brought the ladies out in their finery but rain, hail and snow soon forced them to seek shelter.

In Winnipeg, gusts of winds up to 30 miles an hour kept paraders holding their hats.

Uptown Toronto merchants put on a successful drive to shift the city's big parade of fashion from its traditional spot on the lakefront boardwalk at Sunnyside to Bloor Street four miles north.

CROWDS CREATE JAM

While large crowds still paraded in the traditional spot, the merchants got 60 models to parade in front of their stylish clothing stores around Bloor and Yonge streets and many of the most stylishly dressed turned up there too. Police complained the traffic jam in the area was worse than it had ever been on former easter Sundays on the lakefront.

Cloudy skies at Ottawa and Montreal made the parades smaller than in other years. Rain at Saint John, N.B., discouraged a fashion show.

At Halifax, clearing skies and warm sunshine in the afternoon brought forth paraders in volume. Many visited the bier of the late Premier Angus L. Macdonald in Province House.

Punch Settles 20-Year Score

LONDON (CP) — Punch, well-known British humor magazine, has settled a 20-year-old score with its United States counterpart, The New Yorker.

In January, 1934, the New Yorker published a 10-page parody of Punch, entitled "Paunch." The take-off mildly ribbed the special British brand of humor. It contained even a parodied advertisement:

"Buy British tyres — British tyres are always ripping."

Now Punch, recently streamlined by its new editor, Malcolm Muggeridge, has just published an eight-page, slick-paper parody of The New Yorker, right down to a cover bearing the familiar top-hatted figure peering through a monocle at an airborne Mr. Punch.

Among other things there is a "profile" with the usual wealth of detail, a spoon of S. J. Perelman and Edmund Wilson and cartoons in the style of Charles Adams and James Thurber.

The Thurber cartoon, showing a hapless couple glumly staring at each other, has the caption, "How long are we going to keep up this mad pretence of mutual disinterestedness, Mr. Millnos?"

A spokesman for Punch, commenting on the edition, said:

"It's just a semi-private joke between two civilized magazines."

Something else that "makes the man" (and does even more for him!)

"Clothes make the man", says the old adage. And certainly a trim appearance can do much to help a man make a good impression on others.

But today more and more men are learning about another way to enhance their standing with certain people. That is, to own life insurance.

Take employers, for instance. To them, a man's ownership of life insurance suggests that he is foresighted, thrifty, realistic. Above all, it reflects willingness to accept responsibility — an attitude that impresses every employer.

In fact, anyone who learns that a man owns life insurance regards him with added respect. It represents one of the most important assets any man can have — an asset held by nearly all successful men in every walk of life.

Yet perhaps the most important effect of owning life insurance is on the policyholder himself. It gives him a sense of achievement. For in no other way can he create such a valuable estate for so little in so short a time. And this, in turn, adds to his own self-confidence.

So life insurance can do more than provide financial security for your family and yourself in later years. It also influences people in ways that help win success!

P.S. FROM YOUR LIFE INSURANCE MAN

"Invested life insurance dollars earn interest that makes it possible for you and your family to enjoy the benefits of life insurance at such low cost. If you have any questions about how to make life insurance fit your own special needs, give me a call. I'll be glad to help you!"

Weird Lake Like Visitor From Moon

WASHINGTON: Pyramid Lake, Nevada, more than justifies the comment once made that it "cannot possibly be real, unless on the moon!"

Pyramid is one of America's strangest bodies of fresh water, the National Geographic Society says. Little known, though it is a sizable lake 30 miles long by about 10 miles wide, it lies cupped in bone-dry desertland north of Reno amid rocky rust-colored mountains.

Indians live by its shores. They fish in clear blue water that is almost too bitter to drink. Hot chemical-laden springs spout into the lake, crusting islands and shoreline with mineral deposits in weird shapes. A river runs into Pyramid, but the only outlet is straight up—by evaporation.

And on an island that sometimes seems covered with snow, nest some 10,000 great white pelicans, the real lords of the lake.

DESERT MAJESTY

Anaho Island National Wildlife Refuge on Pyramid Lake is the largest pelican rookery in the West. Among sun-baked rocks and low desert shrubs waddle the newly-hatched pelican chicks, seeming about the ugliest of Nature's creatures. But they mature into one of the most beautiful water birds on earth, their black-edged wings, eight to 10 feet across, set against snow-white bodies.

When they fly, it could be Monday's wash blowing into the sky. Feeding on the lake, the birds form semicircles, beat their wings against the water to herd fish into the shallows, tnd scoop them up in pouchy bills, all the while swimming majestically along.

Pyramid and Walker Lakes, lying 70-odd miles apart in western Nevada, are the last remnants of an ancient body of water that geologists and archeologists call Lake Lahontan. Once it covered 8,500 square miles in Nevada and California. Lake Bonneville in Utah, of which Great Salt Lake is the remainder, was a sister sea.

Hundreds of feet above Pryamid Lake's present level, etched on Nevada's mountainsides, are the ancient beaches of Lanontan. Other white lines show on the lakeshore itself, for Pyramid is still shrinkink. Increasing use of the Truckee River waters for irrigation has cut down the lake's inflow As the lake goes down, it becomes more and more brackish, and its fish struggle to survive.

FREMONTS' FIND

Pyramid Lake takes its name from its steep-sided islands. The highest thrusts 475 feet into the desert air. Lake and islands were found in 1844 by the exploring party under John C. Fremont, who wrote of having discovered a natural duplicate of the great Pyramid of Cheops. With party was the mountain man, Kit Carson.

The lake and its inflowing river were rich in a giant salmon trout, known today as the cutthroat, the black-spotted, or the Tahoe trout, and another sweet-fleshed fish the Indians called cui-ui (kwee-wee.) Atrout weighing 64 pounds once was caught in Pyramid Lake, but today such big fish are rare.

In 1860 two pitched battles were fought near Pyramid between Indians and the gold and silver seekers who poured into Nevada after the Washoe strike of 1859. The Indians fled north into the emptiness of Smoke Creek and Black Rock desert, and turned to raiding Express route across Nevada.

Today Pyramid Lake Indian Reservation holds Paiutes and other Nevada tribes. During the Second World War the Navy built an air base in the vicinity, and over the lake pilots practiced launching torpedoes. Sailors ran small boats over the desert pond, keeping illogical company with Pyramid's pelicans.

Experts Feel Indo-China Now Doomed

Note: William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, went to Indo-China a few weeks ago, then flew to Singapore to write his articles free of censorship: This is the first of several stories.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP) — In north Indo-China today you find it difficult to shake off the feeling you are standing by and watching a country slowly die.

Viet Nam can be saved, you are told. But all the solutions involve time—and time is running out in Indo-China.

In Tonkin in the North and Cochin-China in the South, I attempted to sift all shades of opinion—French, Viet Namese and American, optimistic and pessimistic, the wishfully thinking, and the bluntly realistic. I could only conclude: Unless the West holds fast at the Geneva conference, opening next Monday, Indo-China eventually will become another Communist-dominated "people's democracy."

These questions are uppermost in many minds in Saigon and Hanoi:

Is Viet Nam to be another Korea? Can it be saved short of powerful military intervention? Is it in fact the sputtering fuse of a third world war?

ENCOURAGING SIGNS FEW

There are some encouraging signs on the horizon, but they are too few to warrant optimism. If the country does not survive, the best American military opinion is that the West can write off most of southeast Asia in the vast political and economic war.

Why are the French and Viet Namese, with so much superiority in equipment, such vastly greater fire power and such an economic largely on the defensive after 7½ years of dreary jungle war?

For one thing, Ho Chi Minh and the other Communists who lead the Vietminh rebellion are fighting the war on three fronts—military, political and psychogoical. On the other side, the French and Viet Namese up to now have been waging only a military war, with little attention to the other fronts.

Ho directs powerful propaganda to areas not yet within his grasp. There has been little to counter it. Ho's iron discipline, his rigid control and his total mobilization in areas he controls are met by the other side with half-measures.

In free Viet Nam there is no cohesive force, no ideal, no leader who can capture the imagination of a whole people. Nor has there been any adequate counter-propaganda to Ho's promises.

BAO DAI FOLLOWING SMALL

Chief of state Bao Dai has almost no connection with the people. A peasant in a rice field knows nothing about him. Intellectuals of the country dislike and even despise him. His following is limited to a most narrow group. He has never been permitted in the past to be anything but a puppet of the French.

On the contrary, to many Viet Namese, Ho is a patriotic leader. Only a few know that he belongs to Moscow. Some people drifting back from areas under Vietminh control have spread seeds of disillusionment about Ho. But for the most part the peasant reaction is one of hope that all foreigners will go home. He wants land and he wants to be left to till it in peace. For him all other things are largely meaningless.

In Viet Nam, reaction to the war against Ho ranges from apathy to outright hostility. Viet Namese young men are not happy about being conscripted into the army. Many buy their way out, or flee to parts unknown.

The French insist that the Viet minh already have reached the peak of their effort, that the rebel forces can improve in quality with Chinese advice and supplies but not in quantity. Yet the same French admit that Ho's forces even now remain at full strength, despite his steady and heavy losses.

With his sytem of recruitment, starting at the village level, his pool of reserves seems almost bottomless.

Lake Ports Must Expand For Seaway

LONDON (AP)—The Board of Trade Journal, a British government publication, said Sunday many U.S. Great Lakes ports will have to expand and improve before full benefit can be had from the St. Lawrence seaway, which would bring much more Atlantic ocean traffic to lake ports.

In a featured article on Chicago's growing importance as an ocean port, The Journal contrasted the planned 27-feet deep seaway channel with the U.S. harbors on the Great Lakes, and said only three have a depth of 26 feet. They are Presque Isle, Mich.; Two Harbors, Minn., and Calumet Harbor, Ind.

Chicago has only 21 feet, and so have Milwaukee, Muskegon, Michigan, Oswego, N.Y., and Sandusky, O.

MUST ENLARGE IT

"Chicago will be obliged not only to deepen its harbor but also to enlarge and improve its port facilities . . . some work has been done . . . and much is planned, but Chicago is more restricted in its choice of locations for harbor and port facilities than are most of the Great Lakes ports . . . only three new areas, now undeveloped or only partially developed, are available."

Denounces Scare Talk Concerning Gas War

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Col. D.G. Brothaus, commander of the Rocky mountain arsenal which produces the deadly GB nerve gas, Sunday denounced published "scare type statements" concerning the gas.

In a statement he said:

"Nerve gas does not have the super-powerful attributes that some writers would have you believe. One drop on the skin will not kill in 30 seconds, and one quart jar under even the most perfect conditions will not kill every living thing in a cubic mile. These are scare type statements and are not consistent with the facts.

"Under laboratory conditions it is possible to kill a person in a very short time, but laboratory conditions are rarely found on the battlefield or in cities and towns."

The gas, he said, is used best with the element of surprise. It is colorless, odorless and tasteless.

Eisenhower, McCarthy Wage Great Behind-Scene Battle

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Senator Joseph R. McCarthy are the principals, willingly or not, in a political drama. Behind a thin facade of courteous words and social correctness, these two men represent opposing sides in the boiling controversy over McCarthy's methods of hunting for Reds in the United States government, industry and the army.

Can a head - on collision be avoided? One man in a position to know says: "The president absolutely will not get into a name-calling contest with anyone."

But a source close to the White House inner circle says: "Make no mistake about it. Everybody in the White House knows the fight is on."

Time after time — without mentioning McCarthy by name, but in answer to questions about McCarthy — Eisenhower has stressed his belief in the principle of fair play in congressional investigations.

McCarthy has no seat in the high Republican party councils. He has no personal following in Congress to compare remotely with that commanded by the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

But McCarthy is an heroic figure to millions of Americans who see in him — and not in FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover or President Eisenhower — the real leader of the fight against communism. Anywhere he speaks there are some cries of "McCarthy for president!"

Do McCarthy's ambitions reach to the White House? A recent interview went like this:

Question: Senator, there has been a great deal of speculation on the question of whether you are running for the Republican presidential nomination in 1956 or a later year."

McCarthy: "The answer is definitely no."

But a Republican senator said: "Joe's ambition is to dominate the Republican party — perhaps to name the party's presidential candidate if he hasn't got that ambition himself."

Two senior officials at the White House told me that Eisenhower has been disturbed by McCarthy's tactics ever since the day in June 1951 when McCarthy pointed a finger of suspicion at Gen. George Marshall. In that speech McCarthy linked the name of Marshall with a "great conspiracy." Into this speech, too, McCarthy dropped the name of Eisenhower.

Soon after Eisenhower took office, McCarthy began digging into the activities of the state department's overseas libraries and checking on the kinds of books on the shelves. Some books were pulled off the shelves and it was reported some were burned — although McCarthy denied he had anything to do with this.

Eisenhower spoke out in a speech at Dartmouth College: "Don't join the book-burners. . . ."

In a later speech, McCarthy called for a get-tough policy under which economic aid would be denied any U.S. ally trading with Red China. This created such a furore abroad that Eisenhower was compelled to answer. He said: "If it (the government) should turn impatiently to coercion of other free nations, our brand of coercion, so far as our friends are concerned, would be a mark of the imperialist rather than of the leader."

Queen Mother Will Make Ottawa Visit

Will Reach Capital November 12 After Washington Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth will pay a short visit to Ottawa in mid-November following a trip to Washington where she will be guest of President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The Queen Mother, who captivated Canadians with her gracious personality when she last visited this country in 1939 with the late King George VI, will arrive in Ottawa from Washington Friday, Nov. 12.

Government House announced today that she will be the guest of Governor-General Vincent Massey and will be in the Ottawa area for a few days before returning to the United Kingdom. It is expected that she will leave for home Tuesday, Nov. 16.

The announcement said it is not expected that she will have time to visit other Canadian cities. Detailed arrangements for the Ottawa visit have not been formulated and will be announced later.

The Queen Mother is expected to be the fourth member of the Royal Family to visit Canada this year. Another royal visitor will be Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia who will pay a one-day state visit to Ottawa June 3.

TO VISIT GAMES

The Duke of Edinburgh, now in the Far East with the Queen, plans to fly to Canada July 28 for a three-week, cross-country air trip. He will visit the British Empire Games in Vancouver and get a first-hand look at Canada's expanding northern developments.

The Duchess of Kent, widow of the Duke of Kent who was killed in a plane crash in Scotland in 1942, will visit Canada this summer with her 17-year-old daughter, Princess Alexandra. The duchess has been invited to open the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto Aug. 27.

The Queen Mother is expected to arrive in New York by ship early in November. She will spend about 10 days in Washington and other United States centres.

The 53-year-old mother of Queen Elizabeth toured Canada in 1939 with her husband.

ONLY WOMAN MEMBER of Branch 52, BESL, Canadian Legion, Mrs. Jesse Ayres, displayed a nursing medal of World War I which she received a few weeks ago from the British Red Cross Society. Navy Not Excited At News Russ Trawlers Off Banks

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP)—The Rayal Canadian Air Force today confirmed that two Russian trawlers have been operating on the Grand Banks off the southeast coast of Newfoundland. The navy said earlier it would investigate reports that the two trawlers are in the area.

At Halifax, maritime air command said the two trawlers were sighted and identified as Russian several time by aircraft on routine training flights.

The planes were from Greenwood, N.S., and Torbay, Nfld., the air force statement gave no further information.

Although the navy didn't say so, it was presumed they wanted to find out how close the trawlers were coming to shore. There is no law to keep Russian ships off the banks but they are not allowed within Canadian territorial waters without permission.

In Ottawa the navy declined today to get excited about presence of two Russian trawlers on the fishing banks off Newfoundland.

"We have no reason whatever to believe that they are snooping," a navy spokesman said.

However, the navy did not attempt to deny that the trawlers were capable of snooping or actually might be.

An official of the fisheries department said he wondered why the Russian trawlers had come so far to fish. But there was no question that the Russians had a perfect right to fish on the banks.

Another source said: "Everybody's doing a bit of snooping all the time."

SUBS ROAMED COAST

It was recalled that unidentified submarines have been sighted off the Atlantic coast a few times in recent years but their nationality was never established; or if it were, the knowledge was not made public.

There was always the possibility the trawlers, each of 1,600 tons, might be supply ships for submarines.

If the trawlers were snooping, it was difficult to determine what they were looking for. The navy denied a report that it has tested secret equipment, including a new homing torpedo, on the banks.

It was recalled here that Russian officers have been paying attention to the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in West Germany, using the highways to watch Canadian troops on exercises and to get a look at army equipment.

Planes Parachute Supplies As Enemy Presses Closer

HANOI (AP)—The thousands of valiant defenders of the French Union Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu, trapped by encircling tens of thousands of Communist-led Vietminh troops, today received fresh strength from the skies.

United States-supplied Dakotas and Flying Boxcars, some piloted by U.S. civilians, swooped in low through curtains of fire from rebel artillery and anti-aircraft batteries to parachute tons of ammunition, food and war materials of all types into the besieged bastion.

Despite cloudy, rain-laden skies which forced combat planes to curtail their assaults on rebel positions, French - flown fighters firing rockets and heavy machine-guns tried to knock out the Vietminh's anti-aircraft guns.

They thus effectively covered the low-flying transports which are keeping in fighting form the French Union garrison that has been under siege for 151 days.

NEAR MAIN BARRIERS

Constantly pressing in on the Y-shaped French chain of defence, the legions of Communist Ho Chi Minh by today had ringed the shrunken fortifications with trenches and dugouts 1,000 yards or less from the fortress' main barriers.

The rebels during the week-end captured two more French outposts on the northern arms of the Y to further ring in the garrison.

The defenders still hold five of their original eight strong points, and a sixth four miles to the south from which the main garrison has been cut off for more than three weeks.

But in furious assaults the Vietminh Sunday and Monday snipped off the northwest and northeast points of the Y and smashed at the fortress with new fury from three sides.

Supreme Soviet Holds Session

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Malenkov today attended the first session of Russia's Supreme Soviet to be held since the March 14 elections.

The 708 assembled deputies rose to their feet to applaud Malenkov as he walked to his place on the dais in the Kremlin Grand Palace. He wore a dark blue Communist party tunic buttoned to the neck.

President Klementi Voroshilov, Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and party secretary Nikita Khrushchev sat beside Malenkov.

The Supreme Soviet adopted a six-point agenda, including the presentation of the 1954 budget.

There was no indication today that Malenkov will deliver an important "keynote" speech during the session, as he did last year.

Passengers were guided by railway employees with flashlights. Police reported no incidents during the blackout.

Ho, French Meet Secretly

NEW YORK (AP) — An NBC reporter in Tokyo said today that had been informed "highly secret meetings" are on between French officials and Ho Chi Minh in Saigon in an effort to work out peace in Indo-China.

James Robinson, the radio correspondent, said he had been given the information by a senior member of the native anti-Communist government in Viet Nam.

He added that other "competent" officials had told him that two months ago French Defence Minister Rene Plevin met Communist representatives on an aircraft carrier off Saigon and proposed a peace settlement.

The heart of the Plevin proposal, Robinson reported, was that Ho Chi Minh accept vice - presidency of the country's government under its French-backed leader, Bao Dai.

Plan International Conference

Invite Scientists To Discuss Atomic Uses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Eisenhower plans an international conference of scientists to explore "the benign and peaceful uses of atomic energy," Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, disclosed Monday night.

Addressing the Los Angeles world affairs council, he said it is the president's intention to ask a national American scientific organization to call the meeting later this year.

No specific date was mentioned for the meeting, which would be the first of its kind in the nuclear age.

The AEC chairman's announcement came during his discussion of Eisenhower's Dec. 8 speech, in which the president called upon the world's atomic powers to set up an international agency to develop peaceful atomic pursuits.

MUST INCLUDE RUSSIA

Those participating, said Eisenhower, "must, of course," include the Soviet Union. Strauss, amplifying this point during a question period, said the countries participating must include, under the president's plan, the Big Three powers in the atomic energy area —the U.S., Britain and Russia.

"The United States proposal," said Strauss, "is not just another move in the chess game of world politics nor is it primarily a disarmament formula. It does not endanger the atomic weapons secrets of any nation that now has or may possess such secrets. It does not involve suddenly placing trust where yesterday trust could not be reposed."

The current series of hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific proving ground, said Strauss, produced results which surprised even the scientists conducting them, and "effectively dramatized" that portion of the president's Dec. 8 speech relating to the prodigious power of these weapons.

"I hope," Strauss added, "it (the series) has reminded many who had almost forgotten the fact, that the Soviet Union tested a thermonuclear device—a hydrogen device, a fusion device—in August of last year.

"A little examination of the calendar also reveals that had we not begun our researches when we did, we might now be in a position of weapon inferiority to the Soviet Union — a condition with consequences of disastrous weight for the future of the presently free world."

Fear Family In Soviet Be Punished

3 Angry Russians Arrive At Singapore Hotel

CANBERRA (AP)—Australian security officials are convinced one of the main reasons Mrs. Evokiya Petrov decided to seek asylum was that she believed her action could not further endanger her family in Russia.

They believe she realized she was returning to such an uncertain fate that her relatives inevitably would have suffered with her. Security men believe she expected to be asked why she had not informed on her husband.

NOT "PLANTED"

Other facts which emerge after long cabinet discussions on the Petrov affair and its political ramifications are:

1. Security officials have reported they are satisfied Mrs. Petrov was not a Soviet "plant" aimed at discovering her husband's whereabouts.

2. The Commonwealth government does not yet know whether she will co-operate by giving evidence before a royal commission. So far discussions have been confined to the question of her asylum.

3. Mrs. Petrov is still resting at Darwin. The government has not decided how or when she will be brought south but as soon as possible she will be taken to her husband.

4. She still is a highly terrified woman as a result of the strain she has undergone in the last fortnight and fears for her family in Russia.

It is believed she has a mother and three sisters.

LAND IN SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Three angry Russians landed here this afternoon on an airliner from Australia on their way to Moscow to report that Mrs. Evokiya Petrov was "kidnapped" by Australian police early today at Darwin.

The trio—an embassy official from Canberra and two couriers—shouldered their way through reporters at Singapore airport and hurried to a hotel. They will leave for Moscow on Monday to report the failure of their mission.

The three declined to comment, but were obviously angry.

Reporters pressed F. V. Kislitsin, second secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra, about reports that he might also ask asylum in the west.

Kislitsin, whose wife and one child are still in Canberra, refused to answer. But he appeared extremely distressed.

At the Raffles Hotel, the three Russians shut themselves up in a small room, while reporters hammered on the door.

Mrs. Petrov, meanwhile, has asked for political asylum in Australia.

Ouimet Witness To Car Crash

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Wierzbecki, 28, was killed and Wladyslau Kowalewicz, 28, injured today when their car went into a skid on the Queen Elizabeth way approaching a bridge, and dropped 50 feet onto a creek bed below.

The car crashed into a bridge pillar as it hurtled through the air.

Dick Ouimet of Peterborough, witnessed the crash. He said the car passed him at a high speed shortly before it struck the curb on the boulevard and went out of control.

Wierzbecki, the driver, died in hospital an hour after the crash. Passenger Kowalewicz crawled up the steep embankment from the creek to the highway before he collapsed.

Brighton Gunner Dies From Injuries

OTTAWA (CP)—Gnr. G. H. Dusenbury, 20, of Brighton, Ont., who joined the army in February, died in a Trenton hospital following a car accident two miles west of Trenton Friday night, the army said today.

Dusenbury died Saturday of head and chest injuries. His companion, Pte. W. H. Farrell, also of Brighton, was injured but his condition is reported good. Farrell is a member of 15 company of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps at Camp Borden.

Russian Chief Takes No Chance

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) The chief of 10 Russian delegates who arrived here today for the Far East conference snapped up all their passports as soon as they had been presented to Swiss customs officials.

The individual delegates were not permitted to keep their own passports presumably to prevent any of them from seeking political asylum.

When their plane arrived the leader produced passports for all 10. But the Swiss pointed out each man must present his own.

The leader then gave each man his passport, but as soon as they were through the customs collected them again.

Police Wrestle Wildly, Take Guns From 2 Couriers; Mrs. Petrov Asks Asylum

DARWIN, Australia (AP)—Mrs. Vladimir Petrov today joined her ex-diplomat husband as a refugee from Soviet communism after Australian police jerked loaded pistols away from two Russian escorts ushering her back to Moscow.

The 35-year-old woman's last-minute switch to the Free World followed a fantastic tug-of-war in which the police wrestled wildly to disarm two of her Russian guards as her Europe-bound plane stopped here after the first leg of its flight from Sydney. The gun-toting Russians had tried to prevent local officials from talking to Mrs. Petrov.

Eight hours earlier some 1,500 persons at Sydney fought with police in a vain effort to prevent her from being dragged aboard the British Overseas Airways Corporation Constellation by the Soviet embassy second secretary and the two armed Russian diplomatic couriers who were sent to Australia to escort her home.

White Russians in the crowd said they heard her screaming: "I do not want to go. Save me."

Mrs. Petrov was said by Australian authorities to have started back to Russia in the belief that her husband had been kidnapped and killed. She had told reporters at an embassy press conference last week that she thought he had been kidnapped.

FINAL DECISION

She made her final decision to stay after a pre-arranged telephone call from Darwin for her first talk with her 45-year-old husband since he fled early this month with Red espionage data from his post as third secretary and MVD (secret police) chief at the Soviet embassy in Canberra.

The riotous episodes surrounding Mrs. Petrov's flight promise serious diplomatic repercussions between Australia and the Kremlin. Soviet ambassador Nicolai Generalov immediately lodged a formal protest at the Australian foreign ministry, charging "armed assault against diplomatic couriers and detention of a Soviet official, to wit: Mrs. Petrov."

Prime Minister Robert C. Menzies called a cabinet meeting to discuss the possibility that the Russians might retaliate against the small Australian embassy staff in Moscow.

Toronto Hunter Found Dead Near Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Ontario provincial police said today Joseph Lanacs, 28, Toronto hunter missing in the bush for five days, has been found dead.

They said they received word by radio from the search area 20 miles north of here. They had no details.

Lanacs disappeared Friday while bear hunting with Helmet Moewsner and Louis Mikalwi, also of Toronto.

50 JOIN SEARCH

More than 50 men scoured the bush near the Kiwanis camp Monday aided by a helicopter from Oshawa.

Bushman Joseph Cotterchio found tracks in a patch of snow southeast of the camp but the trail was lost in bare ground.

Oanacs had no food with him but he is believed to have matches, a .30-.30-calibre rifle and 20 rounds of ammunition.

Police Discover Poisonous Liquor

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto police said today that they suspect a quantity of the poisonous, home-made liquor that almost killed one man Monday may still be loose here.

William Maksymjuk, 27, who almost died from drinking some of the liquor was charged with having illicit spirits, after questioning in hospital.

Investigations led to the arrest of Mike Stadich by RCMP officers in North Bay. He is charged with being in possession of a still.

An RCMP spokesman said he "hoped" there was no more of the liquor in the Toronto area. Four bottles were seized here and another four in North Bay where it is believed they were purchased.

London Hotel Burns

LONDON (Reuters) — A fire which threatened to engulf the top floor of the six-storey Grosevenor Hotel in west London was put out today by firemen after a three-hour fight. Rooms on the top floor of one wing in the 300-room Grosvenor, which adjoins the big rail terminal at Victoria, were badly damaged. The hotel was packed with Easter tourists, but no one was hurt.

Paulus Given Job By Red Officials

BONN (AP) — Western intelligence officials in West Germany say the Russians have assigned former field marshal Friedrich Paulus, their vanquished enemy at Stalingrad, a key role in expanding the Communist East German army.

The 63-year-old ex-prisoner has taken over the training of the officer corps and officer cadets for this Soviet-equipped force, the officials say, and has set up headquarters near Leipzig with a staff including a number of his old German army companions.

Paulus commanded the Gedman 6th Army and was captured in the Stalingrad debacle in 1943. He returned to Germany last Oct. 26 after 10 years' captivity.

13 Babies Die After Fire In Hospital

READING, England (Reuters)—Only two babies survived today of the 15 newly-born infants dragged from a blazing maternity ward here Easter Sunday, and they are dangerously ill in oxygen tents.

Four more babies died today after doctors had worked all night on the smoke-choked little victims, all of whom had been carried from the burning nursery by nurse Freda Holland.

One child died during the fire, and hour by hour Monday the death toll mounted. By midnight 10 of the infants—most of them only a few days old—were dead.

"YARD" INVESTIGATING

Scientists from Scotland Yard have been called in to help check the cause of the tragic fire, which swept up from the boiler room immediately under the nursery.

The surviving babies are menaced by pneumonia, caused by smoke in their lungs. Injections of penicillin and cortisone are being given to them.

Mothers of the dead babies are reported to be "as well as can be expected." Some fathers of the survivors have been allowed to see their children.

Bevan Wins New Allies

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan won powerful new allies today in his rebellion against the decision of Labor party leaders to back West German rearmament.

Britain's sixth biggest union—the Shop, Distributive and Allied Workers—called almost unanimously for a halt to German rearmament "on both sides." And the Northern Ireland Labor party, a section of the British Labor party, voted overwhelmingly that West German rearmament under present conditions of world tension would be a grave threat to peace.

The British Labor party split wide open last week on the issue of West German rearmament when Bevan resigned from the party's national executive. The moderate-led executive, voting 16 to 9, backed rearmament with certain safeguards.

Pock-Marked Windshields Baffle Experts Spreading From B.C. To Cars In Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The case of the pock-marked windshields is continuing to baffle Canadian motorists and scientists alike.

As reports of the mysterious windshield blemishes spread from British Columbia to Alberta and leapfrogged into Ontario, the B.C. attorney-general's department was reported preparing to throw the full scientific weight of the B.C. research council into the mystery first reported in the Pacific northwest United States three weeks ago.

Adding to the mystery, described by police chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver as "95 per cent mass hysteria," was the sudden shattering of two pairs of eye glasses in Vancouver Monday.

Chief Mulligan's hysteria theory was supported by Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the University of B.C.'s physics department who examined samples of windshield dust turned over to him by Vancouver police for testing.

FIRST-HAND EVIDENCE

Dr. Shrum said he could find no trace of radio-activity and no trace of anything else one would not regularly expect to find in scrapings taken from a windshield. However, he had no comment for publication when, later in the day he found the tiny pits all over the windshield of his own late-model automobile.

Chief Mulligan said it was his belief "that mass hysteria is playing a big part in all these rumors." He added:

"This is the time of year when dust, sand and bits of gravel begin to be thrown at cars from the car ahead. These particles naturally scratch windshields to some extent."

His comment failed to impress members of his own traffic force who reported seeing pit-marks appear on their windshields last week-end while a grayish-ash was noticed falling on the city.

RADIOLARIANS TO BLAME?

At Victoria, biologist Paul H. D. Parizeau said the ash might be caused by radiolarians, tiny single-celled animals that live in countless billions in the oceans of the world. He said any tremendous upheaval such as that caused by recent H-bomb blasts in the Pacific would blow the radiolarians into the stratosphere where they would harden and drift across the ocean.

However, he did not mention the pock-marking phenomenon itself and gave no explanation of how radiolarians might damage glass.

First Alberta reports of the glass-pitted phenomena came from three Edmonton motorists and a Calgary man Monday. The same day Elwyn Logan, 35, of Windsor, Ont., stopped laughing at West Coast reports of glass pitting when his own windshield became pitted as he crossed the Ambassador bridge to Detroit.

A Lindsay newspaper Monday afternoon reported that flying bits of mystery missiles have been experienced there. One motorist showed where glass in the windows of the car as well as the front and rear windshields were pitted and scratched.

SPREADING IN U.S.

The epidemic appeared to be spreading in the United States too. After its start in Washington state there were incidents reported in Ohio during the week-end. And today came more reports, this time from the Indianapolis area in Indiana and from Dedham, Mass.

The Indiana reports resembled the Canadian ones in the matter of fine dust being found on the damaged windshields.

Romania Makes Switches In Red Officials

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Romania announced today that Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej has resigned as general secretary of the Romanian Communist party.

His action was in line with a similar division of governmental and party responsibilities already carried out in the Soviet Union, Hungary and Poland.

The announcement, broadcast by Radio Bucharest and heard in this Austrian capital, said the top party post had been taken over by Gheorphe Apostol, who gave up his post as deputy premier and minister of agriculture to take on the new duties.

Radio Bucharest said the shift was ordered by the party's central committee.

MOSCOW RULING

The pattern for separation of the top government and party posts in the Communist world was laid down in Moscow following the death of Stalin last year. The Russian dictator had been both premier and secretary-general of the Soviet Party, but in the shake-up after his death Georgi Malenkov became the government head and Nikita S. Khrushchev subsequently took over as party chief.

Subsequently Hungary's Matyas Rakosi gave up his premiership to Imre Nagy but remained No. 1 member of his party politburo. Last month Boleslaw Bierut turned the premier's chair in Poland over to Josef Cyrankiewicz and himself became first secretary of the Red party.

The two posts have been separate in Czechoslovakia since the death of President Klement Gottwald. He was succeeded in the presidency by Premier Antonin Zapotocky, Vilem Siroky became premier, and Antonin Novotny eventually was named first secretary of the party central committee.

Will Extend Missile Range

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force plans to extend its 1,000-mile-long guided-missile range in the Atlantic ocean by 3,500 miles.

The test range now stretches from Florida to Puerto Rico. The projected extension would carry it to tiny Ascension island, in the south Atlantic midway between Brazil and Africa.

The proposed extension was disclosed during air force secret testimony before a congressional appropriations sub-committee, made public Monday night.

A censored text of a speech by Defence Secretary Charles Wilson also was released, quoting him as saying the U. S., while vulnerable, is "relatively secure" from atomic attack and that "the Russians have been much more afraid of us than we are of them."

DOUBTS STRIKING POWER

Wilson said Russia would lose many bombers and trained crews in the initial stages of any air war over North America "and I do not believe they could keep it up."

Wilson challenged an opinion of representative George Mahon (Dem. Tex.) that the U. S. is "highly vulnerable to atomic attack at this time."

Questioned about the percentage of attacking Russian planes that could get through to American targets, Wilson said it would depend on what kind of an attack was started, how much warning could be obtained and "whether they did it now or three years from now."

Scientists Welcome Atomic Conference

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP) — Scientists at the federal government's atomic energy centre here Monday night welcomed a proposed conference of leading scientists of the world to discuss peaceful uses of atomic energy.

No official word of the conference plans announced Monday night in Los Angeles by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, had been heard here, but should the conference materialize, it was felt Canadians would be present.

One scientist believed the conference would be particularly interesting to Canada because her atomic research has been concentrated on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Hold Little Hope Any Of Crew Alive

VANCOUVER (CP) — There is little chance any of the 14-man crew survived when the 148-foot tug Chelan foundered last Thursday night in Alaskan waters.

Capt. E. W. Suffield, marine superintendent of Union Steamships Ltd., owners of the Chelan, said in an interview that the "United States coast guard searchers are of the opinion there are no possible survivors."

A fishboat recovered the unidentified body of one crew member.

Future Buildings To Be Examined By Fire Chief

One new national building code comes into effect as the city's building law, Fire Chief Bill Sorrie is expected to be given the opportunity for a closer check on plans submitted in applications for industrial and commercial building permits.

The chief told the fire, water and light committee Monday that he thought a member of the fire department should be called in whenever an application is submitted for a new building or for extensive alterations to an existing building. This would enable them to examine the proposed lay-out and fire-protection devices.

The chief said the fire department already had a card index system showing the lay-outs, entrances and nearby fire hydrants of most large buildings in the city. He understood that the new building code required the building inspector to submit a set of proposed plans to the fire chief for recommendaitons as to fire prevention facilities.

EXTRA PLANS?

"In any case, there is always a set of plans in the engineer's office that the chief can examine," Ald. Harold Rehill, committee chairman, said.

City Clerk E. A. Outram said the new national building code had been completed and was ready to be put in the form of a local bylaw. It was possible the bylaw would include a clause requiring applicants to submit two sets of plans of proposed buildings, one set to go to the fire chief.

Meanwhile, the fire chief will work in conjunction with City Engineer A. E. Chalmers, the city's building inspector, in studying plans submitted for approval.

McCarthy Close To Getting Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) apparently came close to victory Monday in his fight for the privilege of cross-examining witnesses at public hearings into his clash with top army officials.

The question was threshed out at a four-hour closed meeting between McCarthy and four other members of the Senate investigations subcommittee. And, while the outcome was not announced, there were these indications McCarthy was getting at least part of what he wanted:

1. Acting chairman Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.) told newspaper men "it now appears very definite" the televised hearings will get under way as scheduled at 10 a.m. EST Thursday. The cross-examination dispute had threatened to delay them.

2. McCarthy himself said he hasn't changed "materially" his position that both he and his army antagonists should be allowed to cross-examine. Asked specifically if he intended to claim "any of the privileges of cross-examination," he replied: "I haven't resigned yet from the Senate."

His meaning apparently was that as a senator, he can ask questions.

Red H-Bomb Helped U.S.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Representative Craig Hosmer (Rep.-Calif.) said Monday that American H-bombs recently tested in the Pacific were developed by methods previously considered unworkable by U. S. scientists but later developed successfully by Russian scientists.

"Our 1952 H-bomb needed an entire building to house it," said Hosmer, in a press release. "Meanwhile the Russians, using Italian and German physicists captured after World War II, built and exploded a smaller H-bomb deliverable as a war weapon.

"They used entirely different scientific principles which our scientists had discarded as unworkable.

"Analysis of the Red H-bomb debris (radio-active cloud) was our first positive indication that the discarded principle was good after all. We then proceeded immediately to build our H-bomb along these new simplified lines and are now testing them in the Pacific."

Oliver Predicts Election Before Winter

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, Monday night predicted an Ontario general election before the snow falls next winter.

Speaking at an organizational meeting of the Elgin Liberal Association, he said: "I have a sneaking idea it (the Ontario government) will flee before the rising storm and seek to get the verdict of the people before its sins are brought out in full."

He said the Ontario highways department has estimated expenditures of $150,000,000 and the people have a right to be sure the money will only be used on roads."

The meeting elected A. V. Coulter, former warden of Elgin county as president of the association. He succeeds Robert McEwen, mayor of Aylmer.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 23-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 29-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.77 1-16, against $2.76¼.

MORE ABOUT—

Police Wrestle

It was revealed at Canberra that Mrs. Petrov was a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy, handling the secret coded messages to and from the Kremlin. If she decides to follow her husband in revealing what she knows about the inner workings of that embassy, she may be as important as he in helping to track down Soviet espionage in Australia.

SAYS RING REVEALED

A royal commission with increased legal powers already has been authorized to sift the mass of documents Petrov turned over. Menzies said that data revealed a large Soviet spy network in the country. Other sources said at least 30 Australians were implicated.

Menzies told reporters of the events leading up to Mrs. Petrov's flight to freedom, and said it could "be seen Australia behaved with scrupulous care and regard for international protocol."

The Russians at Darwin claimed the action against the couriers violated their diplomatic immunity. But legal experts said Australian air travel laws forbid passengers to carry firearms. They said that although a country cannot take punitive action against diplomats of another country, it can take measures to prevent law violations.

Once disarmed, the couriers were left alone. They and the embassy second secretary, F. V. Kislitsin, went on to Europe with the BOAC airliner.

The Australian government announced that it will throw the same cloak of secrecy over Mrs. Petrov as it did over her husband, and there will be no interviews with reporters.

CHANCE TO DECLINE

Following suspicions that Mrs. Petrov might not be a willing returnee to her homeland, Menzies set into motion the machinery to make sure she would have a chance to say if she wanted to go on.

As she was hustled aboard the plane at Sydney, Menzies ordered Reginald Leydin, northern territory government secretary at Darwin, to be ready for her arrival and to ask her whether she wanted to go on.

When the plane landed here, security agents and a dozen policemen went aboard. As Leydin approached to talk to Mrs. Petrov, the two couriers, who already had used strong-arm methods during the trip to keep other passengers and the crew from talking to her, interrupted them.

Police grappled with the couriers, V. Karpinsky and F. Zharkov One of the Russians thrust his hand in his pocket. A nearby policeman grabbed his wrist and discovered the loaded pistol in the pocket. The other courier carried a similar weapon in a shoulder holster. Zharkov struggled fiercely with police before he was disarmed. One police sergeant came out of the tussle with blood on his shirt.

"SEEMED TOO SCARED"

The stewardess aboard the plane told reporters after talking to Mrs. Petrov: "She obviously wants to stay in Australia, but seemed too scared to do anything."

While Mrs. Petrov, weeping frequently, talked for 45 minutes with Leydin at the Darwin airport, Kislitsin protested bitterly.

To reporters he said: "I am astounded at the action of the Australian authorities. Our diplomatic immunity has been infringed and I intend to report it to my embassy."

Kislitsin protested strongly against permitting Mrs. Petrov to talk privately with her husband on the telephone. Leydin conceded, and she held the conversation in a crowded customs office, with Kislitsin, Australian police, reporters and others crowded around. Afterward, Mrs. Petrov told Leydin she wished to stay in Australia.

CHARGES WOMAN DRUGGED

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A Russian-born anti-Communist said today that Mrs. Evokiya Petrov was drugged when she was put aboard a plane for a trip back to Russia that ended when Australian police rescued her at Darwin from her Soviet guards.

N. P. Harkoff, leader of a group of White Russians here, said his supporters had rushed Mrs. Petrov's guards at the plane before it took off from Sydney after they had heard her call for help in Russian. The wife of the Soviet embassy secretary who fled to asylum in Australia last week apparently had chosen earlier to go back behind the Iron Curtain.

Harkoff said that during the airport struggle "Mrs. Petrov was so obviously drugged that she couldn't respond to the opportunity as well as we had expected."

Fire Partly Destroys White River YMCA

WHITE RIVER (CP)—Fire of unknown origin Monday partially destroyed the three-storey YMCA building here, razing it down to the second floor.

Rangers from the White River headquarters of the department of lands and forests rushed several portable pumps to the scene while the Canadian Pacific Railways fire engine was pressed into service. It took firefighters five hours to put out the fire.

Loss is expected to be heavy with considerable damage to the lower floors from smoke and water.

Thieves Interrupted

WELLAND (CP)—Thieves were interrupted in an effort to open the safe at the Canadian Pacific Railways telegraph office here Monday night. The agent, Ted Tizzard, discovered the safe had been dragged into a rear office and the work of trying to saw the hinges off with a hacksaw left unfinished. The safe contained only records.

Widow Says 'Happy' Battaglia Dead

MONTREAL (CP)—The Herald says today that the widow of Charles (The Kid) Wagner is "quite happy" that the man freed on a charge of murdering her husband was later the victim of what police have described as a gangland slaying.

Frank Battaglia of Oakville, Ont., was found slain Thursday less than 12 hours after he had been freed on a charge of murdering Wagner. Police believe Battaglia was hanged or strangled and then thrown into a weed-choked field in Montreal's east end.

Without disclosing her whereabouts, The Herald says that in a telephone interview Mrs. Wagner was asked how she feels about Battaglia's death.

She was quoted as replying:

"Perhaps it sounds awful to say this, but I'm quite happy about the whole thing."

HAS NO CLUES

She said she would be unable to help police solve the case.

"I know very little about it," she said. "I don't even know why Charlie was killed."

Wagner's body was found March 28, 1953, in a water-filled creek at nearby St. Mathieu de Laprairie. He had been shot through the head and a 343-pound stone was placed on the body.

Ex-POW Says Dickenson Tipped Off Escape Plans

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former prisoner of war swore today that his plans to escape from a Korean prison camp were tipped off to his jailers by Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson.

The witness, Cpl. Thomas A. Carrick of Blacksburg, Va., said at the opening of the second day of Dickenson's court martial that he overheard the defendant inform on him.

This testimony sent opposing counsel into a vigorous debate on the admissibility of Carrick's testimony. Guy Emery, defence lawyer, drew from Carrick on cross-examination that he had also overheard Dickenson confess that he, himself, was planning an escape.

Asked why he had not mentioned this fact, the witness said:

"I try to forget things, sir."

CONFIDED PLANS

Carrick said that on Oct. 8, 1951, he and Dickenson confided to each other that they were planning escapes. On that day, Carrick said, he was ordered to headquarters and was told by Wong, a Chinese military adviser, that he was going to escape and was asked "who were going with me."

Carrick said he told Wong he was not planning to escape. The Chinese left the room.

Shortly afterwards, Carrick said, he heard a conversation in an adjoining room between Dickenson and Tong, another Chinese, in which Dickenson was asked for the names of the men in Carrick's group planning to escape.

Dickenson repeated "the names of my men," Carrick said.

Shortly afterwards, Carrick said, Tong asked Dickenson "if he would put it on paper. Then I heard the rattle of paper."

Shortly afterward, Carrick said, he was sent to another prison camp for "men the Chinese called reactionaries."

ADJOURN TO 1 P.M.

Emery complained that the charges against Dickenson were not sufficiently specific to enable Dickenson to draw up a defence.

Col. Richard F. Scarborough, the law officer (Judge), granted a motion by Emery that the prosecution be required to name names, dates and places in its charges against Dickenson.

Court was recessed until 1 p. m. EST, to enable the prosecutor to draw up a bill of particulars.

Dickenson, 23-year-old Virginia soldier, is charged with collaborating with the enemy while a PoW and with supplying his captors with information that led to mistreatment of fellow prisoners. He has pleaded not guilty.

Dickenson first refused repatriation when the Korean armistice was signed, but later changed his mind and returned to the U. S.

Low Birth Rate, Depression Blamed In Teacher Shortage

TORONTO (CP)—The low birth rate of the depression days of the 1930s was blamed Monday for Ontario's current shortage of teachers.

J. C. Doyle, Peterborough inspector of separate schools, said in an address to the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations of Ontario that the teacher shortage will probably become worse before it becomes better.

"The province must find 3,100 new elementary school teachers and 500 secondary school teachers annually to meet the minimum demands."

Mr. Doyle said the full impact of the increased population will fall on the secondary schools in 1960. He said the elementary schools are facing the worst of the teacher shortage at present, as the postwar birth rate plus immigration have resulted in an increased enrolment in elementary schools of 100,000 during the last five years.

Nixon Feels Newspapermen Took Advantage Of Speech

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today that Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States makes a point that he did not go to last Friday's meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington to launch a trial "balloon" for an interventionist policy on Indo-China.

A Washington dispatch to The Times by James Reston says Nixon is disturbed about some of the reaction to his controversial speech on the possibility of U.S. intervention in the Indo-China war.

Reston writes that points that Nixon makes include these:

1. He did not clear his notes in advance with anybody and specifically told his audience that only two men were authorized to define official U.S. foreign policy—President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

2. He talked in the belief that his remarks would not be attributed to anybody. His mistake, as he now sees it, was in allowing the reporters to talk him into attributing the speech to a "high administration official."

3. He thinks the editors and publishers will greatly reduce the flow of public information if they insist that all "talks" or speeches by government officials to newspaper people be attributed.

Reston writes that "since the newspaper editors were the hosts Friday and many of them became highly critical of the guest of honor later, it is only fair that the background of the meeting be put on the record.

"In the first place, the editors had not had one of their most successful conferences. Indeed, partly because most of the speakers who appeared before them took no chances on being quoted, the week was unexciting and sometimes not even very informative . . .

"Accordingly, when the vice-president went to the dais Friday noon, he was urged to talk frankly and to respond to questions from the floor. This he agreed to do.

"When he was introduced, nobody defined the rules under which he was talking. However, he himself said . . . editors could of course 'plagiarize' him. This was his way of saying that his remarks were for the editors' information, to be used by them on their own authority if they wished but not to be pinned on anybody in the administration."

Reston reported that Nixon regrets the "trial balloon" charge, and "he feels that this suggests he was trying to take advantage of his invitation to 'put over' a policy the administration was not prepared to announce."

Disarmament Talks Planned, Fear Boycott

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Spurred by the menace of the hydrogen bomb, the Western powers prepared today for new disarmament talks without knowing whether the Soviet Union will take part.

The 12-member United Nations disarmament commission Monday set up a sub-committee to start the talks, in private, here Friday. It adopted a British proposal naming Britain, Canada, France, the Soviet Union and the United States to the sub-group, but rejected a Soviet bid to add Communist China, Czechoslovakia and India.

Only Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky voted against the British resolution and for his own amendment. Lebanon and Nationalist China abstained on the former, Lebanon on the latter.

CREATE DIFFICULTIES

Vishinsky had warned beforehand that adoption of the British plan, which he called one-sided, would "create difficulties for the Soviet Union as regards its participation in the work of the sub-committee."

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. delegate, called this "a thinly veiled threat to walk out . . . a thinly veiled threat to torpedo the peace." Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon asked if Vishinsky meant to sabotage efforts to solve the disarmament problem.

Sir Pierson was the last westerner to talk with Vishinsky before the Russian left UN headquarters Monday night. A British spokesman said he did not learn whether Russia plans to boycott the sub-committee.

CAN'T GIVE ANSWER

When reporters asked the Soviet delegate whether he would show up for the first meeting Friday Vishinsky said, "I do not understand your question." Before the vote he had said his attendance "will depend on the circumstances."

India has given the commission Prime Minister Nehru's proposal for an agreement to halt hydrogen bomb tests. Lodge said he would ask the sub-committee to invite India to send a representative "at an early date to express her views." Sir Pierson termed the Indian proposal "very important."

Would Replace Swing Bridge

Federal engineers from the department of transporft will meet Wednesday with Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, to discuss replacement of the swing-bridge over the Trent Canal on the Warsaw road.

The meeting will be a preliminary one with the engineers exchanging ideas. There have been no definite commitments by the department who look after the Trent Canal. One of the two engineers will be Thomas J. Ryan, superintending engineer of the Trent Canal in Peterborough.

At the January session of the county council the suburban area roads commission said that they considered a new bridge over the canal as one of their major projects 1954. County council promised their support to try and get federal action and, if progress seems likely, city council will be given a prod.

The present swing bridge is only 14 feet wide and is considered a bottle neck for two-way traffic. Many motorists don't take the risk of passing on it; so this aggravates the traffic problem at rush-hour periods.

One of the first decisions if the bridge is replaced is whether it will be another swing type or an overhead fixed type. If the federal department of transport approve the project that doesn't end matters; approval must still be obtained from the provincial department of highways.

Beethoven With a Twang

LONDON (AP) — Beethoven's Fourth Piano Concerto got an unexpected extra zing Monday night at the Royal Festival Hall as the celebrated American pianist, Rudolph Serkin, was playing the last movement. The string in the grand piano snapped with a twanging sound that could be heard all over the hall. Serkin and the London Philharmonic Orchestra completed the work without further incident.

Otonabee Taxpayers To Pay $7,000 Less Than In 1953

The ratepayers of Otonabee will pay $7,000 less taxes than last year as the net result of the 1954 municipal budget adopted by the council last week.

Total revenue from all sources was estimated at $160,809.51, in the financial summary reported by township clerk James McCarthy.

The revenues are as follows, most of them collected from the taxpayers: for county requirements, $41,853.47; general purposes of the township, $23,251.93; township grants to schools, $11,383.53; requisitions from school boards, $56,011.59.

Grants received from the Ontario government, plus township licences and other items, $28,330.

Total expenditure for general purposes of the township amounts as estimated, to $51,525.

Subtract from that sum the $28,330 received in grants from the government and fees, licences and other similar revenues, and the remainder is $23,251.93.

This sum is reflected in the tax rate at 10 mills, a decrease of two mills from the last year rate for the general requirements of the township.

Details of the tax rates are quoted from the bylaw, and for purposes of comparison the corresponding rates in 1953 are shown in brackets.

COMPARISON OF RATES

County rates, raising the money required by the county council: $41,853.47; 18 mills (20); to two-mill decrease.

Township rates, general: $23,251.93; 10 mills (12), a drop of two mills. Of this year's ten mills, 7.1 mills are for roads and bridges, and 2.9 mills for general administration, including relief, salaries, etc.

General school rates, grants, etc.: $11,363.53; 5.4 mills (5.2).

The total of these three rates, which are for the general purposes of the county, the township and schools, chiefly as grants from Otonabee, is 33.4 mills (37.2) a decrease of 3.8 mills from last year.

In addition there are the High School rates:

Peterborough High School district, $18,203.67; 9.8 mills (10.6).

Norwood High School district: $3,086.65; 6.6 mills (13.6).

Trustees' school levies:

Otonabee school area (all but boundary and separate schools): $19,194.68; 10.4 mills (10.5).

Douro school area No. 1: $358.80; 3.7 mills (4).

Douro school area No. 2: $2,318.55; 26 mills (17). This includes the new Coronation school.

Asphodel school area: $472.87; 6.5 mills (2.6).

Separate school No. 8, Keene Road: $2,087.62; 15 mills (12).

Separate School No. 1, Coldsprings, $1,635.33; 30.2 mills; this is the first annual levy for that school.

Separate School No. 17, Warsaw Road, $491.85; 18 mills (18).

School Depentures:

Otonabee School area: $2,792.87; 1.5 mills (1.6).

Douro School are No. 2: $1,061.18; 11.9 mills (12).

Norwood High School debentures: $3,741.40; 8 mills (2.6).

(Norwood board is applying grants to maintenance with a resulting drop in the levy from 13.6 mills last year, as shown above to 6.6 mills; for that reason the debenture requirement is higher, —up from 2.6 mills to 8 mills).

The over-all drop in this school group is 1.6 mills.

The estimated cost of Keene street lights is $556.11; 5.4 mills (6.4.)

Total taxes $132,479; ($139,647.-22).

That amount is made up of county, general township and general school rates, plus the board and trustees' levies and debenture requirements, with an additional item or so.

TOWNSHIP EXPENDITURE

Estimated expenditure in the township general account covering administration, roads and bridges, welfare, indigent patients.

Salaries and allowances, $6,660; Printing, postage advt. etc., $1,150; Elections $300; Township and maintenance $350; Legal costs $100;; Roads and bridges $35,000; Relief and welfare $2,000; Bank charges $1,250; Sheep killed $150; Board of Health $325; Miscellaneous $1,000; Indigent hospitalization $700; Grants $50; Unemployment insurance $70; Fire and liability insurance $365; Provision for uncollected taxes $300; Repairs to township hall $650; Fire protection $1,165. Total $51,525.

Estimates revenue apart from taxes is $28,330. The difference for township purposes to be raised in taxes is $23,195. And as pointed out in the beginning the township requirements (general) represent 10 mills in the 1954 rates, including roads and bridges.

RECEIPTS

Estimated receipts (apart from government grants, licenses, etc.

The new "per capita" grant from the Ontario government, $1.60 for each person in the township, (new this year) —$5.540). Welfare subsidy $1,200; Interest and penalties on taxes $1,000; Licenses, feefs, etc., $600; Dog licenses $1,200; Subsidies on road and bridges $18,490; the provinces pays 50% on roads and 80% on bridges.

Warble fly control revenue, $300. Total estimates revenue other than taxes, $28,330.

Subtract that sum from the total estimated expenditure of $51,525, and the difference to be raised in taxes is $23,195.

And, already pointed out, this sum of $23,195 covers the net general expenditures for the purpose of the township, apart from schools, county and so on. It is raised by 10 mills, two less than last year, providing for roads, bridges, welfare and other items.

Mr. McCarthy reported that this year's rates throughout the municipality show a decrease ranging from 4.8 to 5.8 mills, varying sectionally according to school needs.

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The story of an Easter Sunday rescue of three men from the swift waters of the Trent River at Healey Falls, delayed by the modesty of the participants, came to light here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Meiklejohn of Rylstone were out for a Sunday drive with Mrs. Meiklejohn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gordon of Marmora. They were driving over the Healey Falls bridge, about six miles north-east of town, when they noticed three men and a boat, apparently in difficulty, under the bridge.

One of the three men called for help, and on investigating, Mr. Gordon and Mr. Meiklejohn saw that two of the men were clinging desperately to the girders of the bridge. Meiklejohn and Gordon climbed over the side of the bridge and grasped the two men, and hung on until further help arrived, and the two men were hauled to safety. Meanwhile, the boat with a third man in it had drifted upside down, past the bridge and was being swept toward the dam a few hundred feet away.

By this time, several cars had stopped, and the plight of the man in the capsized boat was noticed.

ROPE FOUND

Someone produced a rope and Mr. Meiklejohn and Mr. Gordon drove hurriedly along a trail beside the river and reached a spot several yards above the dam, beside a cement retaining wall, past which the man and the boat would be swept. At the right moment, when the boat was about 20 feet out from shore, they tossed the rope to the stranded man and he was hauled to safety. The boat, with an outboard motor attached was hauled up on the shore. The three rescued men, who still are unidentified, appeared wet and weary after their ordeal, but otherwise alright.

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Meiklejohn left without learning the names of the three men they had rescued, and they do not believe the three rescued men, who were estimated to be all in their early twenties, knew them.

PONTIFF'S EASTER BLESSING—Pope Pius XII stands on the balcony as he imparts Urbi et Orbi blessing from St. Peter's Basilica at Vatican City. Campbellford Organizes Fourth TB Survey In Area

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Plans are under way for an X-Ray survey of this area to be held in about six weeks time. This will be the fourth time the survey has taken in the Campbellford area. The surveys are spaced four years apart.

The regular chest clinic will be held on May 31, and June 1 and 2. A survey wil be conducted throughout the local high school and industrial concerns on May 27.

A meeting of about 35 chairmen from various parts of Northumberland East was held in Campbellford, when the members received instructions from Mrs. T. W. Hawke of Cobourg, general chairman for the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. The chairmen will in turn instruct their own canvassers in their own districts, on the methods to be used in putting the campaign over.

The survey is made possible through the sale of TB Christmas Seals by the Northumberland and Durham TB Association.

Chairman of the local campaign is William Rothwell, principal of the Campbellford Public School. Forrest R. Dennis of Campbellford is urban assistant for Campbellford, Hastings and Brighton. District survey chairman for Northumberland East is Mrs. Fred Warner of Castleton. All were present at the Campbellford meeting, along with Max Slessor, general publicity chairman of Cobourg.

Mrs. Hawke spoke to the various chairmen, stressing the fact that a complete survey is important. The clinic is absolutely free and it is the duty of every citizen to avail themselves of the opportunity of helping the organization to stamp out TB.

Chuches Unite For Good Friday Service

WARKORTH— (ENS) — Good Friday Service was observed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Friday evening when the Protestant congregations of the village all united in worship.

Although a havy rain was pouring down at the time of service, a good-sized congregation assembled.

The Rev. T. E. Kennedy of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church presided over the service. Hymns suitable for Good Friday were sung and Miss Lois Fowler church organist and St. Andrew's choir led in the singing. The Rev. G. W. Kemp of the Free Methodist Church read the story of the Crucifixion from St. Matthew.

The church choir rendered an appropriate anthem and Mr. C. T. Maycock took the solo part in the anthem.

Following the anthem the Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. Paul's United led in prayer.

The Rev. R. H. Howson of St. John's Anglican Church delivered the sermon, the topic being "The Crucifixion" and "The Last 7 Sayings of Christ."

Atomic Defence Plans Shelved

BONN (AP)—The West German government has shelved all atomic defence plans pending the outcome of close investigation of the "disastrous issues" involved in hydrogen bomb warfare, a civil defence official disclosed today.

The West German interior ministry had drafted a detailed plan for civil defence calling for construction of air raid shelters in all new houses, the rebuilding of 3,000 Second World War giant community shelters, establishment of a big civil defence organization and organization of an effective air raid warning system capable of alarming the West German population against impending enemy attack in a matter of seconds.

This plan will not be handed to parliament before an official German mission has returned from a trip to the United States to study defence against atomic weapons, an official said today.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about:

EXTRA MONEY— would it help you RIGHT NOW?

This is the time of the month when bills come in bunches. Our own experience is that the postman occasionally brings a few too many . . . but there just isn't enough in the pay envelope to cover every bill. If you are in the same fix, then . . . how would you like to get yours cleared away? Well, you can—with a Niagara loan. We've a choice of loan plans at Niagara and many people can borrow up to $1500. Payment plans, up to 24 months, give you time to get back on your feet. Your family is protected because your loan is covered by a life-insurance policy, that costs you not one penny extra. But that's not the only plus you get at Niagara for, if you compare, you'll find that on many amounts our rates are lower. A Niagara loan is a clean-cut way of looking after too many bills instead of just worrying about them. If a Niagara loan would help you put your budget back in shape . . . just drop in or call.

Briton Stands Firm In Battle Of How To Make Mint Julep

LONDON (AP)—A Briton stood firm today in the "battle of the mint julep."

The Daily Mirror columnist "Cassandra" insisted that it can be made with gin—and be called correctly a mint julep.

Cassandra wrote that he, of course, knows that the basic recipe among southern gentlemen calls for bourbon—but he told them not to be so cockshure.

The feud was touched off by an earlier description of a mint julep in the British newspapers as "a gin and sherry, plus sugar and lemon iced." Some American writers upbraided such a defamation of the julep.

Cassandra replied that "the southern gentlemen themselves quarrel bitterly about the mint juleps," explaining:

"Some say that the mint should be chopped. Others that it should be gently torn apart in the fingers. Yet a third school goes apoplectic if the mint is not whole. Another southern academy of drink demans that it be made with old rye whisky or even very dry rum.

"Kentucky barmen fall out among themselves as to how to make the darn thing, and even the great (British poet) Milton refers to the whole tortured business: 'Behold this cordial julep here with spirits of balm and fragrant syrups mixed.'"

Zoning By-Law Proposals

At long last the new zoning by-law is drafted, the by-law essential to the orderly growth of Peterborough and to the Master Plan proposed and publicized in 1947. The delay in bringing the by-law to the people of Peterborough was due in part to the expense of it. According to former Ontario law, every detail of every item had to be brought personally to the attention of every tax-paying citizen and corporation. The cost of doing this was prohibitive. New regulations have been devised, and the columns of this newspaper have been deemed full and sufficient means of publicizing the proposal. Therefore, today, in today's city edition of the Examiner and at a fraction of the cost to the public treasury of the former mandatory method, the detailed and comprehensive document is published.

* * *

Our news story on Saturday explained the purpose and scope of the zoning by-law, as now drafted. We wish to emphasize that every item is not irrevocable. The proposals are subject to change, and opportunities are given interested persons either to suggest alterations or to register objections to any item affecting their own property. Three public hearings are scheduled; thereafter, and upon approval of the Municipal Board in Toronto, the document as then altered will be made law.

* * *

The zoning by-law is absolutely essential to Peterborough, now and in the future. No unnecessary obstacles should be put in the way of its adoption. Without such a by-law a ramshackle future is almost certain to befall the city. The lack of a by-law has been seriously felt in the last seven years, but fortunately the Council and the Planning Board has the guidance of the Master Plan and experts working on the draft of the by-law during these intervening years. So the recent growth of the city has not been as helter-skelter as it would otherwise have been. Now that the by-law is in the citizens' hands, in as nearly perfect shape as the experts after long study could make it, we hope that further delays will be short and few. We repeat: the by-law, all wrapped up in legal form and sitting at the left hand of the city fathers for their aid and guidance from now until Peterborough comes into its future, is absolutely necessary. Without it, Peterborough could become a mess; with it, the place can be a city of good though not rigid order and as fine in its functions as it will be in its apperance. Private property owners can know where they stand [illegible] its potential and industry its scope and limitations, and the Council will have a guide for formulating taxation policies and assessing future development.

A Scientist's Decision

Our readers will have made themselves familiar with the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, whose alleged subversive activity is shortly to be investigated by a joint committee of the U.S. Congress. His case has been brought to public notice, and many charges have been made against him, by Senator Joseph McCarthy and his associates, but it is not the McCarthy committee which will investigate, and this important work will be done in private.

The investigating committee, under Representative Sterling Cole and Senator Hickenlooper, has made its intentions know in moderate terms, and we are sure that Dr. Oppenheimer will have a chance to put forward his point of view. It will be an interesting one, and we hope that enough of what he says will subsequently be made public to give us some notion of the working of a first-rate scientific mind when faced with Dr. Oppenheimer's dilemma. For his situation was a strange and responsible one, and he was called upon to make decisions which few of us, fortunately for ourselves, have to face.

Dr. Oppenheimer advised the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission not to pursue the experimentation which resulted in the production of the hydrogen bomb. He was himself responsible for much of the lead which the U.S.A. took in production of atomic energy. It was his opinion that the energy which was devoted to making a hydrogen bomb might better have been devoted to further atomic research, aimed at the peaceful use of atomic power; he did not believe that the production of a hydrogen bomb was in the public interest. Now, it is easy to be angry with Dr. Oppenheimer, and to say that he tried to persuade his country not to make an extremely powerful weapon of defence, but what would a man of goodwill do when faced with such a decision? Would he urged the making of a terrible weapon useful for only destruction, or would he advise that all means be taken to further a line of investigation which could be of great and peaceful benefit to mankind?

Scientists are not skilled workmen, who do as they are bidden by political leaders. They are, at Dr. Oppenheimer's level, men of powerful intellect, more conscious than we can possibly be of the ultimate consequences of their own scientific work. The decision Dr. Oppenheimer was asked to make was essentially a moral decision, and he put the weight of his influence on the side of peace. Was he right to do so?

Twenty years ago Dr. Oppenheimer had some Communist associations. He says that he quickly discovered the shallowness and hypocrisy of Communist professions of goodwill. But for a time he was interested in Communism, and nowadays that is a thing which sticks to a man. He has also advocated the free exchange of information on atomic matters, for he points out that the basic information on atomic research is already common knowledge, and that secrecy about further research merely slows up the work, and creates an atmosphere of enmity and mistrust. There is much to be said in support of his views.

We must not be quick to condemn Dr. Oppenheimer; we must ask ourselves what we should have done if we knew what he knows, and if we stood in his place.

Parade Of Finery

Toronto's Easter Parade deserted the Sunnyside boardwalk for the pavement of Bloor Street. We do not care where the people paraded, as long as they did. The promenade in Spring finery Easter Sunday is a Good Thing, anywhere, everywhere; Fifth Avenue, Bloor Street, on the beaches of Tahiti, on the Peterborough streets leading to churches. Any occasion that women have—and men, too—to improve on Nature and deck themselves in gay array should be seized generously. When the occasion is the festival of Easter and Spring, there is an especial reason to celebrate with new clothes, a jaunty gait and the prettiest human display possible.

Sartorially, we live dully most of the year. It is a sign of the time that even the colourful Churchill dons a Siren Suit—a shapeless bag of airfree coverall—as a change from striped trousers and morning coat, putting himself conspicuously in the rank-and-file of the workaday world. (What an incongruous name Siren suit is for that shapeless costume.) But Churchill knows the value to eye and spirit of resplendent dress; he also puts on, upon occasion, the gorgeous livery of the Garter. The Easter Parade gives us all an opportunity to escape from drabness, of the winter and of daily routine. What if the hats are crazy, the ties flamboyant, the ornaments giddy? What if the current Fashion be strange as displayed by some of the Easter promenaders? The great thing is that people put on new life with new clothes, joy with a foppish bonnet, and the world takes on zest when people move out to meet her dressed to be looked at.

Since we do not live in Russia, China [illegible] Africa, where either the State frowns if people merely look dressed, or the sun slays if they are, no opportunity should be missed to embellish an event with one's appearance and to refresh one's humanity by outward and visible signs of inward and invisible grace. It is not vain to dress up; doing it is an attempt to flatter Nature and to enjoy pride of place on creation's ladder.

Big Town Stuff

Montreal, the most visited city in Canada is at Easter the most quitted centre in the land. Seven extra trains—and we mean trains, not seven extra coaches on regular runs—were needed to take Montrealers to New York for Easter, and seven extra trains were required to take other decamping Montrealers to Toronto. Tens of thousands of Montrealers fled the city by car, bus and other trains to the Laurentians, the Eastern Townships et al. Were it not merely a holiday exodus one might think the Montrealers were trying to escape high Quebec taxes and the lack of a subway in the metropolis. However, they returned to some good news. A city surplus of six million dollars is anticipated for the year ending on the 30th, according to the corporation's finance department. A place that can accumulate a surplus of six million dollars in one year's budget is a city of no small nature (the total budget runs to a hundred millions dollars.) Harrassed Montreal pedestrians and drivers must wonder if the city has a mean nature, crying as it has done for decades that it cannot afford a subway.

Recognizably Ping-Pong

By JOHN COLE

(Japan, appearing in Europe for the first time, on April 10th, won both the men's Swayling Cup and the women's Corbillion Cup at the Empire Pool, Wembley, London, and thus became the new world table tennis champions.)

A SHORT-SIGHTED visitor standing in the cool shadows, far above the row of brightly-lit green tables, might have believed that he was gazing into the heart of a strange casino or upon a sprightly variant of chess.

✧ ✧ ✧

TABLE TENNIS (the name Ping-Pong had to be dropped, since it was a registered trade name) on the highest level is an earnest business, demanding fitness and devotion. At Wembley, this earnestness has produced nice incongruities: A determined, redheaded gentleman from Central Europe, wearing a sensible green hairnet; a gigantic Yugoslav in a felt scrumcap with transparent peak, intent upon a rather pit-pat game with an ascetic-looking Swiss; a solid Portuguese, in red from neck to heel, hopping in perplexity before a darting, slashing Japanese, who beamed and bowed to the gentle fluting of his lady supporters; there were saris, short shorts, springy shoes, track suits of many colours and, among the spectators, a sad-faced intellectual in the uniform of an early Russian revolutionary.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT WAS obvious from the start that the Japanese were going to be hard to beat; their power and accuracy with the old-fashioned penholder grip (the racket held vertically instead of horizontally, the handle uppermost and gripped between thumb and fore-finger) was astonishing. It was somehow unexpected and reassuring to see the young Japanese men sweating and showing emotion freely as they played; complete Oriental calm, combined with such dashing skill, might have been unnerving.

Despite the brilliance, the game played at Wembley has been recognizable as the Ping-Pong most of us have played.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE dedicated internationalism of the World Table Tennis Championships has been shadowed by one curious menace — rubber sponge. Some say the sponge-faced racket, used by perhaps a dozen competitors (two of them Japanese) at Wembley, will ruin the game; the subject is being brought before the Congress of the International Table Tennis Federation today.

✧ ✧ ✧

SPONGE gives tremendous spin and, as might be expected, brings a quiet sogginess to the play. But table tennis — indeed real tennis and most of its derivatives—can be played with any sort of racket, doctored in any sort of way. The rule is likely to remain. "This sponge," said the Hon. Ivor Montagu, President of the I.T.T.F., speaking just before the present championships began. "It's going to be a test of character — some lose their heads and get cross."

Apparently the best way to combat sponge is to use a wooden-faced racket, since wood neutralises spin. "They made that great discovery in about 1900," remarked Mr. Montagu. Warming to the subject of implements, he went on to recall how he once played lawn tennis with a racket as broad as it was long. "It was against a Davis Cup player called C. P. Dixon — I don't know if you remember him? We had a good match. He won 6-3, 6-3."

MR. MONTAGU is also chairman of the English Table Tennis Association, hosts for the championships. He is a large, fairly untidy figure, with a loud laugh, whose unruly dark hair is likely to be seen emerging from beneath an elderly beret. His interests seem always to concern things that are very small or very large. Apart from table tennis, he is passionately fond of small mammals.

He is also a Communist and a member of the World Peace Council secretariat; this has no doubt helped to enlarge the international span of table tennis. Since the war, world championships have been held in [illegible] but not yet in Moscow, because Russia was elected to the International Federation only last week. She had four observers at the Federation's Congress. It was Mr. Montagu who persuaded Communist China to join the I.T.T.F. "They entered most promptly for these championships," said Mr. Montagu, "but at the last moment couldn't come. They sent a very nice letter about it, though."

THE TABLE TENNIS associations of 33 countries have been competing at Wembley, with ages ranging from 15 to nearly 50. East and West Germany played together in the same team; Vietnam was unable to come, "owing to unforseen circumstances"; a South Korean entry came too late to be included. Africa's Table Tennis Union is banned from World Championships because it has a colour bar.

In conversation Mr. Montagu is constantly making an effort to avoid bringing up politics into his beloved game; it is not easy. "Off the record of course," he will say. "... I don't want to make a political point of it." And of his relations, when travelling on behalf of table tennis, with some of the larger countries of the West: "They let me in when they know I'm a sportsman. These countries always let me in. The other day I had a bit of trouble at first with France. Do you remember?"

✧ ✧ ✧

TABLE TENNIS swept the world at the [illegible] died, the reason being that the game then had only limited possibilities, with the implements of the day (particularly the vellum-faced, banjo-like racket), it was impossible to have varied control over the ball. The pimpled rubber facing (introduced by an enthusiast who got the idea from a chemist's cash mat) on a wooden racket revived the game by providing a variety of tactics and ball control — over-spin, under-spin, flick, and so on.

As a boy Mr. Montagu—"an average club rabbit," according to an expert: he has never got through a round in national championships — played table tennis on a Queen Anne table at home. Feeling himself to be rather good, he organised table tennis at Cambridge, the first tournament there being won by a chess Blue, who beat a lawn tennis Blue in the final. In the twenties Montagu played a considerable part in drafting the constitution of the E.T.T.A., which had an impressive list of rules and regulations. In 1927 19 leagues belonged to the E.T.T.A.; in 1952-53 there were 341 leagues, 8,000 clubs, and 170,000 members.

THE I.T.T.F. was founded in 1927. Mr. Montagu, who again played a leading part, persuaded his mother, the Dowager Lady Swaythling, to present the Swaythling Cup (she is now president of the E.T.T.A.) The fact that the associations of Germany and Japan for instance have 324,000 and [illegible] or the size of the I.T.T.F.: table tennis is, after basketball, the most popular game in China. One of the attractions is, of course, its cheapness.

The I.T.T.F. does not recognize any distinction between professionals and amateurs. Perhaps half a dozen Englishmen and not more than a dozen players from the rest of the world make a living entirely from table tennis. Many offset expenses by coaching exhibitions, journalism, or advertising, but no one may take money from competitions.

Mr. Montagu is the somewhat eccentric leading figure of one of the world's youngest and most important sports. The outlook does not trouble him: "If people have the guts," he says, "they will beat this sponge."

An American Opinion: MAGICAL REVELATION

Help For Wandering Scholar

By NORA BELOFF

THE world's first international currency bills, printed in tender pastel shades of turquoise, mauve and lemon, have gone into circulation from the headquarters of the United Nations Economic, Social and Cultural Organisation.

They represent, respectively, the equivalent of ten, twenty-five and one hundred dollars, and are exclusively for the use of intellectuals. Unfortunately for the rest of humanity, the idea is not to replace the countless international bills and coins which put such a strain on the traveller's honesty and arithmetical talents, but — much more modestly — only to help wandering scholars jump over currency hurdles.

Through the ages, writers and artists have always felt the need to roam around, exchanging ideas and acquiring fresh inspiration. It is therefore only appropriate that Unesco, dedicated to stimulate the "free flow of thought," has tackled the relatively new obstacle to their movements represented by non-transferable currencies.

It will be up to the voyager to find the funds. Unesco steps in only by selling him travellers' cheques which he can pay for in his own currency and cash abroad. He must first prove to his national allocating agency that he is travelling for culture, scientific or educational purposes, and not for business or pleasure.

Unesco can afford to guarantee the transferability of soft currencies into hard, being in the enviable position of having large hard currency revenues from the United States and few hard currency expenses Most of its budget is spent either at headquarters in Paris or in the "underdeveloped" and illiterate member States. That is why it has already felt strong enough to issue notes to a total value of four hundred thousand dollars. This sum represents only the first slice of a much bigger amount.

Despite Unesco's dollar assets, most of the soft currency countries, and particularly Britain, are still fighting shy of even the smallest concessions for reducing their direct control over foreign exchange. Only eight of them have joined the U.S., Canada and Switzerland as founder members. These are France, the three Associated States of Indo-China, the Netherlands, Uruguay and El Salvador; with Israel as the sole representative of the sterling bloc. In this odd assortment of countries, the wandering scholar comes back to his own.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the hearts... The robbery of the wicked shall destroy them; because they refuse to do judgement (Prov. 21:2, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The way of the wicked is as darkness: they know not at what they stumble... Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life... Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee. Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be established. (Prov. 4:19, 23, 25, 26.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth . . . Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds: and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him who created him. (Col. 3:2, 9, 10.)

Letter To The Editor

SAYS SAM IS SILLY

SIR: I am writing concerning the letter on April 13 by the prejudiced person who calls himself "Nosret Sam." This person objects violently to what he terms the "bold-faced exposition of ladies' dainty underthings in local shop-windows."

Does "Nosret Sam" think he is still living in the middle ages? The stores which display these feminine accoutrements derive their main sustenance from the selling of such articles. Why shouldn't they display them? Would "Nosret Sam" expect a grocery store to display bicycles? The fact that an odd male finds such displays repugnant should be no reason to ban them. Women shoppers find these displays as useful as any other type of advertisements.

I have yet to see a masculine companion of mine embarrassed by such advertisements. On the contrary, many men ogle them.

"Nosret Sam" claims to be embarrassed by having to examine these window displays. I do not know why he would be required to study them. A wife, if she has to send her husband to purchase any such article, would give specific instructions which would not require his judgement.

Advertising of this type is not limited to the feminine side of the story. All of us girls are familiar with the picture of a handsome brute advocating physical culture. Also many stores have masculine displays of a similar nature as "Nosret Sam" complains about; why didn't he mention these? Obviously "Sam" can see from a masculine view point how silly such complaints would be. From a feminine view his complaints are [illegible]

I am sure "Nosret Sam" does not speak for the entire male factor. From time to time cranks, such as he, pop up in this fair city. His view points have obviously retrograded to such an extent as to make him a person of another age. Hereupon we find the real break-down of civilization caused by such a person as "Nosret Sam." Such people's mental faculties cannot keep up to the ever increasing pace of the modern world. The rest of us are burdened with the carrying of these people.

"Nosret Sam" complains about the abuse of the rights to advertise. Yet, he would put an unfair and unjust ban upon advertising.

Yours truly,
"PUELLA PRUDENS."

Gov't Should Have Extended Unemployment Insurance

Before going on their Easter vacations, the members of the federal cabinet should have extended the payment of supplementary unemployment insurance benefits beyond the mid-April deadline, Leslie Wismer, director or research for the Trades and Labor Congress told a public meeting in the CCL labor centre Monday night.

He said that a joint delegation representing the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor had gone to see the federal cabinet on February 11 regarding the current unemployment situation.

Among other recommendations, they had asked for an extension of supplementary benefits to people who would be receiving their last payments from the unemployment insurance fund this week. They had suggested that the money should come from the consolidated revenue fund and paid through the machinery of the National Employment Service, "because it was the easiest and cheapest way to look after those people."

Mr. Wismer said Prime Minister St. Laurent had gone south on a vacation after a session in which parliament had voted themselves an increase in sessional indemnities.

"Whatever the prime minister's job is worth, he doesn't have to worry about where his bread and butter is coming from," Mr. Wismer charged. "Parliament could easily have extended those benefits to some 20,000 people before going on their Easter vacation. That would have been a Christian act.

"It wouldn't be unfair to those people who are still entitled to benefits from the fund. The greatest thing in an industrial economy is to keep the wheels moving. The worst thing is to let them stop. If they do, that's when it's hard to get them started again.

"I'm not trying to paint a gloomy picture; but the great powers that rest in the federal government are the easiest way to maintain the circulation of money."

OFFICIAL BACKING

When the delegation had told the government that there were 550,000 unemployed on February 11, the cabinet had said they were wrong, but official figures now showed that there had been 558,000 unemployed at the time. Mr. Wismer said there were now 600,000 unemployed "at a rough estimate."

Although he understood that, with "great good luck" there was very little unemployment in Peterborough, there were "thousands and thousands of highly skilled workers" with nothing to do elsewhere in Canada.

Of the recommendations made to the cabinet, the most important was to have certain adjustments made in the Unemployment Insurance Act, which he termed "one of the soundest unemployment insurance plans working anywhere in the world."

"It doesn't involve charity; it is financially sound and it is one of the most important social devices in this country because it maintains individual income when employment disappears," he said.

Of the three contributors to the fund, the employer matched the payments of the worker and the government added 20 per cent of that total for administrative expenses.

"There are still people in this country who think it would be a good thing if they didn't have to contribute. If you run into them, tell them that was all thrashed out 30 years ago by the labor movement when they were trying to get this legislation."

Mr. Wismer said that in 1933 or 1934 the then prime minister, R. B. Bennett had changed his attitude towards labor completely and the machinery for unemployment insurance was set up. But when the Mackenzie King government came to power in 1935, the legislation was sent to the Supreme Court who declared it unconstitutional.

WARTIME SHORTAGE

It wasn't until 1940 when the war-time labor shortage gave organized labor bargaining power in Ottawa, that Mr. King realized the necessity for it and had the British North America Act amended.

Basically, it was the best legislation in the world, but 13 years of experience had shown there had to be some changes in it.

"There is $1,300 million in the fund; that's our money," he said. "It belongs to the people who paid it in—nearly $900 million of it."

Labor wanted unemployment insurance coverage extended to cover such people as those who worked in hospitals. They also wanted payments to cover the five-day waiting period, just as with Workmen's Compensation. Mr. Wismer was satisfied that there was enough money in the fund to cover these payments.

Labor also wanted an increase in the benefit categories. People in the middle categories now got a higher percentage of their pay, two-thirds, than people earning more while employed. The highest payment made was $24; so a person whose working wage was $80 a week would get only 30 per cent of that if unemployed.

"We have never asked to have these benefits raised without raising the contributions," Mr. Wismer emphasized.

The labor movement had persuaded the government to study seasonal employment with a view to reducing it, he said. They wanted to ensure the highest possible level of employment and at the same time amend the Unemployment Insurance Act to see that there would be adequate benefits in times of low employment.

"This act wasn't given to the workers by any benevolent government," he said. "It was the product of the work of labor organizations; it was fought for. We wanted a say in it; it was our money.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

"We believed the advisory committee on unemployment insurance existed to see the act was administered effectively and advantageously; but on February 11 we found the advisory committee was no longer expected to advise.

"Inside the holy of holies is another committee which advises what amending is to be done. The advisory committee is expected to act on their advice. Whoever dreamed that up is wrong, because the 20 per cent the government puts up should in no way give them the authority they have taken from the two big contributors.

"This is a withdrawal of power from one place to another and we've got a job on our hands to sort it out. I believe we can persuade the people the fund is theirs and you want a real say in it.

"I'm not talking about the insurance branch or the employment branch of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. I'm talking about a government that has set up a small interdepartmental committee to form policy without consulting the representatives of labor or management.

"We are trying to persuade the government that parliament should have seen to it this session and that it should be done not later than the next session so that we can use our money to help ourselves."

HELD IN BONDS

In answer to one of several questions, Mr. Wismer said about $700 million of the insurance fund was in bonds.

"I wouldn't say the government was afraid to increase the benefits because of this. The fund is a great stabilized of the economy. I'm not prepared to say the government wouldn't release it; but they keep a very close eye on the fund because of its bond-buying power."

Mr. Wismer said the information of the Trades and Labor Congress was that the Unemployment Insurance Commission was "disposed" to grant benefits in time of sickness but the government had sai dthis would be unconstitutional.

They had gone to one of the senior constitutional lawyers in Canada who said it could be done. The government "were hard put to argue against this opinion" but they had not changed their stand.

"This fund can't go broke no matter how much unemployment we have in Canada," Mr. Wismer said.

As to their recommendation for a housing policy, both congresses had made approximately the same suggestions to the banking and commerce committee: no down payment and a minimum period of 40 years for repayment.

Mr. Wismer agreed that if employment were higher, federal taxes could be cut. Finance Minister Abbott based his taxes on his estimates of production, Mr. Wismer said, and if production were higher, the increase in revenue would allow a cut in taxes.

Spring Rotation Of Troops Nearly Finished

IN KOREA (CP)—The spring rotation of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, involving more than 8,000 troops, is nearly complete.

During Easter week-end the 4th Battalion, Canadian Guards, replaced the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, in the Canadian sector along the truce zone.

Late last month, the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, succeeded the 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. The 2nd Battalion, Black Watch, replaced the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, last November and is not due home until this fall.

Other elements arriving in Korea with the guards were No. 3 Transport Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps; 3rd Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps; 42nd Infantry Workshop, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

Still to come in two more ships are the 3rd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery—its advance party arrived with the guards—and "D" Squadron, Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Legion Re-elects Lou Durkin

Lou Durkin was re-installed as president of Canadian Legion branch 52, at the annual meeting of the local branch, Monday evening. McIntyre Hood, of Oshawa, chairman of public relations for the provincial command, performed the installation, assisted by Frank Grant, Bill Beaton and Jim Lovall, all of Oshawa.

Other exceutive installed were: 1st vice-president, Claire Stuart; 2nd vice-president, Leo Herr; secret'y-treasurer, Hurrell Dodds; sergeant-at-arms, Mike Gahagan; padre, the Rev. A. E. Larke and, committee chairman: Clare Stuart, Leo Herr, Eric Hogg, Robert Corp, Harry Kelsey, Pete Castle, Jim Marchen, Albert Mason, and Bud Beven.

More important than the occasional paragraph in a newspaper, is the protection of the good name of a legion branch, said Mr. McIntyre, concerning the public relation program. "Your branch's name should always be kept above reproach and all its activities conducted so that no one has a grievance. We (Canadian Legionnaires) stand alone as the one institution to safeguard the rights, privileges, and needs of those who served their country, and the right of their widows and their dependents."

HELPED ORGANIZATION

Mr. Hood explained how, since the legion's birth in 1925 when a group including himself gathered in Winnipeg, the Canadian veteran's status had grown to the highest in the world.

"Because of the work of the legion, this country has the finest veteran's pension system and rehabilitation facilities in the world and the legion has fought all the battles for the veterans and their dependents."

He commented on the high regard in which the Peterborough branch is held, and encouraged the new executive to do all in its power to retain the traditions of the past.

District commander, John W. (Scotty) Broughton, of Brighton thanked Mr. Hood, not only for his installation duties, but for his continual efforts since the beginning of the legion. He asked the assembly to do all in their power to aid the membership drive, stating that only 16 per cent of potential membership in Ontario was presently registered, and this small group was carrying the whole responsibility of the provincial organization.

Mr. Broughton also presented Mrs. Jessie Ayres with a medal recently awarded her for duties rendered during The First World War. The loudest applause of the night followed the presentation of the award to the humble lady.

Zone commanders present were: Stan Dunn, of Bowmanville, Bill Coltergohn, of Trenton, Len Taylor, of Tweed, and Mel Hamblin, of Norwood.

Armistice Would Give Indo-China To Reds

LONDON (Reuters)—Australian External Affairs Minister R. G. Casey said on arrival here Monday that an armistice in Indo-China "would mean the almost immediate handing over of Indo-China to the Communists."

Casey, who is here for talks with Foreign Secretary Eden, State Secretary Dulles and French Foreign Minister Bidault, added that "the retention of Southeast Asia in general and Indo-China in particular in non-Communist hands is of great importance to Europe."

Four-Month School For Minor Ball Suggested For City

A summer-long baseball school for Peterborough boys was suggested here Monday by Bill Sisler of the Philadelphia organization in the National Baseball League. The former major league hurler, with Cleveland and later the Phillies, is spending the week here to see if local interests will back him on the project.

Yesterday he met with various sports' officials, including the president and vice-president of the senior Petes, Hugh Campbell and Max Swanston, as well as members of the press and radio, and other interested persons such as Dit Clapper and Curly Alberico. Also he met twice with the director of recreation for the city, Ken Robinson, and later will present Sisler's suggestions at a meeting tonight of the Recreation Commission.

TEACHER AND SCOUT

The former major leaguer is now a baseball teacher and scout for Bob Carpenter's Phillies. This would be his fourth summer-long training school if the idea is adopted here. He selected Peterborough as more or less "virgin territory" in baseball in Ontario, a growing centre not too close to such well-scouted areas as Montreal, Toronto, Windsor, Hamilton and Ottawa.

"Here's the setup," he explained. "I would be ready to start in right away organizing minor baseball and would stay on right through till about Sept. 10. I'd train boys from about nine years of age up to 18, five afternoons a week from one p.m. till four o'clock or later. All boys would receive equal time and training, and would have their full share of actual playing later in competition once they had learned the fundamentals of the game . I would take care of all the necessary equipment, and would arrange bus trips from time to time for the boys to see pro players in action."

SALARY OF $2,000

Paid for his scouting by the Phillies, Mr. Sisler asks $2,000 salary here for the complete season, to be paid in bi-monthly installments. He stated that the boys would supply their own gloves and he would seek to get them at reduced prices through sporting goods stores. Most other equipment, such as bats and balls, he felt could be obtained through the Ontario Athletic Commission. He emphasized that the boys' all-around training would be taken care of when under his teaching—as he felt such a training program would be of great aid in combating juvenile delinquency among teen-aged boys.

Those who heard the Sisler project outlined were quite enthusiastic, feeling that it would be a good thing for the city's youth, and would do a great deal to promote this summer sport. The only problem appearing was the sum of $2,000 to keep Bill Sisler here for the summer. Both Hugh Campbell and Max Swanston thought this money should be raised somehow, and Ken Robinson thought the first step should be the sanction of the Recreation Commission to conduct the four-months' school in Riverside Park. This will be dealt with at a commission meeting tonight. Ways and means then would be discussed to raise the required sum.

Ask Cup Final Begin On Wednesday

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has asked that the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions start the eastern Canada Memorial Cup final in Quebec Wednesday night.

Quebec Frontenacs, one of the eastern Canada finalists, have been ready to play for several days but the series couldn't start because the OHA hasn't declared a champion.

Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines TeePees are tied 3-3 in their best-of-seven OHA final. The seventh game is in St. Catharines today.

Marlboros have agreed to start the eastern final against the Frontenacs in Quebec City Wednesday if they win today. But it is reported the TeePees will demand more time if they win.

MAY CRIMP PLANS

Another crimp in the plans is that the OHA might not decide a winner today. The plans are to have one 10-minute overtime period if the TeePees and Marlboros are tied after regulation time. If they are still tied after the overtime, an eighth game will be played in Toronto Wednesday.

W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., CAHA president, said TeePees would not be compelled to open the series in Quebec Wednesday if they defeat Marlboros today. He said if the TeePees insist on more time the first two games in Quebec will be played Friday and Saturday.

If Marlboros win today the eastern final will start in Quebec Wednesday with the second game there Friday.

Kenora Thistles Have High Praise

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Kenora Thistles arrived back in Canada Monday with praise for the opposition they met during their hockey tour of Japan.

It was no picnic for the Thistles, who lost weight while playing a tough schedule of 10 games in 12 nights. They won all 10—the easiest by a 23-1 margin and the closest a 4-2 affair.

"Those Japanese players are small and fast skaters," said Murray Robertson, one of four brothers on the team. "Give them a year or two and they'll be ready for world championship competition."

All four Robertsons work for the Canadian Pacific Railway. Murray, a left-winger, and tied with Ray Westlund as top-scorer on the Thistles, is a yard foreman.

Ken (Sugar), captain, is a carman; Don (Spike), coach is a conductor and Sam, a defenceman, is a Morse operator.

LOTS OF SLASHING

"The Japanese coaches did a lot of slashing during the first games," Murray said. "They picked it up from a New York club, the Three-M's, which toured Japan a year ago. We didn't bodycheck at all for the first eight games, then we called a meeting of coaches."

Spike took up the tale:

"We told them to cut out the slashing or we would start bodychecking. They told us to go ahead."

So, in the ninth game of their 10-game tour, the Thistles began bouncing the lighter Japanese players into the crowd.

"That 10th game was certainly a nice, polite game. Good hockey," Murray said.

He said the Japanese were playing hockey of intermediate B calibre.

Thistles, Canadian intermediate A champs for 1952-53, made the tour under the auspices of the Japanese Figure Skating Club and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

At the OASA annual meeting in North Bay last week, Secretary Frank Feaver said the extent of softball injuries was amazing. They ranged from broken teeth and fingers to fractured skulls and spines, as well as the odd broken limb. The association provided a group insurance policy, and 3,924 players paid the dollar a year premium. A total of 114 claims were paid by the insurance company, amounting to $4,784. Thus it can be seen that the company didn't make any dough on the deal. Time was when softball generally was regarded pretty much as a girl's game or an older athlete's pastime, but nowadays husky and hustling young fellows play it as hard as they can... It's no sissy sport as played today.

* * * * * *

This writer as a kid broke into softball in the off months when the old indoor softball loop operated in the Armouries. Played for genial Sam Calladine a season or two. Some real older players performed in the circuit, including COBL senior ballisters. We recall Benny McLean, Cy Hopkins, Herb Wolff, Shag Shaughnessy, Shrimp McDougall and many more. They played outdoors in the summer and girls' softball started around about that time here, the lasses' games being in front of the Armouries at first. Men's softball bloomed for a lengthy spell on Central School grounds ere moving to the present Bowl. Girls' softball folded here last summer, and prospects don't appear bright at the moment for a revival this semester.

Oshawa Sends Regrets

Scribe George Campbell of Oshawa points out that it wouldn't be wise financially to have two senior baseball teams going in the Motor City this season. Then he adds: "On the other hand, with such men as Hugh Campbell, Max Swanston, Dit Clapper and other prominent sportsmen behind the new senior ball club in Peterborough, it looks as if senior ball will be brought back there. Belleville is hot for a baseball revival also, as is Kingston. It might well be that the famous Central Ontario Baseball League is due for a glorious comeback. It's about time for the cycle to return and we regret that Oshawa is not going to be represented in the old stamping ground." Well, George, your Transporters would be welcome in the COBL, which meets this eve.

As written up elsewhere, Bill Sisler of the Phillies is here and wants to run a four-month school for minor baseball in Peterborough. To go five afternoons a week in Riverside from one to four p.m., the training project to include teaching fundamentals for boys nine to 18 years of age, actual games and some trips to see pro players in action. A former major league hurler, Sisler says he doesn't go for these three-day or one-week schools put on by other big league clubs. They're just held to scout local talent and buzz off. The Phillies four years ago okayed his running of these summer-long schools, Bill of course also keeping his eye out for future pro material for Phillies.

Supervising The Kids

The idea is very sound and would be a fine thing both for minor ball here and in combatting juvenile delinquency among youths in the summer months. We have a good minor lacrosse setup and some minor ball going, but this would be a real supervised effort throughout. We expect the Recreation Commission to approve the plan, but can't expect them to put up the $2,000 pay asked by Bill Sisler for his summer's work. Some of the senior ball officials are interested, and mayhap someone will come up with an idea on how to raise this sum — surely not a fortune to raise for a good cause. And kids' welfare is a good cause. Bill will be here this week awaiting a green light on the job. We hope it clicks. As Max Swanston said yesterday: "If we only had had such a training program when we were learning the game."

OMHA issues a bulletin listing the 15 minor puck winners in provincial competition for the past season, ranging from bantam "D" up to juvenile "A". None of the teams from around this area came through, though Peterborough Shamrocks were finalists in midget "A", losing to the championship Toronto Marlboros in a keen series. The various champs are receiving OMHA crests, and it hoped to supply crests to runners-up, as well. The Ontario association did a fine job the past lengthy puck season, Al Watkins being the Peterborough executive member, and so did the PMHA at Civic Arena. Entries for next season already are being accepted by the OMHA.

LOL No. 12 won both games from Fire Hall No. 10 by scores of 14-7 and 16-6. In the first game, they had to come from behind and go on to win by capturing the last four ends. Legion No. 5 won a 12-8 game from Fire Hall No. 4. Then No. 4 won a close 13-11 game from No. 5. Legion No. 9 swept to two close victories over Legion No. 7 by scores of 10-9 and 8-6. Post Office No. 14 defaulted to Legion No. 3. Red Patch No. 13 swept to two victories over Glens No. 6. The scores were 20-6 and 18-9.

CLOSE PLAY

The postponed game of Lawn Boys No. 2 and Fire Hall No. 14 resulted in a split, No. 10 taking the first game 16-7. Then No. 2 won the second 19-7. There is still the game between LOL No. 12 and Orphans No. 8 and should be played at once as next week is the last week of the schedule.

The doubles draw for Wednesday, April 21, is the semi-finals and both games go at 8 p.m. sharp.

Team No. 7 (Nice and Gimblett) vs. Team No. 25 (Cummings and Moynes). Team No. 23 (Robinson and Ralston) vs. Team No. 22 (Bromley and Metcalf).

The doubles reults for last week are: Team No. 7 (Nice and Gimblett) won two straight from Team No. 12 (Nelson and Douglas) by scores of 14-0 and 6-3.

Team No. 23 (Robinson and Ralston) also eliminated Team No. 21 (Irwin and Bloom) in two straight games by scores of 7-4 and 8-7. The second game was close and a big three end meant a victory for No. 23 as No. 21 fell one short of deadlocking it in the final frame. Team No. 31 (Hicks and Lundy) were eliminated in two straight by Team No. 25 (Cummings and Moynes) by scores of 8-5 and 10-1. The last was almost a blank but No. 31 managed to score their single in the final end to do away with that.

Team No. 22 (Bromley and Metcalf) won the first game 12-4. The second game went to their opponents, Team No. 15 (Roberts and Joyce) by a 10-4 score. The third and deciding game was a nip-and-tuck affair all the way with No. 22 finally winning 8-6.

NO LATE REPORT

There has been no further report on the president cup playdowns. These games should be played at once.

The Easter hamper draw was won by Gloria Douglas, of Waterloo. Skips having cups and shields should turn same in to Elsie Bennett at once so that the new winners' names may be inscribed thereon for presentation at the banquet.

Rugged Match Assured With Duseks In Action

The Dusek Riot Squad, Emil and Ernie, will oppose the team of Ilio DiPaolo and Ray Villmer in the tag team wrestling feature at the Brock Arena on Wednesday night.

Those Dusek Brothers from Nebraska are among the roughest and most dangerous duos in wrestling. They'll have to be all that and then some to escape unscathed against such a capable combination as DiPaolo, the Italian champion, and Villmer, the human buzz-saw.

There is never a dull moment when the Duseks are in action and with Villmer and DiPaolo opposing them, a hectic battle is in store for the fans.

Johnny Barend will meet Toar Morgan in the semi-final; Mike Paidousis will test Johnny Harmon in the first set-to.

TWO OF A KIND — There may be stronger clubs in the National League than the Phillies, but none figures to have better pitching than that of Curt Simmons, left, and Robin Roberts.

Finn Wins Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Finland's Veikko Karvonen, a runner with a long memory, relaxed happily today after squaring accounts with Britain's Jimmy Peters.

The 27-year-old Finnish mail clerk defeated Peters, holder of the unofficial world record for the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon grind—by 800 yards Monday while winning the 58th Boston marathon.

Only last October Karvonen finished second to the 35-year-old London optician's assistant as Peters set his world mark of 2:18:34.5 right in the Finn's home town of Turku. Karvonen suffered a humiliating loss as he trailed Peters in that test by more than a mile.

STRIDE FOR STRIDE

On Monday, Karvonen raced stride for stride with Peters through most of the distance, then moved in front for good on the tortuous stretch of "heartbreak hill," some eight miles from home.

His winning time of 2:20:39 wasn't as swift as his 2:19:19 effort here in 1953, when the runners had a brisk tail wind.

More than 500,000 persons lined the course in 68-degree temperatures.

Finland added lustre to its racing honors as Erkki Puolakka, a 28-year-old paper mill foreman, and current Finnish champion, finished third in 2:24:25.

The chief hope for an American victory, 23-year-old collegian John J. Kelley of Boston University, was seventh behind Japanese and Argentine runners.

Best of the Canadian entries was Toronto's George Norman, who was 14th. Andrew Nicol, a navy man from Ontario, was 89th.

Point Anne Gets 7-6 Win Over Marmora In TVL Tilt

MARMORA (ENS) The fifth game between Marmora and Point Anne in the Trent Valley finals played at the Memorial Arena, Belleville on Monday evening resulted in honors going to Point Anne by the score of 7-6. The game was judged the best of the series thus far, each team thrilling their supporters with bright bursts of play. Point Anne pressed for the first half of the initial period and opened the scoring within five minutes of play but in the second half the venue changed and Marmora drove home two goals on individual efforts.

The second period saw Killian having more shots to contend with than Bates and after Lavender had put his team two goals up, Point Anne got a trio to take the lead again. In the third they scored a further goal at 1:24 and then for the next four minutes, the visiting fans became hilarious as their team again took the lead through a scoring splurge. Then in less than a minute Point Anne equalized and at 15:20 in the period got their last and deciding goal.

Only six penalties marked the game which was clean. The paid atendance was 1,075. The next game is at Marmora on Wednesday evening and if a seventh becomes necessary it will be played in Belleville on Friday.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Nostalgic veterans of the sports world, which is well populated with such folk, frequently lament that in no sport do the moderns equal those of another era, for physical ruggedness, durability, and such indestructible qualities.

The modern streamlined hockey with its fast player-changes is frequently made a case to prove the point, and the absence of the old 60-minute player is mourned in floods of bathos. The platoon system of football is criticized as producing a breed of specialists. Even the horses, moan these relics of another sports age, don't run so fast as formerly.

But most of all, these folk point to modern boxing, with its limited rounds, as a sport that has grown soft. They lament the days of the fight-to-the finish, of ferocity, violence, when contestants showed stamina and the ability to withstand punishment. And, if that is true, we're very glad indeed that things have changed.

After Battling Nelson, the shell of a once-great athlete with the durability traditional of those rugged days of sport died in complete poverty, we dug into some ancient files to refresh our memory on some of the Durable Dane's major battles, particularly his long and vicious fight with Ad. Wolgast for the lightweight crown which Nelson then held.

And in our search we came across a newspaper account of the fight, which reported that it was "one of the most gruesome, merciless, heart-throbbing, vicious battles of all time and although Wolgast won he would never be himself again."

Nelson, so the story said, proved a punching bag for the young German from Cadillac, Mich. "Nelson took a merciless pounding and after the fight his body and face showed he had undergone a terrible ordeal." Nelson was declared loser by knockout in the 40th round. He was still on his feet, but blinded by his own blood, streaming down his face.

And truly enough, as the writer forecast, Wolgast was never quite the same afterwards. He is now spending his declining days in an insane asylum, living in the hazy memories of his great days, and training for the "fight of tomorrow" that his punch-wrecked brain envisions.

That was a fight, so we take it, typical of the era for which nostalgic fistic veterans sometimes mourn. Doubtless there were athletes of great courage in those days, but not more so than today, in the fights of limited rounds, where the accent is on skill and speed, if less on the durability.

Chicago White Sox Team Topples Detroit 5-1, Brooklyn Clubs Phillies

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league pennant races are away to one of the closest starts in recent seasons. No team has jumped off to a winning streak. No team has fallen far behind.

Compared with the first week of the 1953 season the standings have undergone considerable juggling, particularly in the American League.

Detroit is leading the American by half a game over Washington. A year ago the Tigers were last, four games behind old St. Louis Browns, and Washington was seventh. Cincinnati, co-leader with Philadelphia in the National, was seventh last year at the end of the first week while the Phils were tied for third.

Neither Brooklyn nor New York Yankees, top-heavy choices to repeat their 1953 triumphs, have been able to match their first-week pace of last season.

LEADERS LOSE

The leaders all lost Monday. Detroit was toppled by Chicago White Sox 5-1, Cincinnati bowed to St. Louis 6-3 and the Phillies were clubbed by Brooklyn, 9-7.

In other action the Yankees split a pair with the Red Sox in Boston, losing 2-1 in the morning and winning 5-0 in the afternoon on a brilliant one-hitter by Jim McDonald. Washington shaded Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 on Eddie Yost's ninth-inning home run. Pittsburgh beat New York Giants 7-5. Baltimore and Cleveland in the American League and Milwaukee and Chicago Cubs in the National weren't scheduled.

BEST OF CAREER

McDonald's performance against the Red Sox was the best of his career. He walked five but struck out four and the only safety he allowed was a second-inning single by rookie Harry Agganis. Mickey Mantle struck out four times in the morning contest, batting left-handed but hit a home run right-handed, his first of the season, in the afterpiece.

Jackie Robinson was the hitting star in Brooklyn's triumph over the Phillies. He broke a 5-5 tie with a home run in the seventh inning and finished the night with a four-for-four performance.

Successive homers by Stan Musial and Ray Jablonski in the sixth inning helped Harvey Haddix win his first game for St. Louis, though he needed help in the ninth.

All Senior B Finals Played In Simcoe

SIMCOE (CP)—All games in the Ontario Hockey Association senior B finals between Simcoe Gunners and Oshawa Truckmen will be played here, starting Wednesday night, Gunners officials said Monday.

The Simcoe team has been idle since last Tuesday when it won over Woodstock Athletics in four straight games in the semi-finals.

Oshawa has been using ice at Kingston and Bowmanville since its own arena was destroyed by fire last fall. Truckmen won their semi-final series with Stouffville Clippers 4-2.

International League Opens Ball Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The venerable International Baseball League opens its 154-game schedule today in Richmond, Va., one of its two new member cities, and Havana, Cuba, in its new member country.

The Sugar Kings, as the Havana club will be known, play Toronto Maple Leafs, and the Virginians entertain Rochester Red Wings. The rest of the teams open Wednesday with Montreal at Syracuse and Ottawa at Buffalo.

This year for the first time the loop, which began operations back in 1884 as the Eastern League, will embrace three countries — the United States, Canada and Cuba.

The two new teams replace Springfield, Mass., which didn't draw, and Baltimore, which advanced to the American League. Richmond, incidentally, was a member of the original 1884 league.

FORCED BY TV-RADIO

The league was forced to spread south when it became blanketed by major league television and radio broadcasts. By taking in the two distant cities, the International League will become the most air-minded circuit in baseball. Seventy-five per cent of the league travel, including all trips to Havana and Richmond, will be by air.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected at Grand Stadium in Havana and Harry A. Scott, Canadian ambassador to Cuba, will throw out the first ball. The Cubs have been used to top-flight baseball in their winter league, but this is the first time they have had a high-classification minor league club to cheer.

The club is largely an unknown quantity.

Clint Hartung, once with New York Giants, and pitcher Saul Rogovin, who was with Chicago White Sox last year, shape up as two of the mainstays of the Cubans, who represent the entire country rather than just Havana.

OUTSIDE IN—Walter Blum took Our John Wm. to the outside to nose out Blue Charger, Hank Moreno up, in a six-furlong sprint at Jamaica, N.Y.

Chicago White Sox Team Topples Detroit 5-1, Brooklyn Clubs Phillies

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league pennant races are away to one of the closest starts in recent seasons. No team has jumped off to a winning streak. No team has fallen far behind.

Compared with the first week of the 1953 season the standings have undergone considerable juggling, particularly in the American League.

Detroit is leading the American by half a game over Washington. A year ago the Tigers were last, four games behind old St. Louis Browns, and Washington was seventh. Cincinnati, co-leader with Philadelphia in the National, was seventh last year at the end of the first week while the Phils were tied for third

Neither Brooklyn nor New York Yankees, top-heavy choices to repeat their 1953 triumphs, have been able to match their first-week pace of last season.

LEADERS LOSE

The leaders all lost Monday. Detroit was toppled by Chicago White Sox 5-1, Cincinnati bowed to St. Louis 6-3 and the Phillies were clubbed by Brooklyn, 9-7.

In other action the Yankees split a pair with the Red Sox in Boston, losing 2-1 in the morning and winning 5-0 in the afternoon on a brilliant one-hitter by Jim McDonald. Washington shaded Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 on Eddie Yost's ninth-inning home run. Pittsburgh beat New York Giants 7-5. Baltimore and Cleveland in the American League and Milwaukee and Chicago Cubs in the National weren't scheduled.

BEST OF CAREER

McDonald's performance against the Red Sox was the best of his career. He walked five but struck out four and the only safety he allowed was a second-inning single by rookie Harry Agganis. Mickey Mantle struck out four times in the morning contest, batting left-handed but hit a home run right-handed, his first of the season, in the afterpiece.

Jackie Robinson was the hitting star in Brooklyn's triumph over the Phillies. He broke a 5-5 tie with a home run in the seventh inning and finished the night with a four-for-four performance.

Successive homers by Stan Musial and Ray Jablonski in the sixth inning helped Harvey Haddix win his first game for St. Louis, though he needed help in the ninth.

All Senior B Finals Played In Simcoe

SIMCOE (CP)—All games in the Ontario Hockey Association senior B finals between Simcoe Gunners and Oshawa Truckmen will be played here, starting Wednesday night, Gunners officials said Monday.

The Simcoe team has been idle since last Tuesday when it won over Woodstock Athletics in four straight games in the semi-finals.

Oshawa has been using ice at Kingston and Bowmanville since its own arena was destroyed by fire last fall. Truckmen won their semi-final series with Stouffville Clippers 4-2.

More Serum Available To Fight Polio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gamma globulin, one of the two weapons aimed at preventing polio, will be available for about 1,700,000 American children this summer—almost twice as many as last year. But it will be distributed under a different system.

The U.S. public health service is asking state health officers to use the blood-derived material in this way only:

1. For group inoculations ranging from youngsters in an apartment house where polio may have struck, up to those in a whole community where an epidemic might occur.

2. In communities already selected for trial of another possible anti-polio medicine — the vaccine sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—gamma globulin should be employed "only where in the opinion of the state and territorial health officer it will not affect the validity of the vaccine field trial."

This second requirement does not bar the use of gamma globulin for measles or infections hepatitis, or in "unusual circumstances," officials said.

Question Of Time Splits Saskatchewan

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP) — An imaginary line drawn smack through the middle of Saskatchewan will assume the cold reality of steel Sunday, slicing apart interdependent farm and rural groups.

The line, drawn centuries ago, is the third meridian, cutting the province into two time zones. It creates a gigantic municipal problem with advent of daylight saving time.

The extra hour of sunlight is a blessing to the town or city-dweller. But to the farmer who lives sun-to-sun, it's a downright nuisance.

Next week and continuing until late in September, little islands of time spring up east of the third meridian.

Some communities switch to fast time. Others which cater to farmers keep it slow.

LEGAL STANDARD

Some centres accept mountain time—the only legal standard. Others, particularly those on the eastern border, won't have anything but central or Manitoba time.

The result is continuing confusion which becomes a hopeless jumble with daylight saving.

And the railways which help set the pace of time in Saskatchewan don't help matters.

The Canadian Pacific Railway changes time at Broadview, 47 miles inside the Manitoba border. Canadian National Railways switches at Watrous, 150 miles northwest of Broadview.

It's possible in one town north of Regina to arrive on one line at 8 p.m. and leave on the other an hour before getting there.

No other province has the same problem. It's a source of bitter controversy.

BOYCOTT TOWN

The town of Shellbrook 25 miles west of Prince Albert decided it liked fast time. The farmers didn't and boycotted the town's merchants. Shellbrook soon was back on slow time.

Saskatchewan in summer has four possible times. Fortunately, there are only three. Manitoba border communities banded together in deciding to keep central time without variation.

It wasn't always like this. The Second World War and increased travel changed things.

During war years, war time, one hour faster and equivalent to perpetual daylight saving, prevailed to conserve electricity and fuel. Urban folk liked it.

FARMERS OPPOSED

The farmer was solidly against it. But he accepted it, only to find when the War Measures Act was repealed and war time tossed out that many communities through permissive legislation could exercise a local option and decree fast time in summer.

He claims now that his children meet their school bus in darkness and in summer don't get their proper sleep. He has to adjust his working hours to his livestock which live by the sun.

A legislative committee on time hashed over these problems at the last session of the legislature and came up with an answer. After studying a raft of briefs, members "without finding it possible to arrive at any specific conclusions" voted to hand the question over to municipalities.

A questionnaire mailed to municipalities asks which of three times they want and if they are willing to accept an alternative. The committee, formed two years ago, will study new submissions at the next session of the legislature and make another report.

Car Ferry Stuck

PORT BURWELL (CP) — The railway car ferry Ashtabula got stuck in trees here Monday on its first voyage of the year from Ashtabula, O. After crossing Lake Erie to this port 25 miles southeast of St. Thomas, the ferry became entangled with floating trees in the harbor. The crew attached lines to a pier and winched the ship away from the obstruction.

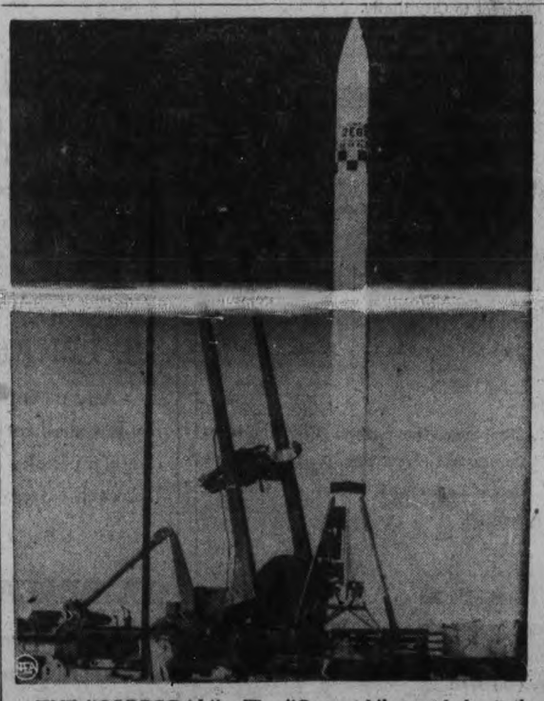
Angered At 'Stalling' Mothers Picketing

NEW YORK (AP)—Angered at what they called the "stalling" of United Nations officials, a group of wives and mothers of G.I.'s, United States soldiers missing in Korea, decided Monday to set up month-long sentry posts at the UN building and the White House.

The women, who believe their soldier sons and husbands are prisoners of the Chinese Communists, call themselves the "Kin of America's Forgotten men."



They are demanding that the UN take action to find and free their GI's, and that UN members refuse to talk with Red China at Geneva unless the prisoners are returned.

Refuses To Answer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Clyde L. Powell, an assistant chief of the scandal-rocked Federal Housing Administration, refused to answer questions at a Senate inquiry Monday. He invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against possible self-incrimination as the Senate banking committee began investigating charges of multi-million-dollar irregularities in FHA.

Thieves Break Open Family Burial Crypt

TORONTO (CP)—A family burial crypt in Mount Pleasant cemetery has been broken open and one of the coffins disturbed and desecrated, police said Monday.

Police said they believe somebody was searching for valuables thought to have been in the coffin. It was the first such case in the city's history.

Chief constable John Chisholm refused to identify the family vault. Police will examine it today.

The break-in was discovered by a cemetery employee. A heavy padlock and chain at the vault door was smashed. Marble slabs in the crypt were pried loose.

What will you have by 1969...

Ever considered what your financial position will be fifteen years from now... by 1969?

Just how much of your income do you think you can save? 5%, 10%, 15%? Many "budgeteers" say that the average person may be able to save 10%. We don't know how right they are, but we do feel that most people want to save something.

Put yourself in the shoes of an average man of moderate means. You will own a car... probably a recent model ... your home will be well furnished, and you may be paying off a mortgage. But over and above this, you may feel that you can save at least $500 a year and still live comfortably.

Now, what will you have by 1969?

By just "saving" $500 a year, putting it in the cookie jar... you will have $7,500. By putting it into a savings account at 2% you'll have over $8,800.

But suppose instead you invest your $500 a year in "blue chip" securities at an average yield of 4%... a conservative return under present conditions ... you may be surprised to know that your $7,500 of savings will grow by over $2,900 ... and you'll have over $10,400 by 1969. Quite a difference, isn't it.

But to get started on such a programme requires more than just picking securities out of a hat and buying five hundred dollars worth each year. It means having a personalized programme drawn up for you. It means a programme designed to fill your wants and meet your requirements. It means a periodic security checkup to maintain quality and balance. It's a specialized job for somebody... somebody with experience. That's where we come in.

Perhaps you'd like to have a chat with us ... you will be welcome in any of our offices either personally or by mail.

ICE MOVES OUT

At long last the ice in Stony lake has moved out. Residents about the lake report most of the ice went out Saturday.

FELL FROM TREE

A 10-year-old boy, David Pearson of 511 Rose St., suffered lacerations to his thigh when he fell from a tree late Monday afternoon. He was treated as an outpatient at Civic Hospital and allowed to go home.

ONE FIRE ALARM

Firemen had one alarm Monday night. They were called to Mrs. Bessie Hegadoren's home, 994 Western Ave., where a flooded oil burner was reported. It wasn't necessary to use an extinguisher.

MORE CHICKENPOX

There were twice as many cases of chickenpox reported to the Peterborough department of health in March as all the other communicable diseases combined. The statistics: Chickenpox 44, mumps, 4, scarlet fever 2, infectious hespatitis 11, bacillary dysentery 4, and whooping cough 1.

X-RAY OLD RESIDENTS

During March the residents of the two Peterborough homes for the aged were X-rayed by the Provincial Travelling Chest Clinic. Total examined: House of Providence 81, and Anson House 15. The checks are made to detect any signs of tuberculosis.

DROWNING ALARM

The fire alarm box to be installed at Inverlea Park will be for use in case of swimming accidents only. The box is being installed at the request of the parks committee of city council. Fire Chief Bill Sorrie told the fire, water and light committee Monday that on receipt of an alarm from the box, the fire department would immediately respond with their rescue equipment.

FIREMEN'S UNIFORMS

The fire, water and light committee of city council have recommended the calling of tenders on firemen's uniforms with the entire uniform, including hat, to be included in each tender. Committee chairman Ald. Harold Rehill said last year, when tenders were submitted separately, some of the hats did not match the uniforms in color. Tenders will also be asked on Burberry coats.

LIFE-SAVER

The city has purchased for $750 a second-hand pick-up truck to be used by the lineman of the fire department. It will be equipped with a hitch to haul the trailer containing the lifeboat. Fire Chief Bill Sorrie told the fire, water and light committee Monday the boat would be of great assistance in answering calls for rescue equipment, and would make it unnecessary to send a pumper.

Three Safes Robbed In One Store

Fishing Equipment Money Stolen At Bancroft

BANCROFT (ENS). — The Barker & Laundry general store was ransacked early today, three safes pried open and an undetermined amount of money and fishing equipment stolen.

Thieves apparently entered the main office through a second-storey window by means of a ladder. The office and much of the store were completely wrecked and the three safes were removed to the store house behind the main building, where they were pried open and their contents rifled.

A number of cheques and other documents were left lying about the shed floor, and, although a complete check has not been made, it is thought that the thieves took only cash and fishing gear.

Crowbars left at the scene are though to be the property of the CNR, as a nearby tool shed was also ransacked some time Monday night or early today.

Ernie Goodkey, a clerk at the store, discovered the breakin when he arrived to open the store today.

CHECKED AT MIDNIGHT

Emerson Laundry, co-owner, said he was in the office about midnight Monday, and everything was in order. All the receipts for Saturday and Monday's business were in the safes, but a large portion was in the form of cheques.

The exact amount taken has not been determined, as police have ordered the entire area sealed until scientific investigation is completed. It is the first time the store has been robbed.

OPP Corporal Archie Grayling and constables George Lloyd and John Hawkins are investigating.

Training School Boy Hangs Self

COBOURG (ENS) — Named a boy of the day for Monday, a 13-year-old Hamilton boy hanged himself late Monday evening in the Ontario Training School for Boys at Cobourg.

The boy, whose name was not disclosed, had been in the school a year ago, returned to his home in December and then returned to Cobourg on April 9.

According to school authorities, the lad had gone for a hike earlier in the day and had seemed then in good spirits. This resulted in his being named one of the "boys of the day," as is the custom in the school.

School superintendent, W. T. Little said, "It came as a big shock to the institution as we had no inkling that he was depressed."

About 7:50 p.m. the boy was among others engaged on a project but then slipped away unnoticed. About 10 minutes later supervisor, Robert Mann, noticed the lad missing and went to his room.

There he found the boy hanging [illegible] bunk. Immediately artificial respiration was started but after an hour's work they were unable to revive him.

SUFFERS BROKEN KNEECAP—Reg Young, 37, of Kemp's Corners, suffered a broken kneecap and other leg injuries today in a two-truck collision on the Warsaw Road about two miles east of the city. He was rushed by Nisbett ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital. Young's light panel truck met in collision with a dump truck, driven by Wally Steenburgh, 26, of Stewart St. who was not hurt. 2 Trucks Crash, Drivers Hurt

A collision about 8.30 a.m. today on the Warsaw Rd. caused $450 damage to two trucks and sent 37-year-old I. R. (Reg) Young to St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken left knee cap and other leg injuries.

The accident occurred just west of Kemp's Corners, two miles east of Peterborough, as Young was edging his light truck across the road to make a left turn into his driveway. His vehicle was struck by a westbound gravel truck owned by M. A. Steenburgh and Son, sand and gravel dealers.

LOADED WITH GRAVEL

Wallace Steenburgh, 26, of 422 Stewart St. was driving the larger truck, loaded with four and a half tons of sand and gravel. He told the investigating officer, OPP Constable Emmett Crough, that he had just come over the Kemp's Corners hill when he saw Young's truck edging over the centre line of the highway.

Steenburgh said he at first thought Young was going to turn back into the line of traffic. When Young didn't do so Steenburgh swung the gravel truck onto the right shoulder of the road and tried to run it into the laneway of Dennis and Les Thompson, builders. The Thompson laneway, also on the north side of the road, is beside Young's.

However the gravel truck was going too fast to complete this manoeuvre into the laneway. The right wheels plowed into the muddy ditch bringing the vehicle to a sudden stop.

EYE WITNESS

Mrs. Lee Thomson was looking out her front window when the [illegible]

"The gravel truck hit the front of Reg Young's truck and knocked it around," she said.

Young was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance. Steenburgh received only a sore wrist.

That section of the Warsaw Rd. is a 30-mile-an-hour area for motor traffic; but parents, anxious about the safety of their children, complain that truckers too often exceed the speed limit to gather speed for the hills. The manager of the gravel trucking company, however, said that his men had been warned not exceed that limit. An OPP check had shown that they were obeying the law, he said.

Both trucks received about $200 to the left front. But the loss on the larger vehicle may be more, particularly if the frame is twisted.

Labor Groups To Ask Extension Of Payments

At a public meeting Monday night, called by the CCL-CIO and TLC-AFL labor councils, it was decided to send a telegram to federal Labor Minister Gregg requesting an extension of payments of supplementary unemployment insurance benefits beyond the mid-April deadline.

The meeting also selected a committee to prepare a series of resolutions to be embodied in a brief for presentation to city council and the federal government. The brief will recommend measures for easing the current unemployment situation.

The make-up of the resolutions committee constitutes a departure in the steps taken so far by local labor organizations with respect to the unemployment situation in that it includes representatives, not only of the CIO-CCL and TLC-AFL labor councils, but of the UEW (Indep.) as well.

Appointed to the committee were three representatives from each of the labor councils and two another representative later. Members are William Triggs, William Yeates and Ed. Humphrey from the CCL, Henry Noakes, Peter McComb and John McPhee from the TLC, and George Wallace and John Whelan from the UEW.

The brief which they prepare will be submitted to another public meeting at a later date for further discussion before being presented to city council and the federal government.

FOLLOW SUGGESTIONS

Their recommendations are expected to follow closely those outlined Monday night by Leslie Wismer, director of research for the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, who spoke to about 35 people in the CCL labor centre.

Mr. Wismer outlined the recommendations made to the cabinet by a joint delegation from the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada on February 11. Some of them would require joint action at all three levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal; others placed the onus on the federal government alone, Mr. Wismer said.

The recommendations were:

1. Timing public works to coincide with periods of low employment.
2. A program to build more houses.
3. An assistance program for people who are not eligible for unemployment insurance but are at present unemployed.
4. Increased assistance to underdeveloped countries through the Colombo plan and the United Nations technical assistance program.
5. Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act to provide:

(a) Categories for higher benefits.

(b) Reduction of the five-day period for awaiting payments.

(c) An extension of supplementary benefits.

Inclusion of UEW members in the resolutions committee came after a speech from the floor by George Wallace and a lengthy discussion involving several suggestions as to how the committee should be constituted.

SOME LAYOFFS

Mr. Wallace said there had not been a great many layoffs at the CGE but that condition was coming to an end. There had been a small number of layoffs recently and some more on Monday.

"We of the UE realized it was the responsibility of organized labor to take some action in the unemployment situation and we felt it would be very wrong on our part if we didn't offer to share the responsibility," he said.

A delegation from the UEW had gone to Ottawa and had got an unfavorable reaction from members of the cabinet just as the two labor congresses had done, Mr. Wallace said.

He said his union was in favor of measures to prevent "dumping" of excess products in Canada at prices lower than the market price by countries with surplus production. He referred specifically to an increase in the import of refrigerators from the United States.

Henry Noakes, chairman of the meeting, suggested that several resolutions should be prepared for presentation to city council and the federal government, not necessarily confined to those recommended by Mr. Wismer.

John McPhee moved that the already-formed joint committee of the local TLC and CIO labor councils should be empowered to present the brief to city council and the federal government.

But Alfred Barber moved to call another meeting to discuss the resolutions and William Triggs said he thought a resolutions committee should be formed.

SEND WIRE

John Whelan suported Mr. Barber's motion and moved that a wire should be sent to the labor minister immediately asking him to reinstate the supplementary benefits. His motion was seconded by Mr. Triggs.

Mr. McPhee withdrew his motion when requested from the floor and Mr. Wallace suggested the formation of the resolutions committee.

"It would be unthinkable that such a large group as the UEW should be excluded from the committee," Mr. Triggs said.

"I don't think there was any intention of excluding any group, in view of the fact that this is a public meeting," Mr. Noakes said.

"The difficulty is that the two congresses have been working together on this matter so far," Peter McComb said. "Am I to understand that this is to be taken out of the purview of the two congresses altogether?"

Ed. Humphrey said his understanding was that the committee was to be chosen by the meeting.

It was then decided to elect three members from each group and Mr. Wallace announced that the UEW would name their third member later.

Zoning Plan, Bylaw Ready To Go Into Effect

A zoning plan for Peterborough and a bylaw to authorize it have been prepared by the city planning board and consultant Gordon Culham and are being presented to the public today on Page 8.

Nearly seven years ago, May 7, 1947, the original plan was prepared and published which sought to provide the city with an orderly development as it expanded. However, in those years, a bylaw was never passed which would instrument the plan.

In spite of this, the city did not grow haphazardly. Even without a bylaw to back it up, the plan was accepted by citizens and they cooperated fully with the planning board.

Board Chairman Hubert Sills mentioned that in all the seven years that the board approved and rejected hundreds of applications for approval of proposed developments and buildings, not once was the board's ruling challenged in court.

This had not gone unappreciated by the board, Mr. Sills said. A zoning committee first started the board's work, then in the late fall of 1947 a city planning board was formed.

Members of the board felt that much had been accomplished during the intervening years. Mistakes in the orininal plan had corrected in the new plan.

One of the differences evident in the new plan is the handling of neighbourhood shopping. Instead of allowing small scattered shopping areas to development, large neighborhood shopping areas have pleen planned in strategic spots. They will all have off-street parking in an attempt to overcome one of the city's most aggravating problems.

The bylaw which will back up the plan, is much simpler than the original. Citizens will be able to read it and understand what they can and what they can't do.

It is felt that the map that is being published with the bylaw will help citizens to get a better picture of the whole plan.

Next week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, public meetings will be held where Mr Culham and members of the board will be on hand to explain the plan, answer any questions that citizens may ask and take note of suggestions that people may have. Amendments to the plan may very well come out of these meetings.

It is hoped that not only people who have complaints against the plan will come to the meeting, but most citizens will avail themselves of the opportunity to get a clear understanding of all that the plan means and can offer to the citizens of Peterborough.

Planning Board Rejects Motel Request

The city planning board Monday night turned down an application by Neil R. Sloggett to erect a motel at 390 George St. S.

The decision was delayed for some time, because the original planning of the city made no reference to motels, a relatively recent innovation.

The motion which was backed 4 to 2 by the board read that "based on the fact that motels were not initially included in the zoning bylaw and that as a result of the poll that was taken that indicated a split of about 50-50 of the views of the residents that we reject the application."

The board previously asked the city council to decide whether it wanted a motel classed as a hotel in future planning. The council decided this was a proper classification and suggested that the board conduct a poll of residents within 200 feet of the propsed motel. The result of the poll showed that eight favored the motel, six were against it, and two did not answer the questionnaire. Those who voted against the motel were mostly nearest to the lot in question.

In addition, the board received a petition from residents within one block of Lake St. protesting against the opening of a motel.

It was pointed out to Mr. Sloggett that under the new zoning, the area is designated as residential.

James S. Craig commented that under either the old or the new plan, a change in the zoning would have to be made to allow the motel.

Man, Woman Badly Hurt In Crash Near Cobourg Rushed To Civic Hospital

Whole Left Side of Car Ripped Off In Sideswipe Collision With Transport St. Catharine Man's Life In Danger

COBOURG (ENS)—In serious condition a St. Catharines man and a Port Hope woman were rushed from a car-transport accident, two miles west of Cobourg, to Peterborough Civic hospital at 10 a.m. today.

At presstime hospital authorities reported Frank H. Holly, 29, of 46 Bolton Blvd., St. Catharines, as "serious" and considered "in danger". His passenger in the car, Margaret Butler, 34, of 27 Harcourt St., Port Hope, was considered less serious.

Shortly after 8 a.m. Holly, driving a car with Margaret Butler as a passenger, collided with a car transport, driven by Florent Tousin of St. Albins. The Holly car met in a sideswipe collision with the transport, rolled over, and came to a stop on the south side of the highway, facing west.

SIDE RIPPED OFF

The whole left side of the Holly car was ripped off and bits of the car were scattered about the highway for 100 feet. Several people, on the scene within seconds of the accident, had to pull the wreckage apart to get the occupants out.

At the same time a second truck following close behind plunged into the ditch to avoid causing a second accident. The driver, Herbert Wilson of Toronto, was unhurt.

At first Holly and his passenger were taken to Cobourg hospital but then after emergency treatment they were rushed at high speed in two ambulances to the Civic hospital.

After preliminary treatment the extent of the injuries were recorded as:

Holly, fractured jaw, badly cut face, fractured pelvis, possible internal injuries and shock condition, serious;

OPP Constables, Ralph Tremill and Lyle Erskine, both of Cobourg, investigated.

Citizens Favor Mercury Lights Being Tested

The Utilities Commission demonstration of mercury vapor street lighting at Sherbrooke and Park-Reid intersection is being generally approved by the public as reported by Commissioners at their meeting Monday afternoon.

"I've heard a lot of favorable comment," said G. A. Macdonald, "and most people mentioning it wondered whether we were going to have other intersections similarly lighted."

"The city council will have to decide that," said Fred Hills, chairman.

"That wasn't quite standard test at Sherbrooke," Dick Raine remarked. "It is a wide area where Sherbrooke crosses both Reid and Park streets, and I thought I noticed a bit of a dark spot around the centre of it. Some of the aldermen have mentioned the lighting to me very favorably; I think we should try the lights at some standard corner. The council and the commission could easily agree on one."

Mr. Rraine said an effect of the mercury vapor lamps was, "they tend to prevent people from looking through stop signs".

Another comment was that by the distinguishing color of their illumination they call attention to the street intersection. Howard Powell, general manager of the Commission said that they should be an added advantage at corners of heavy traffic such as intersections with provincial highways passing through the city.

"We might ask the council if they are interested enough for us to do another corner," Mr. Raine proposed.

Mr. Powell reported that the wooden pole installation for these lamps amounts to $41, and with steel poles $49.

Commission decided to accept the Gillespie Garage net price of $2860 for a new general service truck. Six bids were opened from local sales offices. The lowest was from Duffus Motors Ltd. at the net of $2733.20, and the second lowest was Gillespie Garage at $2860.

The Duffus quotation was $3033 for a GMC, less $300 allowance on an old truck being turned in, net $2733.

The Gillespie offer was $3168.65 for a Fargo truck, less $308.65 allowance, net $2860.

[illegible] makes were considered with further thought to distribution of the Commission's business. The books showed that the one truck had already been bought this year from Duffus Motors and another one last year. On the other hand the last purchase from Gillespie Garage was in 1949.

Bell Telephone Company's offer to sell its interest in a line of poles on Aberdeen Ave. for $119.44 was accepted.

"The Bell people erected the pole line, but we have been jointly using it with them," Mr. Powell report. "It we don't buy it they'll simply remove the poles."

It appears that new Bell poles have been set back in a lane or row of gardens.

Actors Weep At Closing Of Little Church

LONDON (Reuters)—St. Peter's, the little "Actors' Church" in the heart of London, soon will be torn down to become a jewelry store catering to the fashionable ladies of Mayfair and Chelsea.

For 96 years the church of Great Windmill Street, where painted women parade at night, has brought spiritual solace to actors, actresses and nightclub entertainers.

But a jewelry firm has bought the property—just off Piccadilly circus—for £150,000, ending a 25-year-fight by the congregation to keep the church.

The Easter sermon Sunday night was Vicar Clarence May's farewell, and he called it "The Last Curtain."

SHOW PEOPLE WEEP

More than 600 veteran show people stood in line for an hour to get in and some of them wept openly as Canon May said bitterly:

"Surely there is need for a hallowed house in an area where there are so many houses that are not hallowed."

The vicar, who himself holds a union card in Actor's Equity, sprinkled his sermon with the language of show business.

"I have had a 25-year-run here," he said. "Thank you, dear people—it has been such fun."

Actress Flora Robson, famed for her character roles in movies, read the lessons. Actress Nancy Price gave the valedictory.

SOME SWIM AS OTHERS HOPE—At Elsa, Tex., these children play in the water near their home as continued rains brought more floods to the Rio Grande Valley, forcing 4,000 persons to leave their homes. Meanwhile, high winds are kicking up dust storms in arid west Texas, 600 miles to the northwest.

6 Whooping Cranes Seen Heading North

CLEARWATER, Man. (CP)—Richard Gilbert, pioneer resident of this southern Manitoba town, Monday reported seeing six whooping cranes, apparently some of the world's 24, flying north last week in their annual migration.

Mr. Gilbert said he saw the rare birds one mile north of town flying in an uneven "V"—four on one side of the leader, one on the other.

The world's only flock of whooping cranes was reported last week to have left Austwell, Texas, in the annual migration to breeding grounds in the far north.

New York Lawyer Dies

NEW YORK (CP) — John A. Dunlop, a member of the legal staff of the American Cyanamid Company since 1939, died Monday in hospital at the age of 56.

Born in Ireland, he was taken as a child to Nova Scotia by his family. He graduated from Dalhousie University and received a Rhodes scholarship. At Oxford he received a master of arts degree and later was graduated from the Harvard law school.

Dunlop was a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the First World War and was severely wounded.

Immigrants Drift To Industries; Blame Farmers

The fact that so many immigrant farm laborers are drifting to the cities to seek employment in industry is the fault of the Canadian farmer, Leslie Wismer, director of research for the Trades and Labor Congress, said Monday night.

Mr. Wismer was addressing a public meeting called to discuss unemployment. The meeting was sponsored by the CIO-CCL and AFL-TLC labor councils and was held in the CCL labor centre.

"It is always the farmers' sons who become doctors, lawyers and engineers; but the farmers are the poorest-paying employers when it comes to hiring laborers," Mr. Wismer said in the course of answering a question by William Yeates, who was highly critical of the government's immigration policy.

Mr. Wismer said that about three years ago, both labor congresses adjusted their stand on immigration, realizing that the country needed a bigger labor force and wishing to help out the victims of totalitarian governments in Europe.

TOOK ADVICE

The government had taken the advice of the Trades and Labor Congress and restricted immigration during the season of low employment. But three types of people were still arriving during that season:

1. The wives of immigrants who had arrived earlier.
2. Immigrants who had relatives or friends in this country to guarantee they would not become a public charge.
3. People who have jobs waiting for them but cannot get passage at any other time of year because of the tourist rush.

The two congresses had met the immigration department and got them to agree to reconsider their whole 1954 program this month.

"Apart from any particular local situation, I have yet to be convinced that the government's immigration policy is aimed at bringing in cheap labor," Mr. Wismer said. "I think sometimes it can have that effect; but I think the extent to which it can have that effect is up to us. We ought to get the immigrants into our labor organizations.

"There is supposed to be a tremendous demand for farm laborers. Each year the immigration department is confronted with the task of recruiting thousands of farm laborers. I don't know; but I think they do their best to recruit genuine farmers.

"But for some reason they leave the farms to go into industry. I think the trouble is on the Canadian farms.

"I doubt that the immigration policy is such that it is having any effect on the unemployment situation," Mr. Wismer said.

Bethany Churches Hold Easter Services

BETHANY (ENS) — Special Easter services were held in both churches in the village on Sunday.

St. Paul's Anglican church observed Holy Communion at their morning service with a large congregation in attendance, both then and in the evening. Music by the choir included the anthems "In Joseph's Lovely Garden" and "Lonely, Heartbroken I Seek Here My Jesus" with solo parts taken by Mrs. H. F. Rayson and Miss Laura Morton. The Rev. T. S. Gault gave the Easter Message.

The United church held a morning service, with Rev. Lawrence Norman giving the sermon. The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Preston sang two anthems "An Easter Carol" and "Rejoice The Lord Is Risen." There was an exceptionally large congregation, with many former members home for the holiday weekend. Both churches were beautifully decorated with Easter Lillies and other flowers.

Shots Fired At Israeli Police Car

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Two salvos from automatic weapons were fired at an Israeli police car travelling along the Lebanese border road, an Israeli military spokesman claimed today. He said the car was hit four times but there were no casualties.

Israel has requested an emergency meeting of the mixed armistice commission, he added.

The Israel government also announced that 18 frontier clashes between infiltrators and Israeli security forces occurred in the week ended April 15.

Two infiltrators were killed in these clashes, three wounded and ... detained, the announcement said.

WORKING PRIVATELY

Reliable sources reported today that Britain's ambassador here, Sir Francis Evans, is working privately in an effort to break the armistice deadlock between Jordan and Israel.

Evans is said to have recommended to the Israel foreign ministry a resumption of the border meetings between local commanders to deal with frontier violations. These routine meetings were suspended when the Israelis walked out of the mixed armistice commission March 23.

Goat Presented To Squadron Most Accidents

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—Careless pilots at this RCAF jet fighter base in Rutland get the commanding officer's goat—literally.

Duchess, a small, white goat of serene nature and enormous appetite, is ceremoniously presented at the end of each month to the squadron with the highest accident record. For four weeks the squadron is charged with her care and feeding.

The station commander, Group Capt. J. D. Somerville of Toronto, devised the scheme for keeping Luffenham's three squadrons on their extra caution to avoid receiving "the highly derogatory order of the goat."

A basic rule is that Duchess must be grazed outside the quarters of the offending squadron's commanding officer.

One of Duchess' recent hosts complained:

"I can't get any work done. Every time I look up I see that blankety-blank goat outside the window, going 'Baa.'"

Report Russ Trawlers Off Grand Banks

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Capt. T. A. Atwood, naval commander of the Newfoundland area, said Monday a report that two Russian trawlers are fishing on the Grand banks "will be investigated" but he said the reports have not yet been confirmed.

Two Spanish trawlers which arrived here during the week-end for supplies said they fished close to the Russian trawlers Odessa and Sevastapol for about two weeks. This is believed to be the first time in history Russians have fished the banks.

The captain and a crew member of the Spanish ship Tifon said Monday they fished within two miles of the Russian ships for 15 days. The skipper, who has been fishing the banks for 25 years, said it was the first time he has seen Russians there. He said Portuguese, Canadian and British trawlers all saw the Russian ships.

The two Soviet ships have not made any contact with land since they arrived on the banks.

This accommodation was requested in a letter from City Clerk Outram conveying a motion of application passed recently by the finance commttee of the council. The water line is required for the proposed Simpsons- Sears warehouse to be built on part of the industrial property, and with railway siding connection.

Howard Powell, manager, estimated the water main cost at $12,000. The only immediate revenue will be from the Simpsons-Sears building.

The present pipe line ends in the vicinity of May's school, and would have to be carried 640 feet along Lansdowne St. and 900 feet on Erskine Ave.

Attitude of the Commission was to the effect that they should cooperate with the council in this opportunity to develop the industrial property the city bought a few years ago.

"Without water service, the city might lose good prospects," G. A. Macdonald said. "If the main is laid, then this service is immediately available."

"We don't know what will become of that industral block," said Dick Raine, "and if there is anything we can do to co-operate with the council I think we should seriously consider it."

The first step required the city to get municipal board approval of the issue of debentures providing for the borrowing of the $12,000 needed.

"They'll have to arrange for the sale of debentures for us," Fred Hills, chairman, said.

"We have no free cash on hand at present," Mr. Powell remarked.

Several Projects In Progress By St. Giles' Group

The Easter atmosphere, combined with the usual friendly warmth of St. Giles' Presbyterian Friendship group meetings, was deeply enjoyed by the members when they met at the home of Mrs. E. Powers, Braidwood Ave.

President Mrs. W. Clark opened with a poem titled "Easter Thoughts." Mrs. B. M. McGeachie read the scripture and offered prayer. Before the roll was called each lady was presented with a bunny name tag.

The business agenda was heavy as several money-making projects are in progress. Primarily, this group was organized to work in aid of the Sunday school but their ventures have been so successful they have been able to make substantial contributions toward other needs of the building program.

At the present time, the most novel of these ventures is a travelling apron. This apron, with an assortment of colorful patches, is being passed from one to another of the ladies, each sewing on a patch, and enclosing a gift of money and her name. When the apron is completed, the patches will be judged, then opened and whoever has applied the neatest patch will receive a prize.

Cook books of the members' favorite recipes have been printed and are selling rapidly.

Final instructions were given for the rummage sale at the Orange hall, April 24, under the convenership of Mrs. G. Wilson.

Mrs. Wiliam Steinkraus, a past president of the Local Council of Women, was guest speaker and chose as her subject, "My Father's Business," from the reply of the Boy Jesus to His parents when they saught and found him in the temple conversing with the elders.

Mrs. Steinkraus reminded listeners of the spiritual significance of the Easter season, the most poignant and wonderful time of the year for those of Christian faith. She stressed that the Christian way of life is not an easy path, but "when we surrender ourselves to the will of God and go about 'Our Father's Business,' we can achieve miraculous results."

Concluding she exhorted the ladies to take an interest in civic affairs, saying that a good Christian and a good citizen are synonymous —"and there is so much to be done at the present time to help our immigrants adjust themselves to the Canadian way of life."

Coffee and doughnuts, eaten with accompaniment of friendly conversation followed.

May meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Clayton Hodson, Park St., South, when Miss Marion Parks will show the pictures of the coronation.

SUBWAY MOTIF—Celebrating Easter and the recent opening of Canada's first subway Gwen Barnes attracts attention in Toronto's Easter parade. Trains and coaches, on a track around the brim, with artificial flowers and bunnies, form a complicated motif. Hat was designed by Gwen's mother, Mrs. Doris Barnes.—(CP Photo).

Plans were concluded for the evening of April 30, when Miss Norma Arkles of Belleville, representative for the Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the United Nations will be the guest speaker. Her topic being of equal interest to women and men has influenced the chapter to make this an open meeting.

Purchase of equipment for Belleville hospital was discussed but action was deferred until a meeting with larger attendance. A bursary to send a student to Teachers College was considered. The annual Empire tea is to be held on May 21 with Mrs. G. Jarvis as convener. Mrs. D. P. Marell was requested to write for information regarding a cooking school. Lunch was served.

Hat Shapes Continue Small, Neat

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris milliners guide fashion headfirst into an early spring. Straws, flowered toques and gay little coifs are already in bloom, before the Champs Elysees gardeners have taken spade in hand.

Shapes continue small and neat. The little head effect is equally endorsed in the forward-tilted toque or sailor, and the snug turbans or draped calots launched by Dior and Givenchy. Materials and colors are feminine and flattering, often faintly retrospective in mood.

Gilbert Orcel borrows what is best and most beautiful from the 18th century, in miniature headturning hats. His flattened slightly-oblong shapes are reminiscent of a Dresden sheperdess or suggest the Chinese screen drawings by Boucher and Watteau. Sometimes the narrow-brimmed tocques are gently undulated or fluted, decorated with small flowers or fruits.

Heart Disease Kills

TORONTO (CP)—Heart diseases were the greatest killers in Ontario during March, vital statistics figures showed today. Of the 2,833 deaths in Ontario during that month, 1,465 were due to heart diseases.

Cancer accounted for 581 deaths, nervous disorders for 537, and 249 were either violent or accidental deaths.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Advised Not Worry Boy Slow Going Steady

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I be sure if a boy loves me? Here's the story. I'm 18 and Terry is two years older. We've been dating for the past year, seeing each other about twice a month. We are of different religious faiths, but get along fine together. Terry has often told me he loves me, but his actions don't prove it. He doesn't ask for many dates, and I know he takes other girls out. He says he wants to go steady, then tells me I should go out with other boys occasionally. What do you make of him? I think if he really loved me he wouldn't want me dating anyone else. I like him better than any other boy I know, but wonder if it's wise to continue going with him?

E. M.

ANSWER: Here is a lad who likes to keep 'em guessing, apparently. Of course, no one can give a definite estimate of the state of another person's emotions, but I'm sure it's not taking a chance to say that Terry isn't head over heels in love. His infrequent requests for dates, his pleasure in the company of other young ladies,and his avowed indifference concerning your own dates, give every indication of a young man who is not in love. Probably he uses the word "love" in a very general sense to include any degree of affection. Another possibility is that he's more concerned about the religious issue than you think. While your parents may be willing to accept the difference, his people may have other ideas. For this reason, he may be loath to commit himself to serious, steady dating with you.

Those are the facts, as I see them. However, why do you feel it necessary to terminate your friendship, even if he isn't in love with you? He's a pleasant companion and if you are willing to have occasional dates wiht him, at least until the "one and only" comes along, stick with him. Do go out with other boys, too; two dates a month is very little social activity for a girl your age.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a college freshman, not doing too well at school, but that's not my main trouble. I am very self-consious about my nose, which is very large, and I'm not in a financial position to have plastic surgery. I'm shy with girls and rarely have a second date with one. I am very depressed when a girl refuses my invitations. My parents are self-centered people, and I know enough about psychology to realize that most of my trouble stems from their attitude toward me.

R. R.

ANSWER: Perhaps you are too anxious to take refuge in the psychological comfort that your parents are to blame for your self-consciousness—the fact is you are reluctant to accept you own responsibilities as a person. Your self confidence might improve appreciably if you'd tackle your studies with more determination and make a success of yourself in the classroom.

Rose above the mediocre there, and you will find your social life getting an astonishing lift. You're at an age where self-consciousness is the rule, rather than the exception; the trial-and-error system is common to most young people in your age group. Your nose is by no means the social hindrance you think it is. You seem to have lots of opportunity to meet girls, and have apparently dated quite a few which should convince you that you make a good first impression. Relax a bit more with your dates, and you'll find it easier to get repeats.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a girl of 17, very much in love with a boy of 19. We went together for a while and I'm sure he liked me, but then my girl friend did everything she could to win him from me—and succeeded. What can I do to win him back?

KATHLEEN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER You're girl friend has violated a strict unwritten code against stealing other girl's beaux, and I'm sure she can no longer be considered a friend of yours. It won't take your young man long to realize the type person she is, and he'll be very glad to come back to you. Just wait and be patient.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Woman Minister Relishes Cooking And Preaching

By MARY MOORE

It was our privilege to meet and have dinner with an American minister who is also a woman. That's how she describes herself. The minister comes first, the women second. She married a minister too, but after she had been in the ministry for some years, so had to train herself to be as dedicated a homemaker as she is a minister, which is very dedicated.

She is 6 feet tall, weighs about 160 pounds. Remarkably graceful, too. Her husband is 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds and relishes her cooking. She calls him her little baby doll.

These dishes that she makes that "baby doll" likes the best are her Orange Rolls, Rich Cocoa. Potato and Egg Casserole and Orange Moulds. Since he does not mind this nickname at all—in fact enjoys it in his huge way—she said I could call them Baby Doll's Favorites.

ORANGE ROLLS

In ½ cup lukewarm water soak 1 package of granular yeast with 1 teaspoon sugar for 10 minutes then stir it. In large mixing bowl mix together ½ cup warm milk, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ cup shortening. When mixed beat into this the soaked yeast and 1 egg and beat well. Stir in 3½ cups sifted bread flour. Scrape dough down from sides of bowl, cover it and stand in warm place in room out of drafts and let rise until doubled in bulk. Turn dough over, folding edges to centre, cover and let rise again—second rising takes only about 1¼ hours.

Roll dough out on floured board to ¼-inch thickness. Spread with about 4 or 5 tablespoons of Orange Filling: Cook together for 2 minutes ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, ¼ cup unstrained orange juice, ¼ cup butter and then chill until thick. (Grease a pan measuring 13x9 inches (or 18 muffin tins) and spoon remainder of orange filling into pan or pans. Roll the dough which you have spread with orange filling up tightly, beginning at wide side. Seal well by pinching edges of roll together. Cut roll into 1-inch slices, and place a little apart in prepared pan or pans. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour.

Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 to 30 minutes. As soon as rolls come from oven turn them upside down on large plate or tray, leaving pan over them so filling runs down over rolls. Amounts make 1½ dozen rolls. Best served warm.

RICH COCOA

Mix together dry 4 tablespoons each cocoa and sugar, 2 teaspoons flour, pinch of salt, then stir into them 1 cup hot water. Heat in top of double boiler 3 cups milk until very hot, then stir the cocoa paste into it, cover and let heat through. When ready to serve add 4 marshmallows and beat with rotary beater until blended and foamy.

ORANGE MOULDS

Stir into 2 packages of orange jelly dessert, 1 cup boiling water until dissolved, then stir in 1 tin of frozen orange juice concentrate and 1 cup crushed pineapple and its juice. Pour into 1 large mould or 8 small ones and chill until set. This is very firm and is a delicious item on a fruit salad plate.

CASSEROLE

Peel and slice very thinly 4 medium potatoes (to serve four). Heat 3 tablespoons bacon drippings in "Skillet" and add peeled potatoes, sprinkle them with 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon each pepper and nutmeg and cook potatoes until golden and tender, stirring frequently. Transfer them, fat and all to large casserole, making a smooth surface. Sprinkle over potatoes ½ cup grated process cheese. Make very slight depresions in them and into these depressions drop 4 eggs. Carefully pour over all ¾ cup top milk or cream or evaporated milk. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes or until yolks of eggs are filmed over with the white, and

Shine Silver with SODA

Cover bottom of large enamelled pan with aluminum foil. Add 1 teaspoon soda to each quart of water, heat to boiling. Immerse silver so it touches foil. Tarnish disappears quickly. Rinse thoroughly and dry with soft cloth. For a high lustre, polish with a thin paste of soda and milk applied with soft cloth.

Princess Alexandra's First Assignment Will Be Trip To Canada With Her Mother

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A tall, pretty young British princess has returned from a Paris finishing school to assume her share of royal responsibilities. In keeping with the times, her first big assignment will be abroad—in Canada.

The princess is Alexandra of Kent, who with her mother will spend three weeks in eastern Canada in August and September. At 17, the princess is complying with royal tradition by "coming out."

"It merely means that she will be seen in public at dances, in theatre parties and at public functions," explained Philip Hay, private secretary to the slim, elegant Duchess of Kent.

In fact, it involves much more than that to the princess who not so long ago confessed to difficulty in remembering her royal rank, who chose the cheaper movie seats wore her mother's hand-me-downs and wandered unconcernedly through the village near the small, quiet Kent home at Coppins, Bucks.

Princess Alexandra Helen Elizabeth Olga Christabel will not appear alone in public again. Lady Moyra Hamilton, 23-year-old daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, has just been appointed Alexandra's lady-in-waiting. Now, suitably chaperoned, Alexandra will shoulder the public burden expected of British royalty, ranging from teas to tree planting, and a Girl Guide inspection to industrial expeditions.

The 47-year-old Duchess of Kent—witty, artistic and intelligent—is rated unconventional by royal standards. Yet she was a firm favorite with the late Queen Mary, always a stickler for royal tradition. Her clothes sense and personality are reported to have been a prime influence with Princess Margaret, one of her warmest admirers.

Her family—the young Duke of Kent, Alexandra and Prince Michael—have had the most carefree and of necessity the most economical upbringing of any children close to the throne. When the Duke of Kent, youngest son of King George V, was killed on active service in a 1942 air crash, he left most of his money in trust to his eldest son.

The duchess is perhaps the least wealthy member of British royalty, yet she has long been known as one of the world's best-dressed women. She appears to have passed along her clothes flair and physical attributes to her daughter, who some say bears a strong facial resemblance to her father.

FIRST VISIT

The visit to Canada will be the first for both. The Canadian invitation means the second trip as a royal envoy for the tall duchess, who went to Malaya and the Far East in 1952 with her eldest son, now a soldier.

Alexandra with her mother goes to Northern Ireland May 27 for a few days' official visit.

Already tipped to challenge Princess Margaret in fashion headlines and romantic speculations, Alexandra is expected to be popular with Canadians from the time she arrives in Quebec City in August. The Kents will be guests of Governor-General Vincent Massey.

The three-week tour includes opening the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto Aug. 17 and a new generating station at the Ontario hydro-electric commission at Niagara Falls.

Final details are still in abeyance, but the tour will end with a visit to Nova Scotia, where the duchess and her daughter will be the guests of Lieutenant-Governor Alistair Fraser.

Some Of Best Meals Of Week Turned Out On Fish Menus

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are being shown that some of the best meals of the week can be turned out on Friday's fish menus.

Recipes for fine fish dishes are pouring out from a spotless kitchen in the cellar of the West Block on Parliament hill, a stone's throw from the Peace Tower.

The recipes, for housewives and restaurants alike, show how good fish can taste when it's cooked properly.

The "dream kitchen" is run by the inspection and consumer service of the fisheries department. Formed here in 1950, it has branched out to Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. There are four home economists in Ottawa and one in each of the other cities.

TESTED RECIPES

They talk to women's groups, fairs and university classes on cooking, recommending recipes they themselves have tested.

Marg Myers of Toronto, assistant chief economist, explains: "It's more or less a public relations job. We drum up public interest in fish."

The way they do it, it's good for both the fishing industry and cooks. They show films illustrating how fish should be cooked, give talks and demonstrations and print hundreds of recipes for distribution across Canada.

The Ottawa kitchen is the heart of the service. The girls here make the recipes in a kitchen that would delight any housewife. It is equipped with a modern stove, a refrigerator, deep freeze and working counters.

"We take a basic recipe," Miss Myer said, "and perfect it with variations if we find it isn't up to our standards."

MANY DISHES

Titles of their books give an idea of what they turn out: "Canadian Fish Recipes," "Fish for Year-Round Salads," "Shellfish for Everyday Meals," and "Fish for Parties."

They are all available to the housewife. All she needs to do is write to Canadian Fish Recipes, Department of Fisheries, Ottawa.

Most recipes are worked out for six servings, the average family group. The department hopes to do more work in future for restaurants, hotels, railway dining cars and other public eating places.

"Canadian Fish Recipes" is the pride of the department, full of varied recipes with tempting pictures. It also tells how to buy fish, can it and prepare it for home freezing.

Norwood News

A presentation and dance was held in the Harwood community hall Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young of Cooksville (formerly of Harwood).

Maurice Francis and Ronald Stevenson, Cobourg, are spending the weekend with Ronald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Stevenson, at their summer cottage here.

Cameron Hogg, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gleen E. Hogg, Harwood, had a slight accident on Thursday, when they were returning from Cobourg. Cameron fell out of the back seat and they immediately returned to Cobourg where he spent one night in the General Hospital.

Thursday afternoon a deer dashed past Harwood school, jumped the fence onto Drope's farm. Dogs chased it to Rice Lake, where it disappeared into the woods at Saeger's Point.

A TB chest X-ray clinic will be held in Harwood community hall Saturday, May 1.

LETTER IS RECOVERED

ROSENEATH (ENS) — George Mouncey, Roseneath postmaster, wrote a letter earlier this month to his brother, Bruce Mouncey in Vancouver, sending it air mail. He received a reply from his brother on Saturday including the information that the letter had been in a mail bag on the ill-fated T.C.A. plane that crashed over Moose Jaw. The letter was still legible but was scorched and water-soaked.

Zoning Changes Give Board A Few Problems

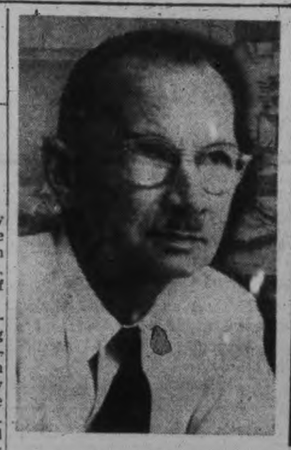
One small problem has already arisen in the changing from the old zoning to the new proposed in a bylaw that has been drafted, but must yet get the approval of the city council.

What, city engineer A. E. Chalmers wants to know, is he going to do about issuing building permits to people who have been given the approval for projects by the city planning board, but have not yet applied for their permits. In a few cases, the new zoning will change the status of the area they are concerned with.

Much the same problems has already arisen. Some six months ago V. B. Lyle consulted the city clerk, E. A. Outram who is also secretary of the planning board and city engineer A. E. Chalmers about a motel he wanted to build.

The proposed site was on the north side of Lansdowne St. on the east bank of Boyler's creek just east of the locks bridge. Both the city clerk and the engineer assured him that there would be no objection under the then existing zoning and that he was quite safe to go ahead with his plans.

However, under the new zoning, the area and land east of it is zoned heavy industry, which excludes motels and other commercial enterprises.



Although reluctant to talk about changing the zoning before the bylaw authorizing it was even passed, the board said it would recommend reconsidering this area. What may happen is that a strip fronting the highway may be rezoned to allow it to develop commercially.

The matter will be brought up at one of the three public meetings scheduled Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next week.

Chairman Hubert Sills emphasized a point made by planning consultant Gordon Culham, that the city is woefully short of land on which heavy industry could develop. And there will be a reluctance to cut any area from the heavy industry zones now outlined.

For this reason, Mr. Sills said, "I don't want to go over the head of the consultant. I would like to seek his advice on this."

Mr. Chalmers failed to get a policy set for him in his problem. But the matter will porbably be settled within a week or two.

A ZONING PLAN for Peterborough has reached the final stages and is ready for consideration by the city council and the citizens. The proposed plan and bylaw is being published today in The Examiner starting on page 8. The plan is designed to govern the future development of the city in such a way that it will be the most benefit to the most people and still present an orderly, pleasing growth. Pictured here are members of the present board: (top row) Hubert Sills, chairman; Ald. Alene Holt, Gordon Hancock; (bottom row) Ald. Harold Rehill, E. C. Braund, and James S. Craig. Mrs. W. H. Morton and A. L. Malby are also members of the board.

Driver Admits Drunk, Jailed

Arrested after being involved in a head-on collision on Rubidge St. Saturday night, 22-year-old Bruce Gerald LaRoche, 636 Little St., today pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, sent him to jail for seven days and impounded his car for three months.

Constable Thomas Emmons said he arrested LaRoche at the scene of the collision. The LaRoche car had collided with another vehicle while proceeding on the left-hand side of the road. Damage to both vehicles amounted to $350. The constable said that LaRoche had staggered about and had been unable to give an account of where he had spent the evening.

Constable Emmons told of a visit he had made to another accident reported earlier the same evening. It appeared that a vehicle had collided with a tree. Although the vehicle had disappeared police found a hub cap near the area. Later they were able to identify it with the LaRoche car. LaRoche told police he had lent his car to a friend, who had reported having a minor bump.

100 Contestants Enter Bird House

More than 100 entrants have joined the bird house-building contest being sponsored among city school children by Peterborough Nature Club and Peterborough Recreation Commission. The closing date for registration has been delayed until Thursday, and all entry forms are to be turned into the recreation office, at the city hall, by that time. The completed houses are to be taken to the same office before noon of Saturday, May 1, and judging date and announcement of prize winners will be determined sometime within the next two weeks.

Houses may be built for any of the following species: Wren, Robin, Swallow or bluebird, but contestants are limited to one house of each type. Houses will be judged for simplicity, natural attractiveness and usefulness to the birds. There will be a first and second prize given for the best entries in each of three age groups: (1) under 10 years; (2) 10, 11 and 12 years; (3) 13, 14 and 15 years.

Russian Blonde Gets Wolf Whistles

TORONTO (CP) — Wolf whistles shrilled in Union Station today for a Russian blonde.

Ballerina Sophia Golvkina needed no interpreter to tell her what they meant when she stepped off the train with nine other members of a touring party of Russian entertainers. She reacted promptly with a shy smile.

The troupe will perform at Massey Hall, then start a three-week concert tour of major Canadian centres under auspices of the Canadian Soviet Friendship Society.

Labor Council Reaffirms Faith In Beggs

The Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TTC-AFL) have taken exception to a recent remark of Mayor Norman Graham in reference to Ald. Bill Beggs that his unions were "losing faith" in him.

In a letter to His Worship, the labor council went on record as "never at any time having expressed any loss of faith in Ald. William Beggs, either as a council member or a union man.

"Furthermore," the letter continued, "we feel that his efforts on behalf of Peterborough are above reproach and worthy of praise. He has, as the lone labor member, conducted himself with all the dignity and honesty of purpose that the office demands.

"We trust this letter may correct any wrong impressions a recent statement of yours (published in The Examer) may have caused."

At a meeting of the sanitation committee of city council a week ago when certain charges by the [illegible] department were being discussed, His Worship said that he had received complaints from Ald. Beggs' own union.

"I say your unions are losing faith in you," Mayor Graham told Ald. Beggs, committee chairman.

"How many unions?" Ald Beggs asked.

"One," the mayor admitted.

"What one is that?"

"The AFL."

(Ald. Beggs is Eastern Ontario staff representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, a CIO-CCL union, unconnected with the AFL.)

Shortage At Camp Said Exaggerated

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Brig. T. G. Gibson, commander of western Ontario army area, today said a report that a shortage of some $250,000 in stores existed at Camp Ipperwash was "largely exaggerated."

A detailed audit by the department of national defence has already reduced discrepancies between stocks on hand and ledger balances to a "nominal sum," he said.

Brig. Gibson refused to place any figure on stores not accounted for.

He said investigation has revealed that the bulk of the discrepancies was in personal clothing.

"Indications are that this was largely due to errors in accounting."

Youth Fails To Swim Swift Moira, Saved

BELLEVILLE (CP) — Leonard Wood, 17, failed Monday in an attempt to swim the swirling Moira river and was rescued by a fully-clothed man who plunged in after him.

Ernest Brooks jumped into the roaring current when he saw Wood swept downstream and hurled against a concrete bridge abutment. With the help of others he carried the semi-conscious boy to safety.

County Roads Stand Up Well

Members of the county council's roads committee on Thursday will complete their annual spring inspection of the 133 miles of county roads.

Last Thursday the committee looked over the county roads and bridges in the seven eastern municipalities of Norwood and Havelock villages, and Belmont, Dummer, Douro, Asphodel and Otonabee townships. The other municipalities will be inspected Thursday.

"The committee felt that the roads were in very good condition for this time of year," said Reeve Ernest J. Leeson, chairman. "As a matter of fact I think they're in the best shape I've ever seen them in the spring."

Reeve Leeson said it was possible that the weekend rain may have softened some of them but the committee would find out first hand on Thursday.

The northern townships of Harvey, Galway-Cavendish, Burleigh-Anstruther and Chandos are not in the county roads system. However they do pay their share on bridges.

The suburban area roads commission, charged with the upkeep of the main traffic arteries leading into Peterborough, will make their annual spring inspection later.

Dies From Injuries Continue Investigation

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Annie Kondrit, 43, died today of head injuries suffered at her home during the week-end. Dr. Smirie Lawson, Ontario's chief coroner, ordered an autopsy as part of the continuing investigation.

The woman's husband, Alex Kondrit, and other roomers at the west-central Peter street house, told police Mrs. Kondrit fell down the stairs.

Mrs. Kondrit was admitted to hospital Sunday but did not regain consciousness.

$40,000 Fire In Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) — Fire raged out of control for more than three hours early today in a three-storey building in downtown Valleyfield. Damage was estimated at $40,000.

The fire broke out in Le Fricot lining rooms and swept through an adjoining hardware store.

Three apartments and two shops suffered damage from smoke and water.

Two firemen, overcome by smoke fumes, were taken to hospital.

Fleeing Driver Trapped, Jailed As Drunk

A game of hide and seek with OPP Constable Jack McKendry on the night of April 13 came to an unhappy ending for Sherman E. Godfrey of Young's Point when he drove his car down a dead-end sideroad. The constable arrested him for drunk driving.

Before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, today, Godfrey pleaded guilty to the chrage and received seven-day sentence in the countly jail. His car was impounded for three months.

Constable McKendry said that he had first noticed Godfrey's car parked without lights on highway 28. As the constable pulled alongside, Godfrey raced away and turned down the road leading to the South Beach hotel. Godfrey pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. Once more the constable pulled alongside and again Godfrey drove off in a hurry.

However, he came to a full stop in the yard of the hotel where the constable arrested him for drunk driving. He said that Godfrey reeked of liquor and was unsteady on his feet.

Godfrey had nothing to say in court.

Court Awards Defendant $435

Judge John de N. Kennedy has found in favor of the defendent, George Bolton of RR 10, Peterborough, in a motor vehicle accident case heard in county court.

Judge Kennedy dismissed the $468 claim by Reginald Hie of Eagle River, and awarded the defendent, Bolton, his counter-claim of $435 and costs of the action.

The action arose after an accident on the Warsaw road last August 4. Evidence was that Hie was on the left-hand side of the road, passing another truck, as he was travelling east from Peterborough. At the same time Bolton was pulling out from a sideroad to turn west.

Left fronts of both trucks came into collision causing extensive damage.

Judge Kennedy found that Hie was negligent in that he wasn't keeping a proper lookout, and he failed to give Bolton half of the road. The onus was on Hie to prove that he wasn't negligent and this he failed to do, the judge ruled.

Counsel for Bolton was Robert H. Carley, and counsel for Hie was Donald Bark.

Miller Doesn't Think Much Of Canada's Track Chances

By GERRY MARTIN

HALIFAX (CP)—Leigh Miller, who should know, doesn't think much of Canada's chances in track and field at the July 30-Aug. 7 British Empire Games at Vancouver. He rates Canada only a chance in the men's sprint relay and possibly in the two-mile race.

Miller, 49, and a native of nearby Elmsdale, N.S., is assistant coach of the Canadian track team. He still is rated as one of Canada's great indoor sprinters 24 years after he burned up tracks in North America.

"Our best chance at Vancouver is in numbers," he said in an interview. "We might pick up some fourths, fifths and sixths and we should be able to place well up in the final point totals."

Miller has beaten the best in his day and for a time was co-holder of the world's 100-yard record. He still likes to get out on the track with the youngsters and he still shows flashes of his old form.

Miller's records on the cinders and on the boards rate with Canada's tops. He was undefeated in outdoor competition in 1929 in Canada and the United States and was unbeaten the next year, that time on the boards.

The wiry little sprinter three times tied the then world's 100-yard record of 9.3 seconds and 10 times covered the distance in 9.4.

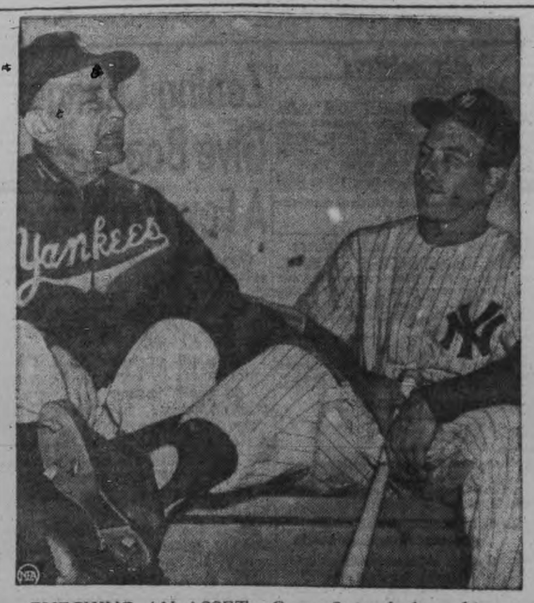
He was Maritime sprint champion from 1925 to 1929, Ontario champ in 1929 and 1930, Canadian champion in 1930 and the same year won the North American sprint title.

Miller, who still is rated as one of Canada's great indoor sprinters 24 years after he burned up tracks in North America, has held coaching jobs in Toronto and Montreal. He now coaches in Halifax. —(CP Photo).

In 1930 he was a member of the Canadian British Empire Games team that set a record of 42.1 seconds for the 400-meter relay. The same year he was picked as a member of the British Empire team to compete against United States athletes.

NOTABLE RECORDS

Miller set an unofficial world's 120-yard record of 11 seconds and set a world record of 6.7 seconds in the 60 meters.



It was in these short distances that Miller's fast start and continuous drive gained him such fame.

Coaching is nothing new to him. He has handled both men's and women's track squads.

Miller was coach of the Toronto Central YMCA team in 1934. A few years later he moved to Montreal where he coached the woman's team at the Montreal Mercury Athletic Club and later was chairman of the Montreal District Federated Recreation Association which sponsored track and field meets in the communities surrounding Montreal.

Coming back to Halifax he took over Saint Mary's University team three years ago and last year was picked as coach of Nova Scotia's track team at the Canadin Olympic training plan schol in Toronto.

He rates two Halifax sprinters, Bill Haley and Jim Warner, among the top four sprinters in Canada today.

Fortin Retains Title; Fights To Draw

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian welterweight champion Claude Fortin retained his title Monday night by fighting to a draw with Montrealer Rocky Brisebois in a 12-round title bout before some 1,000 fans at Mont St. Louis Auditorium.

Brisebois weighed 146½ pounds while Fortin tipped the scale at 145¼.

The unusual decision was announced after two of the three judges scored the fight even despite a Montreal athletic commission unwritten rule that championship fights cannot end in a draw.

Judge Leon Germain and Desse Greene scored five rounds for each fighter and called two even. The other judge, Rene Quimet, had Brisebois the winner eight rounds to four. The decision was based on a judges' majority ruling, not on a total rounds-won basis.

Brisebois lost the title to Fortin on a disputed split decision two months ago and many fans believed that he had won Monday night's bout. Fortin seemed to have the edge in the first five rounds of the televised bout but Brisebois came back strong and the champion came close to being knocked out at the finish. There were no knockdowns.

THROW HIM OUT—Eddie Williams starts to fall out of the ring after being walloped by Doug Kirby, who stopped the Tucson lightweight in the seventh round in San Francisco.

Sudbury Laces Matane 5-3

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves pulled to within one point of winning the Eastern Canada Senior hockey championship when they defeated Matane Red Rocks 5-3 Monday night.

The victory gave the Wolves a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven finals. One game is tied and a victory or a tie for the Wolves here Wednesday would send them into the Allan Cup final.

Monday night's game, seen by an estimated 6,600 fans, was not decided until eight minutes from the end. Matane took a 1-0 lead early in the game but Sudbury bounced back for a 2-1 margin before the first period was over. Matane tied it in the second but the Wolves scored again for a 3-2 lead going into the third.

Before the third period was three minutes old the Red Rocks had deadlocked the score again. But the Wolves fired the winner at 12:06 and salted it away 22 seconds from the end.

Nick Tomiuk, Tatter McClellan, Yogi Kraiger, Ed Harrison and Gordie Heale were the Sudbury snipers. Matane marksmen were Ste. Marie, Gilbert and Bartlett.

ONLY NINE PENALTIES

Only nine penalties were called during the comparatively mild game—all in the first two periods. Sudbury took five of the penalties and Matane took advantage of one of them for a goal. The Wolves scored their first goal while they themselves were at a manpower disadvantage.

A screened shot by Ste. Marie from inside the Sudbury blue line at 1:53 of the first period gave the Red Rocks their only lead of the game. Tomiuk took a pass from Andy Milne and scored on a backhander to tie the score at 7:55.

The Wolves went ahead midway through the period when McClellan split the Matane defence, faked netminder Marcel Paille out of position and lifted the puck into the top corner.

Gilbert tied the score in the second period while Ed Harrison was off for tripping. It came on passes from Leger and Brault after a faceoff inside the Sudbury blue line, Kraiger's blue-line shot carromed off Leduc at 10:08 to send the Wolves ahead 3-2.

TEMPORARY LIFT

In the third period the Red Rocks again got a temporary lift when Bartlett, waiting at centre ice, took a long pass from Leduc inside the Matane zone and broke away to score.

Harrison won the game 10 minutes later when he broke up the ice with King. Only one Matane defenceman was back. King shovelled a pass to Harrison inside the Matane line and Harrison fired the puck into the net after pulling Paille out of position.

Heale rounded out the scoring when his shot went into the empty Matane net at 19:38.

Canada Taking Long Look At Natural Resources

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada is taking a long, unofficial look at her national resources this week.

The country that has become known as a place of endless resources is taking time out to discuss just how far the boom can go.

Some 50 organizations from coast to coast will take part in the talks which begin at Ottawa Thursday. And the delegates have been assured of plenty of material for discussion.

All of Canada's basic industries, with the exception of mining, will be under the eyes of the experts at some time during the two-day meet. Officials point out that such an examination of basic policies toward natural resources hasn't been attempted in 47 years.

With the technological advances that have been made in the interval, conference heads say there is a ready back-log of matter for perusal and discussion.

Government leaders will be keeping a close watch on conference developments. Heads of the federal departments of agriculture, resources and development, trade and commerce, and mines and technical surveys have been invited to sit in on the sessions.

Trade Minister C. D. Howe will open the conference Thursday and Prime Minister St. Laurent will address the group on the final evening.

The morning session Thursday will be devoted to forestry objectives and policies, with R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association as the main speaker. In the afternoon the delegates will turn their attention to national soil and water objectives.

Wildlife and recreational objectives will come under the spotlight Friday.

Philip Opens University

KANDY, Ceylon (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, opening Ceylon's new university at suburban Peradeniya today, told a huge crowd that accumulation of knowledge is dangerous "unless we produce men and women who are wise enough to know how to use it."

With Queen Elizabeth beside him wearing a deep jade dress with matching winged hat, the duke said:

"The free atmosphere of a university is preserved and enhanced by the self-restraint and self-discipline urgently needed to expose prejudice and uncontrolled emotion as the greatest enemies of knowldge and wisdom.

"Science can be turned to useful as well as destructive purposes, and discoveries of those who study human behaviour can be used to enlighten and improve—or hoodwink and bamboozle.

POWER IMMENSE

"The power for both is immense and growing. ... to survive we need men and women of the highest integrity and moral strength to control that power."

Furore Develops Over Hab Failure To Shake Hands

MONTREAL (CP) — The furore over the absence of handshaking by Montreal Canadiens with the Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings blew hot and cold Monday.

Gaye Stewart, Montreal leftwinger, was quoted by a Detroit sports columnist as saying his team-mates were "restrained from higher up" from shaking hands with the Wings. Stewart denied it from his Fort Erie, Ont., home and Marshall Dann, sports columnist for the Detroit Free Press who reported the statement, said he would take Stewart's word for it.

"The report of Stewart's statement was obtained from a reliable and extremely accurate source," Dann said Monday. "But if Stewart has denied it, I will give him all the benefit of the doubt."

Stewart, called up by Canadiens from Buffalo of the American Hockey League and one-time member of the Wings, went to the Detroit victory party after last Friday's 2-1 overtime triumph that gave Wings the cup.

Stewart was quoted as having said: "I guess I should apologize for some of our fellows. They felt like I did and wanted to come out on the ice and shake hands all round. But we were restrained from higher up."

SAYS "BOILING MAD"

Stewart telephoned Canadiens' publicity department at the Montreal Forum Monday to say he was "boiling mad" when he read the statement and that "it wasn't at all correct."

Stewart told the Forum he stayed only a few minutes, saw only a few of the Red Wings and only two newspapermen, Bob Hesketh of the Toronto Telegram and Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star.

Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens said that "as far as I am concerned nobody restrained anybody from shaking hands."

EXPECTED VICTORY

"We never mentioned the possibility of defeat because we expected victory."

Irvin added that three years ago, when Canadiens eliminated the Red Wings in a cup semi-final, "nobody congratulated us from their side."

"I don't want congratulations. I am not bellyaching over the loss and I am not a hypocrite who says one thing and means another."

Fear Can't Hold Defence Line If Indo-China Falls—Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N. H.) said Monday night the joint chiefs of staff fear the United States could not hold a defence line from Hawaii to the Aleutian islands if the Communists should overrun Southeast Asia.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, said in a speech prepared for the Daughters of the American Revolution that "we have made our decision" to attempt to hold Indo-China. The time is at hand, he said, for America's allies to "stand up and be counted or run the risk of disastrous division of the free world."

The New Hampshire senator spoke after Secretary of State Dulles had said, following a conference with President Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., it is "unlikely" that American troops would be sent into Indo-China.

Vice-President Nixon said last Friday U. S. ground troops might be employed there in the unlikely event that the French withdraw their forces—a statement that caused Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.-Colo.) to tell the Senate Monday that Nixon was "whooping it up for war" in Indo-China.

Find Vietminh Infiltrated Through Villages, Cities

Note: Depending upon the turn of events at Geneva next week, Indo-China may be barely outside the grasp of international communism. That was reported by William L. Ryan Monday in the first of a series of articles. Today Ryan discusses the strength of the Vietminh military forces which spearhead the Communist campaign. Ryan toured Indo-China this month, then returned to Singapore to write his findings free of censorship.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP)—A cluster of Tonkinese peasants watched stolidly as our jeep drove by. Their faces were inscrutable under their big, round, pointed straw hats.

"These people," said a French officer, gesturing, "maybe they are Vietminh. Maybe they are not. One never knows."

"Who are the Vietminh? Where are they? Who knows? They are everywhere."

HEAVILY GUARDED

That is why, in the Tonkin delta area of north Indo-China, everything that might possibly be damaged by sabotage is heavily guarded by barbed wire and watched by armed guards.

The French admit that inside Hanoi, capital of Tonkin, there are at least two armed battalions of Vietminh in hiding, ready to rise when and if the signal is given.

The French nominally control all the delta area, an expanse of swampy ricefields and dense forests surrounding 5,400 villages and harboring 7,000,000 persons. But Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indo-China, an outstanding and colorful officer, says the Vietminh in this area has 30 battalions of regular troops, 15 "regional" battalions, 100 "district" companies and about 50,000 guerrillas.

VILLAGERS TERRORIZED

They hold more than 2,000 villages in the delta and terrorize at least another 2,000.

The Vietminh has forces scattered all through Viet Nam, though almost none in the neighboring associated states of Laos and Cambodia. Saigon, a comfortable modern city which you'd hardly guess from a glance is the nerve centre of a nation at war, often experiences stab "attente" attacks on its outskirts, particularly in the heavily Chinese area of Cholon. An "attente" attack is simply a foray to show the Vietminh are still around.

"The Viet is a damn good soldier," a tough French parachute troop noncom said. "He can march harder and longer than any soldier in the world and on less food."

Total mobilization has been enforced in the areas controlled by the Vietminh. The army is organized in a sort of ladder. At the top are the regulars, the main striking arm. These are the best trained and best equipped. There are seven divisions of regulars in all, or about 110,000 men.

Local defence is the next rung of the ladder, the provincial or regional troops used both in Communist-held and non-Communist areas. These also are regulars, but they are not so well trained and equipped. They are stationed in their respective areas as a corps of defence. They provide help in their respective areas as a corps of defence. They provide help in offensive actions when the regulars reach their areas and are invaluable because they know their country well. The regional troops also form a pool from which the Vietminh make up losses among the regulars.

FORCED TO WORK

Next down the ladder, district companies consist largely of irregulars. They have charge of the corps of boys, women and old men impressed into labor battalions. This group forms a pool for reginal troops.

A never-ending process of conscription, training and shifting keeps the Vietminh ranks from being depleted by heavy losses inflicted in battle.

Some French authorities say the Vietminh has reached the maximum number it can recruit in this way.

The Vietminh are having other troubles. They have a problem of supply. Heavy weapons and supplies for the Dien Bien Phu assault have been coming by trucks, Molotov trucks shipped down from Russia through China. But soon the rains will be coming, the steady pelting monsoon rains of Southeast Asia. Already it has been raining in the northwest. In a few weeks the rains will become torrents and will cut roads much better than air attack could.

CANADIAN farmers know the struggle, at maple sugar time, of hauling the sap to the sugar house — especially if there has been an early thaw. So we were interested in hearing how one farmer, who used aluminum tubing for summer irrigation, also used it as a spring pipeline to carry the sap from his trees to the sugar house some distance away.

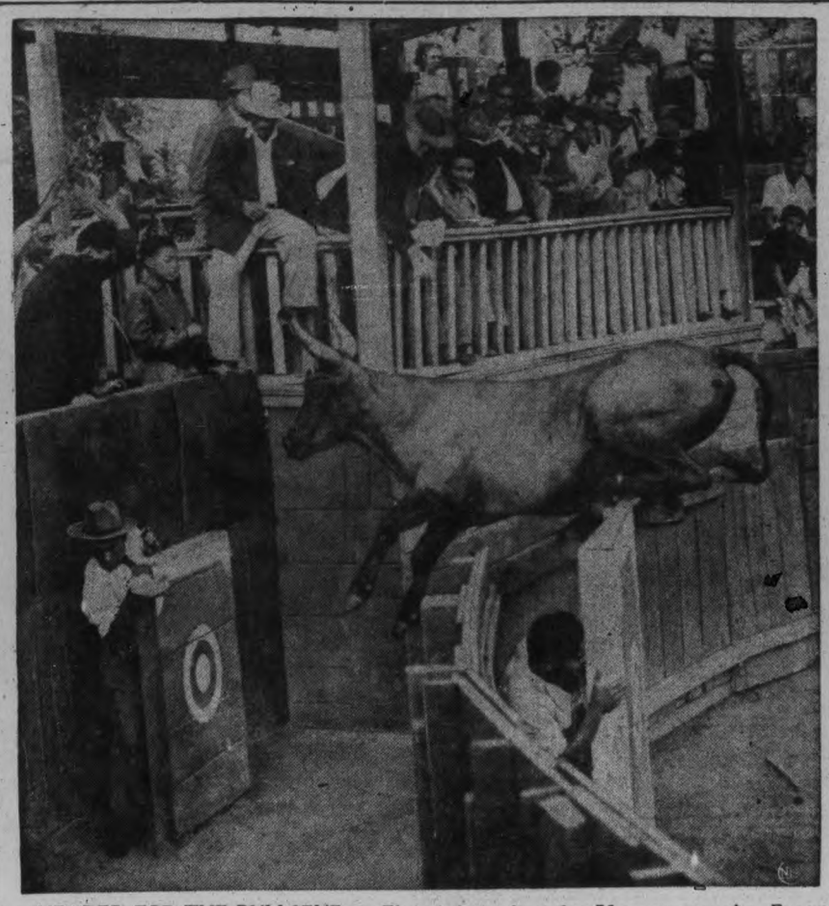
Light, strong, easily handled aluminum has a way of stimulating people's ingenuity in their search for short cuts that will save them time and money. Today more than a thousand different Canadian firms are manufacturing articles made from aluminum supplied by Alcan. (Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd.)

Launch Inquiry On Comic Books

NEW YORK (AP)—An investigation into "sadistic comic books and their impact upon adolescents" will be launched today by a U.S. Senate judiciary sub-committee on juvenile delinquency.

Senator Robert C. Hendrickson (Rep. N.J.) said Monday "we are conducting these hearings in New York, the heart of the comic book industry, because of the thousands of letters we have received in which the writers expressed deepest concern over comic books and other mass media of communication."

Hendrickson said the sub-committee is "vitally interested in evaluating the impact of horror and crime comics upon the young mind. I refer to comics. . . which glorify graft and corruption and ridicule honesty or produce fantastic pictures of violence, brutality and torture."



Group Of Chinese Hold Decoration Day

A group of some 12 Chinese commemorated the passing of their fellow countrymen with special graveside rites in Little Lake cemetery, Sunday. The occasion, their decoration day, occurs twice a year, in the spring and fall season.

The ceremony included placing fruit and drink on the graves and the lighting of incense sticks. Prayers were said and a potted plant placed over each grave. Firecrackers were set off to conclude the ceremony.

Lutheran Membership

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Lutheran Church in America reported Monday its membership reached 2,143,020 in 1953, an increase of 55,075 or 2.6 per cent. Dr. F. Epping Reinartz, church secretary, said 51 new congregations were added during the year, bringing the total to 4,304.

HEADED FOR THE BULLSEYE — El Torro jumps the fence at a Caracas, Venezuela, bull-fighting school sending the manager, at left, scampering for safety behind a barrier. The bugler, in centre stand, was signalling for the removal of the bull after 15 minutes of action. Youngsters between 10 and 20 years of age learn the art of bull fighting here for 75 cents a week. Every Sunday they face a live bull for 15 minutes. The bulls charge the youngsters head on, sometimes the students leap the fence for safety and sometimes El Torro jumps the fence in pursuit of the aspiring bull fighters. No one was hurt and the bull was led back to the corral.

Discuss Teachers' Problems At Convention

TORONTO (CP)—Every teacher is faced with the problem of a child running home from his first day at school, an educationist said Monday.

Dr. Stanley Montgomery, director of the suburban East York and Leaside child guidance clinic, said that is why it is important to have a favorite classroom climate in the first few weeks of kindergarten.

Dr. Montgomery was one of many speakers at separate meetings in the first day of the 95th annual convention of the Ontario Education Association. The convention ends April 22.

Dr. Montgomery told a luncheon meeting of school inspectors that in some cases a fear of school had been instilled by an adult or another child. It was necessary to have such children relearn the place of the school.

Dr. Ruth E. Grout, professor at the University of Minnesota, told the physical education and school health section that teamwork is essential in community health programs.

Natural leaders of the community should be sought, she said, and these include anyone from the housewife to the bartender who is recognized by the community as a leader.

Dr. Delbert Obertauffer of the University of Ohio, said the human being is meant to lead an active life and it is the opportunity of physical education teachers to pass on skills and abilities.

He addressed 200 physical education teachers. He said he had noticed in Canada that sport is a part of the very fabric of life.

Dr. J. G. Althouse, chief director department of education, told the Secondary School Headmasters' Association to do less lamenting about quality of students and more positive work to improve them.

WOULD ABOLISH VOCATIONAL

A suggestion to abolish all vocational and commercial schools in favor of straight secondary schools was given by D. A. Lambert, superintendent of production at Ford of Canada's Oakville plant. He was speaking to the Ontario Industrial Council.

He said the plan would be possible if industry would revert to a system of apprenticeship training. The loss of skills by indifference to apprenticeship threatened to undermine the industrial future of Canada.

A four-way Catholic educational conference also began Monday. It included sessions for the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association and the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations.

Speakers at the Catholic educators general meeting were J.C. Doyle, separate schools inspector from Peterborough who discussed the problem of teacher supply, and F. J. McDonald, inspector of separate schools from Ottawa.

Dr. Margaret S. McCready, Guelph, president of the OEA will preside at the general meeting of the 30 or more units in the convention tonight.

Plan Lake St. Clair Bass Census To Determine Fishing Season

AYLMER, Ont. (CP)—Fish experts in a fleet of boats are going to pry into the sex life, food habits and birth statistics of Lake St. Clair bass next month to try to improve fishing conditions.

The bass census will be based on Mitchell's bay, said to be one of the best fishing grounds in Ontario for smallmouth bass.

A. H. Berst, district fisheries biologist of the Ontario lands and forests division here, says the fish experts will be out from May to mid-summer collecting reproductive organs of fish from anglers' catches and checking water and food conditions.

Purpose of the survey is to find out exactly when the fish are busy spawning. Fishing seasons can then be adjusted to give the bass time to reproduce before they are caught, thus leaving a new crop for next year's fishermen.

OPENING DATE CHANGED

Opening date for bass fishing in the lake now is June 25. A study of reproductive conditions in Long Point bay in Lake Erie, 20 miles south of Brantford, showed that a large proportion of the bass were engaged in reproductive activities up to July 1. As a result, the open season for Long Point was changed to July 1.

The reproductive organs taken from caught fish are carefully preserved and examined in the laboratory to find out the sexual maturity of the fish, ratio of males and females, whether the fish had completed its spawning and other data.

Preliminary studies of Lake St. Clair fishing have been made, says Mr. Berst, but a detailed check now is needed because more and more people are fishing there.

Beachcomber On Way Out On British Columbia Coast

VANCOUVER (CP) — The old-fashioned beachcomber and the modern log pirate are about to "walk the plank" on the British Columbia coast.

Logging and insurance firms with the provincial government have moved to put a phase of the beachcombing industry—worth an estimated $600,000 to $1,000,000 annually—on a business-like basis.

A tremendous number of logs go adrift every year as they are towed in booms along the coast to mills in the Vancouver area.

From a dozen ports around the Gulf of Georgia and the mouth of the Fraser river, the beachcombers—like old-time hit-and-run pirates—nip out in boats to herd the drifting logs into sheltered coves.

At today's prices, a collection of good saw-logs is worth plenty. Beach residents can pick themselves up a bonus of $30 to $40 by towing a drifting log over to the nearest mill.

Insurance companies or the owners have been paying from $3 to $10 in salvage fees for stamped logs. If logs can't be identified, beachcombers sell them on the open market.

The real villain of the plot, however, is the log pirate. He may fish a log out of an anchored boom while using a respectable fishing trip as a guise for his nocturnal wanderings.

Or he may aid the escape of logs by a number of sharp practices which include "accidentally" bumping into a loose end log on a boom.

By a government order-in-council, beachcombers will now have to pay a substantial licence fee—$50 the first year and $10 a year thereafter. Licences will also be confined to persons of good repute.

But the big blow to the free-lance comber is the log salvage co-operative—financed by underwriters and the logging industry itself.

Authority to deal in beachcombed logs will be confined to 20 receiving stations on the coast, maintained by the co-operative. They will pay roughly 50 per cent of the market value of salvaged logs.

U.S. Planes Fly Parachutists From Paris To Indo-China

Mrs. Petrov Taken To Join Refugee Husband

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—Mrs. Evokiya Petrov, heavily veiled, has flown from here early today in an Australian C-47 to join her refugee husband Vladimir in his secret hiding-place in South Australia.

Before leaving, Mrs. Petrov laughed and joked in the grounds of Government House in this northern Australian territory, 48 hours after Russian guards had hustled her onto a plane at Sydney, a frightened woman with eyes red from crying.

Her guards are now en route back to Moscow after the wife of the defecting chief of Soviet secret police in Australia was snatched to safety by Australian police at the airport here Tuesday.

The Soviet embassy in Canberra meanwhile came through with its expected charge — that Vladimir Petrov had stolen "large sums" of embassy funds by forgery. This charge had been awaited ever since the Australian government announced last week that Petrov had fled the embassy with a mass of documents exposing a Russian spy ring in Australia.

In a note to the Australian government, the embassy said Petrov's story of a widespread Soviet spy plot was without foundation, and the mass of "espionage" documents he had given Australian authorities might be forgeries.

MENZIES EXPECTED MOVE

Prime Minister Menzies said in a statement later that his government will ask for particulars of the alleged thefts.

"I have been eagerly awaiting charges of theft and forgery, these being strictly to the pattern of the Gouzenko case in Canada," he said. "My only surprise is that the (Soviet) embassy should have to wait so long for its instructions."

(Similar charges were made by the Russians when Igor Gouzenko, code clerk in the Soviet embassy at Ottawa, fled under much the same conditions as Petrov and took with him documents which led to the Canadian spy trials of 1946.)

"The Australian people won't be slow to appreciate that this allegation that Petrov is a criminal and

Dulles Sees Great Progress In NATO Work

PARIS (AP)—U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles arrived here today to attend the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to consult with Western allies on strategy for the Geneva conference.

He was greeted at the airport by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault who will be his guest at a private dinner this evening when they will review the Indo-Chinese question and other problems coming up at Geneva.

Dulles told newspaper men that Friday's NATO meeting is of "special significance for one of its purposes is to take notice of the act that five years ago this month the North Atlantic Treaty was signed."

"In the past five years," Dulles said, "we have made impressive progress in translating the symbolic act of banding together in the midst of a common danger into the reality of an effective common defence."

NO MENTION

Dulles made no mention of the talks he plans to have in Paris on the Geneva conference beginning next Monday.

An informed U.S. source here said flatly that the U.S. will stand by its decision to oppose an expected Russian move to turn the Geneva meeting into a "Big Five" conference with Red China, even if such opposition breaks up the conference.

Leaving Washington Tuesday night, Dulles implied this would be his stand. He reiterated that U.S. participation at Geneva "does not imply our diplomatic recognition of Red China." The U.S. insists that the Peiping regime is an invited participant, not a big-power instigator of the meeting starting April 26.

The U.S. diplomat said he is going to Geneva to seek an "honorable peace in Indo-China and a free, united Korea."

Dulles planned to see Foreign Minister Bidault tonight at a private dinner. It is expected that the critical Indo-China situation and how to deal with it at Geneva will be discussed.

Foreign Secretary Eden arrives from London late Thursday. U.S. sources said there probably will be at least one Big Three meeting before the departure for Geneva at the end of the week.

A major procedural problem coming up is whether the West will agree to let Moscow-backed Ho Chi Minh, leader of the rebel Vietminh fighting the French in Indo-China, sit in at the Geneva discussions on that country. The U.S. is understood to be opposed to this, but not to the extent of breaking up the conference over it.

Many Cars Stranded In Prairie Blizzard

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Tractors, snowmobiles and teams of horses patrolled a 50-mile stretch of southern Saskatchewan highway Tuesday night, rescuing motorists trapped when their cars stalled in four-foot drifts caused by an unexpected spring blizzard.

There were no immediate reports of injuries among the undisclosed number of stranded motorists. Most vehicles were stalled in drifts or ditches between Assiniboia and Ardill on the highway leading south from Moose Jaw to the international border.

Old Gusher Spews Oil On Shady Avenue

CLEVELAND (AP)—An old oil well spewed "black gold" over shady Lake avenue Tuesday, and the inhabitants of the pleasant residential section were anything but pleased.

A gusher, coming just before the start of evening rush-hour traffic, shot as high as the five-storey apartment buildings along the tree-lined street. Before the abandoned well was plugged it had splattered nearby trees and lawns with oil and turned the avenue into a slippery mess.

Cars were detoured temporarily. The odor of natural gas lingered in the vicinity long after the well was stopped, and "No Smoking" signs were posted to avoid explosions.

The area is the site of an old oil-field. The value of the property is such that any attempt to drill for oil there is considered financially unwise.

Accident Looks Like Battlefield

TORONTO (CP) — Nine persons were injured Tuesday night when a police motorcycle collided with a car and bounced into a crowd on the sidewalk at a west-central intersection.

Witnesses said the scene resembled a battlefield at first as injured men, women and children lay on the sidewalk moaning. There were about 100 persons on the corner at the Bathurst and College street intersection at the time.

Constable Bob Duncan of the police traffic squad suffered concussion after his machine hit the group and crashed against a wall. Salvadoro Dicarlo, 31, received a broken leg. The others, including two children, suffered minor bruises and cuts.

Police said the motorcycle mounted the curb after colliding with a car driven by Sidney Reynolds, 32. Reynolds was charged with careless driving.

Police Arrest Two In Bank Conspiracy

TORONTO (CP) — A two-week investigation by Toronto and Windsor police ended Tuesday night with the arrest here of two men on charges of conspiracy to steal $5,600 from a Toronto branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Charged are John Claire Misner, 28 - year - old assistant accountant employed at the Toronto bank, and Clifford L. Hanna, 26, also of Toronto.

Police charge that Misner made out necessary documents to enable Hanna to draw cash at an out-of-town branch of the bank.

Soviet Has Biggest Budget Yet

Plan To Spend 17.8 Per Cent For Russian Defence

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today announced for 1954 the biggest budget in its history. It includes 100,300,000,000 rubles, 17.8 per cent, for defence.

(The Russians set an exchange rate of four rubles to the dollar. That would make the allotment for the armed forces $25,075,000,000.)

The record budget estimated total revenue during the year at 571,800,000,000 rubles and expenditures at 562,700,000,000, providing an anticipated surplus of 9,100,000,000 rubles.

Western observers in Moscow say it is difficult to understand the Soviet Union's defence appropriations. For one thing, the state owns and runs the entire economy, fixing its own prices on any equipment needed for the armed forces.

(Western observers also have long been convinced that much Soviet military spending is concealed under other budget categories.)

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev presented the budget bill to the newly elected Supreme Soviet (parliament at a session attended by Premier Malenkov and other leaders of his government and the Communist party.

The parliament by acclamation gave Malenkov and his entire cabinet a mandate to continue in office.

OPENS FIRST SESSION

The new Soviet opened its first session Tuesday night. Approval of the budget is the main business of the meeting, expected to last the rest of this week. It has not been announced whether Malenkov or any other top official will make a policy speech to the parliament.

The 1954 defence appropriation was almost 10 per cent less than the 1953 allotment of 110,200,000,000 rubles. That previous expenditure had represented a decrease of 3,600,000,000 rubles from the 1952 outlay for the armed forces.

By contrast, the total revenues and expenditures represented a continuing rise. The 1954 estimated income is up 28,500,000,000 rubles from 1953's 543,300,000,000; 1954 expenditure is 32,200,000,000 rubles more than last year's 530,5000,000.

In contrast to the decrease in the defence appropriation, such other major categories of spending as social services, education and insurance were increased. This was certain to be a large talking point in the Soviet Union's international policies.

Red Sullivan Sold To Chicago

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins today sold centre George (Red) Sullivan to Chicago Black Hawks for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Sullivan, 25-year-old native of Peterborough, was top scorer for Hershey, Boston farm in the American Hockey League, last season. He has been a pro for four years and played part of two seasons with the Bruins.

Frank Holly of St. Catharines, along with his passenger, Margaret Butler of Port Hope, were first treated at Cobourg hospital then rushed to the Peterborough Civic Hospital. Holly, who suffered a fractured jaw, fractured pelvis, facial cuts and internal injuries is still in serious condition today after "just a fair night." Miss Butler who suffered severe facial cuts, especially to her left eye, condition is only fair.—(Murray Smith Photo)

Windshield Damage Spreads To Toronto, Hamilton Area

TORONTO (CP)—Whether its fiction or fancy, or just plain old-fashioned gravel, the plague of the pockmarked auto windshields continued to spread in Toronto today and is reported to have hit cars in Hamilton.

More than 60 Toronto car-owners and operators of used car lots reported affliction by the mystery blight which has hit thousands of cars from Halifax to Vancouver. Drivers of the Toronto Transit Commission and Grey Coach Lines also reported bus windshield pockmarks.

And while scientists scoff at the phenomenon, first reported in the Pacific northwest three weeks ago, many motorists are inclined to believe the markings are caused by some new, unknown factor.

Motorists have described the mysterious markings in a variety of ways from liquid splotches to metallic dust that pits windshields with indentations when wiped away.

Dr. Karl Buckthought, physicist of the University of Toronto, said it is "conceivable" the baffling marks are in some way connected with the H-bomb explosions in either the Pacific or Siberia.

OLD-FASHIONED CAUSES

Meanwhile one of the largest producers of safety glass said that the pit - marks on windshields are caused by plain old-fashioned cinders, sand, salt and gravel used to de-ice roads during winter, and that the pock - marking was a normal seasonal driving condition.

Dr. R. R. McLaughlin, head of the chemical engineering department at Toronto University suggested the plague might be a hoax.

"Why should glass alone and not other substances be affected?" he asked.

A detailed examination in the Ontario research foundation laboratories began today as scientists placed "crumbs" of the coatings under microscopes for study.

One used car operator said the damage to windshields on his cars would run into thousands of dollars. Hope that car insurance would take care of the damage was squelched when insurance men said that ordinary fire and theft insurance would not cover the damage.

Many other used car lot owners said their cars are unaffected.

Dr. Andrew R. Gordon, head of the University of Toronto's chemistry department, was inclined to dismiss the "radiolarian" theory advanced by British Columbia scientists.

U.S. Fortunate To Have Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — John Hanna, assistant U. S. defence secretary, Tuesday urged Americans to remember that between the United States and Russia lies only Canada—"but thank God, Canada is there!"

"I am afraid a great many Americans are not adequately aware how fortunate we are to have as our nearest neighbor on the side in which the danger lies an ally on whom we can depend absolutely," Hanna said.

The American official who also is U. S. chairman of the Canada-United States joint defence board spoke at a reception given by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to announce the distribution of a new booklet on Canada. Its aim is to inform those Americans who know little about the northern domain.

The booklet presents facts about Canada's history, population, government, economy, climate and other subjects.

Hanna told of the air raid warning system across northern Canada on which the U. S. depends for defence.

"To have the benefit of an early warning of attack we must place our picket lines far to the north, within Canadian territory. . . .

"Happily, the Canadians understand these things; they see that the defence of our two countries must be operated as a close partnership. They appreciate fully that for both of us, the only defence is a continental defence."

Blast, Fire Destroy Building

DESERONTO, Ont. (CP)—Fire destroyed the five-storey building of the Redi-Heat Company Tuesday night. Loss included machinery and a large stock of materials and small appliances.

Police said a responsible business man, whose name they did not disclose, said he watched a car drive up to the building minutes before an explosion started the fire. He said the car drove off immediately after the blast.

No estimate of damage was available.

Flames raced quickly through the old building on the shores of the Bay of Quinte in this community 17 miles east of Belleville. Flames leaped more than 1,000 feet into the air and residents from up to 15 miles away were attracted by the glow in the sky.

The building was taken over by Sig Wessman about 20 years ago for the manufacture of small electric appliances.

Queen May Have Homes Abroad

LONDON (CP) — The Weekly News, a British newspaper which devotes considerable space to royal activities, says today the Queen is bringing back from her round-the-world tour a plan for a permanent royal residence in every Commonwealth country.

The Weekly News describes this as "the most startling new royal plan since King Edward VII made the first great Empire tour to Canada last century." (Edward VII visits Canada and the United States in 1860. He was then Lord Renfrew).

The Weekly News says the Queen's plan includes provision for residences in Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and the Central African Federation. It was based, the paper said, on an informal proposal by the Australian government concerning a royal residence "down under."

The question of royal residence outside Britain, with its result of increasingly frequent royal visits to Commonwealth countries, has been raised from time to time in British newspapers.

Today a Buckingham Palace spokesman said any suggestion of royal residences abroad raises complex constitutional problems that would have to be considered at high level.

Soviet Ambassador "Ill" In Australia

ANBERRA (CP)—Soviet ambassador Nikolai Generalov is ill, embassy telephone operators told callers today.

It is known the ambassador has consulted a Canberra doctor about his health. However, embassy press attache G. I. Kharikovetz told reporters he knew nothing about the ambassador being ill. "Maybe he has a cold or something," Kharikovetz said.

There was speculation that Generalov was feeling the strain of the Petrov case—the defection of Vladimir Petrov and his wife, employees at the embassy, who have accepted asylum in Australia.

Troops Shifted To Far East To Help Save Fort

PARIS (AP)—The United States Air Force is ferrying French paratroopers to Indo-China for later dropping into Dien Bien Phu. This was confirmed today here and in Washington. Charles Wilson, U.S. secretary of defence, said the 8,500-mile operation "is in line with present United States policy and in conformity with our existing military assistance program." He added it was undertaken at the request of the French government.

The parachute troops are being flown from France to Indo-China in C-124 Globemasters. The Douglas planes belong to the air force tactical command. They will return to home bases in the United States, the air force said.

The troops are to be landed in non-combat areas. Planes piloted by French airmen or American civilians will shuttle them to the besieged fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indo-China.

The troops — believed to number at least 1,000 — were flown from Paris' Orly airfield Tuesday. At last word, they had not yet reached Indo-China.

WON'T GIVE DETAILS

Officials would not say how many troops are being ferried, but Pierre de Chevigne, French army secretary, addressed the 7th battalion of French commando paratroops Sunday and told them they were leaving immediately for Indo-China without the month's leave usually granted before overseas duty.

"You leave in exceptional circumstances," Chevigne told the troops, "which have forced us to call on you for sacrifices.

"To aid our comrades at Dien Bien Phu we are putting into the battle all our forces.

"You yourself may have the glory of fighting at Dien Bien Phu."

U.S. SUPPLYING PLANES

The U. S. already is supplying the French with fighters, attack bombers and transport planes for use against the Vietminh. Some 200 U. S. air force ground personnel have been stationed in Indo-China to help maintain these planes.

Pearson Confers With Officials In England

LONDON (CP) — Canadian External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson left here by air for Paris today after conferring with British and Australian foreign ministers on next week's Geneva conference on the Far East.

He will attend a meeting of the NATO council, executive body of the 14-nation Atlantic pact, in Paris before going on to Geneva.

Today he conferred with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Australian External Affairs Minister Richard Casey at the foreign office before lunching with Eden.

Pearson was accompanied to the Eden dinner by Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner.

Pearson was among the guests at a Tuesday night dinner given by Robertson in Mayfair. Others attending included Eden and Field Marshal Earl Alexander, Britain's defence minister, and former governor-general of Canada.

Richard Casey, Australia's minister of foreign affairs, also attended. "We talked shop," Casey later told reporters.

Pearson planned to fly to Paris later today for talks among NATO foreign ministers starting Friday —Pearson's 57th birthday.

General Asks Aid For Wounded

HANOI (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries sent out an urgent appeal today for milk and fruit juices to be dropped to the growing ranks of wounded trapped inside the Communist-ringed French Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

The commander of the beleaguered fortress addressed his appeal to the French and Viet Namese people of Hanoi.

The French have been unable since March 25 to get a plane in to evacuate the hundreds of wounded inside the fortress because of the constant pounding of the airstrip by mortar and artillery fire from the Vietminh besiegers. That was 12 days after the Vietminh launched their first all-out assault by suicidal waves of fanatical troops to seize the fortress.

The Vietminh have ignored repeated appeals by the French to stop firing long enough to permit evacuation of the wounded.

'You Can't Escape Her'

Shapely Blonde Ghost Chases Father, Five Sons

DUDLEY, England (Reuters)—Ed Westwood says that Marilyn, a shapely blonde ghost who wears lipstick, is chasing him and his five grown-up sons.

She put on a siege five months ago when the Westwoods lived in a 100-year-old house which used to be a tavern called the Jolly Colliers. Ed and his wife, Sarah, and their five sons said the ghost teased them so much they had to get out.

They moved to a new government housing project, certain that no respectable English ghost would stoop to haunt a place so modern.

But Marilyn, clearly, is not respectable. She has moved with them, Ed said Tuesday, and is rapidly bringing on a collective nervous breakdown.

Things are just as bad as they were at the Jolly Colliers. Marilyn lies low until everybody is asleep. Then she drifts brazenly in through the window.

RINGS BELLS ANYWAY

There aren't any alarm clocks in the Westwood home, but she sets off alarm bells anyway.

Then, advancing in her Grecian white robes, she rocks their beds so hard they fall onto the floor.

Two of the Westwood boys have lost their jobs because of lack of sleep.

And the whole family is sleeping in the kitchen, hoping that Marilyn follows the maxim that in numbers there is strength.

Ed applied to the Dudley housing committee for an unhaunted house.

"No," said the committee chairman. "I don't classify ghosts as a reasonable excuse for wanting to move."

Ottawa Girl Spied On Students For F.B.I. While Attending U.S. College; Sorry Now

OTTAWA (CP)—Daphne Price is slightly bewildered.

The 19-year-old Ottawa-born girl found herself sought by reporters and photographers Tuesday after an affidavit signed by her was published in a Detroit newspaper stating that she spied on some fellow students while a co-ed at the University of Michigan.

She told reporters at a press conference here that she is sorry for her spying now. Later in an interview, she said she could not understand why her activities should have aroused so much interest. She was just "too tired" to say any more.

Miss Price, a small high-strung girl with shoulder-length brown hair, said she made reports to the FBI on Edward H. Shaffer of Pittsburgh, a graduate student, and a "few others."

Shaffer, whose name also was signed to the published affidavit, has been subpoenaed to appear in May before the sub-committee of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee. It will investigate reports of Communist activities in Michigan educational institutions and labor unions.

REPORTED TO FBI

The blue-eyed daughter of Percival Price, professor of campanology at the University in Ann Arbor, and former Dominion carillonneur, said she reported to the FBI by telephone and at meetings with FBI agents. She said, however, that she did not work for the FBI and received no money for her information.

Miss Price, a political science student at Ann Arbor for almost three years and now a civil servant here, said she began associating with persons she believed to have Communist leanings early last December. Robert Klinger, assistant councillor for foreign students, had advised her to take what she learned to the FBI.

She said an article in the Michigan Daily, campus newspaper, about a year ago on left-wing activities at the university mentioned Shaffer "at great length." She added, however, that "if Shaffer is a Communist, he is a Red in the way a person is a Catholic or a Jew. He has a different philosophy of life."

She had given general information to the FBI, but "I cannot say how many reports I made." She had decided, without consulting the FBI, to tell Shaffer late in March that she had been informing on him and others.

"I did so because I began to wonder if what I was doing was morally right. I then felt it was a wrong thing to do to a friend." She declined to say whether she had been in love with Shaffer.

She and Shaffer had drawn up the affidavit and signed it before a notary, Shaffer, she said, wanted the affidavit to show his friends in writing what she had done.

He had also wanted it for his protection, "so I could not be called up and used as a friendly witness" against him, and as assurance that she was telling the truth. "He felt I was naive and weak for what I had done."

Labor Groups Protest Red Hearings

Some Gov't Ministers At Ottawa Receive Red Unions

OTTAWA (CP)— Canada's two largest labor groups have complained to the federal government against some of its ministers giving hearings to Communist-dominated unions.

The protests were made, it was learned today, by the presidents of the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

Presidents Percy Bengough of the TLC and A. R. Mosher of the CCL recently signed a joint letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent and other cabinet members asking them to explain why they have been receiving delegations from Red-led unions after encouraging the two congresses to kick such unions out of their ranks.

They complained particularly about ministers in recent weeks sitting in with representatives of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), both evicted from the CIO and the CCL because of Red influence.

The two unions sent delegations to Ottawa to call for action on unemployment. They met Labor Minister Gregg and a few other cabinet ministers.

MET FULL CABINET

The two congresses, regarded as the chief spokesmen for Canadian labor before the government, met the full cabinet earlier. So did the anti-Communist Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, with 100,000 members, and the 40,000 member Dominion joint legislative committee of the railway brotherhoods.

In taking a stand against cabinet ministers receiving officials of Red-run unions, the TLC and CCL noted that statements attributed to Mr. St. Laurent in the Far East recently indicated Canada's possible recognition of the Communist Chinese regime eventually.

They asked if the government now is "recognizing" Red unions at home.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Gregg would reply later. The labor minister now is in the Maritimes.

Not So Slow 45 Years Ago

The classified advertisement section of The Examiner 45 years ago sold a Hapy Thought range for Fred T. Tuggey. This "for sale ad" also disposed of a coal or wood cook stove.

Mr. Tuggey found a copy of the "ad" yesterday in some old papers he was clearing out. It had been clipped from The Examiner, and pasted on a business card of The Morning Times which was mailed to him suggesting that he should run the advertisement in "one of the brightest morning papers in Canada." The charge was ten cents for twenty words, and six consecutive days for 25 cents.

Of interest to Mr. Tuggey was the enterprising practice in 1909 by which newspapers combed the advertising columns of a competitor for business leads. It is a common method of classified departments' today.

"I guess the newspapers weren't so slow 45 years ago," Mr. Tuggey remarked. Apart from that questing in the Times office, probably on Hunter St., in the premises vacated by the Regent Theatre on Hunter St., the fact that The Examiner for sale "add" sold the Tuggey range and stove.

Employment Up In March For First In Several Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment rose during March for the first time in several months, though unemployment also showed a slight increase.

In its monthly survey of employment, the government reported today that the March figures indicate the winter low in economic activity probably was reached in late February.

Labor department figures showed that at March 18 a total of 569,898 were looking for work through the government's national employment service—a post-war high.

This is a new high since the Second World War. The previous top was about 559,000 at Feb. 18. Before last winter's employment slump, the high was 434,000 in the dull spring of 1950 that preceded an upsurge of work touched off largely by the war in Korea.

The government does not regard the NES figures as indicating absolute unemployment, noting that many persons register for work with the service while just transferring from one job to another. However, they afford comparative statistics.

The government's view is that the actual unemployment figure is to be found somewhere between the NES total and considrably-lower figures issued simultaneously by its bureau of statistics, which conducts a monthly questionnaire of 30,000 households. No advance bureau figures were available.

Mario Braggiotti To Give Recital

Mario Braggiotti, one of the most colorful names in the concert field at present, will give a piano recital in the PCVS auditorium this Friday evening, commencing at 8.15 o'clock.

Presented by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority as a part of their program to promote the arts and culture, the major portion of the proceeds from this concert will be given to the Peterborough and District Association for Retarded Children—a new organization deserving of support and assistance.

The internationally know pianist, once of the two piano team of Fray and Braggiotti, is playing solo now, and winning further successes. In addition to the traditional classics and art works, he offers interludes of improvisations and musical caricatures.

A typical program might open with early compositions of little known composers, often arranged in the Braggiotti manner. Then comes a Beethoven sonata, a group of Debussy and a group of fiery Spanish works. One of the Gershwin concerti, his own solo arrangement, usually follows, for Braggiotti was a close friend of the American composer and one of the first to play the piano part of "An American in Paris."

Braggiotti was born in Florence where his father was a celebrated singing teacher, his mother an American from Boston. He is one of eight children all of whom have become importantly identified with the artistic life of two continents.

This artist returned just recently to United States from an extended concert tour in Europe.

Fears World On Way To Destruction

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur L. Phelps, retired professor of English at McGill University, said Tuesday night the world is well on the way to its own destruction.

Addressing more than 500 delegates to the 94th annual Ontario educational association convention, he said:

"To this point we have come in 1954: We are literally ready—that is, in our minds — for anything, even for the destruction of our world."

He said he deplores the growing tendency to regard human life as cheap.

"Perhaps we are becoming more realistic. Perhaps we are coming rapidly and surely to the point where the respect for human life, as such, is disappearing among us."

CRITICIZES CRITICS

Dr. S. R. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, told delegates to the Ontario Home and School annual convention that current criticism of Canadian schools is particularly dangerous because it is based on the views of persons who have not spent a full day in a school room in 25 years. Some also comes from those who are just "sounding off," he said.

"You get periodic criticism about welfare services and medical services and, now, about education. Sometimes this criticism is justified, but usually it is not."

Mrs. A. R. Moore of Stratford said there seems to be a probability of the Ontario education department fixing a salary scale for teachers. She spoke at a meeting of the trustees' and ratepayers' section of the Ontario Educational Association.

Denied Food To Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ex-prisoner of war said today Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson pushed a sick PoW down some stairs after the ailing man had asked Dickenson for food.

This incident was described by Staff Sgt. John A. Davis of Niagara Falls, N. Y., who stared at Dickenson with unmasked hate during his appearance in the witness chair. It was the third day of Dickenson's court martial on charges of collaborating with the Chinese Communists while a PoW in Korea.

Davis said Dickenson, 23, worked at the sick compound as a cook at the Red PoW camp at Pyoktong along the Yalu river and "I saw him trade off chow for tobacco and candy."

At one point, Davis said, he saw a sick PoW go up to Dickenson "and ask for chow. Dickenson said there was no more. I, personally, saw some chow in the chow pot."

The witness said there was "a little argument" and he saw Dickenson push the man down three stairs. "The man's legs were paralyzed for a day," Davis said.

Earl Black of Toronto, driver of the car, suffered severe facial lacerations. He was the only civilian in the car. The other four soldiers were not injured.

Kislitsin, second secretary of the Russian embassy at Canberra, and the two couriers accompanying him were forced to turn Mrs. Petrov over to Australian authorities Tuesday.

Increase Allowance

THE nickel, like the dollar, is not buying what it did at one time, and board members of the children's aid society have become very aware of this fact in their journeys from store to store in search of thrifty purchases for the office and children's home. At the April meeting, Tuesday, the question of children's allowance was discussed, and a motion put forth to increase the allowance of children over six years from five cents to 15 or 25 cents a week. Blake Bell's financial report indicated solvency, and it was decided to give the older children 25 cents spending money a week.

Thieves' Haul $5 In Stamps

Petty thieves broke into the office of Muttart Builder's Supplies Ltd. on the Port Hope highway during the night. They got only about $5 in stamps for their efforts.

A safe in the office was not touched. Apparently out to get every cent they could, the thieves removed the coin box of a self-serve soft-drink machine. They took it 100 yards from the office, smashed it open, and found it was empty.

Entry was made by smashing a window on the north side of the building (away from the view of anybody on the highway) undoing the window catch, and then crawling through. Previously an unsuccessful attempt was made to get in through the north door by removing the pins in the door hinges.

Another entry was made on the south side of the building into the old office, but nothing was taken.

The stamps were found in an office desk.

OPP Constable Emmett Crough of Peterborough and Cpl. William Baluk of Cobourg are investigating.

Lindsay Workers Organize Union

LINDSAY (ENS) — Employees of Lindsay's board of works are reported to have organized as a local of a national union, possibly the one that recently organized the Hydro workers of the town. Some 18 employees and a foreman of the department's work staff may be involved in the organization procedure, according to town engineer, Leslie Wilson.

It is understood by the engineer that the employees' application for certification as a bargaining group is before the labor relations board. He has not received word of a hearing as yet.

Mr. Wilson said this week that not all the employees presently working for the department would be considered permanent employees, in the event of a definition being made for union purposes. About eight to 12 of the men have been with the board for some time, he said.

During organization of the hydro workers, it was understood that organizers of the national union of public services employees were also working with board of works employees.

Gunfire Over London In Honor Of Queen

LONDON (AP)—Gunfire boomed over London today in honor of Queen Elizabeth's 28th birthday. Telegrams and messages expressing loyalty and congratulations flowed into Buckingham Palace throughout the day.

The Queen, meanwhile, was sailing from Colombo, Ceylon, to Aden in the royal liner Gothic to continue her world tour.

There were two main gun-firing ceremonies in London. At noon, the King's troop of the Royal Horse Artillery fired the traditional 41-gun salute. An hour later at the Tower of London, gunners of the Royal Artillery Company fired a 62-gun salute.

Bobcaygeon Plans New Arena With Verulam

LINDSAY (ENS)—The village of Bobcaygeon some 25 miles north east of Lindsay has begun work in conjunction with the neighbouring township of Verulam on one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken by one of the smaller centres in Victoria county.

The foundations have been dug for the new Bobcaygeon-Verulam community centre arena, which is expected to be ready for use in September. Work has been going on for about a week on the $60,000 building which will house an artifician ice arena with an ice surface of 85 by 185 feet, and 2,000 fans. There will also be a two storey community centre building, 35 x 70 feet, which will include officies, meeting rooms and a community hall. A macadam floor planned for the arena itself, will allow its use throughout the year.

The project started during the past few weeks by a group of enthusiastic citizens has snowballed since. A good financial position has already been reached, and promises of more cash, materials and voluntary labor have been received by the committee in charge.

The committee is under the charge of Byron Martin of Bobcaygeon and is made up of members from both participating municipalities.

Immediate plans call for the construction of the arena for the next skating and hockey season. The Bobcaygeon curling club will also use the ice surface for the first few seasons, until a new artificial ice curling rink can be built on adjacent property.

The new arena will rise where former barns and sheds once stood on the grounds of the Verulam agricultural society, in the village. At first it is also planned to build seats on only one side of the arena, increasing capacity as demanded.

The construction will be of concreat block, the walls to be 18 feet high with specially designed Swedish timber "bents" built by a Burlington firm. The roof will be two inch lumber, sheated with aluminum.

A government grant of $10,000 is assured for the building funds, and the directors hope that the use of the arena as a part of the Bobcaygeon fair equipment will qualify it for an extra grant from the department of agriculture.

Mrs. Petrov

absconder completely contradicts the first story that he was kidnapped by Australian authorities," Menzies added.

"I can assure the public that Petrov and his wife left of their own free will and that we will not be deterred by what has now become a purely conventional Soviet allegation from investigating both the circumstances and the facts which will be disclosed by Petrov's documents."

It was learned meanwhile that a Soviet embassy attache and a Tass news agency correspondent in Canberra have been ordered to return to Moscow.

GRANTED ASYLUM

Petrov turned himself over to the Australian government early in April and was granted political asylum. Parliament authorized a royal commission to investigate his story of spying and the large mass of data he brought with him from the embassy, but Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said security officials are convinced his account is authentic.

Petrov's 35-year-old wife chose freedom too after days of Russian-inspired doubt as to her husband's safety, and will be reunited with him at a secret rendenzvous some 2,000 miles from here in southern Australia. A Royal Australian Air Force plane stood by today to fly her to her husband's closely guarded hideout.

Mrs. Petrov slept soundly in a luxurious guest room of Government House Tuesday night while heavy police patrols stood guard around the grounds.

Only 200 yards from her bedroom window, she heard an artillery troop fire a 21-gun salute honoring Queen Elizabeth's 28th birthday.

Mrs. Petrov, tearful and racked with fear when two Russian couriers tried to escort her back to Moscow, laughed happily as she strolled through the grounds with security guards. She smoked continually and joked with security officers who had flown to her side from Sydney.

The security officials fear that Mrs. Petrov, who was a cipher clerk at the Soviet embassy, may be in the same "real danger" as her husband, so elaborate precautions will be taken to keep their hideout secret.

The official said Russian agents may try to "kidnap" the Petrovs if their whereabouts are revealed. Both husband and wife are expected to provide explosive evidence on Soviet espionage to the royal commission.

Australian newspapers are meanwhile pressing the government to permit the couple to tell their story.

The Melbourne Herald spoke of propaganda risks incurred by not inviting the Petrovs to put their own story, separately or jointly, to the people.

A statement from Mrs. Petrov of what happened at the airport, where she made her last-minute decision to accept asylum in Australia, will have an important bearing on the Australian government's reply to the Soviet ambassador's protest Tuesday.

Soviet ambassador Nikolai Generalov claimed an "armed assault" was made on the two couriers, enjoying diplomatic immunity, when they were manhandled by Australian police to remove pistols from shoulder holsters.

The acting Australian external affairs minister, Sir Philip McBride, said the couriers took the initiative in violence before their revolvers were seized.

Scientists Scoff At Blemishes On Windshields

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Scientists scoffed and motorists fumed today at the mysterious Dominion-wide blight of pock-marked windshields.

The phenomena, first reported on the Pacific coast some three weeks ago, spread to the Atlantic coast Tuesday when a half-dozen Halifax motorists discovered their windshields peppered with mysterious indentations.

The Halifax motorists reported the same pinhead-sized marks reported earlier in British Columbia, the three Prairie provinces, Ontario and Quebec.

Maritime scientists, like those of the other provinces where the blemishes were reported, were unable to offer a concrete explanation for the glass pitting that most of their colleagues have put down largely to "mass hysteria."

Geophysicist Dr. Jonathan E. Blanchard, and physicist Dr. Ernest W. Guptill of Dalhousie University said they found pockmarks on all windows of one car which they examined. They declined to hazard a spot explanation but agreed the markings were "definitely not the result of chemical action."

Regina and Winnipeg also reported their first cases of windshield pock-marking Tuesday.

TWO NEW THEORIES

Two new theories of the cause of the pitting were advanced Tuesday in British Columbia, where the blemishes were first noticed in Canada following similar reports in the Pacific northwest United States.

Capt. Erik Lillie, veteran B.C. fisherman who said he had been studying similar cases for some time, said he believed chemicals used in asphalt roads were responsible. He said dust containing the chemicals was thrown up and hit the windshields, causing the pitting.

He said he had found similar pittings on windows of houses built adjacent to asphalt-surfaced highways.

A Victoria man, who didn't want his name disclosed, blamed particles called space mice by writers of scientific fiction. He said the space mice are pictured as capable of pitting highly polished glass as if it had been sandblasted.

"FANTASTIC NONSENSE"

Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the physics department at the University of British Columbia whose own automobile windshield is pit-marked, derided such theories as "fantastic nonsense and ridiculous."

Dr. Shrum, who examined many pock-marked windshields at the request of Vancouver police, said he found all cases to be the result of "mechanical fractures" of glass. He also said the marks were old.

His findings were corroborated by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., which said it had examined 150 autos hit by so-called pock-marks and found all were victims of road conditions and no scientific mystery.

The glass firm, one of the largest in the United States, said "flying sand, cinders, gravel or the materials used to de-ice snow-covered roads could and very probably did cause the pit or crush marks found in the cars examined."

Fungi Slides At Library

About 75 camera enthusiasts attended the meeting of Peterborough Camera Club, held in the Public Library Tuesday evening, at which there was a showing of Dr. J. Frederick Burges' memorial slides of mushrooms and other fungi. The slides were sent for use of the club by the Photographic Society of America, Canadian headquarters in Montreal.

The meeting was opened by Harry Cherney with brief remarks. The slides were in charge of Allan Humphrey and Bob Williamson, who included some slides taken by club members.

People with photographic knowledge consider this a most amazing collection of slides, particularly considering that some were taken in set-ups that required the actual growing of the subject, and others located only by endless search which required technical knowledge both of fungi growth and photograph.

The late Dr. Burgess, a graduate in medicine, lost one arm while serving in the Canadian Army in 1918. He was retired with rank of major and the King honored him with an OBE. In spite of his serious handicap he did post-graduate work in London and Vienna and followed a brillian medical career, being clinical professor of medicine at McGill University and also a consulting dermatologist at several large hospitals in Quebec. He was recognized as a leading skin specialist.

Both McGill and the University of Montreal have requested his collection of slides for their respective departments of botany. Out of nearly 1,500 successful slides, 150 were chosen by the PSA for showing to Canadian clubs and members.

About half of the slides on hand were shown last night, and the local club expects to show more of them at another slide show in the Library on April 27th, when again they will include some members' slides for variation.

The Camera Club's annual exhibit is hanging at the Library until the end of this month for public inspection. Included are 15 prints from the Port Colborne Club.

Twenty-five or more American civilians under private contract also are piloting some of the transport planes carrying supplies to Dien Bien Phu, but U. S. air force personnel have not taken part in flying operations in the combat zone.

On Sunday, 25 speedy U. S. Navy Corsair fighter-bombers were transferred from the American carrier Saipan to a French air base on the Viet Nam coast. The American pilots returned immediately to the carrier.

The U. S. also has been sending $1,000,000,000 worth of military and economic assistance to the French and Viet Namese.

AIRLIFT CONFIRMED

In Washington, officials confirmed that air force planes, chiefly huge C-124 troop cargo transports, have been assigned from the European and North African areas to airlift French reinforcements to bases in Indo-China outside the combat zone.

No information was released on the number of planes involved in either the current lift or the forthcoming flights from North Africa.

However, normally about 80 to 100 troops could be carried in each transport on a flight as long as that from France to Indo-China.

U. S. officials said the airlift represents no new policy. They said it is part of America's normal aid program for Indo-China.

SEVENTY-FIVE TONS OF PAPER was collected by Boy Scouts and their fathers from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m., Tuesday evening under the direction of Cyril Barnes. The paper, collected from all over the city and nearby rural areas, was transported to the CNR station by 31 trucks donated by various industries, and piled into five box cars. Although the amount of paper collected equals amounts in other years, the current price paid is at rock bottom. This drive is expected to gross about $750 to be used in scout activities. Use Co-op Plan In Cobourg For 100 Houses

COBOURG (ENS) — Council Tuesday night voted to undertake construction of a 15-inch sewer on Darcy street to the Land Assembly scheme housing area and to take immediate steps to complete the agreement between the town and the department of planning and development.

A deputation jammed into the council gallery, all interested in a speedy disposition of the land Land Assembly details so they could get to work as soon as possible with their building plans. The deputation represented a large group of local people who have been studying the extension course of St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, on co-operative housing construction and are ready to take 100 of the 800 land assembly lots.

Gerald Clarke, field officer of the co-op building scheme, and member of the faculty of St. Patrick's College, told council that the scheme was in operation in Toronto, Peterborough, Lindsay, Parry Sound, Hamilton and other centres, including Cobourg. It was not a complicated plan, he said. It was simply a case of people who wanted to build homes, getting together to buy their building materials in bulk and be their own contractors. He said that house which cost $8,000 in Ottawa to build under the co-operative plan would otherwise cost from $13,000 to $14,000.

Mayor John Burnett told the deputation that he would arrange for a meeting with the public utilities commission to see about water supply to the housing area.

Plane Crashes 2 Airmen Die

NORTH BAY (CP)—An air force CF-100 jet fighter crashed and exploded in landing on a training flight here Tuesday night, killing its pilot and navigator.

The twin-engine jet overshot the main runway at this RCAF base, bounced on the rocky field and exploded in flames.

Victims of the crash were identified as PO. Donald Freckleton, 22, of Tuft's Cove, N. S., and navigator PO. J. M. Y. Turpin, 23, a native of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., whose parents live in Ottawa.

The jet, a Mark III, was returning from a two-hour flight when it crashed. Witnesses said the aircraft began a normal landing but that the pilot apparently misjudged his position approaching the runway.

Organizing Junior Society '54 Aim Of Humane Society

The Peterborough Humane Society enjoyed a measure of success in its workings last year, but much remains to be done in the ensuing year, said Mrs. S. R. Hamilton, who was re-elected as president at the annual meeting of the society Tuesday night.

Although nothing definite had yet been done about the project, Mrs. Hamilton hoped that 1954 would see the installation of a junior branch of the society. She also mentioned that there were several very good dogs under the society's care at the shelter. Anyone who knew of a good home for them could assist the society by making such information available.

One of the four guest speakers at the meeting, was the principal of Coronation school, in Duro twnship, Mr. Alec McLeod, who considered that the aims and work of the society should be instilled into the minds of young members of the community, especially country children, who had wide dealings with animals.

He suggested that the society might be able to publish a small booklet stating these things. These books could be distributed in schools in the country and possibly in the city as well. Mr. McLeod felt sure that they would be received enthusiastically by teachers and children alike.

BARKING DOGS

The Mayor, Norman Graham, congratulated the society on the work it was doing in the district. He said that he received many complaints to do with animals, the main one being about barking dogs. However, he knew that the community was well being served by the society and considered its members worthy of praise for their efforts.

The secretary, Mrs. W. W. Cole, reported a 50% increase in membership, but stated that the number was still below the society's objective.

The following members were elected officers of the society for the ensuing year:

Patrons: Gordon K. Fraiser M.P. and Mrs. Fraser, Mayor Norman Graham and Mrs. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Mrs. Stratford Martin.

Honorary members: Mrs. Frank Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howell, Miss Mabel Collins, Dr. F. Harden, Mrs. R. Stewart, the Rev. C. G. Boyd and the Rev. A. S. Roblin.

Many Europeans Victimized Canadians

ERINDALE, Ont. (CP) — Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts, former chief administrative officer of the Imperial war graves commission, said Tuesday night Canadian relatives of war dead have been victimized by unscrupulous Europeans.

"Some of our allies were sincere but too many managed to get in touch with next-of-kin and after explaining they were short of coffee, food or clothing, told a glowing story of what they were doing for a son's or father's grave," he said in an interview.

"These people were a constant headache to the commission," he said. "To many of them it was strictly a matter of personal gain."

He said, however, that there were many sincere French, Belgian, Dutch and German citizens who did tend veterans' graves until the official cemeteries authorities could resume operations after the war.

Which is first... fear or sickness?

Most people feel that fear comes when sickness is threatening or dangerous. Christian Science shows that the fear precedes the sickness, and is the controlling cause of it—even though fear may perhaps be unconscious or unspoken. Many thoughtful doctors today agree that this is so.

Why is it important to understand this fact? Because Christian Science points out how to eliminate the fear, and thus the sickness. Study of the Christian Science textbook shows plainly how to stop fearing. The spiritual understanding that destroys fear, disposes of sickness. Christian Science brings the healing power of prayer into your own experience.

Highways Investigation Hushed Up?

When the first news of irregularities in the Department of Highways' western Ontario accounts came to the public ear, the Ontario Government indicated that they were really rather trifling; the Department's own investigators had the matter well in hand. Then the mess began to look bigger and blacker. Mr. Frost said he would set a firm of private accountants on the trail and they, being independent, would be able to make a thorough investigation satisfactory to the public. The scandal grew; further revelations came out of the west. An insistent demand for a parliamentary inquiry was finally assented to. Mr. Frost promised to set up a Legislative committee of investigation.

* * *

Now what is the situation? The Departmental investigators have swooped; charges have been laid; cases are pending in court. Secondly, the private company of management consultants has set to work. Its report will not be completed until next month, nor presented until that time. Thirdly, the Legislature's committee has been formed, but it will not hold hearings until it has the private consultant's report a month hence. There is such a cloud of investigators that the public may not be able to see anything clearly. Is the Government trying to avoid acquainting the public with the scope of the scandal and thus to circumvent criticism of itself?

* * *

Weight is given this point of view by the fact that the Government has already taken cover under a legal technicality. On March 25th the Minister of Highways made a 75-minute speech in the Legislature calculated to lull the public. He wound up by telling the Opposition that the highways scandal was sub judice; that is, that it could not be discussed because it was in the courts; public discussion might prejudice the cases of the accused. This would be a perfectly legitimate reason, did it not seem a ready-made excuse to avoid what the people of the Province have demanded and the Government should provide: a full and complete public inquiry.

* * *

Insofar as the public is concerned, the Government has put the cart before the horse. It has instituted court proceedings before an independent investigation and has thus prevented a full public inquiry. It is a clever, face-saving move, but not one which will impress the people with the Government's integrity. The Administration professes that it wants the whole scandal brought into the open, so that justice will be done and public anxiety set at rest. At that same time it takes action to prevent this.

* * *

Government policy seems to be that the highways case shall not be discussed publicly. Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver and the Opposition were told as much on March 25th in the House by Premier Frost, Highways Minister Doucett, Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar, Works Minister Griesinger and Reform Institutions Minister Foote. It was the noisiest, roughest debate in several years. Such a heavy barrage from the Government's big guns could have had no other purpose than to suppress criticism in the House and divert the highways case away from public view to the privacy of a Government department and to courts hearing isolated instances brought to them by the Government.

* * *

We do not suggest that the door should have been left open for guilty persons to flee the country while the Legislative Committee exhausted weeks in public investigation. The piecemeal charges could, however, have been postponed until the dossier was complete. Now that some of the men involved are before the courts the only hope the public can have of getting to the bottom of the whole matter is that the cases be speedily disposed of. Then the legislative inquiry could be held, and should be held in public as a public necessity. The Government has successfully prevented the matter being discussed in the Legislature—the session has ended. Must one suspect, from the tenor of Cabinet Ministers' remarks, that the Legislative Committee's inquiry will be kept quiet and their sessions closed to reporters?

If the people of this province are getting little information about the highway affair, they are being shown much about how a ruling party can hush up a scandal detrimental to its reputation.

Fish And Caviare

Let it be remembered that Russia is not at war with anyone; in fact, alone of all the Great Powers, Russia has not been at war with anybody since 1945, which is more than can be said of Britain, the U.S.A., France, China or even Canada (the latter, of course, in conjunction with the U.S.-U.N. war in Korea which has yet to be terminated). It follows, therefore, that Canada is not at war with Russia. So why should Canadian people get excited because two Russian trawlers have ben spotted off the Grand Banks, fishing? The Grand Banks do not belong to Newfoundland or Canada. The sea in those parts is free.

Perhaps the Russian trawlers were spying. If they were, that is hardly news. Ever since the war Britain and the U.S., backed by their allies (including Canada), have been spying on Russia. In the present state of tension, this is as natural as the going-down of the sun. Furthermore, American military planes are constantly flying over Russian territory, Chinese territory and other strongholds of Communism. So, we must believe, have Russian planes been flying over American territory. There is indubitable evidence that Russian aircraft have been flying over Northern Canada.

In view of all this, why become excited over two Russian trawlers fishing off the Grand Banks? The Russian people probably need fish for their diets; fish, they say, is good brain food. Further, the Russian fisherman probably wants to make a profitable run. Perhaps next time, they could be encouraged to land and set down a cargo of caviare, which high-living Canadians would exchange any day for a cargo of cod.

We Had Dust, Too

Toronto is so puffed with bigness that anything that happens to or in it is national news. The same event could occur in Galt, Galway or Centreville, and Toronto would not pay any attention to it, unless it happened to involve a two-headed baby or a one-legged murderer. We say this as a prelude to a significant note: Peterborough had Dakota dust, too. Torontonians were not the only Easter-bonnet wearers to feel it. Proof? Remember the shower Saturday night? Perhaps you did not see it, but you did see its effects. Newly-polished cars were spotted and window panes were dirtier than they had been at any time through the winter. The shower was light enough to bring the dust particles down to earth, porches, cars and windows, but not heavy enough to wash them away. It was not ordinary city dust. Even in the normally clean air of the countryside, the effect was the same.

This leads us to ask if an international incident should not be created because of the North Dakota dust. If the farmers out there are so improvident as to over-till their land so that a big wind blows it away, have not Canadians cause for complaint? If the Americans cannot keep their dust at home, they should not be allowed to make it. We like our American tourists. We do not want their soil, certainly not in clouds overhanging our fair land. The matter might properly be referred to the International Court of Justice at The Hague. Well, perhaps we should not grumble. At least the dust was not radio-active.

Jobs For The Senate

The Senate has been unemployed much of the time this year; Government legislation initiated in the Commons reaches it slowly. Numerous private bills have been started on the course in the Senate, where they have had detailed review. One of the Bills passed by the Senate recently, was an Act to amend the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act. This matter is of special concern to the Upper House and Senator Thomas Reid of British Columbia had advocated forming a special Senate committee on narcotics. It is likely that the committee will be established next session. If so, the Senate is due for some headlines, instead of the quiet of the last session, for the Committee would hear witnesses from all over Canada. The traffic in narcotics, both domestic traffic and smuggling across international borders, is more extensive than most people outside the R.C.M.P. realize. An investigation is in order.

Another lively topic for the Senate next session is the continued high state of federal spending. The Senate has a finance committee. It was not set up in the pre-Easter session, but will be in the next. The committee, though largely composed of Liberal senators, has in the past been critical of government spending and made some useful recommendations about it. Not having a party Whip nor home-town pork-barrels to fill to please local voters, the Senators can be quite stringent in their examination of public accounts, and take the Government to task wherever they note something that looks like extravagance. The Senate finance committee is thus a kind of watchdog of the treasury and its bite is as good as its bark.

A treasury expert says that the average dollar bill lasts about nine months. Somebody is cheating; we got one the other day which bore the picture of Edward the Peacemaker.

CANNES FILM FESTIVAL

Cocteau's Two Heads

By LINDSAY ANDERSON

"IL a deux tetes," the French critic remarked with a shrug and a smile, "—comme son aigle." He had been standing with Jean Cocteau watching one of the many starlets in hopeful attendance at this seventh International Film Festival twinkling before a throng of photographers. "How ridiculous! What lack of dignity!", commented Cocteau. The critic's attention was distracted for a moment. When he turned back, the president of the Festival jury was no longer at his side. The critic looked across to the little crowd: there was Cocteau, clasping hands with the starlet, while the cameras clicked busily away around him.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALL FILM festivals are in this way two-headed, and this one at Cannes, which has just come to an end, conformed magnificently to type. It has been difficult at times to escape the feeling that the art of the cinema was of less importance than the vast apparatus of fashion and publicity that has been constructed around it. Yet in the end one finds that, after all, an event of value has occurred. Cocteau has not merely been having his picture taken. Thirty-six countries entered for the contest, and if the percentage of good work was not high, one or two remarkable films at least had a chance to be seen.

✧ ✧ ✧

PARTICULARLY important has been the reappearance, after two years of abstention of films, from Russia as well as the personal attendance of a group of Russian cineastes. This renewal of contact has been an unqualified success. The Russians have impressed everyone by their friendly willingness to meet and discuss. Their presence at Cannes has put the whole occasion in a new perspective. "The Festival must be a no-man's land," wrote Cocteau, "in which politics have no place. A gathering of friends." But, of course, it has been impossible to watch these films from Eastern Europe without reference to political systems which produced them. The films from the East, from Russia, Hungary and Poland, confronted those from the West like a challenge. One wishes one could honestly maintain that the challenge had been worthily met.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMERICA'S entry was the pretentious From Here to Eternity, the sentimental Little Boy Lost, and the childish CinemaScope adventure Beneath the Twelve Mile Reef. The fourth was another CinemaScope spectacle, Knights of the Round Table. The Russians have contented themselves with one historical epic, Scander-Beg. The Story of Marina is a simple pastoral fable in praise of humility and hard work; and Masters of the Russian Ballet speaks for itself. The Hungarian feature film, Petit Sou, is a variation on the same theme as Marina; and from Poland Five From Barska Street tells the story of five youths reclaimed from delinquency.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE homogeneity within these two groups provokes comparison: on one side the rigid conventions of commercialism, and on the other, the equally rigid exactions of State-Socialist propaganda. Judging purely on the vitality and the humane qualities which, from this selection at least, each of these conventions appears to inspire, there can be no doubt that victory goes East. There is deadness in Hollywood now. One can sense no motive behind its films beyond the coining of money by their exhibition.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the films from the East, it is the cramping effect of a quite different convention that is apparent. All human problems are simplified: work hard and you will be happy. All social and moral evils are the result of looking backward, or to the West: no more sinister symptom of debauchery is imaginable than the desire to jitterbug. They are films which it is easy for the sophisticated to mock. And yet there is strength, too, in the position, and this is apparent in the films. For all their imitations these people are solid. The reformation of the young deliquents of Barska Street is conventional, but they have real humanity in them; they are presented with faith. Marina, smiling in her cornfield, stands for something sincerely believed and felt, for a way of life. To the film-makers of Hollywood, even the new opportunities for magic offered by their recently developed techniques seem to provide no stimulus. Watching the Russian Scander-Beg, with its wonderful Albanian panoramas, its fine sense of spectacle and design, one could only wish that CinemaScope had been invented in Moscow.

✧ ✧ ✧

ELSEWHERE inspiration proved fitful. There have been remarkable records of the beauties and horrors of nature. In Disney's The Living Desert (the best long American entry, as his CinemaScope cartoon, Zim-Zim, Boum-Boum, was the most diverting short) spiders and beetles snakes and mice, warred, played and copulated before our eyes. The best French film proved to be a brilliant investigation of the penguin way of life; and the Great Adventure intimately involved us in the animal life of a Danish forest through the poetic eye of Arne Sucksdorf. In the world of man, the greatest accomplishments seemed to be lavished on themes of artifice; the Japanese Gates of Hell, delicately coloured and designed, was a gentle elegiac version of a sad twelfth-century legend; and Italy's Carosello Napolitano provided a two-and-a-half-hour divertissement, infinitely inventive and vivacious, of song, dance and spectacle.

✧ ✧ ✧

PERSONAL accents were rarer to find. James Broughton's The Pleasure Garden (so surprisingly representing the British cinema) was justly applauded for the gaiety and wit of its poetic, significant world. A young Spanish director, J. A. Barden, showed a film about actors — Comicos — alive with intelligence and sympathy for its fascinating subject. And from India An Acre of Land, a little tragedy of dispossession, in many respects naive and primitive, impressed with the dignity of sincere feeling and uncompromising statement.

VALUABLE

"Perhaps," suggested Mr. Brown, "it was the one she kept her husband under."

HIS HANDICAP

ANY THEORIES

SIR: Could you give any advice as to what is the reason that nearly always our property is struck with lightning? The last time two big trees were knocked down and we had panels off our fence, and before that we had more damage in our house and barn.

This has been going on for nearly 45 years; something nearly all the time. Could any of your readers give any advice? Would be very grateful for any advice given. It has been told us that Radium, oil, or a spring under the house may be the cause.

Thanks you,

PROUD OF HAVELOCK

SIR: I have a clipping sent to me by my daughter in which Mr. E. Maclean of Havelock refers to Mr. Bradshaw's remarks that Havelock is a hill-billy town.

I married a Havelock man, and he was a good one. I am very proud of him. Today he rests in a soldier's grave in Windsor Grove Veteran's plot. What greater honour could he have?

When his late Majesty King George and Queen Elizabeth visited Canada, it was Havelock men that were chosen to pull the Royal Train. Quite an honour don't you think?

May I suggest you visit the memorial and see how many names are there of good men who died for Queen and Country, and they didn't have to be prayed through those "Pearly Gates."

ORNAMENTAL SWIMMING CLUB EXPLAINS

SIR: As coach of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, may I take advantage of your columns to explain our amateur standing? Apparently a lot of people think the girls get paid for every performance the same as players in lacrosse or hockey. The rules of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association do not allow any swimmers, speed, diving, or synchronated, to accept any money personally for any performance or demonstration, cannot be sponsored by any firm, but can represent a city or a service club. The parent body must be notified when swimmers travel, and get official permission to do so if swimmers are not members of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association and hold an amateur card, which incidently costs the swimmer fifty cents annually.

Any swimmer who has received moneys for teaching or exhibition cannot swim again with an amateur group. To explain this point, early in March our group along with Cliff Lumsden (twice winner of the CNE marathon) were on the program as special attractions. The occasion: the Ontario Solo and Duet championships for Synchronized Swimming.

When Cliff Lumsden's turn came on the program the MC announced, "I now declare this pool closed to amateur swimmers." When Cliff had finished his demonstration, the MC announced, "I now declare this pool open to amateur swimmers." This is a rule resented by most coaches from Halifax to Vancouver, but woe betide any club that breaks this rule, all swimmers taking part would be suspended for ninety days from all competition.

To our interested friends our travel fund has nearly reached the sum of one thousand dollars; we have a long way to go and ask you to bear with us during this long campaign. Other years we have travelled the cheapest way with the girls arriving tired out and cramped and not able to give of their best. Last year we put on shows on the way down to Florida, got donations toward expenses, slept in beds at night and arrived in Florida fresh and happy and giving our best, won the championship Coming home it was a different story, 60 hours by bus. Some of the girls lay on newspapers with pillows on the floor of the bus, the others curled up in the seats to sleep as best they could. The Board of Directors of the club do not want this to happen again.

We have been asked "Why don't the city help you?" The council are behind us one hundred percent and are digging down themselves and helping, too, in various ways. We have been granted by the city a tag day May 15, our fifth project.

We again thank the citizens of Peterborough and all clubs and person that have given us such generous donations, on behalf of the girls and myself.

Yours very sincerely,
PANSY E. L. FORBES.

ALLEGES UNION COERCION

SIR: Is there no end to the button holing and cajoling that the U.E. will do to reinstate former members?

The men who signed off the check-off all had very good reasons for doing so. But the U.E. isn't satisfied with this. After sending letters, that didn't prove effective, they have started annoying the workers in their home and even in the washrooms at the shops. The workers that are non-members are not given any peace.

After all, this is a free country and if a man desn't wish to join a Communist infiltrated union, that should be his privilege, and he should not be bullied into doing so.

Last year an elderly canteen operator at C.G.E. signed off the check-off. The next day no one bought from his canteen. Bewildered, the man asked what was wrong and was told that the men in that department had been instructed not to buy from him until he signed back on again.

That particular department is all U.E. members so the man had no alternative.

To me these are very high handed methods for a democratic country.

This is only one of a long list of U.E. methods of keeping its members in line.

Is there nothing too low for the U.E. to stoop to in signing up a man?

A SIGNED-OFF MEMBER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The sorrows of death compassed me, and the floods of ungodly men made me afraid . . . . In my distress I called upon the Lord, and cried upon my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears . . . The Lord rewarded me according to my righteousness; according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me . . . It is God that girdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect. (Ps. 18: 44, 6, 20, 32)

✧ ✧ ✧

I will sing of mercy and judgement: unto thee, O Lord, will I sing. I will behave myself wisely in a perfect way. O when wilt thou come unto me? I will walk within my house with a perfect heart. (Ps. 101:1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last. (Rev. 22:11-13.)

No Word of Flying Saucers

(Lethbridge Herald)

What's happened to all the flying saucers?

It used to be that every month brought at least one report of a flying saucer having been spotted somewhere around the world, and a few of the stories were thrilling tales of the fast-moving objects being chased with aircraft before they eluded their pursuers.

Such frequent and persistent claims — and often from most respected sources — were made of flying saucers having been seen that half of the world was beginning to speculate on the fields into which aviation had advanced.

And then those flying saucers, imaginary or real, disappeared altogether.

For several months now there has not been a single report of a flying saucer having been seen or pursued, and it seems as though we've all been flying as though we've been left high and dry with the old flying saucer.

Any explanation that the colder months are not the season for flying saucers cannot be accepted because the southern hemisphere has been enjoying its Summer while we've been going through the Winter. And there hasn't been a peep for months from the southern countries about the storied saucers.

Is it that seeing flying saucers was just a passing fad, or is it that those wierd objects that supposedly sailed swiftly through the air have been recalled from their work of mystifying people? Or is another epidemic of flying saucer reports about to develop? Frankly we don't know and we're not worried.

Big Catches On the Blackwater

(Prince Rupert, B.C., News)

Four anglers with a salmon catch taken from the River Blackwater at Careysville, near Fermoy, Co. Cork, recently, caught 19 big salmon. A day or two after another angler broke the record for salmon fishing on the river when he landed 21 salmon averaging 16 lbs. in weight. Nineteen other salmon were landed on the same day. A tractor was used to haul the fish from the banks.

The River Blackwater is one of the best salmon rivers in Ireland. It rises on the borders of Co. Kerry and Co. Cork and flows for about 70 miles in an easterly direction past Mallow, Fermoy and Lismore to Cappoquin, where it takes a sharp turn to the south and flows into Youghal Bay by a narrow estuary 15 miles long. In the best stretches for salmon fishing the river consists of rapids and pools and is so wide it is usual to fish some pools from a boat, and wading is necessary. The best months for spring fishing are March and April. The average weight is about 15 lbs.

Battle For French Fort Has Political Not Military Value

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP)—For 40 days and nights French and loyal Indo-China troops have fought a battle which has more political objectives than military.

Dien Bien Phu, once not even on the map of northwest Indo-China, suddenly has become one of the best known names. When the Vietminh Communists attacked March 13, they brought home to the non-Communist world the gravity of the situation in southeast Asia.

It was to be a major military-political battle of the Indo-China war, now in its eighth year. The Communists desperately wanted to inflict a crushing blow. The French equally needed a victory if the political line were to be held.

But the French were in an unenviable position. They could lose the battle, but it was difficult to see how they could win a clear-cut decision, since they were holed up and immobile behind fortifications 180 miles from the nearest French base.

MUST WIN: COGNY

"We must win this one," said Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indo-China. He seemed to consider the battle would be won if the attack were repulsed.

So badly did the Communists want the fortress that Russian-made Molotov trucks brought in a steady stream of heavy weapons and munitions and possibly as many as 6,000 Chinese advisers and technicians were overseeing the Vietminh's transition from jungle warfare to mass attack.

Wiping out the fortress and its defenders would be a great military victory but the Communists are not exclusively concerned with that.

They hope to cause the fall of the French government, to be succeeded by one eager to negotiate and get out of Indo-China. The Communists also expect to make the voice of Vietminh leader Ho Chi Minh heard at the Geneva conference opening Monday.

SEEK NEGOTIATED PEACE

The prize sought is a negotiated agreement which would leave the Vietminh, strongest political force in Indo-China, ready to step into the vacuum if the French withdrew their troops.

Why did Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander-in-chief, choose such a spot to make a stand? It is a plain of red dust in a sweltering valley surrounded by commanding hills which permit fire to be poured down upon it. There is no place to fall back. It is a matter of stand or be massacred.

Dien Bien Phu had been a cluster of mud and straw huts perched on poles. Last fall the French cleared away the villagers, cut down the trees and began building fortifications. The French were developing among thef riendly, anti-Communist Thai tribesmen a type of warfare waged by the maquis (guerrillas) in France during the war.

The Vietminh sent its 316th Division to clean out the Thais. The French kept reinforcing Dien Bien Phu, building strong points and setting up barbed-wire barricades, until by Jan. 1 it was a formidable complex six by four miles, encircled by thickly forested hills.

PURPOSE TO GUARD LAOS

Navarre's supporters say the original strategic purpose was to bar a Vietminh drive into northern Laos. The Communists did send a division into northern Laos in January, by-passing Dien Bien Phu. That turned out to be a diversion.

Americans and even some French are fretting at what they consider static defence thinking.

"They go further back than a Maginot line complex," said one observer. "They seem to have a Verdun complex."

The enemy is suffering perhaps five times the casualties of the French at Dien Bien Phu. But French casualties in the 7½ years of war have been costly, more in quality than in quantity. The French have lost about 16,000 men, all non-coms and officers, and about 40,000 French Union troops, including North Africans in the Foreign Legion and Viet Namese with the French Union forces.

GET ME OUT OF HERE—It's plain to see that this young lady is unimpressed with the ride her grandfather, John W. Hedberg, of Minneapolis, Minn., is giving her. Years ago he told his daughters he would give their children a ride in the antique carriage, and he's keeping his promise. He won't say how old the buggy is. Seems his wife rode in it as a baby.

Says In Danger

BERLIN (Reuters) — Guenther Weissman, West Berlin police official, disclosed Tuesday that a special "anti-kidnapping section" he heads is protecting 1,000 persons it believes to be in danger of abduction by the Communists.

Given $3,614 For Beating

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Damages totalling $3,614 and costs have been awarded to Alex Conrad, 5, as a result of a beating he suffered Jan. 2 at the hands of Norman Fantham, 21, and Delmar Bovingdon, 19.

The man, a complete stranger to the youths, said he was walking along the street towards his home when the unprovoked attack took place. His cheekbone was broken in five places, requiring surgery, and he suffered black eyes and severe head bruises. After the operation, Conrad's face was still paralyzed on one side, he had trouble with his speech and suffered continuous headaches. He was off work two months.

Fantham and Bovingdon were sentenced Feb. 3 to 30 days in jail plus fines of $250 and costs or an additional two months.

GE President Sees Year Of Advancement

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Chiding prophets of depression, president Ralph Cordiner of the General Electric Company Tuesday pointed to the firm's plan to spend a record $175,000,000 this year for plant expansion and equipment as an indicator of the United States' economic strength.

Cordiner told about 3,000 stockholders at GE's annual meeting the projected outlay was 24 per cent greater than the $141,000,000 spent last year.

Seeking Entries In The COBL As Kingston Out

With word received yesterday that Kingston was forced to drop out of the Central Ontario Baseball League, owing to suspensions on players of the Kingston Senior City League being threatened if the players went COBL, the league officials are desperately trying to repair their fences this week to keep the Central League going. Oshawa Merchants last week dropped out, leaving just Belleville and the Petes presently available for the COBL.

The Merchants, who had a few weeks ago been most enthusiastic about the COBL and sought to have the entry fee raised to $500 to ensure all clubs going through with commitments, stated they would not field a team as the city couldn't support two senior clubs. The Oshawa Transporters have entered a six-team Toronto Viaduct Senior League, including Oakville and four Toronto entries.

OSHAWA OUT

The Central League had hoped, with Oshawa Merchants out, to get the Transporters in to round out a four-club circuit, but the Transporters yesterday advised that their entry was accepted in the Viaduct League — giving Oshawa some home games — and they would only be available for some exhibitions with the Petes, the shortest hop between the Motor City and COBL entry.

The Kingston City League recently warned that any Limestone City ball player turning out with the proposed COBL club of that centre would be banned from the city loop. Stan Srutton notified the COBL secretary Tuesday that this would create too great a shortage of players to enter a senior club from Kingston in the Central League, and they were reluctantly forced to withdraw their entry. Belleville meantime, has obtained a club sponsor, and the Petes already have sent in their entry fee to play.

League secretary George Carver this morning stated that they still had hopes of reviving the COBL. He said that Bowmanville —with a complete draw on players from Oshawa, if they desired— weren't anxious to go in the intermediate "A" Lakeshore League, and were thinking of applying to the COBL for entry. There is also a possibility, he said, that a combined Cobourg-Port Hope team might play in the Central League. These club officials have been contacted and word should be received from them shortly.

"Just as soon as anything definite is known," the secretary said, "the Peterborough club will be notified and a meeting of the league called on short notice. We have worked too hard this spring to revive senior ball in this area and we're not giving up without exploring all avenues."

The Petes' club is organized and the first workout under Manager Joe Lowrey is listed for this Saturday afternoon in Morrow Park.

U.S. Runners Need Austerity Peters Believes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The reason Americans don't hold their own in track endurance tests, says Britain's wiry Jim Peters, is that "they have too many automobiles and eat too much."

Jim prescribes austerity over plush living for distance-race champions, and he practises it.

The lean, 35-year-old Briton, who ran second to Veikko Karvonen of Finland in Monday's Boston marathon, stopped over in New York and discussed training methods Tuesday before flying home. The best American showing at Boston was seventh.

"I have a garage, but no automobile," Peters said. "Furthermore, I wouldn't have an automobile until I am through running.

"You Americans have too many automobiles and much too much to eat. You'll never develop men of stamina and endurance that way. There is only one way to train—that is by running. If you can't run, walk."

RAN FASTEST MARATHON

Peters has run the fastest marathon on record, covering the fixed distance of 26 miles, 385 yards in two hours, 18 minutes, 40.2 seconds at London last June. It was 10.8 seconds faster than Czechoslovakia's mighty Emil Zatopek had run the distance.

"I run 120 miles a week for 51 weeks of the year," the Essex optician's helper explained. "The other week I take off—my wife insists on it. I do it at 11 miles an hour. I have 12 workouts a week. . . But I'm really a piker. My fellow countryman, Gordon Pirie, runs 200 miles a week and that Emil Zatopek never stops."

Injuries Plague Two Defencemen

SUDBURY (CP) — Matane Red Rocks, already with their backs to the wall in the eastern Canada Allan Cup finals, may have to finish the series against Sudbury Wolves with only two defencemen.

The latest injury of the series came in the first period of Monday's game when Real Lafreniere, Matane rearguard, suffered an injured ankle. He was forced to retire from the game and the ankle was still badly swollen Tuesday.

Red Rocks have only two defencemen ready for the sixth game of the series here today—Roger Ste. Marie and Bernie Limoges. The Wolves lead the best-of-seven final 3-1 with one game tied. A tie today would send them into the Allan Cup finals against the western champions, either Winnipeg Maroons or Penticton V's.

REQUEST REFUSED

Coach Gerry Plamondon said he asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for permission to use a replacement for Lafreniere but his request was refused. There is no rule in CAHA regulations covering the replacement of injured players except goalkeepers.

The injury plague hasn't missed the Wolves either. They lost centre Hub Beaudry who fractured his ankle in the third game at Matane last week but Gordie Heale has been doing a fine job of filling in.

Sudbury coach Max Silverman wouldn't make a prediction but he seemed confident that the Wolves will take the series.

"They have to beat us three times to win," Silverman said, "and I don't think they can do it."

NHL Owners Decide Accept Player Draft

NEW YORK (CP) — National Hockey League owners meeting here Tuesday decided to accept the proposed player draft plan as originally framed.

President Clarence Campbell was authorized to put the draft into effect in conjunction with three other professional hockey leagues. Campbell was instructed to work out the inter-league arrangements.

The owners announced that the NHL annual meeting will be held June 17 in New York.

Under the draft plan, each NHL club can first name 20 players, including two goalies, to its "protected list." These names must be declared by Aug. 31 of each year. The draft is held the second week in September.

Pleasant-Cavan Fourth Line district enjoyed a successful season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

George (Red) Sullivan has returned to Peterborough after a most successful season with Hershey in the American Hockey League. They lost out 4-2 to Cleveland Barons in AHL finals, Red having counted 10 points during loop playoffs. The Ashburnham hockey ace set a new all-time league scoring record the past season with 119 points in the regular schedule. Former record was 118 by Carl Liscombe with Providence in 1947-48. Sullivan counted 30 goals and 89 assists, the latter also a new league mark in the AHL. He received an award of $300 for leading the circuit scorers, plus playoff bonuses. Lorne Ferguson, Hershey linemate to Red, led actual scorers with 45 points.

Had a chat yesterday with the redhead, who plans to live out in Otonabee toward Keene for the summer months. He'll be in town regularly to play softball again in the City League, but George hasn't decided yet if he'll go out with the Petes' senior baseball club. He used to be a classy pitcher and infielder in junior baseball company, and he is a first-rate fielder and slugger in softball. Yes, the hustling Red is a real athlete in any sport he takes up. Said he suffered just one cut in the long AHL campaign, a 10-stitch gash. "I haven't any word on next hockey season yet," he replied to a question. We have felt all season he should have been up in the NHL, and expect he will be next campaign.

To Shake Hands or Not?

Montreal scribes are in disagreement over the fact that none of the Canadiens — except Gaye Stewart later on — offered congrats to the Wings when the Stanley Cup finals finished in Detroit. Some of the scribes thought the Canadiens should forget the feuding when 'twas over and shake hands but some backed up the Habs in their attitude. Andy O'Brien came right out and said why offer a hypocritical handshake — it didn't mean a thing. NHL prexy Clarence Campbell, who lives in Montreal, said he was surprised there were no congratulations coming from Canadiens, as he'd never seen this situation before. But the Habs are hot competitors and they didn't like the Wings one bit. A sizzling series, it was. Personally, we still like to see losers offering a hand to the victors when it's all over.

Kingston City League has shouldered a Kingston senior ball team right out of the COBL, a threatened ban on players forcing the K's to drop from the Central Ontario Baseball League. Oshawa Merchants folded a week ago, owing to two teams trying to operate there, and the Transporters of that town have definitely entered the six-club Viaduct Loop of Toronto. Leaving just Belleville and the Petes presently in the COBL. Secretary Carver today is trying desperately to line up two more clubs, one being from Bowmanville (with a player draw from Oshawa) and the other a combined Cobourg-Port Hope club. That's the setup at the moment — not a very promising one, we'd say — and an early league meeting will be called to flash either the green or the red light on the project.

Ball School Endorsed

Recreation director Ken Robinson presented at a meeting of the recreation commission last night the suggestion of a summer-long ball school conducted by Bill Sisler of the Phillies. Bill Bennett, commission sports chairman, wanted to know if such a school would encroach on the present PMBA operations and was assured that this training would be extra-curricular. The two Bills will meet and discuss this angle on it. Recreation commission wound up by endorsing in principle the proposal if the necessary funds can be raised from other sources. This is the next important step in implementing the proposal for a kids' sports training program of four months which sounds all to the good.

Industrial Fastball League has just three teams entered so far, and requires at least one more. Mount Pleasant forsook the fastball setup this season to go in the City Softball League, leaving an opening which has yet to be filled. Bill Gunn reports that they'll hold another meeting next Monday evening and hope to round out the loop at that time. The election of officers was left over till this session, so that all entries may have a voice in the matter. As we get it, the players are being spread around rather thinly over the many teams in local leagues, though sponsors are available. The Industrial Fastball League is a good one, and we trust it is properly re-organized by the time another week rolls around.

Additional games, if necessary, will be played in Maple Leaf Gardens on dates to be arranged, Mr. George said.

Mildmay Takes PeeWee Group Title

GODERICH (CP) — The second championship of the week-long Young Canada Week Pee Wee Hockey tournament was decided Tuesday night when Mildmay defeated Bridgeport 5-1 for the C group title.

Grand Bend won the D-group championship Monday with a 23-0 win over Ripley. Grand Bend and Bridgeport are scheduled to play the first game of the grand championship series today.

The tournament drew a record 47 entries this year, mostly from western Ontario. Two distant teams, Kingston, Ont., and Winnipeg, are scheduled to play Thursday.

Each team is classed according to the size of its home town. Winners of each of the four divisions play off for the grand championship.

Western Ontario Athletic Association, one of the sponsors of the series, supplies referees for each game. Goderich Lions Club, also a sponsor, provides billets for out-of-town players and sets up meals.

GOOD APPETITES

Mrs. Albert Pruder, in charge of meals, said 325 boys and officials in two meals ate 51 pounds of beef, 75 loaves of bread, a bag of potatoes and about 25 gallons of chocolate milk.

Edmonton Clouts Fort William

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings made a strong bid Tuesday night to become the oil capital's first Memorial Cup finalist since 1939 when they outclassed Fort William Canadiens 8-1 to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven western final.

Canadiens, a stumbling block in what would have been a long list of consecutive Edmonton victories, now have been outscored 23-3 in the series, with the fifth game scheduled here Thursday night.

Oil Kings had 35 games without defeat before falling to Canadiens 2-1 in the second game of the series at Fort William. They now are considered western Canada's strongest junior team since Port Arthur Bruins captured the cup in 1948.

Tuesday night, before 6,100 fans, they lived up to expectations. They spotted Canadiens an early first-period goal, then romped freely to victory with a series of close-in passing attacks while Canadiens were held to long range, testing goalie Al Jacobson only 26 times against 40 handled by the Lakehead club's Lynn Davis.

ONLY GOAL

Walt Bradley scored Canadiens' only goal when he picked up the puck while Edmonton defencemen were having trouble clearing then fired it in with only 37 seconds gone in the game.

Johnny Bucyk paced Edmonton with three goals while rookie Ron Tookey added a pair. Others came from Ray Kinasewich, Jerry Melnyk and Jackie Moore.

Kings went ahead 4-1 in the second period while the hockey was still clean and fast.

In the final session, tempers flared. Ten major penalties for fighting, five to each club, were handed out by officials Pete Ullman of Winnipeg and Andy Gurba of Brandon in the final six minutes.

Sugar Kings Clip Toronto 7-2 In Opening Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana's Cuban Sugar Kings won but the Richmond Virginians lost as the International Baseball League opened its 1954 season Tuesday.

The two new cities of the oldest minor league drew capacity crowds. At Havana, before a gathering of 25,000 the Sugar Kings routed the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2. The Virginians were nipped by the Rochester Red Wings 4-3 before 12,000 in Richmond.

A newcomer to Havana, Venezuelan righthander Emilio Cueche, led the Sugar Kings at the plate as well as on the mound. He limited the Maple Leafs to eight hits and collected three hits in four times at bat.

The Cubans exploded for 15 hits against three Toronto pitchers with Angel Scull, Clint Hartung, Ray Noble and Vinicio Garcia each collecting two hits.

SPOILED RETURN

Rochester spoiled Richmond's return to the class AAA league by scoring single runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

Richmond, a member of the International League back in 1915, took a one-run lead in the fifth inning on starting pitcher Dick Starr's two-run homer.

Rightfielder Allie Clark tied the score 3-3 with a home run off reliefer Al Epperly in the eighth. The winning run was scored in the ninth when relief pitcher Tony Jacobs singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Allen Richter's single.

The second-day openers pit the Ottawa Athletics against the Buffalo Bisons at Buffalo and the Montreal Royals against the Syracuse Chiefs at Syracuse.

EPSOM, England (AP)—American-owned Ambler II emerged Tuesday a probable Epsom Derby favorite by winning the Blue Ribbon Trial stakes at Epsom. Ambler whipped five other starters in the one mile, 110-yard test for three-year-olds, finishing a half length in front of Just Reward.

Philadelphia Tames Senators 7-0; Pitching Tighter

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

What did the National League sluggers learn in spring training that their American League friends apparently overlooked?

This is becoming a vital question after Tuesday's second straight one-hitter in the junior circuit while the National League was going its slug-happy way with another 26-hit donnybrook.

Lefty Alex Kellner of Philadelphia Athletics tamed Washington Senators on one safety—Wayne Terwilliger's single with two out in the eighth inning as the A's won 7-0.

By BEN PHLEGAR

On Monday, Jim McDonald of New York Yankees, a righthander, subdued Boston with one hit.

SHELLAC CARDS

A big share of the National League fireworks has involved St. Louis Cardinals. The Redbirds absorbed a 13-6 shellacking at the hands of Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday night and now have been battered for 60 runs in six games.

The battering hasn't been all one-sided. The Cardinals have averaged almost seven runs for each of the same half-dozen contests.

The two contrasting contests Tuesday were part of a curtailed five-game schedule. Philadelphia Phillies whipped Brooklyn 6-3 and New York Giants defeated Pittsburgh 6-2 in the National League and Chicago White Sox beat Detroit 7-2 in the American. Milwaukee and Chicago Cubs in the National were rained out.

Kellner was breezing along toward the first no-hitter in Washington's Griffith Stadium since 1931 when Terwilliger, a .235 hitter, rapped one back through the middle.

NOT THAT LUCKY

"I didn't feel too bad," Kellner said. "You figure a feller is lucky to pitch a no-hitter."

Fireballing Virgil Trucks picked up his first 1954 victory for the White Sox as he checked Detroit on six hits. The 12-hit Chicago attack included Minnie Minoso's second home run of the season and three safeties by Nellie Fox.

Wally Post, Gus Bell and Andy Seminick homered for the Redlegs. Seminick added two singles in four times up, driving in two runs.

Venerable Preacher Roe made his first appearance of the season for the Dodgers, but the Phillies were ready for him and sent him to the showers in less than five innings. The deciding blast was a mighty home run by Del Ennis with a man aboard. Little Murry Dickson picked up his second straight victory since joining the Phils.

TeePees Finally Win Junior OHA Title

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Eleven seasons of hoping came to a climax for the hockey fans of this city Tuesday night when St. Catharines TeePees won their first Ontario Hockey Association junior A championship.

In the 1943-44 season this city, now with a population of 38,146, entered a team in the OHA junior A loop. For four years the club was known as the Falcons and then the name was changed to the TeePees. Tuesday night about one-ninth of the city's population turned out to see their team defeat Toronto Marlboros 5-1 for the league championship.

A crowd of more than 4,200 watched Tory Gregg of Wingham, president of the OHA, present the John Ross Robertson Trophy to TeePee captain Brian Cullen after the game. The victory gave TeePees the best-of-seven final 4-3 and enabled them to advance into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final against Quebec Frontenacs.

FINAL BEGINS SATURDAY

W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced Tuesday night that Eastern final will start in Quebec Saturday night. The CAHA has shown much anxiety over the start of the series because it is far behind schedule. The best-of-seven set was originally scheduled to start by April 13 and the Frontenacs were ready April 12 but the OHA couldn't decide a winner by the set time.

The TeePees, who succumbed to a three-game losing streak after taking the first three meetings with Marlboros, went after the deciding game from the opening whistle. They were holding a 1-0 lead with the game only 16 seconds old and added another two markers before the 14-minute mark of the first period.

Each team scored one goal in the second period and the TeePees rounded out the scoring with their final marker in the third period.

Pete Koval and Hugh Barlow each notched a goal and an assist for the winners. Brian Cullen, Don McLean and Hank Ciesla added singles. Billy Harris fired the only Marlboro counter.

The TeePees ran all over the Dukes pouring twice as many shots at Marlboro netminder Johnny Albani as Toronto attackers could direct at Marv Edwards in the St. Catharines goal. St. Catharines outshot the Marlboros 30-15, having an edge in the shots on goal in every period.

Albani, who returned to the nets after suffering an injury in the sixth game Sunday, turned in a great performance. Coach Reg Hamilton was reluctant about starting Albani, whose left eye swelled up so badly after he was hit near the corner of it Sunday that he couldn't see through it. But the game little netminder stopped many shots that were labelled for goals.

Marlboros also missed right-winger Gerry James who aggravated a hip injury in the first period and had to retire from the game.

ONLY MINOR PENALTIES

Each team took five of the 10 minor penalties handed out during the game and TeePees took advantage of one Toronto penalty to score. They also scored one goal while they themselves were shorthanded.

Brian Cullen slid a puck under Albani at the 16-second mark of the first period after the Toronto goalkeeper had stopped shots off Barlow and Barry Cullen. Pete Koval relayed Don McLean's pass into the net at 13:34 to make it 2-0 and 16 seconds later McLean took Koval's pass to increase the lead to 3-0. Marlboros never recovered from that jolt.

Several brawls threatened throughout the game but none of them developed. In the third period Duke defenceman Jack Bionda tried to get into the penalty box after Chester Warchol who had dazed him with an elbow but Toronto forward Dave Jackson restrained his teammate.

TeePees expect to leave for Quebec City Thursday. They will decide tomorrow if they will travel by plane or train.

Land Assembly Plan Discussed By City Clerk

Guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society held Tuesday night was City Clerk Ted Outram, who gave a short resume of the history and development of Peterborough.

Mr. Outram spoke mainly about the recent annexation from Smith township and showed members plans of the area and explained the development that was expected to take place in the near future.

He said that the provincial and federal governments had purchased the area and the city had extended its services to the boundary.

He said that the area, covering 606 acres, would allow for over 2,000 homes and churches, schools and a shopping centre. One of the features of the new area would be the two schools which were to share a common playground.

QUESTIONS ASKED

Mr. Outram was later joined by Dr. F. Harden in a discussion of several questions put to them by the meeting. Mr. Outram said that he could speak only as an individual and not as a city official.

One question asked was, "What would be the city council's attitude if the society's inspector travelled to Marmora, Lindsay and Bowmanville in answer to requests for help from those districts?"

The president, Mrs. S. R. Hamilton, said that the inspector was paid an extra 10c a mile for travelling outside the city. It meant a heavy expense for the society. However, it was felt that these calls should be answered.

Mr. Outram said he fully realized that the society felt it should try to prevent cruelty to animals in outlying districts, but he considered there was more than enough work for the inspector inside the city. However, he agreed with Dr. Harden, who thought that outlying centres should be prepared to pay the inspector's costs if he gave the service.

In reply to another question dealing with the operating costs of the shelter, Mr. Outram thought that the city council recognized its responsibility for repairs if the need was brought to its notice by the society.

More Practical Education Need

TORONTO (CP)—H. C. Imerson of Lombardy, president of the rural and township school area section of Ontario Educational Association, said in his annual report that the whole educational structure should be related more effectively than at present to the interest and needs of the rural community.

He said the income of rural dwellers was inadequate to support the schools, even with government grants, as efficiently as was done in urban centres.

"Migration from the rural areas has meant that much of the wealth of the country is transferred to the city, as these city dwellers become the heirs of the rural property left behind. The change in population is shaking the structure of rural society and is making new adjustments necessary."

V. S. Milburn, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said during a panel discussion that the changing techniques of agriculture demand that the best brains should stay on the farm. He said there should be more teaching of conservation and agriculture, a more fair assessment division between rural and urban communities, and cheaper schools. He deplored lack of willingness among teachers to stay in rural schools.

Construction Remains At Standstill

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Construction remained at a standstill today at the huge addition to the Chrysler Corporation plant as two divisions of the AFL continued a jurisdictional dispute themselves.

For the second day in a row, the Carpenters and Ironworkers unions have posted pickets. As a result, laborers, bricklayers and painters unions have refused to report for work. About 275 men are affected by the work stoppage.

Steps were taken Tuesday by the Windsor Builders and Contractors Exchange to prosecute the AFL unions which are participating in the current work stoppage.

Mr. Steele's death occurred Friday at his home, Margan Ave., Thornhill, on Friday in his 77th year.

Surviving are are his widow; a son, Leslie Steele of Willowdale; a sister, Mrs. Elkans (Edith) and a brother, W. A Steele, both of North Bay

Burial was in Richmond Hill cemetery

Rede Claim Mark

LONDON (Reuters)—Tass news agency said Tuesday a flight by a Russian model airplane has been confirmed as a world record by the International Aeronautical Federation. The radio-guided model stayed in the air an hour, 31 minutes, 14 seconds, Tass said.

BILLY GRAHAM, the Baptist from North Carolina, has been preaching in London to more than 700,000 people in the three months he has been in England. 40,000 persons massed to hear the 37-year-old evangelist in Hyde Park on Good Friday and it is expected that more than a million people would have heard him preach before he returns to the U.S.

Hails Victory As Confidence In Eisenhower

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Representative William B. Widnall today hailed his Republican primary election victory over pro-McCarthy J. Parnell Thomas as a vote of confidence in President Eisenhower rather than a test of McCarthyism.

"It was not a true test of McCarthyism," said Widnall, who defeated Thomas by some 35,000 to 5,000 in the major congressional contest of Tuesday's primary in New Jersey. Primaries in each party decide the candidates in the congressional elections proper, set for November.

Thomas, who had served seven terms in the United States Congress before he was jailed in 1949 for payroll padding, had campaigned as a "1,000 per cent" supporter of Senator Joseph McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican.

RECORD HURT

Widnall indicated that the record Thomas carried into the election, rather than his support of McCarthy, hurt him at the polls in the state's mostly-rural seventh congressional district, traditionally Republican.

"A recent poll I took showed the people in my district favored McCarthy about 2½ to 1," Widnall said. "That has fallen off in the past two months, but I think a stronger candidate than Thomas would have done better on a McCarthy platform. I campaigned as a supporter of President Eisenhower and I believe the vote reflects confidence in what he has been doing."

Ask Council Ban Midnight Shows

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener city council has been asked for a ban on midnight movie shows.

Police chief John Patrick who made the request said Tuesday night the midnight shows "seem to attract many undesirable characters and criminals from outside points."

Some of the men commit crimes after the shows while others are intent on attracting girls for "necking" and to drink with in the theatres, he said.

He described King street as a "bedlam" when nocturnal theatregoers spill out onto it about 3:30 a. m.

The chief asked a by-law similar to one now in effect in Guelph.

75 People Flee Fire In Two Tenements

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP) — Seventy-five persons fled today as fire raced through two east-end slum tenements here.

There were no injuries as the fire jumped through the three-storey wooden structures on St. Patrick street, out of control for two hours. Both buildings were badly gutted.

Sixteen families lived in the buildings in the crowded housing area. For a time the spears of fire threatened two other buildings and these were evacuated as a safety measure.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Scout Suvives Ordeal

AUBURN, Me. (AP)—A durable boy scout was good as new today after a tumble from a 40-foot mill dam into a rain-swollen river. Gary Gorten, 14, was swept down Little Androscoggin river to a clump of trees where he clung for more than an hour before scoutmaster Bernard Helwig Jr. and fireman Thomas Giberti crawled over a ladder and threw a line to him.

Bush Madness Blamed In Hunter's Death

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Joseph Tanacs, 26-year-old hunter, apparently was struck by "bush madness" and committed suicide after wandering for two days and nights in rough country, searchers who found his body said Tuesday night.

Coroner Dr. J. P. Davies of Huntsville said Tanacs apparently shot himself in the temple after being lost in the bush since Friday. Tanacs' body was found early yesterday.

"There is no suggestion of foul play," the coroner said. "The trackers have searched the area intensively and there is no sign of foreign footprints anywhere near the area."

BLUNDERED AROUND

William Ellerington, a conservation officer and one of the men who found the body, said:

"You could see where he had travelled by night from the way he stumbled, slipped and tripped over logs. He seemed to have been hit by bush madness and was blundering through thick underbrush in a way no clear-thinking man would."

Tanacs, a Hungarian immigrant who lived in Toronto, was first reported to have been drowned when he crashed through ice on a swamp near Huntsville, about 150 miles north of Toronto.

Vietminh Active In 3 States

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vietminh rebel forces now are active in all three of the associated states of Indo-China, but neither the Communist-led troops nor the French Union defenders can claim actual control of any of the areas.

Centre of attention now is the besieged fortress of Dien Bien Phu, in northwest Indo-China about 175 miles west of the port city of Hanoi. A Vietminh force of 40,000 surrounds it, but the bowl-shaped plain area around the fort is only a tiny part of the state.

In the Red river delta in eastern Laos—the northeastern part of Indo-China—the rebels have been making sporadic raids, especially on communications. French forces are continually driving them off.

In the other two states—Cambodia and Laos—the rebels are operating but have not actually cut off any areas. The Cambodian border was reported crossed in the last couple of weeks but there has been little major fighting.

Late last year the Vietminh actually held a line across the narrow waist of Laos near the Thailand border. But the line never was held and the rebels melted into the jungles for sporadic forays.

Board Issues Writ Against Lindsay

LINDSAY — (CP) — A writ against the town of Lindsay has been served by Sheriff Jasper Forman on behalf of the Victoria county district high school board.

The writ is in suit for the collection of a one-mill payment which the town discontinued to the board last year. The one mill had been made as a bonus payment by the town since the formation of the area board in 1950.

The board has requested payment of the mill since the 1953 town council stopped it, after making a part payment. It finally ordered legal action last winter, and instructed its solicitor, T. J. Carley QC, of Peterborough, to take the necessary steps.

Grist Mill Destroyed

FARQUHAR, Ont. (CP) — Fire Tuesday destroyed a grist mill operated by Carl Hume in this village 20 miles west of Stratford. Only item saved was a cash box which Mr. Hume salvaged by dashing into the burning building. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Millard Says Government Breaking Faith

TORONTO (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said today that the Ontario government is not keeping faith with the miners and the communities of northern Ontario in the appointment of a fact-finding committee to investigate economic conditions in the gold mining industry.

He said in a statement that the union has withheld comment since the committee was appointed March 22, until it was ascertained what procedures the committee would follow.

"We are now told that all meetings of the committee will be in private and all representations will be held in private.

"We regard these decisions as a direct contradiction of the terms of settlement of the strike signed by the Hon. Charles Daley, minister of Labor," he said.

FEARS BIAS EXISTS

Mr. Millard said Premier Frost, in announcing the setting up of the committee, assured the legislature that he had chosen an "impartial committee."

"We are fearful that the members of the committee are not all free from bias in favor of the mine operators," said Mr. Millard.

He said one member of the committee was recently editor of a mining journal which carried on "a continuing tirade of abuse of unions in general and the union of the gold miners in particular."

Mr. Millard called for a royal commission inquiry into the gold mining industry and its relationships with the communities in which it is situated and with the workers and the conditions.

Three members were appointed to the fact-finding committee announced on March 22. They are: Prof. F. A. Knox, department of political and economic science, Queen's University, Kingston, chairman; Prof. E. E. Reilly, professor of economics, University of Western Ontario, London; and Prof. H. R. Rice, department of mining engineering, University of Toronto.

Find Children Spend 13 Hours Week At TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Children of the new "television generation" average more than 13 hours a week in front of TV sets, almost half as much time as they ordinarily spend in school, a survey shows.

Favorite programs are variety shows and westerns.

Sixty-nine per cent of parents generally approve of the programs, although some object strongly to present TV fare for children, a report of the survey says.

Most frequently mentioned criticisms: "Too many westerns . . . not enough informational programs . . . narrow restrictions of children's program format . . . conflict of children's program time with supper and bedtime . . . silliness of many programs."

Hartley Twins Die Suddenly At 4 Months

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana's single-trunk Hartley twins, who had survived an attack of pneumonia, died Tuesday of a respiratory ailment at the age of four months and eight days.

The fatal illness developed suddenly. With a temperature of 105 degrees the babies were rushed 13 miles from their home at Petersburg to the county hospital where they were born Dec. 12.

The hospital said both heads were blue when the twins were admitted. The weaker one died first, the other 15 minutes later.

The babies, children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, bore two names on a single birth certificate. The 44-year-old father gave the name Donald Ray to "the best one" and the name Daniel Kaye to the other.

SHARED LOWER BODY

The babies weighed 10½ pounds at birth. They had two sets of shoulders, four arms, three lungs, two hearts and two stomachs. Below the waist was a single body. Two stomachs were connected to a single intestinal tract, and two upper spinal cords joined in one.

At the time the babies were born, the Hartleys lived in a backwoods log house which had no water, electricity or heat and was inaccessible at times in the winter months. The family physician, Dr. J. W. Elbert, refused to let them take the babies home until they moved into a house in Petersburg.

Hartley is a $50-a-week laborer and pays $40 a month for support of two children by a previous marriage. He and his wife, who is 27, have three normal children, all girls.

Chinese Red Regime Builds Good Roads And Railways

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—The peoples' republic of China—the Communist gargantua of the East—crashes the diplomatic big time at Geneva next week as the very young government of a very old nation.

China was old when Greece was in her glory. But Peiping is a callow five years.

The Chinese Reds praise Marx and Engels, Lenin and Stalin. But they also claim Sun Yat-sen in their political ancestry. Sun led the revolution that overthrew the Manchus.

Sun's revolution started in 1911. Once it split into loose federations, the war lords. That was where Chiang Kai-shek came in. He headed Sun's armies and party, defeated the war lords and unified the country.

Chiang made use of the Communists while doing this. That's about the only solid link Mao Tze-tung's regime has with Sun Yat-sen.

But Sun is the great modern patriot to millions of Chinese. One of the first things the Reds did in 1949 was to put Sun's widow, the eldest of the Soong sisters, in their government. Another Soong sister is Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

REDS SLAUGHTERED

In 1927, after Chiang had eliminated the war lords, he turned on the Communists, believing they were about to turn on him. The slaughter was great. Those who escaped fled into southern Kiangsi hills and set up their first "liberated area." It was too exposed and by mid-1930 they had to get out.

What followed was the Long March. Some 20,000 started walking. About 5,000 of them survived 8,000 mountainous miles. The 5,000 finally settled in a dry and distant nook at the edge of inner Mongolia around the cave city of Yenan. A dozen years and a world war later the 5,000, grown to several millions, overran China.

The leader was Mao Tze-tung, a restless, fat man. Mao looked at China's 400,000,000 peasants, many working for landlords. Instead of promising to strike off the chains of the industrial proletariat, he promised to give land to the landless.

Once in power, Mao turned into a bloody practitioner of the classless creed. The 1951-52 purge of counter-revolutionaries, the slaughter of the landlords, the crackdown on private owners, along with lesser elliminations, resulted in political killings possibly up to 15,000,000.

A Chinese Red probably would say Peiping's greatest works were the purge of "the people's enemies," division of the land and the start of the five-year plan.

ROADS REBUILT

A neutral observer in the Far East probably would give highest rating to the reconstruction of roads and railroads and the start of flood and erosion control, benefits that outlast politics.

People looking at China from America or Europe are most impressed by the armed strength created by the Reds.

The five-year plan is to build heavy industry and at the same time create a worker class. Every ounce of strength goes into it. Even so, Peiping had to cut back targets by 30 per cent only two months after it started the plan last year.

Russia is helping China build 141 key factories. The country is full of Russian technicians.

If communism were thrown out of China tomorrow, three lasting benefits would be left behind.

One is the railroads. The Japanese war and the civil war ripped up so many lines so thoroughly that in 1949 you couldn't even locate some of the roadbeds. Rails and ties had disappeared. Yet the Reds built them back in a few months and operate them well.

They restored roads just as quickly and reduced China's chronic bandit troubles so that they could be safely used.

FLOOD CONTROL

Peiping's flood control work is another undeniable boon. No land suffers so much from floods. The Reds tackled the toughest rivers with self-confidence. They say they have tamed the vicious Hwei, between the Yangtze and the Yellow.

The Communists have possibly 10,000,000 men under some degree of arms. Most of them are the militia, regional security troops and various specialized forces. The striking power—the people's liberation army—was estimated at the start of the Korean war at about 2,500,000 men divided into five field armies.

High-Pressure Nozzle Sought

Fire Chief Bill Sorrie expects to save about $700 by equipping one of the fire department's pumpers for use of high-pressure equipment.

In his annual report to city council, the chief asked for a new high-pressure nozzle. Total cost of the equipment involved would come to about $2,400.

The chief told the fire, water and light committee Monday that he had since discovered that fire underwriters considered a pump with 250 pounds pressure was high-pressure. This pressure was available with the city's present equipment.

By increasing the size of the tank on the pumper and changing the hose from ¾-inch to 1-inch size, the desired result could be obtained, he said. The total cost would be only about $1,700.

Separate Bright Students From Slower Ones In Public Schools—Smith

TORONTO (CP)—Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, says bright students should be separated from the dull in public schools so that the bright ones can develop their minds to the fullest.

"The potentialities of the best brains are unlimited," he said Tuesday. "Yet those potentialities are not realized under a school system that underrates the importance and the capacities of the best brains."

Dr. Smith was speaking to the college and secondary school department of the Ontario Educational Association annual convention. His talk was one of a number given by prominent educators to groups meeting in conjunction with the convention.

URGES SEPARATE CLASSES

Dr. Smith said there should be separate classes for the brilliant, the average, and the dull.

"Very good brains are not common," he said. "Exercise will never hurt them, but atrophy will."

A. B. Lucas of London, Ont., was elected president of the OEA.

Ontario's Education Minister Dunlop told another group that school children enjoy good hard work, though they may not admit it.

Hard work, interest and competition are musts for good education, he said in a talk to the Catholic education conference.

"Some so-called progressive educational principals tell us we should not have competition," he said. "But as long as success in life depends so largely on hard work, interest and competition, why try to take them out of the school?"

Home and school associations should give far more attention to how children are educated, the Ontario Home and School Association annual meeting was told.

LESS CRITICISM

Dr. S. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, said that if home and school associations were doing an adequate job there would be less criticism of schools "because parents and the public would know that a lot of it wasn't true."

F. J. McDonald, inspector of schools for Ottawa district, said that if there were more education clinics like those held for Ottawa separate schools "we might do something to underwrite the great loss through mental ill-health."

He said in a talk to the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations convention that in the Ottawa clinics teachers meet with parents and psychiatrists to study problems of children who are not making progress at school.

He urged parent-teacher associations to set up more credit unions in schools, which he said are an excellent way to teach children the value of money.

SEEK BOGUS BOXER

CHICAGO (CP) — The Illinois athletic commission Tuesday cleared manager James Riley of Detroit of any intentional part in passing off a bogus boxer. It launched a search for the boxer, believed a Canadian, who represented himself as Paul Holman of Allston, Mass.

The fighter was stopped in the second round by Dick Kerber of Milwaukee in Chicago April 6. The commission learned later that the real Holman, a promising welterweight, is in the U.S. army and may have been en route to Japan the night of the fight.

Goes To Europe Study Marketing

TORONTO (CP)—Kenneth Standing, secretary-manager of the Ontario soybean growers' marketing board, left for Europe Tuesday to study export markets for Canadian soybeans.

Canada exported soybeans last year for the first time but at the same time has to import them as it does not produce enough to fill domestic requirements.

The growers' organization, in making its check on foreign markets, is chiefly interested in maintaining business for the 10,000 growers in the province and keeping in the export field even when these markets may not be absolutely necessary, Mr. Standing said.

The organization will notify growers later if production and marketing practices need adjusting to meet requirements of buyers and processors.

Gus Faux New President Of Liberal Association

Gus Faux, 32-year-old Peterborough salesman, on Tuesday night was elected president of the Peterborough Liberal Association. He succeeds T. C. Carley QC.

Mr. Faux told 80 Liberals who attended the annual meeting in the Empress Hotel that the key to success in the next provincial election would be an intensive organization of the women's and young people's groups.

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader in the legislature and guest speaker of the evening, also stressed the value of organization. Liberals have still a lot to learn here, he said.

"It's in the polling divisions that elections are won and lost. Regardless of how good a leader they have, the men and women in the polling division must be determined to put the tenets of Liberalism into effect if they are to win."

The organization must begin at that level if the Progressive Conservatives are to be turned out of office in Ontario, he said.

NEW BLOOD

Mr. Faux and the slate of officers were the unanimous choice of the Liberals. Apparently the nominating committee took the advice of retiring president T. J. Carley and decided to inject some new and youthful blood into the organization.

Following is the slate of officers for 1954: Gus Faux, president; James Gillespie, 1st vice-president; Dr. Bob Young, 2nd vice-president; Ralph Standish, 3rd vice-president; W. B. (Pete) Gordon, secretary (no change); and Eric Johnson, treasurer.

The twelve directors, a representative group from the county, are Mrs. A. E. Parker, Eldon Purvis, John Wolff and Mrs. Eric Martin, all of Peterborough; and Herbert Tucker of Apsley, John Harrington of Ennismore, Kevin Leahy of Douro, Allan Eason of Otonabee, John Davidson of Havelock, Peter Pearson of Galway-Cavendish, Roy Kidd of Lakefield, and Clarence Laing of North Monaghan. A representative from the Women's Liberal Association will be named later.

Mr. Faux, a tall, slim salesman in the store equipment business, is originally from Hastings and has lived in Peterborough for a year and a half after coming from Toronto. He is a former president of the Toronto-Greenwood Liberal Association, and at the last provincial election he was unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Toronto-Woodbine.

He is a former vice-president of the Ontario Liberal Association, and he is now chairman of the association's policy committee on labor.

His wife is the former Audrey Coughlin of Norwood, and he has a four-year-old son, Stirling.

During the last federal election Mr. Faux was one of the hardest workers in the camp of Max Swanston, the unsuccessful Liberal candidate. He campaigned actively throughout the riding.

LAST ELECTION

Mr. Swanston had a comment on that election:

"I want to thank you for your fine work last summer," he told his Liberal audience, many of them from rural districts. "But I'd rather have lost with the workers we had and the platform we prepared than have won with some of the others."

The nominating committee took just 15 minutes to bring in their recommendations. Though an opportunity was given, no nominations came from the floor.

Mr. Faux said that an organizational committee will be appointed—probably at a meeting next week—to get on with the job of building an efficient party machine. He said that party members were encouraged at the leadership convention last week to hear Anne Shipley say that no MP in Ottawa could be elected without an efficient women's group and a good Young Liberals' group.

"It's time in Peterborough for a change in our representation, said Mr. Faux. "And time we Liberals made a little change . . . We don't want to continue the Monday-morning-yawn type of representation that we've had for the last few years. We have every reason to get out and fight."

Hold Hearing In Hospital

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal judge Tuesday convened a preliminary hearing in an abortion case in the hospital room of a 29-year-old widow whom doctors said might not live 48 hours.

While Joseph A. Chartrand, 68-year-old laborer stood handcuffed at the foot of the bed, the wan dark-haired woman said Chartrand performed an illegal operation on her April 12 and 13 for $100.

The woman was admitted to hospital April 15.

Court clerk Paul-Emile Noel bent over her, placing his ear next to her face to hear her faint answers to questions put to her by the prosecution.

In the middle of the testimony a nurse attended the woman. A doctor was in the room throughout the hearing.

The preliminary hearing, not normally heard until one week after arraignment, was hurriedly called when doctors said the woman was in critical condition and might not survive.

Hold Three Boys In Crypt Break-in

TORONTO (CP)—Three 15-year-old boys were arrested Tuesday night and accused of breaking into a crypt and disturbing remains in a coffin at Mount Pleasant cemetery during the Easter week-end.

The three, all from Toronto, were charged under the Criminal Code dealing with indignity to human remains. They were scheduled to appear in juvenile court today.

Police said entrance to the vault had been gained by breaking a padlock and removing slabs of marble. The contents of one of six coffins had been removed and placed in a corner. The coffin had been put in the family burial vault in 1914.

Collection Back

MONTREAL (CP) — The Seagram collection of paintings of Canada's cities arrived back in Montreal Tuesday after 30,000 miles of travel through Europe and Central and South America. It now goes on tour of the 22 Canadian cities represented.

Feel Disarmament Talks Of "Greatest Urgency"

OTTAWA (CP) — Disarmament talks are a matter of the "greatest urgency," Canadian officials said Tuesday.

For that reason, the government is pleased that a sub-committee of the United Nations disarmament commission will start private talks Friday, even though Russia has given no indication that it has retreated from its years-old position which has made previous disarmament discussion fruitless.

The sub-committee comprises representatives of Canada, Britain, the United States, France and Russia. The Canadian representative will be David Johnson, Canada's permanent delegate to the UN.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said recently that private discussion within a sub-committee should present a better chance for progress. Canada is also a member of the 12-nation disarmament commission.

Canadian officials regard disarmament discussion as particularly urgent now in light of the recent hydrogen bomb explosions and President Eisenhower's call for an international pool of atomic energy materials for peaceful purposes.

Newspaper Circulation Rises Despite TV Competition

NEW YORK (CP) — Publishers reported Tuesday that newspaper circulations are rising despite competition from television for the reader's time.

A show of hands at a panel discussion at the American Newspaper Publishers Association annual convention indicated three newspapers out of four gained circulation during the last six months.

Lee Hills, Detroit Free Press, said TV has had at least two effects on reporting and editing. He said:

First, many stories must be written now with the knowledge that the public already has witnessed the event.

Second, with many women watching sports on TV, sports stories must be pointed toward the whole family rather than only to the men.

CLOSED PANEL

The entire first day's session was given over to closed panel discussions on newspaper problems.

These general trends developed in the discussions:

The publishers foresaw little likelihood of any increase in the price of newspapers to the reader in the near future, but felt an eventual increase was possible.

General sentiment was against printing names of juveniles arrested for crimes, but some publishers reported an increasing disposition by law enforcement officers to have such names printed as a deterrent to curb an upswing in youthful lawbreaking.

On the question of letters to the editors, the general attitude was to edit them only for reasons of space or to eliminate bad taste.

Country publishers said they sometimes were under pressure from local merchants to reject advertising from out of town merchants in a competitive position. Majority, but not unanimous, opinion was that such advertising should be accepted.

ROOF SHINGLES

Made of two practically imperishable materials, asbestos and cement, Durabestos Roof Shingles form a solidly protective "sheet of stone" over your home.

A roof that can't ever burn, won't ever rot. Even under the hottest suns these shingles will never dry out or curl up. Being rigid, they have extraordinary resistance to high winds. And these qualities have all been repeatedly proven in long service . . . for in over 45 years, not one J-M asbestos shingle has ever worn out or burned.

With all this, you get beauty too! Beauty in styling, in deep-grained texture and in color. An entirely new color range includes rich, warm red, green and brown blends and a "roof-of-distinction" black blend. The millions of tiny granules that create these charming colors are deeply imbedded; they add to the ruggedness of the shingle and remain bright and fresh for years.

FREE . . . Before you decide on your new roof see the new Durabestos Shingle brochure. It gives details and shows full color selection. Ask your J-M dealer for your copy or write Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. N-47, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Queen Observes 28th Birthday In Colombo

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The Queen today celebrated her 28th birthday on the homeward leg of her Commonwealth tour, surrounded by greetings and messages from all parts of the world. Her apartment at the governor-general's residence was a mass of flowers, mostly bouquets of orchids presented by the people of Ceylon.

Birthday telegrams and letters poured in. There were cards from Prince Charles and Princess Anne and special messages from Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family.

Government House prepared a magnificent birthday cake.

The Ceylon cabinet gave her a silver tray with a traditional moonstone design, like the one found at the entrances to Ceylon's old palaces. It consists of lions, elephants and bulls in one row and patterned scrolls of flowers in rows above and below.

Today was also the Queen's last day in Ceylon. Great crowds turned out in driving rain to watch her inspect the island's armed forces.

Wearing a lavender and white organza dress she drove up and down the lines of troops in an open car as the Duke of Edinburgh held an umbrella over her.

Soldiers led the singing of "Happy Birthday to You." The 50,000-strong crowd joined in enthusiastically.

From the saluting dais, Her Majesty turned to acknowledge the shouts with a wave of her arm.

After the military review the royal couple returned to Government House for an investiture for the people of Ceylon who were given honors last year.

Later the Queen unveiled a plaque naming Colombo's new quay before going aboard the liner Gothic.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CVII. No. 94 — WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1954

Main Street Topics

NEW APPOINTEE

Miss Elaine Kimber, 22, has been appointed to the staff of the children's aid society. She will begin her duties on May 3 and will increase the total staff number to eight. Miss Kimber is a graduate of McMaster university.

SCATTERED SHOWERS

Tuesday night's rain apparently was pretty well scattered. James Harrison, weatherman, reported not enough rain at the filtration plant to become evident on the indicator while in several parts of the city the water was lying on the sides of the streets.

CORRECTION

Ald. Art Burrows has pointed out that a recent report in The Examiner quoting him as saying he was absent from a meeting between the negotiating committees of city council and the Fire Fighters Association was incorrect. He said he was present at the meeting.

CHANGE OF HOURS

Working hours for the staff of the children's aid society have been changed from a five-and-a-half-day week to a five-day week. The office will now be closed all day Saturday, but the staff will take only a one-hour lunch period. Sick leave has been extended from 12 to 20 days a year.

BAND CONCERT

The Peterborough citizens' band, under the direction of bandmaster Wallace Parnell, will give a concert and show a film in the main hall of St. George's Anglican church, tonight at 8:00 p.m. The film, in color, features between 50 and 60 bands playing at the Waterloo music festival last year. All proceeds are for the 3rd Peterborough Boy Scouts and Cubs camp fund.

BIRD HOUSE CONTEST

More than 120 school children are expected to be registered in the bird house building contest by Thursday deadline. Arrangements have been made to hang the houses in city parks if the children wish to donate them. Recreational director Ken Robinson is convinced his slogan "A home for every wren," will become fact. The winning entry will be displayed in a city store window.

JUNIOR HELPS

Jimmy Preston, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Preston, Sherbrooke St. W., decided after watching TV programs that he should do something to help the campaign for crippled children that is taking place in Canada and the United States. He made a poster, pinned it up in his classroom at Prince of Wales school and his classmates collected 90 cents. His mother took the contribution to the Bank of Montreal for the Crippled Children's fund.

PITTED WINDSHIELDS

Bob Hamilton of the Chamber of Commerce has a theory concerning the recent rampage of pitted windshields reports baffling the nation. According to Mr. Hamilton the cause of the strange pitting is not the result of some strange exterior force, but a deficiency in the glass itself. Most of the automotive glass is made by independent manufacturers and sold to the various car manufacturers. Recently produced glass, according to Mr. Hamilton, just isn't standing up to the general friction and wear. Jim Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce still maintains that the pitted glass is the result of atomic radiation.

River Banks Allotted To Industry

Otonabee Committee Protests Zoning North of Parkhill Rd.

The Otonabee Valley Conservation committee reacted quickly against proposals in the zoning bylaw by "strenuously objecting to those areas on both banks of the river west of Parkhill road being allocated to industry." This was the gist of a resolution unanimously passed at the committee's regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. Almost the entire meeting was taken up by discussions of the advertised zoning bylaw.

Secretary Arthur Smoke was instructed to prepare copies of the resolution of strong protest for distribution to the planning board, the city council and other interested civic groups.

The committee was "shocked and disappointed" that those areas which offered "so many possibilities are now turned over to industrial development."

The resolution is being sent the the council as its watchdog re-bee Valley Conservation committee has been officially recognized by the council and its watchdog regarding the preservation and reclamation of the river. The area north of Parkhill road to the city limits, the committee noted, is "one of the last few places along the river which have not been encroached on." The possibilities of this stretch for parks, recreaton, natural beauty, are varied and great.

NO SERVICES ON SEWERS

"It is some of the best river country in the whole district." What agitated the committee was the possibility that this would be thrown away completely, a last opportunity neglected. And why, it was asked, allocate it to industry when on the east bank there are not services, no sewers, while there is so much other territory in the city suitable to industry?

Coupled with the main resolution was another asking that the west banks of the river from the CPR bridge to Hunter street not be zoned for industry. It is marked for heavy industry on the planning board's map. While industry is already there in some parts, "over the years some reclamation would be possible" (for instance between the river and the tracks. If industry were allowed to expand there the "logical" future of it for a green belt or park area would be forever denied.

The committee reviewed the city council's request that it examine the park possibilities suggested to the council by a local citizen. The area referred to lies north of Lansdowne street and east of the bridge's at Boyle's creek. It was decided to make a tour of examination of this area; and also to tour Jackson Park cheek bed and banks from the northern limits to Little lake.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. J. A. Nornabell.

MORE POWER USED

Electric power consumption increased 891,751 kilowatt hours during March to a total of 12,242,200 kw. hr. as reported to the Utilities Commission by W. H. Powell, manager. A new bank of three 333 KVA transformers was installed at Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. The displaced transformers were transferred to the filtration plant.

Endeavor To Make Water More Generally Palatable

The Utilities Commission Monday gave their manager, W. H. Powell, a free hand to experiment with chloramine treatment of the city's water supply.

Not so long ago, the Commission had no problem of contamination of the water flowing from the pumping station and filter beds into the homes of the city. But, more people are living along the river to Lakefield and beyond to Katchawanooka Lake, causing more pollution of the water passing their doors and outlet pipes.

Mr. Powell briefly mentioned the practice of putting chlorine into the water at the pumping station to kill various species of bacteria, especially the colon bacillus.

"Leave the chlorine in the water for an hour or two, and all the bacteria is destroyed. That is the condition when it leaves the filter plant. We have also been adding a little extra free chlorine for safety in killing any bacteria that might be in the mains. It has been an extra health precaution, because there is likely to be scale formation in mains that have been in use, say, thirty years.

That free chlorine has been reacting on any sediment, and there has been a resulting taste in the water especially in the older districts of the city."

Mr. Powell said the ammonia and chlorine had a trade name of chloramine. It has been recommended from reliable sources, although some expert opinion is not certain "that it will do any good" in correcting the taste of the water.

The chloramine will leave a residual in the water that will not react on the inner scale accumulation, where it exists. Mr. Powell said he thought it might restore the potability of the water, in the sections from which complaints have come, and at the same time maintain the factor of protection to the public.

The cost of this proposed test is nominal, about one dollar a million gallons, or five dollars a day here.

The Commission told Mr. Powell to arrange for the test of the chloramine in the hope that it would make the water generally palatable.

Potters' Guild Brings To City Great Artists

The Peterborough Potter's Guild is bringing to the city this weekend a talented couple, Konrad and Krystyna Sadowski of Aurora, to conduct two two-hour "workshops."

These workshops are in lieu of the annual dinner meeting and guest speaker and are expected to prove even more popular with local persons interested in the craft. They will be held in the YMCA dining room Friday evening, April 23rd, at eight o'clock, and Saturday afternoon at one thirty o'clock.

The Sadowskis, who fled Poland during the war and have had a series of experiences which led them to the Ontario College of Art as instructors, have quickly made a name for themselves in Canada, particularly on the east coast in Nova Scotia, where they have property and a roadside store they will re-open in the summer months.

Combining their talents this couple come up with some unusual original designs which Konrad moulds into interesting shapes and Krystyna, a competent painter in semi-abstract field, decorates. Mrs. Sadowski's principal talent is weaving, however, and she dyes her own wool in the true tradition of the craftsman. Her designs for both the tapestries and the pottery are drawn from a blend of mythology, South American, Polish and Canadian, and are described as "poetic, flowing and rhythmical."

Tickets to attend both workshops, at which there will be displays of Mr. Sadowski's work as well as practical demonstrations, are available from Guild secretary Miss Alma Dobbin or any member of the executive.

Light refreshments are to be served after the Saturday session and a short business meeting will be held.

LEO McCOLL, shop teacher at Kenner Collegiate, was today elected president of the Ontario Industrial Arts Teachers' Association on the last day of their convention in Toronto. He succeeds Herb. McCullough of Scarborough. The teachers heard an address by Dean Steadman, public relations manager of the CGE, as part of a workshop project organized by the Peterborough, Lindsay, Oshawa group. They also visited the Ford plant in Oakville, and saw a display of work at the Etobicoke collegiate. The Niagara Falls group put on a demonstration of shop work.

Highway Scandal Involves Millions Farquhar Oliver Tells Liberals In Outlining His 5-Point Platform

In an address Tuesday night to 80 members of the Peterborough Liberal Association, Farquhar Oliver—the newly-elected head of Ontario Liberals—laid emphasis on five main points.

1. The "highways scandal" investigation should not be limited to the Fort William division; the whole department needs to be investigated;

2. Maladministration is not confined to the department of highways;

3. The Progressive Conservative government have not lived up to their promises made 10 years ago;

4. An election will likely be held in Ontario "before the next snow flies—before the full impact of the highways scandal comes home to the people of Ontario";

5. Liberals must continue to be the reform party in Ontario, representing the people generally—not any one group.

Mr. Oliver, a 225-pound retired farmer, has represented Grey South for 28 years. He was first elected to the legislature when only 22 years of age and was known as "the boy orator."

At the convention on April 9 he was elected head of the Liberal party in Ontario, succeeding Walter Thomson.

Tuesday night he was the featured speaker at the annual meeting and election of officers of the Peterborough Liberal Association. The dinner meeting was in the Empress Hotel's Kawartha room.

"I think we have an excellent chance of dislodging the present government at Queen's Park," he told his enthusiastic audience.

BIGGEST IN GENERATION

"The highways scandal is the biggest scandal that we have had in this province in a generation," he said. At first Highways Minister Doucett had tried to brush it off as a matter not involving more than $18,000; and there was no need for an investigation.

Now it has grown into a scandal "involving millions of dollars" and a committee of the legislature will conduct a probe into it between legislative sessions. Eight departmental employees have already been arrested; nine contractors have had their books seized and—in effect—are out of business; two divisional engineers have been suspended, and the chief engineer has been suspended.

"There is not a doubt in the world that all the divisions in the department should be investigated," said the Liberal leader. "The maladministration is not confined to one division (Fort William), but is prevalent throughout the whole department of highways."

Mr. Oliver said that one reason for the trouble is that the department are now operating on a budget of $150,000,000, but are still carrying on similar business practices to when they were on a $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 budget.

He then widened his charge at the Frost government.

"Maladministration is not confined to the department of highways," he said. But he didn't elaborate.

HARD FIGHT AHEAD

Mr. Oliver said that the Liberals would have a hard fight to unseat the Frost government, but the government in power were not the same as a few years ago. It is easy to see their deficiencies.

A series of what he alleged to be broken promises were listed:

1. When the PCs came to power 11 years ago under George Drew they promised they would pay 50 per cent. of the cost of education. But municipal taxpayers, despite larger grants, are having to pay up to $15,000,000 more a year for education.

2. Taxation has more than trebled, going up from $102,000,000 to $318,000,000.

"Unlike the federal government, who have given a little easing each time of the tax burden, the Ontario government have increased taxation and even entered new taxation fields."

GASOLINE TAX

As "nuisance taxes" seized on by the Ontario government after the federal government had dropped them he cited the three-cent tax a gallon gasoline (dropped by Ottawa at the end of the Second World War) and the amusement tax.

"One thing the Liberals have stood for is the abolition of nuisance taxes. . . . The federal government dropped them and the

Spending In First Quarter Is Within Appropriation

It cost $668,899.33 to operate Peterborough's various departments of municipal government, including schools, during the first three months of 1954. This does not include payment of debt charges.

City Treasurer A. S. Couper's first financial statement for the year revealed that during the first quarter expenditures were kept to just under 24 per cent of the total appropriation of revenues for the year of $2,811,707.84, leaving a balance of $2,142,808.51 for the rest of the year.

Spending by departments under the control of city council was running well below a quarter of the total appropriation for the year at 20.4 per cent. With a total appropriation of $1,495,961.02 from the general rate for the year, $302,563.57 has been spent by the end of March, leaving a balance of $1,193,397.45 for the rest of the year.

DROP IN THIRD QUARTER

The difference was made up by school costs. With no teachers' salaries to be paid during July and August, the schools' portion of the total is, as usual, expected to drop during the third quarter.

Meanwhile, money paid by both the board of education and the separate school board during the first quarter was running at about one-third of their total demands for the year.

With a total demand of $829,020.88, the board of education had been paid $270,000 by the end of March, leaving $559,020.88 for the balance of the year. Of their total demand of $130,123.30, the separate school board had been paid $32,684.13, leaving a balance of $949,411.06.

Of the other special rates, $33,630.39 had been spent by Civic Hospital for an allocation of $214,010, leaving a balance of $180,379.61 for the balance of the year. Garbage collections, with an allocation of $96,592.64 had cost $19,315.93, leaving a balance of $77,276.71. Welfare cost $10,705.31. With an allocation of $46,000, that left $35,294.69 in this department for the rest of the year.

With no taxes reported collected yet, revenues from sources other than taxes were running just over 23 per cent for the first quarter; but in many of the categories under this heading, such as bicycle licenses, dog tags, poll taxes, some provincial grants and some payments in lieu of taxes, no receipts have been entered yet.

This was counterbalanced in some cases by such items as parking meter receipts and payments in lieu of taxes by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Parking meter revenues were estimated at $40,000 when the budget was struck. By the end of March, $12,030.47 had already been collected. The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had paid $6,594.60 of an estimated $14,679.

The present condition of these extra revenues is not an accurate indication of how this fluid will stand at the end of the year, however, because payment of many of the items is not spread out over the year but is entered later on.

Incidentally, one item which may look dark financially, has a bright side.

It was estimated police court fines would total $31,000 this year. By the end of March, the city had received only $5,383.32 from this source.

APPROVE LICENCES

During March, K. G. Spencer, sanitary inspector, approved the licensing of 16 premises handling food. Six were refreshment booths, four milk vendors, three barbers, and one bakery, lodging house and refreshment stand. Licences for five lunch counters and two beauty parlors were deferred.

Aldermen Confirm Practice Of Sending Fire Equipment To Urban Centres

The fire, water and light committee of city council has confirmed the practice of sending fire equipment from the city to another centre, such as Campbellford, which has its own equipment, when there is a fire too big for the other community to handle.

But the request for assistance must come from the mayor or reeve of the other municipality and be granted by the mayor of Peterborough or the chairman of the fire, water and light committee.

Mayor Norman Graham said an entire business block would have been lost in Campbellford on April 4, if the Peterborough fire department had not sent a pumper.

"Five minutes after we arrived, the other chiefs just gave up, and turned the direction over to our chief," the mayor told the committee. "Almost as soon as he took over, you could see the fire die down."

Committee chairman Ald. Harold Rehill agreed with the mayor's decision to send the pumper to Campbellford and said he understood it had always been the practice to help out another community that had its own equipment. Meanwhile, he hadn't heard any intimation from either North Monaghan or Otonabee townships that they were prepared to resume discussions of fire protection agreements.

Ald. Art. Burrows agreed with the policy of sending help to other communities if they had a fire too big for their own equipment to handle, but he pointed out that this seemed to conflict with stated council policy.

Council recently reaffirmed a resolution not to answer fire alarms from other municipalities unless there was a written agreement with them for fire protection.

"We have no agreement with Campbellford," he pointed out.

"I think possibly the resolution should have been a bit wider in scope," Ald. Stan McBride said. "But if it is understood that we will send help in these exceptional cases, we can leave it at that."

City Clerk E. A. Outram pointed out that this was the general practice in all urban communities but it was always a matter to be decided by the elected head of the municipality sending help in answer to the request of the elected head of the municipality where the fire occurred.

Hospital Plans New Safeguards

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Port Colborne General Hospital board has received a notice of a motion to guard against future fatalities during intravenous injections at the hospital following the death March 8 of Mrs. Harold Knox.

The motion was proposed by C. A. Bennett at a board meeting Monday night. It calls for the attendance of doctors at all times during the giving of intravenous injections, blood transfusions, or feedings under air or manual pressure.

Nurses would be relieved of all responsibility and supervision except in the case of gravity flow injections or transfusions.

Mrs. Knox died at the hospital during the administration of a blood transfusion under air pressure. A fatal quantity of air was injected into the woman's veins and heart when the bottle was emptied.

An inquest placed no blame but recommended the use of safety manually-operated equipment.

The motion will be presented at the next meeting of the hospital board. It calls for the familiarization of all doctors with the new equipment recently purchased.

Body In Canal That Of Missing Pilot

MONTREAL (CP)—The body of John A. (Jack) Lawson, 18, found Monday in the Soulanges canal, was identified Tuesday as that of a pilot who disappeared last Nov. 28 while on a solo flight from Kingston, Ont., to Cartierville airport, Montreal.

Dr. A. B. Clement, Montreal district coroner, said identification had been made by Lawson's father. The canal will be searched for the plane. At the time the plane disappeared there were reports that wires near the canal had been mysteriously cut or damaged.

The body was seen floating in the canal by Dr. Clement Monday, about 30 miles west of Montreal, as he was motoring to Rigaud.

Lawson lived in Quebec and Baie Comeau. He was piloting a Fleet Canuck aircraft, owned by the Quebec City Flying Club, at the time he disappeared.

McCarthy Starts New Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune Tuesday says Sen. Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) asserted that the U. S. army's charges against him were prepared under supervision of a defence department official whose finances were under scrutiny of McCarthy's investigating sub-committee.

The official was identified as assistant defence secretary H. Struve Hensel, a New York lawyer who held government jobs under the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

The Tribune says that McCarthy said his subcommittee has been assembling evidence concerning Hensel's government career from 1942 to 1954, but emphasized that the evidence was not related to its investigation of subversion. Rather, the senator was quoted, it was conducted under its jurisdiction to investigate finances of government officials.

The Tribune quotes McCarthy as saying Hensel's role raised a question of "motivation" of charges against himself and his committee's chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn.

The army has claimed McCarthy and Cohn brought improper pressure to secure special treatment for Pte. G. David Schine, an unpaid investigator for McCarthy's committee staff before his induction. This McCarthy and Cohen have denied.

Maksymjuk is recovering in a Toronto hospital. He was charged with having illicit spirits. Stadnyk is charged under the Excise Act with possession of a still.

The case against marital infidelity

It's far more common than most of us like to believe, says Dr. A. Stone, eminent marriage consultant . . . but it seldom brings lasting emotional satisfaction to either husband or wife.

In May Reader's Digest, Dr. Stone, a pioneer in the field of marriage education tells why unfaithfulness shatters personality; and what he's found is the major cause of adultery.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Main Course For Dinner Takes 3 Minutes

In about the time it takes to say that I slit and emptied out a package of frozen limas, opened a can of corn niblets and cut 4 long smoked sausages in halves, I had the main course of our dinner in the oven.

I surprised myself when I noted that it occupied all of 3 minutes. I had spent almost an hour earlier in the afternoon making a Cocoanut Cream Pie (because Pete had phoned unexpectedly to say he had an offer of a ride home and would be here in 2½ hours), so with the main course disposed of and in the oven, I had nothing to do but sit and fold my hands and listen to the symhpony on the radio. Marianne and Herbie would make the salad and set the table. Pretty slick for the old girl.

So, if you want a quick main course after you have made a cocoanut cream pie here's your dish.

MENU:

Smoked Sausage and Succotash Casserole, Applesauce (canned), Lettuce and Tomato and Cucumber Salad, Olives, Cocoanut Cream Pie, Coffee.

SMOKED SAUSAGE AND SUCCOTASH CASSEROLE

The smoked sausages were 69c per lb. and I can't remember how much the four of them cost, but I cut them in halves for this. One long sausage each makes a generous serving. Buy 1 package of frozen limas. I like the Fordhook variety because they are so green and plump; and 1 12-oz. tin yellow corn niblets. In large casserole mix together the limas and corn. Sprinkle over them 1 tablespoon flour, then put sausage halves on top and pour over all 1 cup whole milk. Cover. Place in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

The canned applesauce we can buy nowadays is a very superior product and far less expensive than making your own from apples that you pay anywhere from 69 to 95c per box or basket for—that is unless you have your own apples in storage. The apples were canned, of course, at the height of the season last fall, and that is why they are a good buy now.

COCOANUT CREAM PIE

(Filling for 9-inch pie plate)

First heat 2 2-3 cups whole milk. Mix together in top of double boiler 2-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon of salt, 2¾ tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon flour. When these are thoroughly mixed, stir into them the 2 2-3 cups hot milk, then stir this over boiling water until thick. Cover and cook 10 minutes, stirring twice. Remove from heat and stir a little of this mixture into 3 slightly beaten egg yolks; return this small amount to contents of double boiler and cook stirring 2 minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 tablespoon butter and 1½ teaspoons vanilla. Add ¾ cup moist shredded cocoanut. Pour into baked pie shell. While it is still hot cover with meringue made from beating 3 egg whites until stiff, then gradually beating in 6 tablespoons sugar until very stiff. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Be sure to spread this meringue over the filling and touching the pastry shell. Sprinkle top with cocoanut. Put in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. to cook meringue and delicately tinge the cocoanut topping. Cool this pie at room temperature, then chill if you like.

"A Faithful Reader"—a Mrs. M. wrote asking for some new suggestions for sandwich fillings. I have room to give her two today:

New Egg Sandwich Filling: 6 hard-coked eggs are peeled and mashed then added to 14 oz. block pimiento process cheese and enough mayonnaise to make of spreading consistency. This is also excellent for stuffing for celery. Keep covered and refrigerated in covered sealer.

TONGUE SANDWICH FILLING

Half of a leftover boiled fresh tongue is put through medium knife of grinder and then mixed with 2 tablespoons green garden relish, ¼ cup thick French dressing and salt and pepper to taste.

DOROTHY DIX

House to Buy? More Than Money Involved

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past few years we have been living in a high-rent district, 20 minutes away from my husband's business. Because of this convenience, he would like to buy a home here, but since property is so expensive, and we'd be saddled with a mortgage for the next 20 years, I would prefer a less exclusive section.

I have been working, trying to accumulate the money for a down payment on a house though I feel our two children really need me at home. If my husband would be willing to move farther out, we could go ahead with our plans. We could buy a house in a town not too far away, with excellent schools, more modern homes than we could get here, and a fine class of people. Surely it should be worth a little sacrifice on his part.

BILLIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The simple premise of whether to buy a house in an expensive neighborhood, involving economic pressure or to buy in a lower-priced section where the financial transaction would be easier for you to handle, might seem to have but one obvious answer—the second choice.

However, there might be other factors to consider, which should be discussed with your real-estate broker and a banker. For instance, the older houses might be of so much better construction than the cheaper ones that they would be well worth the additional investment. Or one neighborhood might face a near-future population shift that would carry weight as to its desirability. Often residents leave old neighborhoods taken over by businesses—with concomitant dissatisfaction to families who aren't in a position to move.

Be guided by the advice of your broker and banker regarding your reallocation, but I do think you should do something about establishing a home as soon as possible. Continually paying out high rent will get you nowhere, and it's very obvious that working and trying to bring up a family is too trying for you. Your future should be based on the fact that you'll stay home and care for the children in a house that's sufficiently within your means so that you aren't constantly worrying over the tax bill or the mortgage payment. Owning your own home almost always entails some sacrifice from every member of the family, but the advantages are so many that the inconveniences fade into insignificance. The sacrifices, however, shouldn't be so enormous that they preclude any peace or contentment in the home. The loss of travelling convenience is almost a minor sacrifice in the major project of establishing a home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 and considered very sociable. I am the life of every party I attend. My problem is that I can't make conversation with any one boy when I'm with him alone. On a single date I get absolutely speechless.

MARIANNE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: You've been so busy being the life of the party that you haven't had time to learn the art of conversing with any one person. Perhaps, too, you haven't been sufficiently interested in any particular boy to make the effort of concentrating on him. Time, experience, and the growing knowledge of social contacts will correct your fault.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A sister to whom I am very much devoted recently had a baby. My mother had assured me that I would be chosen godmother to the child, and I was elated at the prospect. However, as the christening day grew near, I learned that another sister had been given the honor. I was completely heartbroken, and have even stopped visiting my sister.

P. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother rather overstepped her authority by making promises outside her territory and, of course, as you realize now, you should never have made plans based soley on her information. Your sister is entirely blameless in this matter and you shouldn't bear a grudge against her. She will doubtless have other children and your turn at sponsoring one will come.

McCarthy-Army Row Widens Before Hearing

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The swirling McCarthy-army row has been broadened, on the eve of the long-heralded public hearings, to include a high defence official whom the Wisconsin Republican senator accuses of trying to head off an investigation for misconduct.

The latest charge fired by McCarthy was that H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence, joined with Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and army counsellor John G. Adams in trying to "discredit" the Senate investigations sub - committee McCarthy heads.

Hensel, a government official for much of the time since 1941, was named to his present post by President Eisenhower and confirmed by the Senate without objection Feb. 19.

"Bare-faced lies," he shot back to a statement by McCarthy saying that he was seeking to dodge investigation "for misconduct and possibly for law violations." He accused the senator of an "attempted smear . . . a diversionary move."

GUARANTEES LAW SUIT

Hensel also challenged McCarthy to repeat his accusations in some forum where he would not have the immunity which covered the formal statement to the sub-committee. If McCarthy does that, Hensel said, "I will guarantee a law suit."

McCarthy, in Houston, Texas, for a speech late today, said "I wouldn't co-operate in any delay like that," and added:

"Hensel knows it would take years to do this in a trial. We will be under oath when the committee hears this case and the witnesses will be under oath. He can call any witnesses he wants to.

"After that's over . . . I can see no reason why I shouldn't repeat this stuff . . . If at some future time he still wants a lawsuit — and I don't think he will — I see no reason why not . . . ."

The McCarthy statement said his investigators had established that Hensel drew at least $56,526 in three war years from a private ship supply firm operating with government priorities. Hensel then was a high navy official.

"MALICIOUS AND DISHONEST"

Hensel replied: "The allegations that there has been anything illegal or even unethical in my financial or governmental history is both malicious and dishonest . . . Senator McCarthy knew he was lying. . . ."

Against this background, the investigations sub-committee agreed on rules for its hearings on the controversy and announced they will start on schedule Thursday. Coverage is planned by major television networks.

The rules adopted by the subcommittee will permit McCarthy and army representatives to engage in direct cross-examination of witnesses. McCarthy had strongly urged this procedure.

Canadian Manufacturers Visit West For Conference In June

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadian manufacturers will take a wide look at western Canada in connection with the annual general meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at Jasper, Alta., June 7-9.

It will be the CMA's first national gathering in the west since it met at Banff, Alta., in 1947, and pre-convention full-day stops have been arranged for Winnipeg June 2, Saskatoon June 3, Edmonton June 4, with a post-convention tour to Vancouver, June 10, and Victoria, June 11-12.

Eastern delegates will leave Montreal and Toronto by special trains May 31 and arrive back June 17.

Theme of the Jasper meeting will be "Canadian industry on the march."

Discussion of atomic energy as power for a new industrial era will be headed by John Jay Hopkins, chairman of the board, Canadair, Ltd., Montreal, and president of General Dynamics Corporation, Washington, the company which built the first atomic-powered submarine.

H. M. Turner, president of Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., will speak on "management's role in a progressive Canada," and W. E. Williams, president of Procter and Gamble Company of Canada, Ltd., on sales problems.

DISCUSS TRADE

M. W. Sharp, associate deputy minister, department of trade and commerce, and a United States speaker yet to be announced, will lead off discussions on international trade. Ira G. Needles, president of B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Canada, Ltd., will deal with the domestic market.

Labor Minister Gregg, R. A. Mahoney of the University of British Columbia, and Howard Kell, QC, of Calgary will speak on industrial relations and labor problems.

Premier Manning of Alberta will be a luncheon speaker and Peter Thorneycroft, president of the Board of Trade in the British government, will address the annual dinner.

PC Secretary Resigns Post

OTTAWA (CP)—W. H. Kidd, 38, national secretary of the Progressive Conservative party for four years, is resigning to resume private law practice. His successor has not yet been appointed.

Mr. Kidd said Tuesday he planned to leave several months ago but was asked by party leader Drew to remain for the PC Association's annual meeting held here last month. He will leave within a few days to join a law firm in Galt.

Bullies, Liars In All School Groups

TORONTO — Arts and crafts teachers from throughout Ontario whose day-to-day work is concerned with the individualities of pupils heard Tuesday just how wide the differences within a single group of children can be.

Dr. Edwin Ziegfeld of Columbia University read to the Ontario Association of Teachers of Arts and Crafts the findings of a concentrated study by a U.S. psychologist of 34 typical fifth-grade children.

Through medical examinations, tests and questionnaires of various sorts he found these differences:

There were three distinct leaders, one bully, one truant, two delinquents, one chronic liar, four extremely boastful children and one child who took no part whatever in the social life of the class.

Only two children showed no physical defects. Seven were farsighted, nearsighted or astigmatic.

Fourteen needed to have their tonsils removed. Thirty-one had at least one decayed tooth; four had impacted teeth; three had adenoid trouble; one was a cripple; eight were seriously undernourished and one was slightly deaf.

Of the 34, only nine were without at least one admitted specific fear, obsession or other unusual emotional attitude.

Two children were so queer as to be classed as eccentric.

The IQ's of the class varied from 68 to 147. Three children were classified as brilliant, five as bright, 16 as average, eight as dull and two as defective.

Two had marked musical ability; one drew unusually well and four had superior mechanical skill.

The results of a spelling test showed abilities varied from third to seventh grade standard. At arithmetic, their skills varied from the second to the seventh grade.

The survey, Dr. Ziegfeld added, reported that these differences were not extraordinary. "They are differences that will be found to exist in any typical, unselected group of school children."

Graham, whose three-month London crusade is due to end with a giant rally May 22, has already preached to 741,000 Britons.

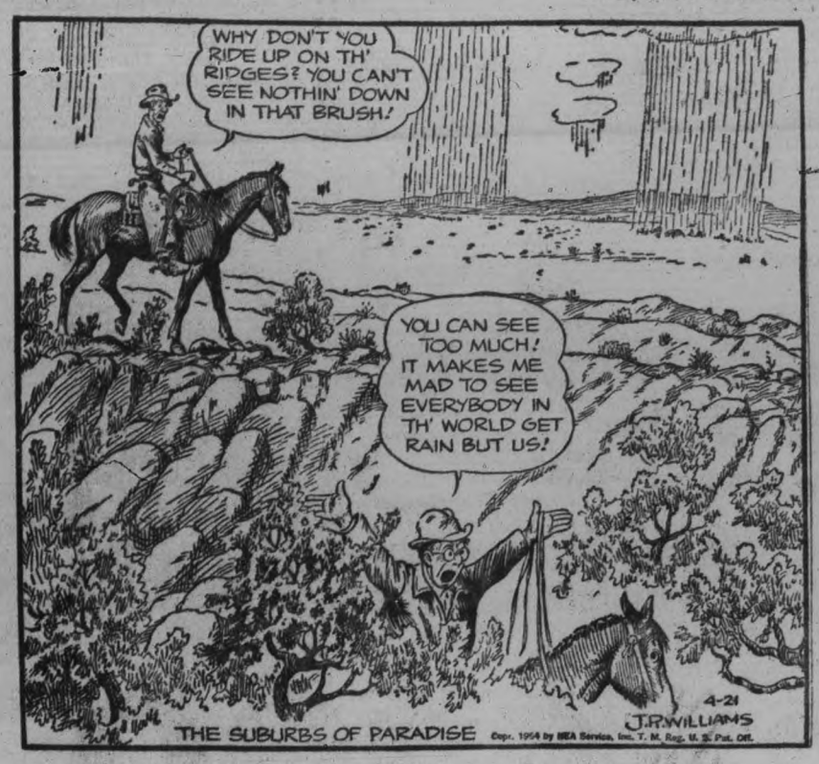
Board Of Reference Asked Compulsory

HAMILTON (CP) — The Porcupine branch of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation urged the department of education Tuesday to make a board of reference compulsory if requested by a teacher. The proposal was set aside until the annual meeting in December.

More than 100 delegates, representing 4,700 public school teachers in Ontario, are attending the two-day provincial gathering here.

Robert Ship, Porcupine branch delegate, said the recommendation was prompted by an action in Whitney school area last summer when a teacher was dismissed in mid-summer, a time when such dismissals do not take place. The teacher applied for a board of reference but was refused.

TV Can't Replace Classroom Teaching



TORONTO (CP)—The man who planned the CBC's hobby workshop television program said Tuesday TV cannot become a substitute for classroom instruction.

"Children can't ask the TV set questions and they can make no contribution to the lesson," Tom Martin, art supervisor for the Toronto board of education, told a convention of arts and crafts teachers meeting in conjunction with the Ontario Educational Association convention.

The CBC program is designed to encourage children to take an interest in various forms of creative art. The show can only aim at the average child, Mr. Martin said, because there is no direct contact with pupils.

Music Adds To Effectiveness Of Most Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If you notice the background music in a movie, then it's not a good score."

This old saw now can be relegated to the file of outdated cliches along with "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

It isn't true, says one of filmdom's most accomplished composers, David Raksin.

"I agree with William Wyler, who has told me that the music can amount to one-third of the effectiveness of a movie," he remarked. "Consciously or unconsciously, the movie fan is aware of the music in a picture, and the emotional experience is heightened by it. I have seen pictures that could have been much more successful with more music.

"On the other hand, there are scenes which are better without scoring. I can recall in 'Smoky' there was a shot of the horse rearing and making a great deal of noise. I pleaded with the producer, Robert Bassler, that it did not need music.

MUSIC WENT UNNOTICED

"But he insisted and so I wrote the loudest piece of music I could. It was so loud and in keeping with the action that it wasn't noticed That was the perfect tribute."

Raksin has just finished the score for "Apache," and he promises it will be as sexy as any heard in films. How does he do it? With an ancient instrument called the recorder.

"It's actually obsolete," said the composer, "but it's enjoying a comeback now. I play it myself."

FITTED INTO STORY

"I needed some kind of instrument for a love scene in the woods with Burt Lancaster and Jean Peters. The recorder was perfect. It has a very sexy sound with an outdoorsy quality. It is also the closest thing to the Indian stone flute, so it fits right into the story, which concerns an unregenerate Indian."

"Too many of the producers are going back to the safe-and-sure standard scores," said the composer. "It's typical of the thinking of Hollywood today — going after the proven formula."

MAGGIE AND MASTER — Maggie, a four-year-old monkey weighing about 20 pounds, is the pride and joy of Pte. Joe Hashey, of West Bathurst, N.B., and has taken up permanent residence with him north of the Imjin River in Korea where the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is encamped. The pert, red-nosed Maggie has a comfortable, one-room, ranch-style bungalow, complete with artistic stone foundation and rock garden on a shady slope near the quarters of her master at "Charlie" company of the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment. The monkey is shown perched on Pte. Hashey's shoulder.

—(CP from National Defence).

Maggie Lives In Style With Canadians In Korea

IN KOREA (CP)—Women are not allowed to take up residence north of the Imjin river in Korea where the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is encamped, but "Maggie" is an exception.

Not only is Maggie being harbored but upon her is lavished all the loving care any lady could desire. She wears a fine fur coat and is continually being pampered with such things as chocolate bars, oranges, apples and peanuts.

Maggie, a Japanese national according to her registration papers, is a four-year-old monkey, weighing about 20 pounds. She was born and raised in Kobe, Japan, where a Canadian leave centre is located.

Before moving to Korea she resided with the Ikegami animal company—now she's the pride and joy of Pte. Joe Hashey of West Bathurst, N.B., a member of the 3rd battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

Pte. Hashey bought Maggie, and another young fellow of the same family called Jiggs, during a leave at Kobe. Jiggs, a four-month old chimp, has since taken up residence farther south, at Seoul. Hashey sold him to a member of the British Army mobile canteen.

Pert, red-nosed Maggie has a comfortable, one-room, ranch-style bungalow, complete with artistic stone foundation and rock garden. It is located on a shady slope near the quarters of her master, at "Charlie" company of the "Van Doos."

Before Maggie went to her new master, she understood the Japanese tongue only. But it took only about two days for Hashey to get her to respond to his heavily-accented English. He plans to introduce her to French in the near future and make her a real linguist.

Maggie is the second pet that Pte. Hashey has picked up since he went to Korea. He also has a dog named Brownie, a Korean version of the Canadian husky but much smaller. Maggie doesn't get along too well with Brownie. She pesters him incessantly.

Pte. Hashey will be going home shortly and hopes to make Maggie a New Canadian. After going through all the trouble of getting her to Korea—needles, examinations and such—he's not afraid of the complications he may encounter to get her into Canada.

SOVIET MURDER TEAM SURRENDERS

Had Orders To Kill Anti-Red With Poison Bullets; Give West More Secret Data

BONN (Reuters)—A Soviet secret police captain with orders to assassinate an anti-Communist Russian in West Germany with poison bullets has surrendered to the West, American authorities announced today. He gave American security officers details about changes in the Soviet secret police (MVD) and Russia after the death of Stalin and the execution of Lavrenti Beria, former minister of the interior. His evidence also included details of the assassination of Leon Trotsky in Mexico.

The U.S. high commission produced MVD Capt. Nikolai E. Khoklov at an elaborate press conference. Two East Germans, Hans Kukowicz and Kurt Weber, also assigned to the assassination mission, were with him.

WEAPON DISGUISED

Kkoklov said the MVD team sent to Frankfurt to assassinate an anti-Communist Russian, Georgi Okolovitch, had specially-silenced and electrically-fired pistols which discharged leaden bullets containing deadly poison. The whole weapon was disguised as a cigaret case.

When the case, which is covered in leather, is opened it shows the ends of 23 cigarets. Under a false bottom is the firing apparatus and a 1.5-volt battery.

The bullets, shaped in a dum-dum fashion to flatten out on impact, contain a mixture of potassium cyanide and soluble rubber. Each dose of cyanide is more than 100 times strong enough to kill.

ACCURATE AT 25 FEET

The weapons, of which two were issued to the team, were found to be accurate up to 25 feet and could penetrate a one-inch teakwood board at that range. They could be fired noiselessly from the pocket without making smell or smoke.

The weapons were smuggled into Germany from Austria in a German automobile battery, wrapped in watertight plastic, U. S. officers said.

A U. S. high commission official, J. MacDermott, told the press conference that after surrendering, the three men gave a "comprehensive" report on their activities as well as general information on the MVD.

DATA CHECKED

McDermott said the evidence has been the subject of world-wide investigations by U. S. security officers.

As soon as this "colossal examination" was finished, it was decided to publish details of the case.

MacDermott said that before Khoklov left home he agreed with his wife on his desertion and "took steps" to prevent reprisals against her. MacDermott issued a 20-page document with the full details of the Kkoklov case.

THREAT FROM WIFE

Khoklov told the press conference he had surrendered because his wife threatened to quit him if he became an assassin.

"It was impossible to stay in the East any longer," he said. "I have served 13 years in one of the most secret departments of Soviet intelligence."

Hint Geneva Conference Be Delayed

Preliminary Issues Still Unsettled Can't Make Progress

PARIS (AP) — Informed sources said an impression developed during a meeting of the Western Big Three foreign ministers today that the opening of the Geneva conference might be delayed.

These sources said the feeling was that so many preliminary issues remain to be settled that further consultations among the Western powers and also private talks with Russia would have to precede the formal opening of the conference which is scheduled to begin Monday.

The major question which must be settled, this source said, is the role which Red China will play in the talks.

There are also questions of the organization of the conference which have not been settled in the preliminary contacts at Geneva between Western and Soviet representatives.

MANY THINGS UNSETTLED

The informant left the impression that almost all the questions of the "technique" of the conference are unsettled.

It was learned that the the representatives of the Big Four have not even determined the form of the meeting, that is, whether it will be a round-table conference or conducted in an auditorium with speakers going to a rostrum.

The three Western ministers met at the French foreign ministry this afternoon to discuss the Geneva meeting after U.S. State Secretary Dulles conferred in separate meetings with Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Bidault.

Earlier today, the diplomatic chiefs conferred with their chief advisers, working out the detailed strategy for the coming talks on Korea and Indo-China.

All talks here are being carried on in strictest secrecy in the hope the strategy decisions will not leak out before they are unveiled in Geneva.

OFFICIAL DISCLOSURE

The only thing that has been disclosed officially about the Big Three meetings in Paris is that they are dealing with both Korea and Indo-China and also are taking up a proposed Western reply to Russia's note March 31 offering to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A completed draft of the reply was expected to be approved in time to be laid before the NATO council meeting Friday, at which the foreign ministers of all 14 member countries will get together.

Support Plan For 500 U.K. Teachers

Federation Requests Certificate Standard Will Not Be Debased

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation says it is all in favor of a government plan to bring in 500 teachers from Britain to alleviate the teacher shortage in the province.

The federation's provincial assembly in a two-day session, said it recognized the teacher emergency and supported the department of education in its effort to staff the schools. However, it objected to the debasement of certificates for each type of training.

Federation members asked in a resolution that teachers from countries outside Canada not be granted a permanent certificate unless they are British subjects. The recommendation will be presented to the Ontario Teachers' Federation for consideration later this week.

OPPOSE STRIKE ACTION

The Federation, which represents about 4,700 teachers in Ontario, dealt with several matters. In one resolution members reaffirmed their opposition to strike action under any circumstances. A move by some members to have the existing statement of policy regarding strike action withdrawn was defeated by a large majority.

D. W. Diebel of Hamilton said there was strong feeling throughout the federation on the difference between mass resignation and strike action.

"Mass resignation involves the termination of contract at the proper time. Strike action involves the curtailment of services at other than the time in the contract for resignations. There is a great distinction between the two."

Secretary-treasurer Win Davies said the trustees council executive during recent years has been opposed to the Nov. 30 date for termination of contracts because of the opportunity it gave teachers to offer mass resignation at an inopportune time for the school boards.

GIVES WARNING

M. McIvor of Toronto warned the assembly against the possibility of becoming disorganized. He said the federation had made enormous strides in its negotiations with its employers and the government. Any action to reverse this trend would turn the clock back and have disastrous effects.

Members also considered a motion requesting the federation to consider it unethical for teachers to apply for positions where salary was not stated. The motion was referred to the federation's various districts for further study.

J. Stewart of Brockville presented the motion and said some school boards use this type of advertisement to get a teacher for the lowest salary. He maintained advertisements were not fair practice. J. Robertson of Cornwall said he wondered whether teachers should answer advertisements in which the salary is not mentioned.

China Rushing Supplies To Vietminh

HANOI (AP) — Hundreds of big guns and Russian - made Molotov trucks heavily loaded with war material are rumbling over the northern Indo - Chinese frontier hourly from Red China to bolster further the Communist-led Vietminh's attack upon the French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

A highly qualified French Army source said Wednesday night that more than 100 tons of war aid are being pushed over the border every 24 hours by the Chinese.

Chinese drivers are piloting the big trucks into northern Indo-China where they are often turned over to Vietminh operators to complete the run to Dien Bien Phu.

Most of the war material is entering Indo-China through the city of Langson, 80 miles north of here and 250 miles northeast of Dien Bien Phu.

Despite the long haul and frequent French bomber attacks ripping gaps in the roads and destroying some of the convoys, most of the vital war supply appears to be getting through to the tens of thousands of Vietminh concentrated in the low-lying jungle-covered hills surrounding the French fortress.

The French army informant said the Vietminh are getting from Red China everything they need—either to prolong their siege of the French bastion or to, at any time, launch their third "human wave" general assault to try to wipe it out.

STEP UP PRESSURE

The entrenched Vietminh legions stepped up their pressure today on the weary knot of French Union defenders still holding the heart of the fortress.

The rebels moved more infantry into two northern outposts they had captured, apparently attempting to bowl over the first mazes of barbed wire barricades protecting the garrison.

In their anticipated all-out assault, thousands of men are expected to try storming through gaps already breached in the northwest.

A deluge of rain, which has turned the dust bowl of a few weeks ago into a red, slippery mire, aided the attackers. Wednesday they dug and crawled forward without fear of French fighters and bombers, grounded by the downpour. French tanks and armored vehicles also were restricted in movement.

Gave Kislitsin Chance To Stay In Australia

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—Reginald Leydin, Australian official who offered asylum to Mrs. Evokiya Petrov, revealed tonight he had done the same for K. V. Kislitsin, second secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra.

Kislitsin turned the offer down. He now is on his way back to Moscow.

In an interview here, Leydin, acting governor of the northern territory, described his meeting with Mrs. Petrov Tuesday as she was about to leave Australia under Kislitsin's escort for Russia.

Leydin said Mrs. Petrov was under great emotional stress and could not make up her mind whether to go, or to accept asylum in Australia as her diplomat husband, Vladimar Petrov, had done.

"There are my mother, my father, my brothers, my sisters still in Russia," Mrs. Petrov told him.

She added: "Where is my husband? Is he here? Is he alive? Can I speak to him?"

After she had spoken to her husband by telephone all she could say was, "My husband, my husband."

Leydin said to her, "Goodbye, good luck. I can do no more." He walked away, but turned back and asked to talk with her again. Then she said she wished to stay.

Mrs. Leydin, who was also present at the interview, said Mrs. Petrov told her: "Your husband spoke so calmly to me. I had a feeling of trust and confidence. He played an important part in my decision."

Alexander Hints Other Ways To Defeat Ho

LONDON (CP) — Defence Minister Earl Alexander said today "there are all sorts of ways and means" of saving Indo-China from communism without committing British and American troops.

He did not elaborate on this remark, however, in answering questions at a luncheon of the Association of American Correspondents in London.

Asked if he foresees any circumstances under which Britain will send troops to help the French Union armies fight the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China, he said:

"I hope and pray neither you (the U. S.) nor I will be committed to a situation as serious as that."

Alexander, who was reviewing British defence policy, expressed the view that if there is a third world war both sides will use "every weapon they have got," including the hydrogen bomb.

In that case, Britain would be hit hard, "But we are quite prepared to meet that situation."

Alexander made these other points:

1. Britain is building a medium-bomber force to carry and deliver atom bombs.

2. British guided missiles which are being developed may increase by four times the effectiveness of the RAF fighter command.

3. The government hopes gradually to withdraw troops from British Guiana, Kenya, Trieste, Egypt and possibly Korea to build up a mobile strategic reserve which would be based in Britain.

Soviet Government Begins Recalling Men In Contact With Petrov

CANBERRA (AP)—The Soviet Union appeared today to have started calling home any of its people in Australia who were in too-close contact with the Russian embassy's fugitive third secretary, Vladimir Petrov.

In the wake of Petrov's defection to the West and the dramatic last-minute rescue of his wife from armed Soviet couriers hustling her back to Moscow, the Kremlin was reported today to have recalled Victor Antonov, correspondent in Australia for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, and a junior Soviet embassy attache, Y. E. Platkais.

Reliable sources said the embassy commercial attache, N. G. Kovalev, also is preparing for an early flight home.

Antonov is believed by Australian security officials to have been the chief contact man in the espionage ring in Australia which Petrov claims he headed. Petrov turned over a huge mass of documents to the Australians to back up his claim when he sought refuge from communism early this month.

Already on his way back to Moscow empty-handed is the embassy second secretary, F. V. Kislitsin, who with two armed Russian diplomatic couriers tried unsuccessfully Monday to chaperone Petrov's tearful wife back to Russia.

CONTINUE FLIGHT

Kislitsin and the two couriers continued their flight after Australian authorities disarmed Mrs. Petrov's two burly escorts and took the woman off the Europe-bound plane at Darwin.

Granted the right to rejoin her husband as a political refugee, Mrs. Petrov left Darwin before dawn today in a Royal Australian Air Force plane and headed for his secret hiding place.

The government meanwhile drew up its reply to a Soviet embassy note angrily accusing its refugee former third secretary and purported MVD security police chief in Australia with obtaining by forgery "large sums of state money." The embassy demanded that Petrov be turned over to the Russians as a common criminal.

REQUEST PROOF

The Australians plan to ask the Russians for detailed proof of their charges. Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies scoffed at the embezzlement accusation, branding it a "purely conventional Soviet allegation." He said it will in no way affect the investigation now going on by a special royal commission into Petrov's spy-ring disclosures.

The expected departure of Antonov, Platkais and Kovalev would leave ambassador N. I. Generalov and press attache G. I. Kharikovetz as the only remaining senior Soviet officials who had been here for any length of time with Petrov before he fled the embassy.

Throws Party After Death

DETROIT (CP)—Carl Clarke, a wealthy bachelor, stipulated in his will that his personal belongings be divided among his friends at a gay party after his death. Clarke died last Nov. 17 at the age of 79.

The Detroit Trust Co., administrator of his estate, Wednesday night carried out his wishes to the smallest detail. Clarke wanted to throw a party for his Wednesday night stag club and their families.

Clarke's administrator picked up the tab for a lavish banquet staged at a swank downtown hotel. Forty-five persons attended.

Several objects left over from his half-million-dollar estate were divided up by lot. They ranged from a tattered pair of snowshoes and an old-fashioned vacuum cleaner to original oil paintings and an etching of Abraham Lincoln. The rest of his fortune went to nine charities.

Clarke formerly was president of the Monroe (Mich.) Steel Castings Co.

17 Cars Derailed On Main Line

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian National Railway officials reported today that 17 freight cars were derailed on the main trans-continental line today at Deer, Man., 20 miles west of Portage la Prairie. No one was injured.

A broken journal caused the derailment. Officials said there will be no delay in transcontinental trains, which will be rerouted.

Royal Children Arrive At Malta

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne, none the worse for their first sea trip, stood on tiptoe to wave from the bridge today as the yacht Britannia nosed to a mooring in Malta.

Huge crowds, including flag-waving school children, thronged every vantage point to greet the royal children. It was their first stop on their journey to meet the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at Tobruk.

The little prince and princess will stay here about six days and will probably go to a few picnics. Their first visit ashore will be to Admiralty House to see their great-uncle, Admiral Earl Mountbatten, commander of the British Mediterranean fleet, and Countess Mountbatten.

Meanwhile, aboard the royal liner Gothic in the Indian ocean, the Queen and Duke steamed today at 17 knots from Ceylon to Aden. There they will leave the Gothic and fly via Uganda to Tobruk to join their children.

Ready To Sue Ottawa Gov't

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Attorney-General Leslie Curtis said today Newfoundland will sue if necessary to recover from the federal government or Canadian National Railways "several million dollars."

Newfoundland claims the money was overcharged the province in freight rates following Confederation.

An act now before the legislature is the first step in the province's legal battle. It would give the Supreme Court of Canada and the Exchequer Court jurisdiction to handle disputes between the two governments.

24-Game Schedule For Football Union

KITCHENER (CP) — Representatives of Sarnia, Toronto Balmy Beach, Brantford and Kitchener-Waterloo clubs of the Ontario Rugby Football Union have agreed to a 24-game schedule.

The schedule runs from Aug. 28 to Oct. 31. The dates will be released May 3.

Export Trade Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's export trade improved in March after a slump at the start of the year.

However, preliminary figures issued Thursday by the bureau of statistics showed exports for the first quarter of the year were down from the same period of 1953. Imports continued higher than exports.

Say Nazi Officer Directing Ho Battle

FLENSBURG, Germany (AP)—A former high Nazi SS (Elite Guard) commander is reported guiding Communist strategy in the battle of Dien Bien Phu, a German who fought for the French there said Wednesday night.

Horst Lemke, who left Dien Bien Phu last month after five years as a French foreign legionnaire, said "everybody knows about his man. He is chief of staff for rebel General Giap. But nobody is certain who he is.

"He is known as Schroeder. They say he really is Field Marshal Schoerner. That could be true."

Field Marshal Ferdinand Schoerner earned a reputation for ruthlessness while he worked his way up from non-commissioned officer to top rank in World War II. He tried to carry on the fight in Czechoslovakia after the German surrender, but fell into U. S. hands and was turned over to the Soviet army.

Keep Changing Their Minds

Reds Decide Barbed Wire Not Becoming To Villas

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss soldiers began stringing five carloads of barbed wire around the fancy lakeside villas reserved for Communist delegates to next week's conference on Korea and Indo-China Wdnesday.

Today they started taking the wire down.

Russian security officers decided they didn't want the barricade around the suburban estate which will house Foreign Minister Molotov.

When the Chinese heard that, they decided they also didn't want such protection for Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

The Swiss already had put up the wire wall along the most exposed side of Chou's future home. Reporters said the handsome property looked like a concentration camp.

The North Koreans couldn't make up their minds. They told the Swiss not to start the wire work at their house, but they'd let them know their final decision later.

The barricades were part of the elaborate security precautions the Swiss are erecting to guard the conference delegations. Two battalions of motorized Swiss troops arrived Wednesday to reinforce Geneva police.

Eastern and Western delegates already are pouring into Geneva for the conference opening Monday, but none of the principals is on the scene yet.

Rescue Boy 3 From Quicksand

STOUFFVILLE (CP)—A three-year-old boy was pulled from a pit of quicksand Wednesday.

Kenny Tindall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tindall, had sunk to the waist when he was rescued by George Brown, a farmhand.

Sixty villagers had been looking for the boy for two hours before his mother heard feeble cries from the bank of a creek. He had apparently been chasing his new puppy when he stumbled into the quicksand a half mile from his home.

They include: Petty Officers John A. Redding, St. Thomas, Ross D. Jones, Cobourg and Walter Kostur, St. Catharines; Leading Cadet Lawrence Douthwaite, Barrie.

Farmers' Cash Income Dropped In 1953 To Three Per Cent Below Peak In Year 1952

OTTAWA (CP) — Farmers' cash income dropped in 1953 to three per cent below the peak established the previous year, the bureau of statistics estimated today.

Sales of farm products and participation payments on sales of the previous year's grain crops brought in an estimated $2,741,300,000 compared with the 1952 record of $2,826,600,000.

Lower prices for all livestock except hogs, and smaller marketing of hogs and sheep combined to reduce income from sales of livestock to $775,108,000 from $818,439,000 in 1952. Income from dairy products, at $413,100,000, was about four per cent above that of 1952, lower prices being more than offset by increased production.

Income from sales of eggs rose to $123,774,000 from $109,499,000, and fruits to $41,807,000 from $39,972,000. Income from farm sales of forest products was slightly lower at $83,637,000 compared with $84,097,000.

Farm cash income for Ontario was listed at $692,700,000, compared with $719,000,000 in 1952.

Respect Nehru's Objections

U.S. Airlift For French Not Passing Over India

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) A United States air force spokesman confirmed today that the American airlift of French troops to Indo-China is not crossing India. But the air force still refused to divulge the rout of the giant C-124 Globemasters on the grounds that such information might endanger the success of the operation.

Prim Minister Nehru told parliament in New Delhi today that his government will not let the troop-carrying U.S. planes fly across India, the normal route for aircraft bound from Europe to the Far East.

India's policy, he told Communist questioners, is "not to allow any foreign troops to pass through or over India, by air or any other means."

NO PROTEST REQUIRED

Nehru added that no action is necessary by the Indian government since "the Globemasters are not flying over India now."

Commenting on Nehru's statement, a spokesman at the U.S. air force's European headquarters here would only say: "They aren't flying over India."

The spokesman also refused again to announce the number of planes and troops involved, but advices from Paris previously had said possibly 1,000 troops are being moved in 10 planes.

The first contingent took off from Orly field near Paris Tuesday.

One Union Back On Job

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Workers of one union returned to the job of installing conveyors at the Chrysler of Canada construction project today. The men, members of the AFL Boilermakers Union, returned to work after the carpenters and ironworkers unions withdrew pickets from the main entrance in a surprise move.

None of the other tradesmen returned to work. They are members of the laborers, carpenters, bricklayers and painters unions which are affiliated with the AFL.

Girl Keeps Quiet As Man Stabs Her

TORONTO (CP)—An 18-year-old Port Arthur girl told police she feigned unconsciousness in her rooming house bed Wednesday while her assailant pulled a knife from her back after stabbing her.

Police later arrested Wilbert Maidment, 33, whom they said lives in a basement room of the same house. He was charged with wounding in the stabbing of Helen Hordy, an unemployed salesgirl.

Miss Hordy was allowed to return to her room after hospital treatment for a 1½-inch wound in her back.

She told police a man entered her room on the second floor, quarreled with her, then stabbed her. Police said the weapon was a penknife with a two-inch blade. The man fled after the stabbing and the girl alarmed another roomer, who called police.

Duke Won't Ride In RCAF Jet Comet

OTTAWA (CP)—Tentative plans to give the Duke of Edinburgh a ride in an RCAF jet Comet when he is in Canada this summer have been abandoned.

An air force official today said this part of the duke's program would not be carried out because of the current ban on flying other than aircrew in the Comets. Canada's two Comets have been undergoing modifications for the past two months.

The duke's travel in Canada, when he comes here in July for the British Empire Games, will be the RCAF's CS.

General Says McCarthy Tried To Wangle Commission For Schine

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Miles Reber testified today that Senator Jseoph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) and Roy Cohn repeatedly pressed him for an officer's commission for G. David Schine, committee consultant eventually drafted into the army as a private.

During the period from July 17 to July 31 of last year, Reber said, he received an average of about two telephone calls a day from Cohn, chief counsel to McCarthy, regarding Schine. Reber said there also were "two or three calls" from McCarthy, and that earlier the senator had called him to his office to talk about a commission for Schine.

At that time, Reber was the army's liaison officer with Congress. He now is commanding general of U.S. army forces in the western European area.

Reber was the lead-off witness as long-heralded hearings began on the stormy row between McCarthy and top army department officials.

The dispute turns on the contention McCarthy and his assistants sought by "improper means" to win preferred treatment for Schine and suggested their own investigation of the army might be eased if this was done.

CHARGES INTERFERENCE

Denying this, McCarthy asserts that the charges were designed to interfere with (A) his investigation of communism in the army, and (B) an investigation of what he termed "misconduct and possibly law violations" by H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence.

At the outset of the televised hearings, before a packed Senate caucus room, McCarthy demanded that the army officials critical of him present their cases as individuals, not as "the department of the army."

The "bill of particulars" against McCarthy was signed not by individuals, but by an attorney for the army department.

Acting chairman Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.) ruled that since the formal complaint against McCarthy was not then before the committee, the point of order could not be raised at that time. He said McCarthy could bring it up again later if he chose.

Appearing in uniform, Reber testified under protest from McCarthy that it was "hearsay" evidence.

LACKED QUALIFICATIONS

Reber said the army transportation corps, the provost marshal and the office of the chief of psychological warfare all found that Schine lacked qualifications for a commission in any of the three units.

Reber related that after Schine was turned down for an army commission Cohn asked Reber to see whether a commission could be obtained in the air force or the navy.

Reber said the air force was not then commissioning any men directly from civilian life while the navy's requirements were substantially the same as the army's.

Ray Jenkins, special counsel for the sub-committee, began a cross-examination of Reber.

He brought out that Reber received many telephone calls with reference to inductees and prospective draftees from senators, representatives and others.

Jenkins asked whether Reber felt at any time that McCarthy was "high pressuring" him as to Schine.

NO HIGH PRESSURE

Reber said he hadn't felt McCarthy was "high pressuring me to any great extent" but had thought McCarthy wanted a "favorable answer."

Mundt declared that "the reputations, the actions and perhaps the integrity of responsible public officials" were under challenge.

Mundt pledged the sub-committee would "follow the evidence whever it leads."

He said the sub-committee would seek only to determine the truth in the charges and counter-charges between McCarthy and army officials.

In a prepared opening statement, Mundt reviewed these charges, and said that "each participant in this dispute, like each member of our sub-committee, will be carefully checked and watched."

CHARGES ARE "GRAVE"

The charges made by each side, as well as their implications, Mundt said, "are of such a grave and serious nature as to have caused great concern on the part of this sub-committee as well as on the part of the American people."

The big marble senate caucus room was packed with TV and newsreel cameras, reporters and as many spectators as could be squeezed in.

The biggest audience ever was promised for the long-heralded investigation, with millions of television viewers across the continent looking on.

Aiding the senators is a special staff headed by Ray H. Jenkins, a Republican lawyer from Knoxville, Tenn., who pledged that "the facts will be presented fully, fairly and fearlessly."

EXTENSIVE COVERAGE

Advance preparations indicated that press and radio coverage would equal or surpass that given other big Senate hearings of recent years, on Pearl Harbor, Howard Hughes' wartime contracts, McCarthy's charges of Communists in the state department, the Kefauver crime hearings, the firing of Gen. Macarthur.

And the expansion of television afforded a look at the proceedings to millions more than saw any of those inquiries. The NBC, ABC and Dumont networks arranged to carry the full sessions, at least at the start, and CBS to carry excerpts.

McCarthy, in a speech in Texas Tuesday, referred to the hearings as "this television show of Adams vs. Cohn."

But almost at the same time, Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.), who was chosen to preside over the investigation, was telling reporters here that he regards McCarthy as one of six principals.

He named the others as: Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, chief counsel and chief of staff, respectively, for the McCarthy subcommittee; Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens; H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence; army counselor John G. Adams.

Mundt arranged for morning and afternoon sessions in the big red-carpeted caucus room of the Senate office building.

He directed the army to lead off, with all witnesses prepared to submit under oath to the "searching inquiry" he promised into the dispute.

THE 9,000 - TON CRUISER HMCS Ontario, based at Esquimalt, B.C., will serve as training ship for cadets entering the Royal Canadian Navy under recently announced "Venture Plan." The plan provides for entry into the RCN, with seven-year commissions, of young men between 16 and 19 years of age with junior matriculation or the equivalent. Their basic course will be of two years' duration and will consist of two seven-month periods ashore and two four-month training cruises. The first course starts next September 20.—(National Defence Photo).

The switch here followed sensational breaks to the West by two Soviet diplomats in 1954 in a pattern set eight years ago by Igor Gouzenko, a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa.

TRAINING DESCRIBED

Correspondents were given a 25; page document describing the assassination plot. This document said:

The three were taken to Moscow for special training. They were shown photographs of Okolovitch, described as "a Russian very dangerous to the Soviet Union and to East Germany."

Their weapons were specially silenced, electrically fired pistols, and other devices which fired poisoned lead pellets from the concealment of a dummy cigaret case.

Khoklov was given the mission by his chief in Moscow, a colonel Studenikov.

Khoklov flew to Berlin last November under the name of Captain Yegorov and recruited the two East Germans, both Communists, as his assistants.

Nov. 10, the three flew back to Moscow, where they were taken to a house surrounded by a high fence on the outskirts of the city.

The three returned to Berlin Dec. 19 and received, at the Russian High Commission headquarters at Karlshorst, false identity cards and Soviet zone visas for Austria. The MVD captain returned to Moscow and then flew to Vienna.

ASSASSINATION HELD UP

Then they were told to hold up the assassination because Moscow did not want a political killing during the Berlin Big Four conference.

On Feb. 12 the two Germans met the captain in Zurich and drove to Frankfurt with their weapons concealed in a special compartment built into the car battery. They arrived in Frankfurt Feb. 17.

Feb. 18, Khoklov went to Okolivitch and told him the whole story. Okolovitch immediately called American authorities. Two days later the MVD officer appealed for asylum and promised full cooperation.

Khoklov arranged a rendezvous Feb. 25 with the two east Germars to persuade them to turn themselves over to American authorities. They were picked up by the American security service and readily agreed to co-operate.

Later the same day U. S. authorities picked up the weapons in the check room at Frankfurt main railway station, where they had been checked on Khoklov's instructions.

The document handed out at the press conference said that Khoklov had also given U. S. agents information on: The role played by the MVD in Berlin in the kidnapping of Dr. Walter Linse, a leading German anti-Communist lawyer who was snatched from his apartment in West Berlin.

The recruitment and despatch of agents from Karlshorst (Soviet High Commission headquarters) to West Germany for subversive and sabotage activity.

Reject Plea Of Immigrants

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Appeal Court Wednesday rejected a habeas corpus demand by the lawyer of a family awaiting deportation because it entered the country as visitors.

Mr. Justice Edouard Rinfret upheld a Superior Court decision which ruled the Glazer family are "not bona fide immigrants to Canada."

The family, now faced with deportation, consists of Paul Walter Glazer, an Austrian; his wife Dorothy, an American; a son Anton, born in Austria; another son, Richard Dwight, born in the United States; and a two-year-old baby born in Canada since the family arrived here more than two years ago.

The appeal court ruled the father was not admissible as an immigrant because he did not have a legal passport.

The court did not indicate to which country the family should be deported.

Power Project Set For 5 Years

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Construction of the $600,000,000 St. Lawrence river power project will be compressed into five years, instead of the eight originally planned, a spokesman for the New York state power authority said Wednesday night.

Decision to compress the construction program came when possible savings in funds were disclosed, the spokesman said. Actual construction, now scheduled to begin about July 1, would end in 1959.

The official said engineers of the New York authority and the Ontario hydro-electric power commission, which will join in the job, are assuming that final legal technicalities will be cleared before the end of June.

Hint Geneva

Canada's external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, will attend both the Geneva and NATO meetings.

Russia offered to join up with NATO, the united Western defence against possible Soviet aggression, if the West would drop plans for the European Defence Community, which would include West German troops. The Russians also asked the Western allies to join them in a European security pact that would keep Germany permanently disarmed and neutral.

The United States announced its rejection of such an idea almost the moment it got word of the note from the U.S. embassy in Moscow. It charged Russia with trying to sabotage EDC plans and wreck NATO, leaving Europe dominated by the Soviet bloc. Britain and France followed suit.

ANSWERS SOVIET NOTE

The NATO ministers will not have to give formal approval of the Western reply to Russia, since it answers a Soviet note sent only to the U.S., Britain and France. The NATO foreign ministers are being informed, however, since the Soviet move directly concerns the organization.

The NATO meeting is expected to be limited to a review of world problems, including those to be taken up at Geneva. It gives the Western ministers a good forum for pre-Geneva consultations on Korea, since nine of the 14 are expected to go on to Geneva as representatives of United Nations members which sent troops to Korea.

The NATO group also is expected to take up the Indo-China question even though the war there between the French Union and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels is outside the organization's region of responsibility. Effects of the Indo-China war are being felt on defence efforts throughout the West, and the NATO allies approved a resolution two years ago to give all support possible to the French in their fight to keep Indo-China out of Communist hands.

Amid these intensified international activities, France continues negotiations with Viet Nam on indepenence within the French Union for that Indo-Chinese state.

40 Explosions In Mimico Depot Blaze

TORONTO (CP)—A $500,000 fire Wednesday levelled the two-month-old delivery depot of Wonder Bakeries Limited in suburban Mimico. More than 40 earth-shaking explosions rocked the street as gasoline tanks of loaded bread trucks blew up.

Chain-reaction blasts at two-minute intervals could be heard 10 miles away. Columns of black smoke rose 3,000 feet and flames shot 150 feet into the air as walls of the brick building crumbled under the blasts and fire.

Firemen estimated the loss at close to $500,000. They said the building alone cost $150,000 and the trucks, other equipment and bread were worth upwards of $400,000.

66 TRUCKS IN DEPOT

The company normally makes no deliveries Wednesday in the area. For that reason, its 66 trucks were all in the delivery depot when the fire started from an exploding gasoline tank on one of the vehicles.

The company said there will be no deliveries in the lakeshore area today as a result of the fire.

Still pending is an appeal by Miss Lacarte against a decision of Mr. Justice D. C. Wells, who dismissed her libel action against the board.

Identify Raymond Davies Positively As Former Red Leader In United States

OTTAWA (CP) — Four enlarged photographs were entered as exhibits today at the trial of Montreal writer Raymond Arthur Davies on a charge of giving false information to obtain a Canadian passport.

The crown is attempting to prove that Davies is in fact Rudolph Shohan, a Russian-born immigrant who came to the United States in 1921.

The pictures were RCMP enlargements of four photos: An Ottawa police photo taken at the time of Davies' arrest in 1952; a second identified Wednesday as one of Davies in the 1930s; a third of a boy's photo, faded by age, which was found in Davies' apartment in 1952; and a fourth, which was identified Wednesday as a picture of Rudolph Shohan as a youth.

SAYS ALL SAME PERSON

Cpl. John R. Abbott, an RCMP identification expert, said the last two photographs are "one and the same subject, taken at different times and different ages."

Cpl. Abbott showed the court transparent prints of the photos, and superimposed them one on the other on a lighted glass screen.

(The fourth picture was identified by Mendel Shohan, a Boston plumber, who said he would recognize Davies "in a crowd of 50,000" as his nephew "Rudia" Shohan who came to Boston from Russia in 1921.)

CLAIMED CANADIAN BIRTH

The crown charges that Davies, in a passport application in 1936, claimed falsely that he was born in Montreal in 1908 as a British subject with no other nationality.

Both crown and defence witnesses have testified Davies was a prominent figure in the Communist party in the 1930s.

Davies pleaded not guilty Wednesday to the charge of falsifying a passport application.

William O. Nowell of Detroit, who said he broke with the Communist party in 1936 after seven years, told the court Davies was known to him as Shohan, a leader of the U.S. Young Communist League.

MET IN CLEVELAND

He said he met him at a 1929 convention of the Trade Union Unity League at Cleveland, O., and again in 1930 at the [illegible] of the U.S. Communist party, held in New York City at the old opera house near Union square.

Mr. Shohan said he saw his nephew frequently until 1930 and would recognize him "in a crowd of 50,000 people."

Davies has "the same facial expression, the same characteristics" as Rudia, he said during cross-examination by defence counsel Peter Newcombe of Ottawa. "The only thing that has changed about him is his body. He has become stout."

The crown claims Davies is Rudolph Shohan, that he was born in Russia and came to the United States in 1921. He was arrested near Whitby, Ont., in June, 1952 and charged with stating in a 1936 application for a Canadian passport that he was Raymond Arthur Davies, a British subject born in Montreal.

DISAGREED WITH PARTY

Mr. Nowell, who said he was once director of education for the party in the Michigan district, had heard through party channels that Shohan came from Russia. He said he left the party in 1936 because he disagreed with "the whole thing," but he did not make his break public until 1939.

Other witnesses called by special crown prosecutor J. J. Robinette, Toronto lawyer, included Leroy Goodwin, former head of the identification bureau in Youngstown, O. He said fingerprints taken from Davies following his arrest are identical to those taken in 1931 from a man who signed his name "Rudolp Shohan."

RCMP inspector Joseph Vachon, another fingerprint expert, said the two sets of fingerprints are, "beyond any doubt," from the same man.

British Wheat Buying Drops

LONDON (CP) — The Financial Times says editorially today that Britain, the world's largest wheat buyer, so far in 1954 has bought only about 55 per cent of her usual supplies from Canada, the United States and Australia.

The newspaper says Canada's sales to Britain should perk up after existing stocks have been depleted, but that this may not apply to the U. S. and Australia.

The paper adds that Argentina and France have been the main new suppliers, although Russia provided 13,000 tons during the first two months of 1954.

"In fact, the change in Britain's suppliers reflects the ability of other countries to export and their willingness to sell at prices below those for which the three major producers are still holding out."

German Woman Shot

BERLIN (Reuters)—West Berlin police today said East German border police fired several machine-gun shots at an unknown woman near the Dreilinden check point on the border between West Berlin and East Germany. Drinking Bouts Cure Radiation

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese doctor says three persons badly injured by atomic radiation in the wartime bombing of Hiroshima apparently were cured by a series of drinking bouts.

Dr. Michio Yamamoto, assistant professor of radiology at Okayama University in southern Japan, recently announced that his experiments have indicated that alcohol helps cure radiation disease. He said today that after he made the announcement he was swamped with inquiries from all over Japan.

Three men had written to tell him that after being affected by radiation in Hiroshima they had become so despondent that they went on heavy drinking bouts. After a short time they found that the symptoms of loss of hair, loose teeth and blotchy skin had completely disappeared.

King: "No sir."

Magistrate Philp: "I suppose you have been living on unemployment insurance?"

Wandering Cobourg Sisters Found, Missing All Day

COBOURG (ENS) — Tired and vague as to where they had been all day, two Cobourg youngsters, Lorna and Dorothy Gray, age 12 and 7 years respectively, were brought home at 1:30 this morning after a Cobourg taxi driver, Jim Doherty, found them walking along a ditch two miles west of Cobourg.

They had left the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gray of 385 Bond St. at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The family formerly lived at Harwood, moving into Cobourg last September and the parents learned late Wednesday afternoon that the children had been seen out around Harwood that afternoon.

When nothing further was heard by supper time after the parents had phoned friends out in the Rice Lake area they telephoned provincial police.

POLICE SEARCH

Provincial police from Peterborough and Cobourg started to search the area. Provincial constables Bill Warner, Cy Meadows and Frank Clough of Cobourg checked the Harwood and Gore's Landing area and by midnight had traced the children from Gore's Landing as far as Plainville where they had been driven by a motorist. Another motorist picked them up at Plainville but there the trail ended.

The children's father drove his panel truck back and forth along the road between Gore's Landing and Cobourg and ran out of gas at midnight. At an all night service station at Cobourg he told the attendant, Bill Chadwick, that his children were missing.

Doherty, the taxi drive, was on his way toward Port Hope with a fare when he saw two children hiking along the ditch and recalling that two youngsters were missing, he picked them up.

He saw Chadwick's wrecking truck on its way to Port Hope to pick up a car, and stopped him. Chadwick realized that they were the missing children and drove them to their home in Cobourg.

HEADING TO TORONTO

"I asked the kids where they were going and the older girl said that they were on their way to Toronto to see their grandmother," said Doherty.

The children were too tired to tell their parents where they had been all day. They were familiar with the road to Harwood and knew the way back. They apparently started for home from Harwood around 6:30 but as to who drove them and how far, they travelled on each lift they received, is not known and the children were too tired to talk about it when they came home at 1:30 this morning.

Cobourg police phone Peterborough provincial police headquarters when the children were returned and a radio car notified the father as he searched along the road north of Cobourg.

Mrs. W. Armitage President Of Cavan WI

CAVAN—The WI of Cavan Tuesday elected its new executive headed by president, Mrs. W. Armitage.

Other officers are: First vice-president, Mrs. G. Clark; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Gryllis; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Staples; treasurer, Mrs. H. Kennedy; district director, Mrs. E. Snider; pianist, Mrs. Roy Ferrin; press reporter, Mrs. H. Braithwaite.

Thirty-two women were present and several new members joined. The members were reminded of the district annual to be held in Bethany June 4 and of the TB survey and X-rays to be held in Cavan community hall May 17.

The girls' club took over with an interesting talk and demonstration on the preparation and cooking of the cheaper cuts of meat. Many suggestions were offered for the preparation of liver, and the importance of milk in the diet of everyone was emphasized. The girls demonstrated how to make a salad, and it was served to the members.

Mrs. Gordon Staples' group served lunch, assisted by the girls.

Admits Theft By Using Cheque

James Baldwin, the 20-year-old youth who last week admitted to have stolen $85 from a Peterborough high school girl, appeared for sentence before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court today.

The magistrate gave him a two-year suspended sentence, one year to be served on probation. Baldwin was also advised to make an attempt to settle down in Ottawa and find a permanent job.

Baldwin came to Peterborough several weeks ago and became friendly with the 17-year-old lass. Being short of money one Sunday, he exchanged a worthless cheque for $85 which she gave him. Later the cheque was found to be worthless and that Baldwin had left town. However, police brought him back from Ottawa to face trial for theft. He pleaded guilty April 15 and was remanded until today for sentence.

Mr. Jacob Lowe defending, said Baldwin had funds to make restitution.

May Put Escalators In Subway Stations

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Transit Commission is considering putting escalators in all its subway stations.

W. E. P. Duncan, general manager, said in a letter Wednesday he will advise the city's board of control when the final decision is made.

Some criticism has been expressed about elderly persons having to climb stairs because of lack of escalators at several stations.

What D'Ya Mean, 'Canada Is There'?

It is now Canada's turn to wonder if she is just an unsinkable something or other for American leaps into Russia. A few years ago the British became alarmed about American bellicosity vis-a-vis Russia, and the callous assumption that the British Isles could be considered, in American War Department planning, as just an unsinkable aircraft carrier, expendable at that. Is Canada merely the launching-ground for hydrogen horrors, should war break out? "Thank God, Canada is there!" said the Assistant U.S. Defence Secretary this week, speaking to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington. He urged his hearers to remember that between the U.S. and Russia lies only Canada.

* * *

Actually, Mr. John Hanna's remarks were not brazen. He was kindly referring to the good friendship which exists between the two nations and the American good fortune in having on the side in which the danger lies "an ally on whom we can depend absolutely." New handbooks on Canada were distributed at the meeting, a publication aimed to acquaint Americans with their good fortune, their Canadian neighbours. But we cannot help feeling a little bit worried. A principal activity of any War Department is to acquaint itself and men who serve in its forces with the nature of the land which they might be occupying and the people on whom they might be billeted. Mr. Hanna told his audience about the extensive air raid warning system across Canada's north and said: "To have the benefit of an early warning of attack we must place our picket lines far to the north, within Canadian territory . . .". "Happily", he said, "the Canadians understand these things . . ." Happily? Happily? Happy for whom?

Town Planning And A Just Bath

Peterborough presented itself with a thirty-year Master Plan for development. That was in 1947. Since then the Plan has been the unofficial guide of the Planning Board and the City Council, followed some of the time by some of them. Now the essential article to implementing any Plan has been put before the people. It is Peterborough's first comprehensive zoning by-law. It occupied four pages of this newspaper to set it forth Tuesday. The people will have the rest of the week to study the proposals and the map accompanying them before public hearings a week hence.

The detail is great, but plain and comprehensibly set down; in fact, even easier to understand than the town plan to be found in Chapter 45 of Ezekiel with its five and twenty thousand of length and the ten thousand of breadth (a "length" being the length of five and twenty thousand reeds, a "breadth" being ten thousand). If people grumble about the complexity and detail of the Peterborough town planning proposals, or about the need for zoning at all, let them take heart. Planning was considered good as long ago as the time of Ezekiel, and the law was laid down pretty definitely; for instance: "Ye shall have just balances, and a just ephah, and a just bath." Our readers will pardon us if we admit to being too busy discovering that in our "RM District" the minimum lot area for a permissible multiple dwelling unit, providing one complies with paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), or (i) of subsection 2, is 7,500 sq. ft., but not less than 1,000 sq. ft. for each dwelling unit; we are too busy, we say, surveying the zoning by-law to have time to explain the details of Ezekiel's apportionment of land for sanctuary and city and his insistence on just baths.

The Comic Book Touch

We found it depressing to read that at the end of a recent hockey match in Detroit, the Canadien team left the ice, and the arena, without saying a word to the Red Wings, who had beaten them. It is usual for a team, or at least its captain, to congratulate the victors either on the ice or in the changing room afterward; one Montreal player said that the Canadien team was 'restrained from higher up', but later he denied that he had made such a statement. It does not make much difference; either the Canadien team was told not to observe this good old custom or else they did not choose to do so.

Nobody likes to lose, but it is the sign of a sportsman to lose with a good grace. And it is surprising how much a handshake can do in such circumstances. It wipes out a lot of bitterness, and it puts an end to animosity between teams and players. To go away nursing a grudge is contrary to everything that sport is supposed to teach.

But there is a lot of this grudge-bearing spirit to be seen nowadays and not simply in the sporting world. The spirit of sportsmanship seems to be giving way to the spirit of the crime comics—the spirit which cannot take a defeat without exaggerated humiliation, and which regards revenge as a vital element in life.

We all have revengeful feelings, and the best thing we can do is to confine them within limits. If a man beats us at a game, well and good—he has beaten us at a game; we want revenge, perhaps, but we want it within the framework of the game. We do not carry our resentment into fields which have no association with the game. That is why it is always a good idea to shake hands and show a friendly spirit when the game is over. After that, everybody is equal again, on the one level which really matters—the level of ordinary, daily human relationships. A game may be a very serious matter, but only while it is being played; we cannot carry team enmities into ordinary life, or life will quickly degenerate into a tangle of ugly feuds.

We wish the Canadian players had shaken hands. It is not pleasant to be represented in another country by soreheads.

Reading For The Future

Grant Dexter, of the Winnipeg Free Press, writes that to his knowledge there are five diaries in existence which were kept by Canadian Cabinet Ministers during the second World War. One, of course, was Mr. King's voluminous record; Col. Ralston kept a diary, and so did C. G. Power and Mr. Crerar; the late Angus Macdonald also kept a diary, it is now revealed. Every one of these records would make interesting reading, and taken as a group they would give a wonderfully detailed account of some of our most important wartime decisions, as they appeared to the men chiefly concerned in making them.

We may wonder, however, if anyone now living will ever read those diaries. There is a tradition of secrecy in Canadian politics which is very strong, and our Cabinets manage to present a united front to the nation, even when it is plain that there is deep disagreement at their discussions. This is a good thing in many ways, and it makes for strong and stable government. But curiosity is great, and we should greatly like to know what the five diarists thought about one another, and in particular about their head, Mr. King.

Mr. King's own diary is not likely to appear in anything but a sharply edited form. For one thing, it is immensely long, and those who have seen some of it say that it is written in great detail, and also with a startling degree of frankness. Although he always expressed himself publicly in very moderate language, Mr. King could speak with blistering and explosive eloquence in private, and apparently he wrote his feelings in his diary with the freedom of a man who knows that it will not be read until he is far beyond reprisal. Indeed, we have heard it suggested that Mr. King got a great deal of private satisfaction out of this record, and out of its possible effect on future historical writing. He was a strange and complex personality, and it would not be unlike him to confide to his private journal thoughts which nothing could have extracted from his lips.

The diary of the late Angus MacDonald would, we venture to say, be of extraordinary interest. He possessed the orderly mind of a fine lawyer, and he was a man who spoke and wrote with cogency and eloquence. If these diaries never see the light themselves, we hope that in time they will be made available to historians.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Lettuce, we read, was a favourite dish of Persian kings, 500 B.C. Reducing, presumably.

A university in the U.S.A. now gives a course in janitor service. If this means recognition of dust at first sight, we're all for it.

'Man', says the Kingston Whig, 'is undoubtedly the smartest idiot in the farflung universe'. Yes, and it was his smartness, combined with his idiocy, which flung the universe so far, and may fling it farther yet!

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery says that in the next war the safest place will be the front line; no enemy commander, he believes, will drop an H-bomb there, because it will be too near his own men. The cue for recruits forms on the left. Please don't trample the women and children.

In a mellow mood the London Free Press says: "Today's children may look back to the day when Southern Ontario had space, clear air, sweet water, good fishing, green pastures, far horizons and wise people". Yes, and also, we may add, one of the highest rates of insanity in the civilized world.

IN CEYLON

Bananas Are Running Out

By PHILIP DEANE

(The Queen visited Colombo on Easter Saturday, when this dispatch was sent to The Examiner.)

"IF only he stopped talking revolution and became some kind of an Attlee, we would back him financially to the hilt!" So said the tea tycoon — my host for the evening—talking about the handsome hefty Trotskyite Communist leader whom I had seen the day before.

But the handsome revolutionary would not stop talking revolution. He talked about it as if he were describing in anticipation a quiet trout-fishing expedition, and he seemed surprised when I mentioned the subject of blood.

✧ ✧ ✧

BLOOD in revolutions, he thought, was an old-fashioned bourgeois concept which he had heard about when studying at Cambridge but which he did not consider indispensable. "Some recalcitrants might get themselves killed, but no one would like doing it." And it was easy to believe that if this pleasant man had to kill you he would dislike the act.

Why was he—a Trotskyite, while most Communists were Stalinists? Was it because Trotskyism did not want to subordinate the interest of all national Communist parties to the interests of Moscow? Was it, therefore, because he wanted to preserve the national integrity of Ceylonese Communism? No, he said, it was because he was an intellectually-convinced internationalist and wanted the world revolution. The Russian bureacracy, he explained, did not want a world revolution because that would weaken the power of bureaucracy. In any case, Trotskyism was the first form of Marxism to reach Ceylon. Why change?

✧ ✧ ✧

HE WAS likeable, logical, and obviously sincere. He liked people genuinely. "Go to see him," said the Trotskyite of his Stalinist opponent, "you'll find him a jolly good chap."

The Stalinist also was handsome. He was shocked when I asked whether his party would demonstrate against the Queen. They did not recognize her as their Queen; they wanted Ceylon to leave the Commonwealth; they had all the correct sentiments towards Anglo-American "imperialism," but they were gentlemen! The handsome Stalinist had also been to Cambridge and his father had been a distinguished public servant.

✧ ✧ ✧

"YOU see how it is," explained another Red leader. "We are all bourgeois really. We are like the Narodniks whom Turgenev satirised. We have no real mass following. People elect us because they like us personally or because they are our cousins. The people of this country unfortunately still don't realize how badly off they are and they feel happy. They don't work much. They have shamefully low yields. They are exploited by moneylenders. But it is always warm and they are not hungry. They can always pluck a banana off a tree or shake a coconut down. Fishing is easy, too, and they can play about with orchids, lotus flowers, and talipot blooms and feel romantic in their indecently photogenic villages.

"They are literate, but they do not have enough political consciousness yet to heed our warnings: you are examining Marxism in Ceylon at the worst possible time. Everyone is excited about the Queen — even our own wives and daughters. For imperialist currents are flowing strong all because of a pretty young woman. Our Government, which is an imperialist instrument, is making political capital. Can you imagine people loving them more because the Queen of the colonisers is here?" And in a tolerant, pleasant, and good-natured way he added, "They are too tolerant, pleasant and good-natured still."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PEOPLE of Ceylon could still afford to be all those things, a Minister explained, because the British had done a good job and left the island with trained administrators at its head. The British left no bitterness behind because they left without a fight. "That is the trouble," an Indian journalist told me bitterly. "These people have not had to fight for anything yet. It is easy to be tolerant and listen to your nice Buddist monk in Ceylon. The British left without a fight."

The British did leave without a fight, but before they left they eradicated malaria and built many schools. Now every year more and more Ceylonese babies survive to grow up and be educated to read the pamphlets of the handsome bourgeois revolutionaries, only most of the readers are not bourgeois themselves, and the day is near when there will not be enough bananas on trees for everybody.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT THAT, of course, is tomorrow. Today, uncle, who is the cousin of a Minister, and who, therefore, has a good job, will find one for me, too. So I shall vote for uncle's cousin, the Minister, to whom in any case I am bound by family and caste ties—the ties of the Goigame caste.

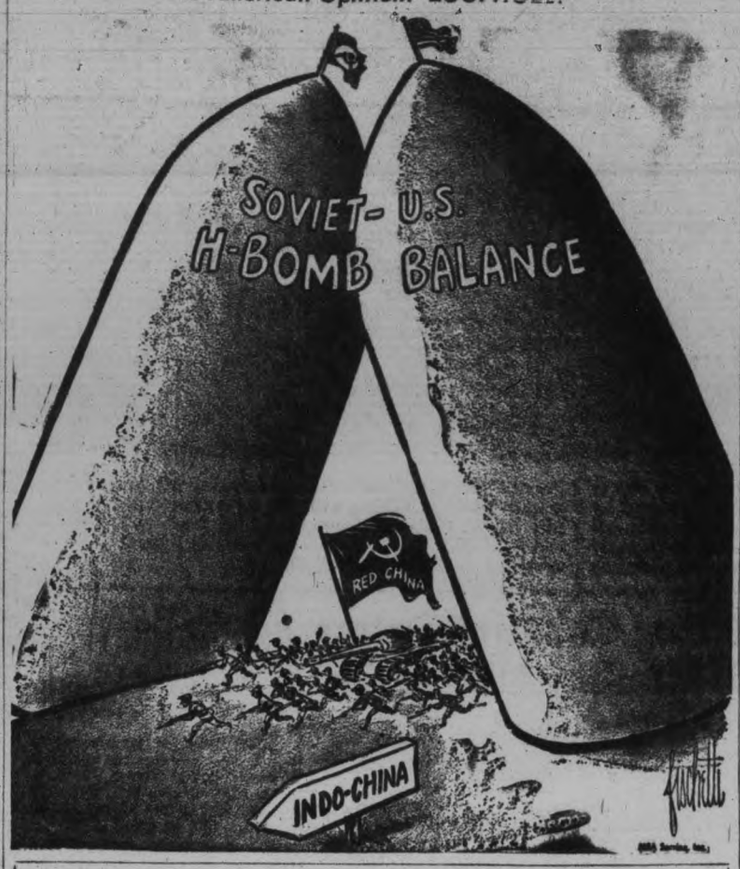
It is not an oppresive caste structure, the one in Ceylon. But the Goigame, who were originally the farmer caste, are now the squires, and their tenants still vote them into power, and their educated nephews whom they have put in jobs do the bidding of their uncles. The trouble is that these days there are more nephews than there are jobs and the Goigame themselves — the young university graduates among them — are beginning to feel the system is breaking down.

✧ ✧ ✧

THESE YOUNG Goigame will naturally be listened to in the villages by their kinsmen and caste brothers. They will not shout "National Liberation" slogans, nor will they be unkind to Britain whom most Ceylonese like enough to want to stay in the Commonwealth, perhaps even after it loses its material usefulness. But the jobless nephews will point out that the bananas are running out.

Of course, more bananas, rice, rubber and coconuts could be grown. More jungle acres should be cleared. More agronomists could teach the peasant how to get higher yields. More irrigation projects would employ more engineers. The jobs for nephews and the bananas for the peasants could be multiplied.

✧ ✧ ✧



THE UNCLES have made a start, but to do the whole thing might mean inducing the peasant to work harder by giving him his own land perhaps, or cutting down rents and interests on loans. That might reduce the wealth of the Goigame uncles today. The fact that the nephews might take their uncles' wealth tomorrow is another matter. A matter of tomorrow.

Today, it is today that matters. A lovely Queen has come at the invitation of the uncles and the nephews, and the peasants celebrate, "for a Royal visit is an occasion for celebration, indeed, and the Ceylonese love celebrating."

Only one man is unhappy in Ceylon — the famed astrologer who predicted the Queen would never come.

An American Opinion: LOOPHOLE?

Polish Peasant Troubles Revealed

By JOHN MILES

WITH Mr. Nikita Khruschev, First Secretary of the Russian Communist party, present, and enthusiastically acclaimed by the one thousand delegates, the Second Congress of the Polish Communist Party, meeting in Warsaw, has voted for reorganisation on Moscow lines.

The premier, Mr. Boleslaw Bierut, after many years as both premier and head of the party—which caused Poles to nickname him "Little Stalin"—has had to relinquish the office of Prime Minister. Further, the designation of "Party General Secretary," another Stalin function has been abolished. Bierut becomes "First Secretary" thus gearing the Polish Party leadership to similar changes in the U.S.S.R.

More than anything else in recent years, with Mr. Khruschev and three other prominent Russian Communists making a special journey from Moscow, the Polish congress has been used to reaffirm the allegiance of the Polish regime to that of the U.S.S.R. Mr. Khruschev himself read a special message of greetings from the Soviet Central Committee; and in a long address to the congress on Polish economic development, the Russian Minister emphasised the urgent need for increased agricultural production and for carrying out in Poland the new economic plan which he has devised for the U.S.S.R.

It was to the carrying out of this plan that the congress devoted most of its deliberations. With ninety per cent. of the soil still in the hands of individual peasants who are stubbornly opposed to Communism, the Polish regime faces a problem very different from that of the U.S.S.R., where all land is collectivised. Not only has the Polish peasant refused to enroll in the collectives: he has managed to avoid having anything to do with the Party. At the last Party plenum, Mr. Jacob Berman, one of the leading Politburo members, said that some sixty per cent. of the villages had no party organisation whatsoever, and that only twenty per cent. of party members were peasants—this out of a peasant population of some twelve million.

The failure to coerce the peasant into any form of real co-operation was frankly revealed at the congress. Mr. Alexander Zawadzki, chairman of the Council of State—that is, virtual President of Poland—was obliged to come into the open and denounce the "brutal methods" employed by the Polish police to force unwilling peasants to join collectives.

He warned the party against employing "such arbitrary, downright brutal methods," and called for the punishment of those responsible.

He demanded "lawful behaviour" and respect for the "rights of citizens"—here again following the line of the Russian Premier, Mr. Malenkov—and appealed for a more human approach in trying to win over the peasantry. Thus the congress brought out with startling clarity the extremely difficult situation created by the impact of the Khruschev agricultural policy. In short, the party must conciliate; and in effect strengthen the hand of the independent peasantry, the element which is the backbone of opposition to the regime.

A few days before the congress met the government issued a decree drastically reorganising rural administration so as to bring the countryside under centralised control. New rural communes are to be established, much smaller in area and easier to control by Party watchmen.

This is clearly an effort to bring peasants under more direct government control without resort to the police methods that were denounced shortly afterwards by Zawadzki. But it remains to be seen whether the Polish peasant, after successfully thwarting the Communist regime for eight years, can be brought to heel by this or by any other method.

Boyish Stoicism

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

A passenger in a bus carrying boys to a school in Worcestershire, England, made friends with a lad 10 or 11 years of age and remarked: "What do you intend to do when you grow up?" "Sir," replied the young fellow, "I need not worry about that, as by that time there will be nowhere to grow up on."

For a philosophic attitude toward the hydrogen age, and as an example of British imperturbability, this boy seems to have everything that a boy should have.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

Ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light. (I Pet. 2:9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Therefore if any man be in Christ he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation . . . Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God. (II Cor. 5:17, 18; 20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true: but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us . . . So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many: and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation. (Heb. 9:24, 28.)

Letter To The Editor

INDECENCY IN 3D

SIR: I would like to say that I think "Nosret Sam" is quite right in objecting to ladies' underthings being displayed right out in the open in Peterborough store windows. I am not a prude but I'd rather be than be "Puella Prudens" who wrote shamelessly against "Nosret Sam."

Another thing, and it is even more immoral than putting ladies' dainties in the windows, is those forms which they put dresses on to display to people on the street. They are very lifelike and the shameless way store clerks undress these real-looking forms right in the window is disgusting. Then they leave the naked dummies for everybody to see, maybe for a half an hour, men and children see them as well as women who shouldn't be allowed to look at them at all.

These naked forms just look like real men and women except in some ways. It's not like looking at art. I don't object to paintings, even of unclothed children and beautiful women, because these are old and great Masters, and they are only in length and breadth. But the unclothed dummies in store windows are in three dimensions. This make them look more real then ever.

If "Nosret Sam" will start a League for Decency in Peterborough, he can count on me.

Yours truly,
"RESPECTABLE"

Hunches Pay Off

(Windsor Star)

This year's Grand National at Aintree might not have been good for the form players, but for the punter who follows hunches it has earned a place in the records. A Canadian nurse won $56,000 with a ticket bought on December 13, and on which the two final numbers added up to 13. Most significant of all, Royal Tan won the race — a natural, what with the Queen acquiring meanwhile, a deep tan in the strong Australian sun.

Striped Bass Come Big Quebec Waters

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Striped bass, a sleek, silvery fish with several narrow black stripes running lengthwise, is the newest addition to game fish in Quebec province.

Fished commercially for years by farmers along a 210-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence river, the local variety of the American striped bass was almost unknown to sport-fishing enthusiasts until two years ago.

The Quebec game and fisheries branch introduced striped bass fishing as a sport, and curious anglers soon found the striper as good a fighter as his cousins, the small-mouth and large-mouth species.

THEY COME BIG

It is not uncommon to hook onto a 12-pounder. Last season, during a contest sponsored by the Hunters and Fishermen's Association of Levis, across the St. Lawrence from Quebec City, a 22-pounder was taken. The association is one of the clubs working with the provincial department in promoting striped bass angling.

Sturdy equipment is necessary and surf-casting rods and salt-water reels, with automatic gears, are proving popular.

Described as "elegant in shape as salmon," striped bass to Quebecers are known as "bar," pronounced like the English word "bore." The fish make delicious eating, roasted in butter or boiled and served with a white sauce.

They are strictly St. Lawrence river habitants and may be caught between Riviere du Loup, 120 miles northeast of this provincial capital, and Lake St. Peter, 90 miles southwest.

They spawn every spring at the mouths of St. Lawrence river tributaries but are not likely to infiltrate inland from the big waterway. They thrive in fast, tidal waters such as the St. Lawrence.

The striped bass season is June 1 to Nov. 30. Although there is no limit on the bag, there is a minimum legal size of 12 inches.

POACHERS PENALIZED

Commercially, fish markets are co-operating with the game and fisheries department to see that regulations are observed and the fish protected from poachers.

In Montreal recently, two men were arrested for illegal possession of, and attempting to sell, 1,000 pounds of the bass out of season. Stiff penalties were imposed.

Before legislation was passed two years ago to protect the fish, farmers were free to take them year-round. Fish markets, as a result, were flooded with the bass, many of them undersized.

Striped bass fishing is at its best between July and October when speckled trout—the aristocrat of Quebec waters—is preparing to spawn. The St. Lawrence is low and fast then and stripers are in abundance around islands downriver from Quebec City.

THE FIRST OF EIGHT SUPER CONSTELLATION planes will go into Trans-Atlantic service on May 14, the big planes will go into Trans Canada service in September when the flying time from Montreal to Vancouver will be cut from 12 to 10 hours. The big planes flying at speeds of 300 m.p.h. can carry 63 passengers. (Federal Newsphoto)

Vimy Keeper Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Hebert Stubs, 60, First World War veteran and keeper of the Canadian Memorial at Vimy for 23 years, died Tuesday.

Publicity Stunt?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Representative Kit Clardy (Rep.-Mich.), chairman of a House of Representatives un-American activities sub-committee, today discounted as a "publicity stunt" a former University of Michigan co-ed's story of spying on fellow students.

The story was that of blue-eyed Daphne Price, 19, of Ottawa, who now says she is sorry she spied.

Local puck delegates will take in the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association in Toronto this Saturday. Jim Ellis of the Petes is running for one of the four elective executive posts, eight being after these spots, including J. C. MacDonald of Orillia. Tory Gregg of Wingham will go back as OHA president by acclamation, and Peterborough's Frank Buckland will hold the first vice-presidency for another year before stepping up as prexy. Lorne Cook of Kingston is second vice-president; Bill Hewitt of Toronto secretary; and George Dudley of Midland the treasurer. The OHA employes a full-time manager, as the elderly Bill Hewitt isn't very active any more.

An item from a recent Canadian Olympic Association bulletin: "Amateur sportsmen should be concerned over the ever-increasing 'spectator' interest in sports as compared with the relatively low participation. This means that more and more people tend to make their recreation sedentary rather than active, a condition which means a general deterioration of the physical stamina and health of the citizens of any country. Nations of high financial status, of considerable material resources, and of marked industrial development, are likely to suffer most. In Canada the efforts of the National Council of Physical Fitness should be supported."

Senior "B" Ball Crown

While the Petes' ball club has yet to capture the OBA senior "A" title, it did win provincial senior "B" honors several seasons back. We recall the team, missing out in the "A" competition, dropping back to "B" playdowns and coming through over Chatham in semi-finals and Ottawa in the finals for this title. Eddie Murphy was playing manager of the club, with Lloyd Grose business manager. Some of the players that season were Joe Stewart, Larry Edwardson, Al Menzies, Bill Edger, Paul Estlick, Bill Dadson, Danny Brown, Ed (Gunner) Whitehill, Joe Lowrey, Freddy Garvey, Howie Dalton and Pat Wilson. A good bunch of ballsters who helped keep the diamond game going.

While the COBL is in the throes of re-organization, after a couple of severe setbacks, let's look at the setup in the Toronto Viaduct Loop, where Oshawa and the Petes once played. They've expanded to a six-club circuit, adding Oshawa Transporters and Oakville Oaks this year — these teams to have a share of home games, too. Four Toronto teams in, Honest Ed's, Hosking Burners, Dependable Caterers and High Park Hurricanes. They open with twin bills at Viaduct on May 15, with the Oshawa opener on May 22 and an Oakville start two days later. Teams will be fined $25 for the first late start, $50 for the second, and have league action taken if it happens a third time. Harold Barnes is loop president and Bud McAlister umpire-in-chief.

Welland Liked the Guy

Saw a number of fine recommendations of Bill Sisler and his baseball training program — the one he hopes to have here this summer. Here's an excerpt from a letter last fall by Mayor A. L. McCrae of Welland, where a similar school was held: "Might I say that inquiries such as yours are what I am afraid of, because we have not been sure that we can hold Mr. Sisler after the fine season's work he did in our city. During the time he was here, juvenile delinquency struck a new low, and our ball field was so crowded that special sessions had to be arranged to accomodate the overflow. There is no question in my mind of the man's ability and the methods he adopts to keep youngsters in line. More children learned about baseball last year than in any period of the city's history. I am only too happy to give him my whole-hearted endorsation." Recommendations also came from Dover, Delaware.

Some of the rabid pro wrestling fans were pretty peeved at the end of the main bout along the Rue Brock last p.m., but one vented his anger at the rough Dusek brothers at too close a range — being cuffed by Ernie Dusek before a policeman rescued the customer. No wonder they were peeved, as the Dueks got away with mayhem in winning by peculiar work over Ilio DiPaolo and Ray Villmer. And Referee Bert Maxwell, a house dick at the Royal York, mustn't be getting enough sleep as he guards key holes. He certainly was asleep on the job last eve. But then the Dueks are as tricky a pair of grapplers as have come down the pike in many moons — they'd fool any ordinary ref, and what ref isn't ordinary? Toar Morgan had Johnny Barend beaten in the semi-final but lost his temper and cuffed the ref, so was disqualified. Johnny Harmon and Mike Paidousis drew in the prelim.

SIX NEW PLAYERS

HAMILTON (CP)— Jake Gaudaur, president of the Tiger-Cats football club, has revealed that six new U.S. players have been signed by the Hamilton team. He refused to divulge their names.

"They are college rather than pro types," he added. He intimated that the six were a variety of tackles, centres, ends and backfielders.

One of the six is rumoured to be a centre from Syracuse University. Coach Carl Voyles has been looking for a replacement for Gaudaur who retired as a player after the 1953 Grey Cup game. Hamilton's other centre of last year, Quincy Armstrong, is not expected to return as he has received an offer from a U.S. professional club.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

In a little more than a month the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will be in full swing for the 1954 season, and, as this year is our 25th anniversary on the present site the boys and girls are looking forward to it.

The schedule for both the ladies' club and the men's club is long and varied. The men will have their regular schedule games, their local tournaments, and five open tournaments, viz:

On Wednesday, June 16, play for the O'Keefe Trophy, trebles.

Thursday, July 1—The Seagram Trophy, mixed doubles.

Wednesday, July 7—Liftlock Trophy, men's doubles.

Wednesday, August 25 — Black Memorial Trophy, mixed doubles.

Saturday, Sept. 11 — Empress Hotel Trophy, trebles.

And then early in July we will be favored with the touring British bowlers.

The ladies too have their schedule and local tournaments, and also open tournaments for the J. J. Duffus Trophy and the Lincoln Trohpy.

It does look like a busy season and an interesting one, and it is not too late for anyone to join our organization in either the ladies' or men's sections.

Smythe Europe-Bound To Arrange Tour

NEW YORK (CP) — Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, sailed aboard the Queen Elizabeth Wednesday for Europe where he hopes to arrange a hockey tour which will include a demonstration for Russians of how hockey should be played.

Smythe wants to arrange an exhibition tour for September in several European cities. He is primarily interested, however, in arranging games between the Leafs and Moscow Dynamos, world amateur hockey champions by virtue of their victory in Stockholm over Toronto East York, a senior B team.

J. Playford Jr. Tops

Jack Playford Jr. had high three of 813 and top single of 327 this week in the Major Bowling League, as Boucher's led teams with 3548. Bartley's 1240 was best team single. The 7-0 wins went to Boucher's, Clapper's and Clements over Plaza, Edwards and Silents; the 5-2 victories were taken by Curtis, Sea-Horses, Selkirk, E & B, and Sherbrooke against D & W, Crowley, Hewitt, Revenoors and UEW, the 4-3 counts went to Burtol over Lock, Paramount against Bartley, and Godson over McLeod. Burtol's of the Major and Payne's of the City leagues play off Saturday for the Clapper Trophy, 1:30 at Playfair and 4:00 p.m. at Duffus'.

Good counts: I. Hanes 705, A. Pilling 735, E. Mattucci 759, H. Roberts 702, G. Walton 714, A. Stevens (318) 771, C. Signorotti 760, A. Menzies 783, G. Pageit 707, A. Caccavella 715, M. Caccavella 741, R. Foster (302) 802, B. Northey 759 and L. Murray 721.

GIRL IS THE INTEREST—NOT THE BALL—Four pairs of eyes are trained steadfastly upon the pert form of Helen Lovson —"Miss Tiger-Cat," elected girl-friend of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, present holders of the Grey Cup. The eyes belong to members of the Lions—junior team of the Tiger-Cats who were present at a Hamilton rally, left to right: Marv Bevan, Don Sprague, Rich Snyder and Lion chairman Denny Wilson. —(Federal Newsphoto).

BACK IN THE NHL—George (Red) Sullivan of this city, who starred for Hershey's AHL team last winter, received word yesterday that he was back in the NHL, having been sold by Boston Bruins—where he played a year ago—to Chicago Black Hawks. Red led the AHL scorers and set a new all-time points record the past season.

Sullivan Expected Move To Chicago Black Hawks

Though he was sort of expecting that professional hockey trade winds might blow him from the Boston Bruins farm club at Hershey to Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL, George (Red) Sullivan of Peterborough didn't know for sure until he received word Wednesday. In an interview with The Examiner Tuesday, he said he had received no word as to where he'd be playing next season, perhaps back at Hershey in the American Hockey League, where he set a scoring record the past season.

Son of Mrs. J. J. Sullivan and the late John Sullivan of Rogers St., the Ashburnham redhead was up with Boston Bruins a year ago but was sent back to Hershey of the AHL the past season, where he starred from start to finish. Recent rumors were that he was slated to be sold to the Black Hawks, Bill Tobin of that club doing a lot of rebuilding in the past year and planning more before next season. The Bruins felt they had enough promising young forwards and were willing to deal Red to Chicago.

STARTED HERE

The 25-year-old hustler, who stars in softball here each summer, learned hockey in minor play around Peterborough right after the war, breaking into organized hockey with Lakefield in OHA junior "B" play, then turning out with the junior "B" Oddfellows here, before catching on with the junior "A" St. Catharines TeePees, a Boston affiliate. He stepped up then to Boston, but was farmed back to its AHL affiliate for further seasoning. George is living with his wife and small son this summer in Otonabee.

Of interest to local followers of NHL play is the fact that Red will be joining the same club which last winter purchased Ike Hildebrand, starry local lacrosser—and pro puckist—from New York Rangers, after the latter had farmed Ike out to Vancouver of the Western League. Ike was injured later in Toronto and didn't finish the season with the Hawks. He will be back with them next autumn.

SAFE AT HOME—Bob Skinner, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is safe at home as he scores on Hal Rice's double in the first inning of a game with the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds. Giant catcher Ray Katt is too late with the tag as umpire Frank Dascoli rules Skinner safe. The Giants won the ball game by a score of 6-2.

Main Bout Handed To The Duseks By Sleepy Referee

A poet once wrote "O sleep it is a blessed thing"—but he couldn't have meant the way it was employed by the villainous Dusek brothers in the main pro wrestling bout here last night. Emil Dusek won the first fall over Ilio DiPaolo with a "sleeper hold", nothing more than an unconscious grip, choking his rival with Ilio's own arm. Ernie Dusek won the third and deciding fall over Ray Villmer after Referee Bert Maxwell had been knocked to sleep (in a manner of speaking) when accidentally hit by a flying tackle Ernie missed on Ray. The latter had Ernie pinned but Emil jumped in over the dazed ref and turned Ray over, so the recuperating referee saw Ernie on top and counted it that way. The popular Ilio and Ray were furious, as were the fans, a hot argument following the fray, and one ambitious fan being cuffed by a Dusek.

RAY HAD EDGE

Villmer, scaling 228, had it all over both Ernie and Emil—who went 246 and 230 respectively, though not respectably—in the final round, and he had good help from the 246-pound DiPaolo. They teamed up well in their corner, while Maxwell meantime was roaring angrily at the pestiferous Ernie Dusek from time to time. After taking a going-over in the other corner, Ernie tried a flying tackle off the ropes, but Ray leaped nimbly over him and Ernie bashed into Maxwell, knocking him for a loop. Then Emil hopped in to roll Ray off his brother and that's how Maxwell, coming out of his stupor, saw it. The fall was 12 minutes.

The second fall went in six minutes to Villmer over Emil with a drop kick which caught his rival cold as he came into the ring after tagging up. Ray had jumped into the ring himself but caught Emil by surprise for the fall. DiPaolo and Villmer had most of this round as they worked closer to their corner singly and in pairs on the rough brothers, Ilio bouncing Ernie with smashes and tackles shortly before Emil got it in the kisser. The fans cheered this fall loudly.

USES "SLEEPER"

Emil Dusek took the opening fall in 17 minutes with the odd "sleeper" grip described above. He had Ilio's arm wrapped around Ilio's neck and applied the pressure hard till DiPaolo wilted. The referee apparently didn't figure it as a choke hold, though the customers did. Earlier DiPaolo had Emil in trouble with flying tackles till Emil cannily caught him with a sudden kick and that started the big Italian on the road to ruin. The Dueks worked well this session in relays by their corner, in and out of the ring together, and they were past masters at distracting the referee's attention and getting in their villainous work. There was a lot of action, as Villmer and DiPaolo were no soft touches for their nasty opponents.

AWARDED FALL

Johnn Barend, 231, was awarded the semi-final fall in just 14 minutes against the hot-headed 230-pound Toar Morgan. The latter made the mistake of slugging the referee and then tossing Barend out of the ring. Maxwell took a dim view of this and gave the tilt to popular Johnny. The latter took quite a beating most of the way as scrappy Toar tossed the book at him, including punches, chokes, knees, rasps, etc. and ad nauseam. He pitched him out of the ring once and kept him out with smashes, finally following Barend out and kicking him on the arena floor. But Johnny rallied then to even it up for a space as he threw Toar out twice so hard that he bounced and really was hurt. Toward the finish of the redhot tussle, Toar was giving Barend a terrific going-over but let his temper get away from him when Maxwell tried to pull him off an illegal grip. Then he cuffed Bert, and that was that.

Johnny Harmon, going 224, and Mike Paidousis, scaling 247, went to a 30-minute prelim draw. Paidousis was unpopular in the fast bout as he used too many unorthodox holds and roughing tricks. They also showed some smart wrestling in spots, some open stuff and plenty of slugging—often swinging while on their knees. Harmon held his own and had the crowd with him all the way through the lively bout.

Baltimore Bows 2-1 To Indians In Surprise Ending

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's Bullet Bob Turley may still be nursing a home-run headache today, but he probably will end up glad that he didn't pitch that no-hitter.

Wednesday night he came within two outs of holding Cleveland Indians hitless, but wound up losing 2-1 when Al Rosen singled and Larry Doby, twice a strikeout victim, lined a high pitch 360 feet into the right field stands of Baltimore's Municipal Stadium.

"It was over his head," Turley said. "He never should have swung."

Turley, just out of the army, wasn't around the last time a member of his American League team pitched a no-hitter. That was in May last season when the Orioles were still the St. Louis Browns. Bobo Holloman was the pitcher, and nobody would go broke giving prizes for answers to the question "where's Holloman now?" (He was lost in the minors.)

MORE FORTUNATE

Bob Porterfield of Washington Senators, whose luck is usually all bad, was more fortunate than Turley. He pitched a three-hitter against Philadelphia Athletics and his mates supported him with a 13-hit attack that produced a 13-1 victory.

New York Yankees whipped Boston Red Sox 5-1 in the only other American League game. Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-3, Pittsburgh edged New York Giants 5-4, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 4-2 and Milwaukee thumped Chicago Cubs 7-3 in the National League.

The Yankees used their big weapon, the home run, to ruin young Leo Kiely's return from the army to the Red Sox. Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle parked Kiely's left-handed slants into the Yankee Stadium seats while the Sox were being mystified by Eddie Lopat.

The Phils threw their game away in Brooklyn in the first inning when three throwing errors by the infield sandwiched between five walks and a single gave the Dodgers three runs.

BAD NIGHT

Whitey Lockman had a bad night in Pittsburgh. The Giants' first-baseman hit a home run in the fifth inning only to have it disallowed because base runner Monte Irvin had called time. Then in the eighth inning he muffed a pick-off throw and Toby Atwell scampered home from third with the winning run.

Gerry Staley of the Cards won his first game and a new suit of clothes in Cincinnati. Manager Ed Stanky, moaning over his pitiful pitching, in desperation offered the new suit to the first St. Louis hurler to stay the distance. Staley immediately responded with a nine-inning eight-hitter.

Stanky wasn't around for much of it. He was chased in the third inning by umpire Bill Jackowski for making rude gestures after being warned to stay within the lines of the coaching box.

Havana Sugar Kings Clip Toronto Maple Leafs For Second Straight Time By 4-2 Score

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana's Cuban Sugar Kings, one of the two new members, are off to a fast start in the International Baseball League along with one of the circuit's oldest—Rochester Red Wings.

The Sugar Kings made it two straight over Toronto Wednesday night, defeating the Maple Leafs 4-2 while the Red Wings won their second game by trouncing Richmond Virginians, the other new entry, 11-4.

Ottawa Athletics opened their season with a 4-2 victory over Buffalo Bisons and Syracuse Chiefs nipped Montreal Royals 7-6 in their inaugural.

CUBAN HOME RUN

Havana took a four-run lead over Toronto with two runs in the second inning, Camaleon Garcia's first home run of the season in the fourth, and another tally in the fifth.

Julio Moreno blanked the Leafs until the seventh when he gave up singles to Ed Stevens and Billy Demars and a double by Sam Jethroe to account for Toronto's two runs.

Rochester, which won the regular-season title last year, collected 15 hits off two Richmond pitchers.

Bob Bowman's ninth-inning home run broke a 6-6 tie with Montreal and gave Syracuse its opening-day victory.

Bowman, who hit 18 homers for Schenectady in the Eastern League last year, made two brilliant plays in right field and figured in the Chiefs' three-run sixth inning with a double.

Frank Marchio and Dixie Howell of the Royals, Lou Leyman of the Chiefs also hit home runs in the tight battle.

John Mackinson pitched 7 1-3 scoreless innings for Ottawa as the Athletics pounded out 10 hits off three Bison pitchers. Mackinson entered in the second inning with the bases filled and limited Buffalo to two hits the rest of the way.

Name 18 Players For Place On Soccer Team

GLASGOW (AP) — Scotland's soccer selectors Wednesday named 18 players from whom their World Cup team will be chosen—and out into the cold went many old-established internationals.

The selectors came up with a bold selection, including several newcomers to international soccer.

They backed up their decision to try out new blood by giving trials to several new men in the game against Norway at Hampden Park, Glasgow, May 5. All the 11 players in that team are included in the World Cup "possibles."

Scotland's team to play Norway: Eddy Martin (Aberdeen), Willie Cunningham (Preston), Jock Aird (Burnley), Tom Docherty (Preston) Captain, Alan Davidson (Partick Thistle), Bobby Evans (Celtic), Bobby Johnstone (Hibernian), George Hamilton (Aberdeen), Pady Buckley (Aberdeen), Alan Brown (Blackpool) and Willie Ormond (Hibernian).

George Cox, who captained Scotland against England April 3, is dropped together with George Farm (Blackpool) goalkeeper, Mike Haughney (Celtic) full back, Bill Brennan (Newcastle) centre half, George Aitken (Sunderland) half back and Jackie Henderson (Portsmouth) forward.

The Scottish selectors who obviously were disappointed after England's 4-2 victory in April.

Stengel To Try For All-Star Triumph

CHICAGO (AP)—Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees will try for his first managerial triumph in five straight all-star games in baseball's 21st midsummer classic at Cleveland July 13.

Stengel's acceptance of the American League team's all-star reins, automatically following his Yankees' fifth straight pennant and world series triumph last season, was announced today by Will Harridge, league president.

Selection of Walter Alston, successor to Charley Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to direct the National League all-stars was announced during spring training.

Faloney Refuses Sign With 49ers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernie Faloney, the No. 1 draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers, said Wednesday he definitely will not sign with that National Football League club.

As a matter of fact, the University of Maryland quarterback said, he may very well pass up U.S. pro football altogether in favor of a baseball career.

Faloney, a classy shortstop and a good hitter, already has received feelers from Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies and Washington Senators.

Faloney, a second team all-American, said that if he plays pro football, it will be with a Canadian club. He didn't say which one.

No Eliminations In Cage Tourney

KINGSTON (CP) — Thirteen games were run off Wednesday during the first day of the Queen's University invitation basketball tournament. None of the teams were eliminated from the double-loss elimination competition.

Games were played in all sections—A, B and C. The A section is confined to high schools with more than 350 male students, the B for schools with more than 175 and the C for schools under 175. Twelve games will be played today.

Matane Upsets Wolves 5-1, Stay In Series

SUDBURY (CP) — Matane Red Rocks kept their hopes of entering the Allan Cup finals alive Wednesday night by defeating Sudbury Wolves 5-1.

The Wolves, who needed only a tie to clinch the series, now lead the best-of-seven Eastern final 3-2 with one game tied. A tie in Friday's game will send the Wolves into the Canadian Senior Hockey championships against either Winnipeg Maroons or Penticton V's.

The Red Rocks were never behind. They jumped in front 1-0 in the first period, allowed the Wolves temporarily to tie the score before going ahead 3-1 in the second and then rounded out their total with two goals in the third.

Rene Pepin led the Red Rocks with two goals. Playing-coach Gerry Plamondon, Bernie Limoges and R. Bilodeau were the other snipers. Frank King scored the only Sudbury goal.

SCORES WINNER

Pepin scored the winning goal on a penalty shot in the second. He had only Al Millar, Sudbury netminder, to beat when he was pulled down from behind by Lennie Speck. A penalty shot was awarded on the play and Pepin scored his first goal of the evening.

Plamondon opened the scoring at 13:53 of the first period after taking a pass from Leger who was behind the Sudbury net. King fired a waist-high shot from about 10 feet out to beat Marcel Paille and tie the score at 5:05 of the second. The penalty shot sent Matane ahead for good. Limoges made it 3-1 while both teams were shorthanded at 16:25. Leger fished the puck out of a scramble and passed it to Limoges to start the play.

Pepin's second goal which came at 6:45 of the third was scored when the Matane forward flew down the left boards, circled the defence and let go with a low shot into the corner of the Sudbury net.

Brault broke away during a Sudbury attack late in the game and passed to Bilodeau for the final score. The goal, which came at 17:34, was screened from Millar's sight and went through his knees.

Canadian Cricket Team Going To U.K.

TORONTO (CP) — Canada is sending an official cricket team to England this summer for the first time in history.

The Canadians will play 17 games during their stay from July 20 to Sept. 3. The schedule includes an unofficial test match match against Pakistan, also touring the United Kingdom this summer, and games with four first-class English county teams. Another match will pit them against a Marylebone Cricket Club eleven.

Other Canadians teams have played in England at intervals over the last 50 years, but they were privately sponsored and did not meet such tough opposition as that lined up for the 1954 tourists. The tour is being made on the invitation of the MC, world cricket's governing body.

ROBINSON IS CAPTAIN

Thirteen of 15 players expected to make the trip have been selected. Basil Robinson, former Vancouver and Ottawa player and now in London, England, with the affairs department, will captain the team. Player-manager will be L. J. H. Gunn of Toronto.

Other players chosen: Tom Brierley, Robert Quintrell, A. S. (Bill) Hendy, Peter Stead, Vancouver; Harry Bullen, Calgary; Leslie Wight, Alan Percival, Brian Christen, Toronto; Jim Cameron, London, Ont., and Melville Rilstone and J. L. Lucas, Montreal.

Robinson, the only Canadian to gain a cricket Blue at Oxford University (1947-48) is an ideal man to lead the Canadians. The 35-year-old player is a forcing batsman, a useful off-spin bowler and a superb fielder.

Lew Gunn came to Canada from Edinburgh when five years old and learned all his cricket at Upper Canada College, Toronto. At 35, he has been chairman of the Canadian Cricket Association's board of control for four years. He is a quick-scoring batsman and a good, medium-paced change bowler.

Of the remaining players two were born in Canada, two in Australia, three in England and four in the West Indies.

FULL SCHEDULE

The list of matches:

LAST THERE IN 1936

Canadians last played in England in 1936. The tour was sponsored by the late R. C. Matthews, one-time minister of national revenue who selected players from various parts of Canada. The tourists won seven matches and six were drawn. Their only loss was against Grasshoppers at London's Oval.

MCC officials were impressed by the Canadians' showing, particularly in bowling and fielding and the following year sent an eleven to Canada. Captained by G. C. Newman of Middlesex, the team won 12 games and six were drawn. The Englishmen suffered a 10-wicket defeat at the hands of the Matthews team in a two-day match at Toronto.

R. W. V. Robins, famous international player, led another MCC team to Canada in 1951. The two matches against representative Canadian teams were won by the tourists. Of 21 other games played the MC won 17, lost two and two were drawn.

Gordon Ties Scoring Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Gordon, centre and captain of the Cleveland Barons, tied a record in winning individual scoring honors in the American Hockey League playoffs.

Gordon had 18 points on five goals and 13 assists in nine games to equal the playoff scoring marks of Fred Thurier, Frank Mario and Barry Sullivan, all now retired from professional hockey.

By leading playoff scorers for the second straight year, Gordon set a league mark.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh, the regular season's leading goal tender, led the playoffs on defence, giving up 13 goals in five games for an average of 2.60.

Fred Glover of Cleveland had the most goal, eight, and rookie Murray Wilkie of Cleveland had the most penalty minutes with 20.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings edged New York Rangers 5-4 to tie their Stanley Cup final at three victories each, four years ago tonight, at Detroit. Wings won the deciding game the following night. Rangers elected to play the second and third games at Toronto because ice was unavailable at Madison Square Garden, and each won one at Toronto.

Point Anne Wins To Take Trent Valley Championship

MARMORA (ENS) — Point Anne won the Trent Valley championship in the Marmora arena on Wednesday evening by a convincing 9-4. This deciding game was the sixth of the series. After 6:27 minutes of play the cement boys had netted three goals but by 9:13 Marmora had tied and were a goal ahead as the period closed.

Point Anne however, roared back with three goals in both the second and third periods and held Marmora scoreless.

Halfway through the second, Bates, their goalie, was injured and the game was help up ten minutes. The home goalie, Killian, was pulled at 17:07 when Bates was awarded a penalty for tripping and Strahan also had seconds of his two minute penalty to serve but Marmora constituted no threat and Bates was not tested then.

Lavender pulled off the hat trick for his team and Hunter followed suit.

Point Anne drew eight penalties as against two earned by the homesters.

At the close of the game, the president of the league brought out the Thomas Bata Cup and as Art Duncan of Batavia, vice-president of the league was present, passed it to him to present to Pat Gilmour, Point Anne's captain and centre player.

Owing doubtless to the higher temperature the ice was poorest of the season with a fog rising from it, proving some impediment to play.

The attendance was near the 1,200 mark. Teams:

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, Gray, Leonard; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates, Jones, Mantle, Brooks, Smith, Darrah, Brown, Loveless, E. Trumble, Ramsbottom; Spare goalie, Young.

Point Anne — Goal, Bates; defence, J. Green, Stewart; centre, Gilmour; wings, Jacklin, Strahan; alternates, P. Green, Mulholland, L. Goyer, G. Goyer, Williams, Hunter, L. Maracle, B. Maracle, Bradshaw; Spare goalie, Twa.

Mistake Brings Surprise Entry

VANCOUVER (CP)—An innocent mistake has resulted in an unexpected entry to the British Empire Games here July 30-Aug. 7.

A formal invitation was sent to Singapore asking that the Federated States of Malaya attend the games. Singapore, bursting with national fervor, interpreted the invitation to apply to the State of Singapore and speedily accepted.

The mixup was discovered when B. E. G. officials here noticed the flag sent from Singapore was not the same as the one displayed by Malaya at the last games in Auckland, New Zealand.

A polite inquiry about the flag's new design prompted the reply there was nothing wrong with the bunting—it was the flag of Singapore.

Officials here realized only then that Malaya had not received a formal invitation to the games. An invitation was hurried off to Malaya and a reply is expected within a week.

Should Malaya also accept, Canada will be host to 26 nations, counting Singapore, an unprecedented figure for the games.

IT TAKES SOME 250,000 MEN to reap Canada's pulp wood harvest and the unique craft used by the "Sweepers," left, must be carried or portaged around cascades; while with dashing, springtime waters a torrent of pulpwood, centre, from out of the forests comes down to Ottawa river. This driver works feverishly to prevent a pile-up and keep the logs moving along. One of the biggest jobs, right, is that of the "Reapers" moving the logs down the waterways to the nation's 131 pulp mills to be manufactured into 1,000 different kinds of products.

Expect New $40,000 Hydro Project Will Revolutionize Industrial Outlook Across New Brunswick—Patterson

FREDERICTON (CP) — Provincial Secretary-Treasurer Donald D. Patterson told the New Brunswick legislature that the province's industrial outlook would be "virtually revolutionized" by a $40,000,000 hydro project on the St. John river at Beechwood. Work on the scheme will start this summer.

"The one big bottleneck to industrial expansion in New Brunswick—a supply of power—has been squarely faced and the decision made," he said.

The Beechwood project, 75 miles northeast of Fredericton, is only one phase of long range plans for development of St. John river power. As the over-all program requires storage of the 450-mile river waters in Maine and Quebec, it has been under study by the International Joint commission since 1950. Beechwood, however, is feasible without storage facilities farther upriver.

NO FEDERAL AID

Hon. Edgar Fournier, chairman of the New Brunswick electric power commission, said the commission will go ahead with the project despite refusal of federal aid. The federal government decided it would not be "right or proper. . . to provide funds by loan or otherwise for the development of provincial natural resources" along the lines suggested.

"We are not going to give up, as this is not a political scheme," Mr. Fournier said. "This is for the future of New Brunswick. . . and federal assistance must be obtained."

The N.B. power commission's present capacity is 137,000 horsepower and initial proposed development for Beechwood is 90,000.

With full storage development in Maine, Quebec and New Brunswick 376,400 horsepower is considered the potential of the St. John river between Grand Falls, N.B., and Fredericton. The available head of power along this stretch is estimated at 287 feet, or as high as a 28-storey building and almost twice the height of Niagara. Other hydro-electric possibilities in the province might add an additional 160,000 horsepower.

BIG SAVING

Engineers estimate Beechwood could be developed to yield 135,000 horsepower. Dr. H. J. Rowley, chairman of the New Brunswick resources development board and a power commission member, has said the project would save $1,000,000 annually over cost of the same power from steam plants.

Beechwood power should mean some reduction in New Brunswick rates, which are "about the highest" in Canada, the provincial secretary-treasurer told the legislature.

He said one large New Brunswick manufacturer had estimated his power costs for the past year at 2.69 cents per kilowatt hour, as compared with 1.26 for his biggest competitor in another province.

Full hydro development of the St. John, including its United States side, has been estimated at $225,000,000.

Reds To Try West German Refugee On Spying Charges For U.S.

BERLIN (Reuters) — The Communist East German news agency ADN said today that Wolfgang Silgradt, a West German refugee official, has been arrested on charges of spying for the United States and will soon be tried by an East German court.

West Berlin police announced last week that Silgradt had disappeared "in mysterious circumstances" and may have been kidnapped. Two days after he disappeared, two fake "detectives" showed up at his west Berlin home and forced open his desk.

Silgradt worked for the League of Human Rights, a West Berlin anti-Communist organization.

The announcement followed by just one day the disclosure of Guenther Weissman that a special West Berlin police "anti-kidnapping section" he heads is protecting 1,000 persons it believes in danger of abduction by the Communists.

Viet Nam Leader Says Ho Losing GroundIn Indo-China

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Ho Chi Minh, Indo-China rebel leader, has no real following in Viet Nam, said a Viet Namese leader. Ho is losing ground politically in Viet Nam, said a French officer. Ho would win three-quarters of the vote in Viet Nam were there an election tomorrow, said an American observer.

All three are more right than wrong. Ho's power was forced on the people in the areas he controls. Many people in the Vietminh areas have been disillusioned by what he has done to them with his power. In an election, Communist terror in Red areas would frighten voters away from the polls. In other regions a combination of nationalism, hatred of the French and the appeal of Ho's propaganda probably would be decisive.

LITTLE UNITY EVIDENT

The Viet Nam side has only the appearance of unity, at best. There is even a feeling of rivalry and resentment between south and north. The south is a surplus area, the north a deficit one. The southerners, who pay most of the taxes, are unwilling to accept the appearance of domination by the harder-working northern people.

That is only part of the story. Viet Nam has a number of political parties, but all seem to be made up only of leaders without members to speak of. One of the firmest unifying influences probably is the Roman Catholic Church, but it has only 2,000,000 members.

Religious sects operate their own armed forces. Only about a week ago, some of these para-military organizations announced willingness to place themselves under the national army. It probably took some persuasion, and there are no firm prospects of success for the venture in view of the weakness of the Viet Nam government.

CAO DAI SECT LARGEST

The oldest and the strongest of the armed sects is the Cao Dai, which actually is an attempt to embrace all religions. Basically, there was no real religion in the past in Viet Nam except ancestor worship. The Cao Dai has saints from many religions and from outside the religious field. Victor Hugo, for example, is a Cao Dai saint.

The Cao Dai has had physical control over a large area of south Viet Nam, Its armed force numbers about 20,000, with authority over about 2,000,000 persons, like a state within a state. The Cao Dai, a member of the so-called anti-Communist block, has opposed the government in the past and has resisted having its forces taken into the national army. Armed by the French, the Cao Daists are fairly well equipped.

Another sect, the Bunh Xuyen, has about 6,000 troops, also armed by the French and led by Gen. le van Bien, known as a gambling czar. This organization has control of the area from Saigon to the sea at Cap St. Jacques. It has gambling privileges to finance itself and it is also rumored that it exacts tribute from Chinese merchants in Cholon, a city of 875,000. Choon is composed 90 per cent of Chinese who are not considered a political factor.

The Hoa Hao sect has about 6,000 troops, organized militarily on similar lines to the Cao Dai but far less influential.

There seems to be no single leader who can rally the whole country, no single ideal, no single rallying point at all. Possibly the only unanimity might be hatred of the Chinese, who dominated the country for a thousand years and whose troops pillaged after the Japanese left following the Second World War. But the ordinary peasants remain unaware that victory for Ho would mean victory for the Chinese, too.

Against all this, Ho has a right organization of disciplined Communists, organized down to the village commissar level.

Ho divided the country into military districts with Communists in control of each district. The army is organized on the approved Communist line with a political commissar wielding unquestioned power over military officers.

Builders Told Canada, U.S. Very Different

MONTREAL (CP) — A group of West Germany's top building contractors arrived here Wednesday from Toronto on a survey of United States and Canadian building methods and were promptly warned by their consul not to confuse Canada with the United States.

"Don't mistake Canadians for Americans," Dr. Adolph Reifferscheidt, West German consul general in Montreal, told them. "During the short time I have been in Montreal I have seen Canadians become progressively more different from their neighbors across the border."

"We used to say in Germany that Europe represented the present and the U.S. the future. The truth now is that U.S. represents the present, Canada the future."

German business men visiting this continent should always keep that in mind and make a beeline for Canada.

Load of Hay Burned

STRATFORD (CP) — A trailer loaded with hay caught fire on Highway 7 east of here Wednesday and held up traffic for half an hour. The trailer was destroyed and damage was estimated at $6,000. Firemen blamed a carelessly-tossed cigaret.

Holstein Club's Dinner

Big Men Needed To Live In Today's Small World

It is a small world today and it takes a big man to live successfully in it. In Canada a big person is one who loves and believes in Canada and one who knows something about Canada.

These were the opening remarks of the Rev. Dr. Richard D. Jones of Toronto, guest speaker at the 15th annual banquet of the Peterborough County Holstein Club at Club Aragon Wednesday night.

Mr. Jones, an American by birth, spoke in glowing terms of the future of Canada. He said that no other country had more to offer to the world. It was fast being recognized as a leading power.

It was necessary for its leaders to be big men, to believe in their fellow-men and to be willing to recognize the brotherhood of man under the will of God, he said. The spirit of fair play, which should enter into every judgment, should come from their hearts.

"Don't judge a person by the political party or religious group to which he belongs," said Mr. Jones. "Judge people as individuals. It is not a man's religion or his political view that makes him a good Canadian. It depends on whether he is willing to play his part in the community and to shoulder his share of responsibility."

Then it was most necessary to have a belief in God. Mr. Jones considered Canada's leaders today were men who believed in God. He had also found that men from the land seemed more ready to accept the Supreme Being, probably because they were working close to nature and could see the wonders worked for man's benefit.

CLUB FILLED

The Aragon Club was filled to capacity for the annual banquet. Included among the official guests were the Hon. Harold Scott and Mrs. Scott, G. K. Fraser, MP, and Mrs. Fraser and Ald. Pat Anglesey and Mrs. Anglesey, representing Mayor Graham.

The presentation of the Calf Club award was made to Allan Bolton by Ken Best.

The Premier Breeder's Banner was accepted by Peter McConkey on behalf of his father Norman McConkey of Peterborough. Two red seal production certificates were presented to Stuart Nelson of Keene, two blue seal certificates to George Craft of Peterborough and one blue seal certificate to the Elmhirst Bros. of Birdsall.

The presentations were made by G. E. Nelson, fieldman, who congratulated the winners on their success.

The official banquet concluded with a short community sing-song, which was followed by dancing later in the evening.

Dinner music was played by James Doris at the piano.

To Remodel Carrier

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—The U. S. S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, 45,000-ton aircraft carrier from which the first jet aircraft were launched in United States Navy history, will be decommissioned Wednesday for remodelling to handle faster and heavier jet planes. The big carrier will be laid up two years at the Puget Sound naval shipyard for a modernization job costing $40,000,000—40 per cent of the original cost of the vessel.

Gets Revenge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Virginia Ruby Conway, 21, was sentenced Wednesday to jail for a year for knocking down her actor husband, Thomas, 23, with the family auto. She said she rammed her husband with their car last Oct. 29 because "I just wanted to punish him for beating me up."

Band Leader In Accident

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Band leader Paul Whiteman was involved in a two-car collision here Wednesday but escaped without injury although his car was severely damaged. Police said Whiteman complained of a pained knee, but declined medical treatment.

WELLAND (CP)—Melvin Swart, deputy of Thorold township, resigned as chairman of the conservation committee of Welland county council Wednesday after the council defeated a restrictive tree-cutting by-law.

Fireman Hurt

HAMILTON (CP)—One fireman was injured Wednesday in a two-alarm fire at the Canadian Grinding Wheel Company here. Lieut. Wilfred Moore suffered undetermined injuries. Cause of the fire was not known.

Breathing Restored

KITCHENER (CP) — Donald Kraft, 31, applied artificial respiration successfully to revive Henry Heil, 47, Wednesday after Heil had been found unconscious from leaking gas in his basement.

OTTAWA (CP)—French teachers of Ontario have adopted a new salary schedule which they hope to submit to separate school boards in the province before next fall.

The new scale was drawn up here Wednesday by executives of the Ontario French Teachers' Association and the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association. It was adopted earlier by the general membership of the French group. The proposal now goes before the general membership of the English-speaking body meeting in Toronto.

The new scale calls for minimum salaries of $2,000 a year with an additional $200 for each 12-month period of service to a maximum of $4,600 annually. Proposed rates for specialists and principals also were set up.

Easter Finery In Evidence At P-TA Tea

A delightful Easter Tea, with Easter finery much in evidence, was held Wednesday afternoon by the Parent-Teacher Association of St. John the Baptist parish. It proved the most successful, both socially and financially, yet held by this young organization.

The school auditorium being now partitioned, made it possible to have a bazaar room and separate tea room, but neither were quite big enough for the crowd that came out on this pleasantly warm spring day.

Blossoming branches were the appropriate decorations which first caught the guest's eye as she entered and was welcomed to the tea by Mrs. Wm. Larocque, president of the association, and by the vice-president's wife, Mrs. Charles Boulter.

Tea convener Mrs. George Masters acted as a hostess, finding seats for everyone as quickly as possible. The tea room conveners Mrs. J. Hodgson and Mrs. Ed. Curtin were busy serving, assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Gordon, Mrs. Reg. Leether, Mrs. Fergus O'Connor and Mrs. Bernard Monaghan.

The tea table was laid with a lace cloth and centred with an attractive arrangement of pink and white carnations and daffodils with maidenhair fern. Yellow and green candles were in silver candalabrae.

Tea pourers were representatives of the other Parent-Teacher Associations in the city with Mrs. Neil Collins representing the Diocesan Council of which her husband is president. Mrs. B. Holland was from St. Frances de Sales, Mrs. Fred Whaley from Sacred Heart, Mrs. Max Glover from St. Peter's, Mrs. Gord. Burns from St. Anne's and Mrs. M. Armitage from Immaculate Conception.

Floral centrepieces for the quartette tables and posters in the tea room were made by the school children and the ladies collaborated on the other decorations.

The bake table was in charge of Mrs. Vince Anglesey and Mrs. Reg. Mongraw and aprons were for sale by Mrs. Ed. Woodhouse and Mrs. Doug Simmons.

Mrs. Alf. Daniels, convener of the tea tickets, was at the treasurer's table.

A prize of $50 was offered, with tickets being sold throughout the parish in past weeks. The Rev. Gerald Sullivan of Sacred Heart staff, who came in for a cup of tea about five o'clock, was asked to make the draw and he selected the ticket purchased by young Michael Hodgson whose mother was one of the tea room conveners

Oppenheimer, Highest Of Highbrows Directed A-Bomb, Now Denied Secrets

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—In a time when one bomb can blow up a city, the wheel of fear and suspicion now has come the full cycle for Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer.

He directed the making of the first atomic bomb. And now he himself is under a cloud of distrust.

He had much to do with prying loose the secrets of the atom. And now he himself is denied access to those secrets.

Until recently, he had a desk in the president's executive offices, just across the street from the White House, as an adviser to the atomic policy-makers. And now, it is disclosed, President Eisenhower has directed that a "blank wall be placed between Dr. Oppenheimer and any secret data."

The overwhelming irony that the "father of the atomic bomb" has been suspended by the atomic energy commission pending a security hearing caps many ironies in the life and personality of Dr. Oppenheimer.

He spent many of his 50 years indifferent to the realities of the every-day world in order to pursue the esoteric abstractions of science and philosophy. Yet suddenly, in one blinding flash on the sands of New Mexico on July 16, 1945, he was confronted with the world's monstrous reality and one which he had helped create—the atomic bomb.

He was a party to some of his country's most prized secrets and yet now he must prove that certain facts in his personal life do not cast a shadow on his loyalty. He once courted and almost married a Communist. He later did marry a woman who, he says, had been a Communist briefly. His brother and sister-in-law also were Communists for a time, he says, but left the party out of disillusionment.

Until 1936, according to his own self-portrait, he lived the life of a cloistered scientist, being generally indifferent to politics and world affairs.

As a boy, his own precociousness and hunger for knowledge drove him into many lonely corners. As a man, this same brilliance and curiosity led him into the loneliness of terrible responsibility.

ATOMIC BURDEN

This strain of responsibility has been noted often by people who talked with the tall, thin, chain-smoking scientist. His crew-cropped hair accentuates a gentle, sensitive face which interviewers often found clouded by a concern for the world in the atomic age.

After the first A-bomb was exploded, he said "Men of our time will never have a sense of security."

But while he was a "little scared" of what the atomic scientists had achieved he also felt that "a scientist cannot hold back progress because of fears of what the world will do with his discoveries."

J. Robert Oppenheimer was born in New York City, the son of a German immigrant who became a successful textile importer. The family lived in comfortable financial circumstances and "Oppie" evidently was well sheltered.

His interest in science began with a little box of minerals given him by his grandfather. He became quite a rock collector, being elected at 11 to membership in the New York Mineralogical Society. The second youngest member was in his 60s.

A shy, bookish youngster who learned quickly, Oppenheimer knew four languages by the time he left Manhattan's Ethical Culture School, which was dominated by children of unusual intelligence. (He now can speak eight languages including Sanskrit.)

He entered Harvard University in 1922 and completed a four-year course in three years, graduating with highest honors. According to one Harvard legend, "Oppie" once told a fellow student:

"I was so hot today the only thing I could do all afternoon was lie on my bed and read Jeans' 'Dynamical Theory of Gases.'"

After Harvard, he studied abroad at Cambridge and Goettingen Universities. In 1929, he joined the faculties of California Institute of Technology and the University of California. It was here that he ultimately became responsible, as a fellow scientist said recently, "for the training of as much as half of our most brilliant theoretical physicists."

For several years in California, he continued to live in a narrow, academic world. Of this period, he said in his recent letter to the atomic energy commission:

"To many of my friends, my indifference to contemporary affairs seemed bizarre, and they often chided me with being too much of a highbrow. I was interested in man and his experience; I was deeply interested in my science; but I had no understanding of the relations of man to his society."

But by 1936, he says, he was shaken loose from this private little world.

"I had had a continuing, smoking fury about the treatment of Jews in Germany," he wrote in his letter..

"I saw what the depression was doing to my students. Often they could get no jobs, or jobs which were wholly inadequate. I began to understand how deeply political and economic events could affect men's lives. I began to feel the need to participate more fully in the life of the community. But I had no framework of political conviction or experience to give me perspective in these matters."

Coincidentally, he began to make left-wing friends. He courted and twice became engaged to Jean Tatlock, daughter of an English professor. Miss Tatlock, who died in 1944, was a Communist party member at various times, Oppenheimer said, but the party "never seemed to provide for her what she was seeking."

PARTNER FORMER RED

In 1940, Oppenheimer married Katherine Harrison, a biologist, who, he said, had been a Communist party member for "a year or two" during a brief, previous marriage. When he married her, Oppenheimer said, she was not engaged in any politics and had a "certain disappointment and contempt that the Communist party was not in fact what she had once thought it was."

His own views about Russia and Communism, he said, changed radically as a result of the Soviet purge trials, the Nazi-Soviet pact and the Russian invasion of Finland and Poland.

"I never was a member of the Communist party," the scientist wrote in his letter to the atomic energy commission. "I never accepted Communist dogma or theory; in fact, it never made sense to me."

By the time he moved to Los Alamos to head the atomic work there, he said, "my participation in left-wing organizations and my association with left-wing circles had ceased and were never to be re-established."

EAGER FOR PURE SCIENCE

With the end of the war, Oppenheimer was eager to return to pure science. He said the progress made during the war was not science at all.

"The real things were learned in 1890 and 1905 and 1920 . . . and we took this tree with a lot of ripe fruit on it and shook it hard and out came radar and atomic bombs," he said.

After a brief return to the California universities, Oppenheimer accepted in 1947 the directorship of the Institute for Advance Studies at Princeton, N.J.

TREE IN THE HOUSE IS "PEACHY"—A living peach tree is a feature of the J. G. Harris home in Memphis, Tenn. The tree grows through the bedroom and pokes its branches out through the roof. Harris didn't want to part with the tree when he started an addition to his house, so he built the room around the tree.

Canuck Cowboy Hopes To Rock British Theatre

By RON EVANS
Canadian PRESS Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A French-speaking Canadian cowboy with a pipe-smoking horse is getting ready to blast his way into Britain's entertainment world.

Walter Siedlak, 35-year-old self-styled "Canadian King of Cowboys," from Montreal's Rosemount district, hopes to rock the staid British theatre with his blazing pistol, his Spanish guitar and his wonder horse, Thunder.

"I'm going to show them something they've never seen before—horse tricks without a whip, trick shooting and real western music," the ex-television salesman and real estate agent said.

WESTERN TROUPE

In Britain to line up bookings, Siedlak will go to Canada soon, returning in May with his six-man western company which includes his wife, Theresa Drouin of Saskatoon, and three guitar strummers known repetitively as Cowboy George, Cowboy Jack and Cowboy Joe.

Next time Siedlak hits London he expects to be known as Sid Walters. Theatrical agents persuaded him his real name hardly fits a sharp-shooting cowboy.

Born on his parents' ranch near Saskatoon, Siedlak early learned the arts of horse-breaking and training. At 20, he was something of an expert.

He had 10 years' experience when he tackled the wild, chestnut gelding that became Thunder, the wonder horse.

"The first time I got on him—I always break horses bareback—he reared up once and came down," Siedlak recalled. "Then he reared up again and went over backwards and landed on my leg."

SCARS OF TRADE

The leg remained intact, but both the tall performer's legs, from knees to ankles, are covered with scar tissue left by other unruly mounts.

Soon Siedlak had taught Thunder some 50 tricks, ranging from knee-walking to bowing, nodding and pipe-smoking.

Five years ago the dark-haired westerner moved east with his horse and broke into Montreal show business.

Later he added sharpshooting and music to his horseback routine. He found it more difficult to become a musician than a marksman.

"I practised it for two years. It's hard to get the right western accent."

In his act, Siedlak shoots chalk sticks from his wife's mouth, fingers and head dress at a range of 20 feet. She too is an accomplished marksman but Siedlak said he does not think he'll let his wife take over the shooting.

"I know the risk," he explained.

Amersham Now Producing Major Share Of World's Supply Of Radio-Isotopes

By RON EVANS

AMERSHAM, England (CP)—Geiger counters are a common as wrist watches inside a cluster of low buildings on the edge of this quiet Buckinghamshire village.

Here, in the £500,000 British government radiochemical centre, the major share of the world's supply of radio-isotopes is produced for use in science, medicine and industry.

Last year the centre, set in a guarded park-like plot 25 miles northwest of London, sent £114,000 worth of radio-active materials to 36 countries, including Canada, and officials hope to reach the £300,000 mark in 1954. Production has tripled in the last three years.

Demand for these wonder solutions is fast increasing as more and more jobs are found for them. One United States firm estimates it has saved almost $1,000,000 by using radio-isotopes to investigate piston wear and a British firm reported it saved some £20,000 through similar use.

Four new buildings have gone up in the last six months and four more are to be added at a total cost of about £20,000.

"We're finally getting out of the beaker-and-flask stage," said one scientist.

The centre draws its raw materials from the atomic energy plant at Harwell, one of Britain's three atomic factories. By-products from the Harwell atomic pile are brought 40 miles by truck in heavy lead tanks and loaded—still in protective brass, glass and aluminum containers—into production units with four-inch lead and 18-inch concrete walls.

Technicians, watching through six-inch glass panels, handle the materials with long tongs. The bare, spotless rooms buzz continuously with the drone of geiger counters.

PHOTOGRAPH RAIN ECHOES

Precautions against contamination have been carefully organized at the centre. The 150 workers and all visitors are issued small badge-like devices, about the size of a cigaret lighter, which detect and signal danger from radiation. A color code is used to indicate restricted areas, all technicians working with radio-active materials carrying red stripes on their white smocks.

Most of the centre's 75 scientists and technicians are young men in their late 20s and early 30s. They live with their families in two nearby housing estates.

The centre's most important single isotope is radio-active Carbon 14, processed from aluminum nitride. Dr. J. R. Catch, head of the centre's organic group, has worked for the last five years on carbon compounds and has perfected about 100 varieties.

Prices of a few drops of Carbon 14 solutions range from £12 to £350.

3 Girls Tame Pair Of Cougars

VICTORIA (CP)—Three young daughters of trapper August Schnarr have succeeded in taming and making pets of two cougars on lonely Sonora island off the British Columbia coast.

Schnarr brought the kittens home in 1944 after shooting the mother cougar. At first Marion, 13, Pearl, 14, and Pansy, 16, fed the animals from an ordinary bottle.

Until the kittens were three months old they ran about and slept in the house. Then they had to be chained in the open where comfortable houses were built for them.

When the girls for any reason have not been near the animals for any length of time, the enormous cats whimper and are uneasy. They greet the girls by rubbing their heads against them and purring loudly.

Once one of them got loose and advanced, drooling, on a pig, but Marion coolly grabbed the dragging chain and smacked the cougar across the nose. That ended that.

WALLACEBURG (CP) — A search by foot, boat and plane Tuesday failed to find a trace of four Indians last seen Saturday in a boat in the St. Clair river. New York Car Insuranse Bill Defeated

By ARTHUR MERIMS

NEW YORK (AP)—The most controversial automobile insurance bill in decades was defeated by the New York State legislature last month after a bitter political wrangle. It would have forced drivers to buy liability insurance or prove their financial ability to meet an accident claim of up to $20,000.

Political leaders, led by Governor Thomas Dewey and the superintendent of insurance, Alfred J. Bohlinger, pressed vigorously for the measure. The insurance industry, especially the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, fought the bill.

Seven states—California, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Maryland, Minnesota, Kentucky and Texas—have similar measures in preparation.

On one thing insurance executives and most politicians agree—agitation for compulsory automobile insurance is not dead, in New York or any of the states. As one reason, they point to 38,300 killed and 1,350,000 injured on U.S. highways last year and property damage approaching $4,000,000,000.

BLAME MASSACHUSETTS LAW

Casual observers wondered why the insurance industry opposed a bill that apparently would mean more business for them. But it had varied reasons, most of them based on the operation of a compulsory auto insurance law in Massachusetts.

In Massachusetts, all auto liability policies expire on the same date. And this date comes close to election time. So that, more often than not, insurance rates become a political issue.

Frank J. Harrington, executive vice-president, National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents, was for 13 years commissioner of insurance for Massachusetts. "During the time I fixed compulsory rates in Massachusetts I was subject to the most intense political pressures, as were my predecessors, and my successors have been," he said.

Insurance brokers also opposed the bill because they feared it would lead to the cutting of their selling commissions (currently 17½ to 25 per cent) to 10 per cent, which prevails generally in Massachusetts.

Speaking in favor of the New York bill, Governor Dewey said: "Insurance will not prevent automobile accidents but the broken homes, the impoverished, the widows and the orphaned children can at least have a chance in life if insurance is carried. This bill will some day become law because it is right, it is sound, and the people want it."

The New York bill would have required owners of all autos to prove their ability to pay personal damage claims of up to $20,000 and property damage claims of up to $5,000 before they obtain licence plates.

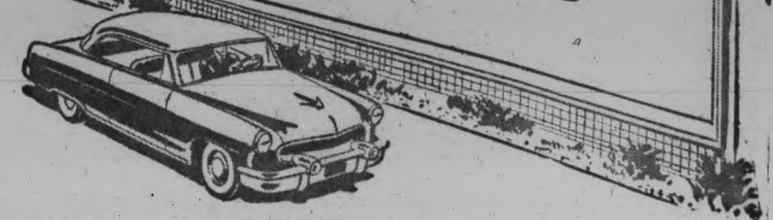
The bill would also have barred insurance companies from cancelling a liability policy except on 30 days' notice to the motor vehicle bureau as well as to the insured.

J. Dewey Dorsett, general manager, Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, said such laws do not protect victims from hit-and-run drivers, out-of-state cars, stolen cars and other law violators.

HAD COMPANION BILL

N. Y. politicians tried to meet this latter assertion with a companion bill, the "assigned case plan." This would require insurance companies to compensate innocent victims of any uninsured driver. The cost would be charged off as business expense and passed on eventually to insured drivers in the form of higher premiums.

The American Automobile Association, representing more than 4,500,000 drivers, is on record as opposed to compulsory insurance and in favor of the "safety-responsibility law." This law was originated in New York State in 1942, then copied in 43 other states. It makes insurance mandatory only after a driver has been involved in an accident.



Compulsory auto insurance has a long history in several countries. In Canada, Saskatchewan and British Columbia have it. Denmark's law goes back to 1919, Sweden to 1929 and Norway shortly thereafter. Switzerland passed such a bill in 1932 and in Great Britain the Road Traffic Act of 1930 required motorists to buy liability insurance.

Highway Safety Committee Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on highway safety will hold its first meeting next Monday, it was announced Wednesday night.

The committee was appointed to study all aspects of highway safety, including accident prevention, public information and traffic control.

Ottawa, March 31—(CP)—The Bank of Montreal made history in the last few days. It was the first chartered bank to make a loan under the Government's new housing legislation.

The bank's loan, involving some $900,000, went to commercial builders which plan to erect some 84 houses in the Point Claire area on the west side of Montreal island.

The builders applied for the loan last week and Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. approved the loan three days after it was filed with

First Bank Housing Loan For Pointe Claire Project

$900,000 Loan Goes to Builders Here Under New Federal Housing Legislation

First housing loan to be made by a chartered bank in Canada is to be devoted to the erection of 84 homes in the Pointe Claire district, to be built in three sections, it was announced today.

The chartered bank involved is the Bank of Montreal, which has made a loan of some $900,000 under the terms of the Federal Government's new legislation.

Builders are Sunny View Development, Inc., of which the president is K. M. Lawee; and the architect is Y. Meer, of New York.

The builders applied for the loan last week shortly after the new legislation had been proclaimed permitting banks to enter the mortgage-lending field for the first time. Local real estate brokers disclosed some weeks ago that widespread interest was being shown in the legislation by American interests.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation approved the loan three days after it was filed with the bank.

Ferrer Sings, Dances In New Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jose Ferrer, to whom nothing seems to be impossible, now is doing songs and dances in movies.

The multi-talented Puerto Rican is embarking on the life of Sigmund Romberg in the MGM film biography "Deep in my Heart." While portraying the late composer of "middle-brow" music, Ferrer will have a chance to display his singing and dancing for the first time professionally.

He has one number in which he acts out all the roles in a musical. It last seven minutes, and Ferrer has been trying it out at Hollywood parties.

"I did it at Cole Porter's last night," he remarked. "All they have to do is ask me, sometimes even that isn't necessary. By doing the number privately, I can see what parts are good and what needs trimming. It's just like a try-out in the legitimate theatre."

The casting of Ferrer as Romberg was a puzzler to many people, and the actor himself admits there is little resemblance.

STORY OF HAPPINESS

"I never knew Romberg," Ferrer remarked, "but people tell me he and I are not at all alike. What we are trying to capture is the spirit of his life, and I think the script has done that admirably.

"There couldn't be any conflict in the story, since Romberg was apparently a success from the start. Primarily, it is the story of a happy man. The script covers a span of 20 or 30 years, and it shows how he progressed from being a song writer to composer. The climax of the picture will show him at Carnegie Hall conducting a concert of his works, which by then had achieved greatness."

Ferrer will not remain idle after his song and dance stint. He hustles over to Universal-International to make his debut as a film director. He'll direct himself in his stage hit, "The Shrike."

LOOK-AL (IKE)—It may be confusing, but this gentleman looks like President Eisenhower and his name is John J. McCarthy. A patient at a Hartford, Conn., hospital, he holds a picture of Ike to prove it. McCarthy claims he's an independent voter and that no one ever told him he looked like Ike until he was hospitalized.

Oxygen Depletion Kills Hundreds Of Fish

OTTAWA (CP) — Hundreds of fish turned up dead on the shores of suburban McKay Lake Wednesday, apparently the victims of a "winter kill"—depletion of oxygen content in the water, said Norman Patrick, of Kemptville, district biologist for the provincial lands and forests department.

He explained that winter kills of fish are quite common in some small lakes. They are caused by the decomposition and stagnation of vegetation in the lake, resulting in a depletion of oxygen in the ice-covered water.

When the winter is long and ice does not break up early, no fresh air ca nreach the water and replenish the oxygen supply.

Agree On Price Of $30 Ton For Tomatoes

HAMILTON (CP)—Growers and processors agreed on a basic price of $30 a ton for tomatoes in Toronto Wednesday after previous recommendations of the Ontario vegetable growers' marketing board, it was learned here.

The agreement is for a $13 price spread between No. 1 and No. 2 grades. The quota limitation during a 10-day consecutive period of peak production was set at 85 bushels per acre.

Last year the quota limitation was 65 bushels per acre per week, during a two-week period of peak production. The minimum price of $30 is $3 lower than last year.

Price for No. 1 tomatoes will be $36.50 a ton, as compared with $38 a ton in 1953, and No. 2's $23.50 as compared with $28 a year ago.

OTHER PROVISIONS

Other provisions in the 1953 agreement: closing date fixed at Oct. 5, and processors can only close before Oct. 5 if 90 per cent of processors, growers, have served notice their crop is harvested, or if 90 per cent of a company's growers have failed to make any deliveries during a seven-day period after Sept. 15.

Frank Parry, Chatham, chairman of the growers' negotiating committee, termed concessions gained in this year's agreement "a big step forward."

RUSHING RIVER

Including Niagara falls, the Niagara river drops 326 feet in 36 miles from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario.

Shower Of Missiles Damages Windshields

WINDSOR (CP)—The owner of a Windsor used car lot reported a shower of tiny missiles marked the windshields of between 30 and 40 cars during a short space of time Wednesday night.

Salesmen at the lot noticed a burning or stinging sensation on their arms and other exposed parts of the body, and had to take shelter. One late-model car had a 15-inch windshield crack. Others had gouges like those made with a BB gun.

One of the missiles was found Tuesday imbedded in a car windshield. It was about the same size and consistency as the broken end of a lead pencil.

Damage on the lot was estimated at $2,000.

Will Be Tried On Bribery Charge

TORONTO (CP)—David Tusher, 67, and his brother-in-law, Alex Borstein, were committed for trial Wednesday on charges of attempting to bribe a witness not to testify against them in another case.

The two, who operate an egg melange factory, are charged with selling food unfit for human consumption.

Victor Moray testified that he was offered $2,500 if he would change his testimony against them in the food case or just disappear. He said he had been employed at the factory of the accused for four days when it was raided and he was instructed to appear as a witness.

Tusher was allowed bail of $3,000 and Borstein's bail was set at $1,000. Maximum penalty for bribery is two years and a fine.

89-Year-Old Nugent Sign Comes Down As F. Greatrix Retires From Drug Store

By HARRY THEOBALD

An old intangible asset of business in the name of "The Nugent Druz Co." is about to be rubbed off the window at 386 George St.

When Frank Greatrix retires on April 30 the lease of the store in which he has been proprietor druggist 29 years, a lingering memory of John Nugent, dead since 1933, will go with him.

Months ago, Mr. Greatrix made his decision to quit the premises, and in recent weeks the emptying shelves, without benefit of re-stocking, have been lengthening their blank look of vacancy. At the end of April will be the last of the druggists who hived about the corner of George and Hunter streets. Most of them are remembered by elders of the city; a few are perhaps mentioned only in forgotten advertisements of The Examiner.

Some of these names are: J. D. Tully, William Madill, Hugh S. Macdonald, James Lynch, George Schofield, John McKee, John Nugent, H. H. Edmison, and others. Since their day, druggists have moved off to other locations, following the eventual crossing of Charlotte St. by C.D.S. (The T. Eaton Co.).

BIGGEST MORTAR

In his preparations for leaving, Mr. Greatrix has come upon discarded and almost forgotten pieces of production equipment of the Nugent occupation. One of them is a mortar and pestle, chiefly for the making of powders. It has been a utensil and symbol of pharmacy from its beginnings. Referring to the size of the Nugent mortar, Mr. Greatrix thinks it is about the biggest in the country. There may be other survivors of its capacity, but in his opinion they can't be many.

Another simple handmade contrivance was used in turning out pills. It consists of a fluted piece of metal set on a board a foot or so long and six inches wide. Hand pressure was applied by means of a roller passing over the channels, presumably giving the pills shape and compactness.

In respect for the memory and methods of the druggists of 50 and 75 years ago, Mr. Greatrix intends to keep at least several of those relics. For the mixture of tinctures, for instance, an old appliance resembles a machine of the meat trade for filling sausages. The ingredients were compounded in its iron chamber, about seven inches in diameter, and were finally squeezed through an opening at the bottom by pressure of a screw device at the top. That is one piece not to be thrown out as junk.

Thirty-four years on George St., five with the Warne Drug Co., and A. G. Harris, recommend a Greatrix story, but the name of John Nugent, enduring on the plate glass at No. 386, kindles interest in his earlier career.

NUGENT STORY

According to Examiner records, John Nugent was born in 1849 in Ops township, Victoria county, son of a family still numerously represented in Lindsay and its district. His father, Thomas Nugent, was the first governor of the Peterborough-Victoria counties jail.

Mr. Nugent served an apprenticeship with the Lindsay firm of druggists, Coulter and Chambers, studied for a pharmacy degree, and was in business about seven years at Fenelon Falls.

Friends expressed gloomy predictions about his removal to Peterborough. They said he would be the fifth druggist here, that the field was already overcrowded and he was better off where he was establishing himself at Fenelon Falls. One old news source suggests that he arrived here in 1881, but his first prescription to which Mr. Greatrix pointed in a faded and bulky scrapbook of prescriptions is of the date of 1885, probably the more authentic.

At any rate, John Nugent rented the store at 170 Hunter St., "two doors west of Kingan Hardware at the corner of Hunter and Chambers St." Its owner was the father of the late James Lynch, an enterprising tailor who incidentally appreciated the value of property.

Events seem to intimate that the elder Lynch thought well of pharmacy, and probably proposed his son to Mr. Nugent to enter the profession with him. James Lynch became a successful druggist, widely known elsewhere in the province. The business he founded is carried on today by his son, John Lynch.

FIRST IN 1885

Mr. Nugent prepared his No. 1 prescription for Ben Cooney in 1885 on an order from a Dr. Clarke of Cobourg. It was for relief "of a troublesome cough," and was composed of benzoin, camphor, myrrh and capsicum. On the same first page is a prescription for Rev. Isaac Tovell of George St. Methodist Church. Others, to mention an early few, were for Peter Campbell, afterwards manager of the Bank of Toronto; a remedy by Dr. J. F. O'Shea for T. E. Flaherty, "gentleman tailor"; others for Mrs. Carnegie, Mr. Flavelle, M. H. Halpin, D. H. Hickey, Jennie Sarginson; another for Ben Cooney, for irritation of the kidneys, prepared by John Nugent, "druggist and apothecary." The names of hundreds of Peterborough people appear in further pages of the record of prescriptions.

One was referred to Mr. Nugent by John McKee, druggist, successor to C. W. Kempt, and written by Dr. R. W. Bell; another by G. W. Morgan, manufacturing chemist and dispensing druggist; another by Apothecaries Hall, Mitchell and Watson, Port Hope. The names of many druggists are listed, and also of doctors, most of them in Peterborough, Dr. J. T. I. Halliday, one of the outstanding physicians and citizens, whose home was on Water St., opposite Victoria Park; Dr. J. O'Sullivan, who lived in the big house occupied by the Kaye funeral home.

In the first pages is also the name of J. R. McCrea, druggist on Hunter St.

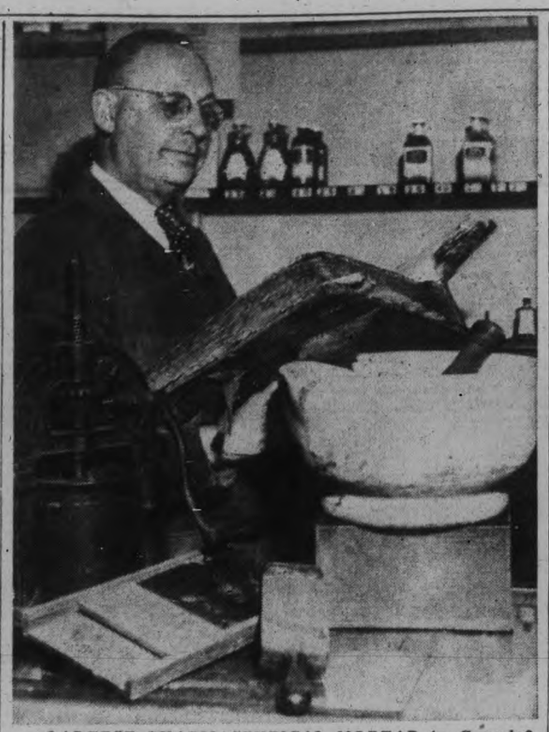
Mr. Nugent apparently left Hunter St. in 1894 for No. 389 George St., probably included in the new Metropolitan Store building, but by 1910 he had moved across George St. to No. 386. A. W. Cressman was flourishing in dry goods in that big premises on the west side of the street, wanted more space, and it is believed that he paid Mr. Nugent a premium to let him have it.

OF OLD SCHOOL

John Nugent was a druggist of the old school, a tall, dignified, friendly man of good humor who won the confidence of the public, and was consulted about ailments of customers and the preparations which he had registered at Ottawa in his own name. One of them is a winter balm for chapped lips, hands and so on, another was cherry pectoral for coughs, others for stomach and liver conditions. The last of them are remnants of the Nugent days on the thinning shelves of Frank Greatrix. Possibly Mr. Nugent took some of the recipes from the British pharmacopoeia, an authoritative publication. When he retired in 1917, the Nugent name was unchanged on the front window during the seven years when the business was in the hands of the late Alfred J. Johnston, a business man as highly respected as was Mr. Nugent. When Mr. Greatrix acquired the business in 1925, he made no change in the Nugent connection and tradition.

By that time, however, the drug trade had expanded at its production sources, and properietary lines had found their way into grocery and novelty stores. Pharmacists were filling prescriptions in the medical clinics. For nearly 35 years, John Nugent had been a striking personality on main street, at a time when retail business was largely owned and directed by the men who were individualists and independent. There were many of that quality, but Mr. Nugent is mentioned now because the asset of goodwill was an actual value associated with his store and his pharmaceuticals when he sold it to Alfred Johnston. His preparations had retained with customers of his own day an element of value of his generating, and now they will probably disappear. Mr. Greatrix remarked the other day that plans he was contemplating for the future were not yet settled, but it may be that the name of Nugent will at length be erased from the old place of business.

OTHER DRUGGISTS



Locations of druggists in the vicinity of the Hunter-George corner were: H. S. Macdonald at 402 George, now occupied by R. Grafstein's women's style shop; J. D. Tully in two subsequent places, one where Louis Yeotes is now, and the other at the Royal Bank corner; Wm. Madill, first in the Hunter St. store occupied by George Hildebrand, and later at the present Correll corner in women's wear.

John McKee was immediately south of Nugent's at 384, now Darling ladies' wear; Herbert H. Edmison at 390, today's Fashion Craft; George Schofield at 408 George, Ald. Gordon Powell's Lowe Bros. paint store; James Lynch at 168 Hunter, immedia ely east of the first Nugent store; McDermid Drug Co., owned by J. W. McDermid, was at 393 George later, apart from McDermid and Jury at 321 down at the Charlotte corner.

For some years, Wm. A. Giles was in business about the centre of the clock from the Nugent store; and C. M. Moncur was in business at 407, north of the Royal Bank.

At Simcoe and George was the old store of Ormond and Walsh from which Ernest L. Payne retired last year after a long stretch of business. Assisting him for a time in 1953 was A. J, (Bert) Tovey, now retired, an apprentice of Herb Edmison, in the west. Vincent J. Sullivan, Hunter St. E., was an apprentice of John Nugent.

Mr. Tovey's first store was at 91 Hunter St. east, about 1908; and Dr. Hugh Spears was at Mark and Hunter, also a druggist in the 1890's. This isn't a complete story of the cluster of pharmacies around the old main street corner (R. I. Davidson was a druggist at 412½ George, north of the present Powell store), but it recalls that neighborhood as a centre marked particularly by the old apothecary show globes, tall shapely glass containers of colored liquid, green and yellow and maybe red, that caught the public eye until they became commonplace in the three chemists' shops at George and Hunter.

LARGEST PHARMACEUTICAL MORTAR in Canada? Druggist Frank Greatrix of George St., thinks so. At any rate, it is a relic of the drugstore business of 75 years ago, together with a pill-making machine. Mr. Greatrix, who is going out of business at the end of April is saving the relics of his profession. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Democratic Party Praises U.S. Press Vigilance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party's national committee has praised half a dozen recent instances of "press vigilance." It said they provide a stirring reminder of the "great role of newspapers in a free society when they operate as a truly free, no-party press."

In the May issue of its official publication, the Democratic Digest, the committee said that for one thing the American press played the "decisive part in turning public sentiment against" the Bricker amendment, described as an "isolationist effort to tie the president's hands on the conduct of foreign affairs."

"Only the hard core right-wing publishers stayed with the Bricker forces, and for once the country had something like an equal division of press opinion," The Digest said, adding:

"The same thing seems to be happening in the showdown on McCarthy."

SAYS INDEPENDENCE SHOWN

The committee, which frequently attacks what it calls the "one party press," summed up with this statement:

"In next fall's elections, it seems a safe bet that nine papers out of 10 will continue to back Republican candidates, but meanwhile the public is benefitting from individual bursts of initiative and independence on the part of some of our most influential dailies."

The magazine said three Washington newspapers — The Daily News, the Evening Star, and The Post—took the lead in "unmasking the political exploitation" behind the Eisenhower administration's security risk dismissals.

It said articles in the New York Tribune and in the New York Times were brilliant contributions of journalistic enterprise in the debate over the "new look" defence policy.

'FACTS' SERIES PRAISED

A series in the Providence Journal on the "Facts Forum" show was termed an outstanding example of newspaper initiative. The series dealt with the TV and radio program financed, The Digest said, "by H. L. Hunt, Texas oil multi millionaire and friend of Senator McCarthy."

The Digest said it was "the Denver Post, rejuvenated by Palmer Hoyt, that drew nationwide attention to Attorney-General Brownell's dereliction in the Vigil case." The magazine said U.S. district attorney Charles Vigil of Colorado was fired by Brownell during Vigil's successful battle against crime and his job given to "a fraternity brother" of the attorney-general.

Beggs Claims Mayor Made False Charges

Mayor Denies Said Alderman Sold Union Down The River

Mayor Norman Graham Wednesday night denied he had told local union officials that Ald. Bill Beggs had "sold the outside city workers and federal union down the river" and "been the strongest opposition to any wage increases or improvements" for the Firefighters Association in their bargaining with city council's negotiating committee for renewal of working contracts.

Ald. Beggs, who is Eastern Ontario staff representative of the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO-CCL), called the mayor's alleged charges a "pack of lies" in a meeting of the committee of the whole council following Wednesday night's regular council meeting.

The committee meeting, which was called at Ald. Beggs' behest, was almost entirely a two-man affair involving Ald. Beggs and the mayor. Other members chimed in only to ask that the controversy be brought to a halt.

At many points the discussion appeared to be getting off the track, especially when His Worship asked Ald. Beggs if he intended to run for the office of mayor next December. The alderman denied that he had any intention of doing so.

Ald. Beggs opened the discussion by saying reports of his alleged stand on wage negotiations with city employees had come to him from members of the trade union movement and he knew they had originated in the mayor's office.

PACK OF LIES

"Members of council know these are a pack of lies," he said. "I believe it is very belittling and indiscreet for a man in the mayor's position to stoop to such a thing."

"May I ask you to bring the people who told you this to my office?" the mayor said. "Those rumors did not originate in my office."

"Oh yes they did; they came from your mouth," Ald. Beggs said.

The discussion then took a sudden switch when the mayor referred to a recent meeting of the sanitation committee when Ald. Harold Rehill had asked Ald. Beggs how many complaints he had received about the operation of the sanitation department.

"You said you hadn't received any; but you were out of the city," His Worship said.

"Recently there have been several complaints come into my home," Ald Beggs said. "They should go to the superintendent of the sanitation department and if he refuses to act, they should be referred to me. It's true I'm not always in the city; but being an alderman is not a full-time job."

"I do think you should be in the city more often," His Worship said. "The fact of the matter is I heard you were going to run for mayor."

TRIED TO CO-OPERATE

"I have no intention of running for mayor," Ald. Beggs said. "I have no animosity towards you. In fact, I feel sorry for you. I believe the action you took was because of certain charges against the sanitation department."

"I have tried to co-operate," the mayor protested, "but I still think the sanitation superintendent should not be in charge of men working for the city of Peterborough. I believe that we have a lawsuit on our hands now."

"Your Worship, I came on council to try to serve the city," Ald. Beggs said. "I am always willing to co-operate; but I think I have a right to protest when people go behind my back and say things about me."

"The same applies to you," the mayor said.

"Did you or did you not make these remarks to members of the trade union movement?" Ald Beggs asked. "I think they were the result of a letter written to

Killed In Air Crash

COBOURG (ENS)—A crashing Harvard training plane Wednesday night killed Donald Boswell of Cobourg, an RCAF student pilot, while flying near his home base at Claresholm, Alberta.

His father, Fred Boswell, was notified of the accident today, but received no details of how the accident happened. He was presumably flying alone at the time about a mile from the air station which is located 85 miles south of Calgary.

The RCAF student was born and educated in Cobourg and played a considerable amount of baseball before entering the service.

He is survived by his father, one brother, Victor, of Cobourg, and five sisters, Mrs. P. Sullivan and Mrs. Fred Baxter of Toronto, Mrs. John Creighton and Mrs. Keith Burley of Cobourg, and Mrs. Marie Linton of Plainville. His mother predeceased him.

His body will be brought to Cobourg for burial.

Pock-Mark Plague Sprinkles Peterborough Windshields

The mysterious plague that has swept across Canada pock-marking car windshields has hit Peterborough.

A truck driver reported today that the windshield of his truck was sprinkled with minute pits. The cars of at least one used car lot were also touched by the scourge.

At first the marking had been confined to the west coast and eastern drivers were inclined to take the reports with a large grain of salt.

A reasonable and sane explanaton seemed to be that mass hysteria was turning normal holes and scratches on windshields caused by flying bits of stone and dirt from other cars, into a radioactive rumor.

A recently exploded H-bomb was immediately blamed by many including some Vancouver traffic officers who saw the needle-size holes appear on their windshields as a grayish-ash was noticed falling on the city. But samples of dirt and dust taken from the affected windshields failed to show any sign of radio activity.

It was rather amusing to people in Ontario until the plague began to spread east. Monday a Windsor driver reported his windshield marked.

The same day a Lindsay motorist reported that not only the windshield, but the back and side windows of his car were pitted. It took three days for the plague to make the 28-mile jump from Lindsay to Peterborough.

The spread across Canada has paralleled the development across the United States. It all began in Washington state and no one knows where it will end. Perhaps the opening of trout-fishing May 1. will turn citizens' attention to other things.

Mill Allowed To Dump Slag

A case started in the summer of 1953 in the Ontario Mining Court involving the Minex and Marmoraton (Bethlehem Steel subsidiary, Marmora), has just been settled by Mr. Justice Godson in favor of the Marmoraton company.

The dispute started when Marmoraton wanted a clear permission to dump tailings from its mill — that will go into production this summer — on adjoining Minex property. This company holds the mining rights to the ground and Minex the mineral rights.

Since Minex drilled one hole on their property and said they had found nothing of importance, Justice Godson said he could not assess damage to the property. He handed down judgment in favor of Marmoraton and Minex was awarded court costs.

When the Marmoraton mill is in operation it is estimated that some 8 million tons of mill tailings will be dumped on the Minex property during the forseeable life of the property.

Little Evidence Of Crop Damage During Winter

Winter has left no scars on the agricultural landscape of the Peterborough townships and their neighbors across county boundaries.

Fields of fall wheat and pasture came through the months of frost without damage to the seedings, and farmers today are ready to carry on from the stage at which they left off toward the end of last autumn.

Reports from the broader district of central Ontario agree that there has been no loss to the crops that were vulnerable to the possible effects of frost, no heaving and resulting brown spots that would have indicated wrenching of root structures.

Farmers are ready to begin working up the land for the sowing of the spring grains, and signs this week indicated rapid drying in the lighter and higher soil. If the sunshine of the last few days continues, work should be expanding around the country by next week. Farmers are happy in the experience of the last two winters with almost no loss to their wheat and forage fields. They begin another season without an early reverse requiring adjustment of program.

Cattle have come through the winter in good condition, partly the effect of the ample storage of feed last fall.

SHOT OF NITROGEN

Apparently, from the rural news, more farmers than usual decided to give their wheat fields "a shot of nitrogen" as a pick-up for these weeks of enfeebled emergence from winter. In the Peterborough district grassland farming is a primary concern as a means of cutting the cost of producing meat and milk. Improved pastures are now common around the southern area of the county, more attention is being given to fertility, for increased abundance of grass of top quality.

A month from now the new practices of early cutting for silage and hay will be one of the big chores of the season.

The balancing of the winter account is all on the side of credit, so far. There are no complaints about the season being late or adverse. There would have been advantage if this sunshine had been a little earlier. On the other hand, there is much moisture in the soil, and the warmth of this week should dry the top layer for almost immediate work. That was the prospect today, and it was generally encouraging of hopes for a satisfactory year.

NO EXCUSE NOW—Drivers won't be able to complain about not seeing city traffic lights. By the time Peterborough Utilities' employees finish their spring cleaning of the 18 sets of traffic lights in the city, the drivers will probably say the glare from the lights dazzles them. Bill Harrison (above) shines the caution light at Hunter and Water Sts. The spring cleaning of the lights was last done about 10 years ago. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Pete McGillen Given Citizen Of Year Award

TORONTO (CP)—Pete McGillen, outdoors writer and sportsman, Wednesday night was given the fourth annual citizenship award of the West Toronto Civitan Club.

At a dinner of tribute the outdoors editor of the Toronto Telegram was told he was selected "for his leadership in the movement that protects the wildlife of forest and stream from thoughtless slaughter."

Speakers, including representatives of federal and provincial governments, described the 46-year-old newspaper man from Peterborough as "an outstanding Canadian, devoted conservationist, good sportsman and master-builder of good citizenship." His work was done through newspaper articles, radio and personal appearances.

The meeting commended his philosophy to "get out with your family, go fishing and camping, live longer and more happily."

Child Stabs Brother

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Police reported Wednesday that an 11-year-old school girl went beserk because she was forbidden by her grandmother from viewing Milton Berle's television program during an electrical storm. Two officers said the girl slapped her grandmother, stabbed her 10-year-old brother in the back with a pair of scissors, slashed her mother in the head with a butcher knife and then locked herself in the bathroom. None were seriously hurt.

North Monaghan To Try To Prevent City Dumping in Township

Seeking Court Injunction To Suspend City's Landfill Operation Claims Original Agreement Broken

North Monaghan township is seeking a court injunction to prevent further dumping in the township by the city of any refuse other than that which cannot be burned in the city's incinerator.

Should the injunction be granted, the city would probably be forced to transfer its landfill operations to some place outside the township. A member of the sanitation department said today it would be a costly job to put the incinerator back in operation. It has not been used since the landfill project got under way last summer, and, in anw case, would not handle the amount of garbage now collected in the city.

Reeve Willard Waterman of North Monaghan, who is Peterborough county warden this year, claimed today that the city had broken its original agreement with the township to the extent that they were now dumping all refuse on the property which they had acquired as a dump.

TWO YEARS TO RUN

The agreement between the two municipalities was signed prior to the city's decision to dispose of all refuse by the landfill method and still has about two years to run.

"In addition, there has been no agreement covering the city's new property in the township," the reeve told The Examiner today.

The city recently purchased additional property in the township for landfill use. Reeve Waterman claimed the city had no authority to use this land for dumping.

"We have had complaints from township residents about the bad odor from the dump," the reeve said. "I had one complaint just this morning.

"The city is also allowing people to take away scraps of all kinds and pile it in the township. This is creating trouble for the township."

City Clerk E. A. Outram informed city council Wednesday night that the writ in which the township claimed an injunction was served on him Tuesday. He had given it to city solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC.

William C. Grant is acting as solicitor for the township.

Teachers To Insist Firings To Be Legal

HAMILTON (CP) — The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation will insist that school boards follow the legal procedure in any dismissal of a teacher.

The provincial assembly laid down its policy in regard to dismissals at a meeting Wednesday after discussion on the firing of a Northern Ontario teacher.

The legal procedure is for the school board to present its request to the minister of education through the local public school inspector.

A statement released by R. J. Bolton, principal of Prince of Wales School, and chairman of the legislation committee, said: "It has happened that the school board has dismissed the teacher illegally, without giving a written reason or making the dismissal at a time prescribed by law."

The federation said it will support teachers in such cases but will not condone misbehaviour or inefficiency.

Falling Plaster At All Saints' Hurts 2 Women

The roof fell in . . . hard to believe, but that is just what happened at the parish hall, All Saints' church in Peterborough Wednesday afternoon.

Unfortunately for Mrs. Sarah Deyman, 211 Rubidge St. and Mrs. Walter Terrace, 13 Cricket Place, they happened to be standing right where the large piece of ceiling plaster fell. Both ladies were injured and Mrs. Deyman was sent to hospital for treatment to a large circular cut on her head. Mrs. Terrace suffered fairly severe cuts and abrasions to both legs.

The ladies had been bowling at the hall during the afternoon and had just taken time off for a cup of tea, when for some unaccountable reason, a piece of plaster, 10 ft. by 5 ft. and about an inch thick, fell from the ceiling. Both the injured ladies were reported this morning to be recovering.

Explore Underground After Drilling Findings

Closely-spaced diamond drill holes over a length of 1,000 feet on the property of Dyno Mines, south-west of Centre Lake-Croft Uranium, have indicated some 500,000 tons of U303 ore of 0.089 per cent grade, officials say.

To secure protection at both ends of the ore structure, Dyno have acquired additional mining claims which now totals two miles along the strike. The drilling of two tiers of holes at 75-foot intervals, that revealed the size of the ore body to the depth of 225 feet, resulted in the decision of the management to explore the ore by underground workings. This is the fourth property in the Bancroft area to go underground; the others are Centre Lake, Croft Uranium, Faraday Uranium, in that order.

Prefer Butter to Dough

PARKHILL, Ont. (CP)—Thieves broke into the Parkhill creamery and made off with 2,000 pounds of butter early Wednesday. Police said no attempt was made to get into the office and the safe was untouched, but not a pound of butter was left in the place.

Ald. Rehill Leads Attack On Report

Whose Responsibility Is Operation Of City Playgrounds?

City council decided Wednesday night to call a joint meeting of the parks committee and the recreation commission to discuss the division of responsibility for operation of playgrounds between the recreation supervisor and the parks superintendent.

This was the result of one of three objections taken by Ald. Harold Rehill to the report of the parks committee. The committee's recommendations, to which Ald. Rehill objected, were:

1. That the board of education be informed that this comittee cannot grant permission for PCVS to use Nicholls Oval for track and field practice from April 26-May 30 and that Mr. C. Ward, of PCVS, be advised to contact the parks superintendent for further suggestions.

2. That the parks department be requested to clean up Dixon House grounds periodically, the cost of this work to be charged to the recreation commission.

3. That the parks superintendent be authorized to allocate and to notify the times and locations to the various sports teams wishing to use the city parks during the coming summer season.

BE NO INTERFERENCE

Ald. Rehill said he had been talking to the chairman of the board of education and they had picked Nicholls Oval for track and field practices because of its proximity to PCVS. They intended to locate the jumping pits in an area where there was no grass and they woul not interfere with any other program. When they were finished, they would leave the ground in as good condition as when they found it.

"I maintain these parks are for the use of the public; I think we should co-operate with the board of education," Ald. Rehill said.

Ald. Bob Knox, chairman of the parks committee, said he had only been backing up Superintendent Armar Butcher, who had shown him where PCVS wanted to put the jumping pits, on the way to the outdoor fireplace. He had also showed him where they had dug pits in Exhibition Park "nearly in front of the grandstand on the lawn."

Ald. Stan McBride said Mr. Ward had been advised to see the superintendent who would show him alternative sites. If he wasn't satisfied, he could still see the committee. But he hadn't seen the superintendent by Wednesday.

"There's a lot of space in Nicholls Oval and they are only asking for a small part," Ald. Rehill said. "Any further delay will just jeopardize their program."

"If we do it for one, we'll have to do it for them all," Mayor Norman Graham said.

"There are lots of places in the Oval they can use," Ald. Burrows said. "I think the superintendent, the chairman and Mr. Ward can work it out."

COMMISSION SURPRISED

Ald. Rehill said the recreation commission were surprised when they heard about the proposal to fix up the grounds at Dixon House. They hadn't requested it but they "were not too happy" when they found the cost was to be charged to the commission.

Ald. McBride said he had made the request because residents in the neighborhood of Dixon House had felt the caretaker was too old to do the outside work but they wanted it fixed up.

"But to be perfectly frank, I don't know how the part about the cost crept into the report," he added. Ald. Art Burrows said he couldn't remember anything about it either.

Ald. Knox said there had been no intention of charging the recreation commission for the labor involved nor for a few shrubs but Mr. Butcher had felt there should be about $25 worth of sodding done. The superintendent felt his department shouldn't be charged for the sod.

On Ald. Bill Beggs' motion, council agreed to delete the reference to charges from the report.

SUPERVISION OF PARKS

Ald. Rehill said the recreation commission were aware of only two parks that came under the supervision of the parks superintendent, the East City Bowl and Nicholls Oval. They felt giving authority to the parks superintendent to allocate use of all the parks was a change in policy. It was understood that the recreation commission was to provide the program and the parks department was to supply the equipment.

They wondered if it had been felt this change would be an improvement. If so, why hadn't it been given joint consideration by the committee and the commission?

Ald. Rehill read the bylaw setting up the recreation commission and said the commission was supposed to supply the program and control the direction and supervision of it.

SUPERINTENDENT OBJECTS

What Ald. Rehill said was what I wanted to do, "Ald. Knox said. "Some of the ball teams called me about using the parks and I referred them to Mr. Robinson (recreation supervisor). Mr. Butcher said I shouldn't have, that he had done it for the past two years. I thought it would relieve the superintendent of bookkeeping but he strongly wanted to have it."

"I think the clause is a little ambiguous," Ald. Burrows said. "There has been some controversy about the division of responsibility and I think a joint meeting should be called to settle it."

"It looks to me as though the parks department is going to spend the money and the recreation commission is going to control the use of it," Mayor Norman Graham said.

"I think what the superintendent wanted was just to have the softball and hardball schedules so he would know when to get the stands ready and lime the diamonds," Ald. McBride said. "I think another meeting would clear up the whole thing."

"Would it not be in order to delete this clause from the report," Ald. Rehill asked.

"My intention was to delete the clause and refer it back to a joint meeting," Ald. Burrows said. His motion was endorsed.

2 Authors Develop Popular Fictional Character Team

By HAL BOLE

NEW ORK (AP)—The dream of thousands of authors is to develop a fictional character the public never loses interest in.

An example is Tarzan of the Apes, one of the great literary earners of all time. This jungle strong boy became more of an industry than a character. And he probably will still be making money long after Africa is paved.

How can an author tell when he's created one of these jackpot characters? He can't. He has to wait for the public to tell him.

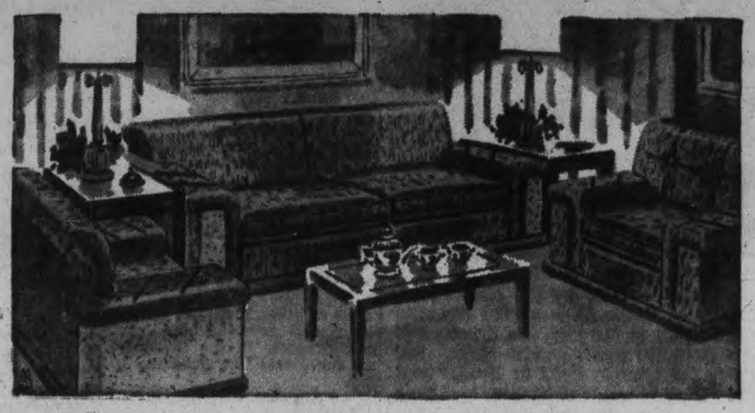
It worked out that way with Frances and Dick Lockridge, whose latest (and 30th) book, "Death and the Gentle Bull," comes out next month. It is the 18th volume in their Mr. and Mrs. North mystery series.

Back in 1931 Frances told Dick, then a young drama critic on the New York Sun, an amusing adventure that had befallen her during the day. He wrote a short skit about it—the first appearance of Mr. and Mrs. North in print—and sold it to the New Yorker magazine for $60.

"It is amazing to us how it has ballooned," Frances said. "At first the Mr. and Mrs. North stories were things that actually happened to us. Later they were about ordinary domestic things that could happen to any family. It grew from these simple stories of home life to—well, to what it is now."

In 1945, Dick gave up daily newspaper work. The Norths had become a fulltime career. Mr. and Mrs. North became a successful Broadway play, then they went into the movies. For 11 years they have been a radio series and now have gone into television. The Norths also are considering the comic strip field (after all, didn't Tarzan make that jump, too?).

The adventures of Pam and Jerry North now are plotted in a pleasant upper Westchester country place amid an atmosphere of home-cooked food, cats and literary violence.



Frances does the plots. They mull the plot over for a day or two. Then Dick goes into his study and does the writing.

"We think that a plain puzzle mystery is no good," said Frances.

Refusal To Grant Permit To Build Motel In City May Bring Legal Action

It was suggested at city council Wednesday night that Neil R. Sloggett may take legal proceedings against the city because he was refused a permit to build a motel at 390 George St. S.

John Corkery appeared as counsel for Mr. Sloggett and said they wanted a formal notice as to whether or not the city engineer was to be authorized to grant the permit so they could use it in "future proceedings."

Outlining the history of Mr. Sloggett's attempts to obtain a permit, Mr. Corkery pointed out that the committee of the whole council had recommended to the city planning board that they classify motels as commercial enterprise, similar to hotels, and that if Mr. Sloggett's application met the conditions fixed by the board, he be granted a permit to erect a motel.

The planning board had then circulated a questionnaire among residents within a 200-foot radius of the proposed site. He understood that eight people were in favor, six opposed and two had failed to answer. The position of the planning board had then been not to grant the permit.

He understood the planning board planned to reclassify the site as residential. But if it was now zoned commercial, there was no need to circulate a questionnaire. The fact that some people did not approve of the motel should have made no difference.

City Clerk E. A. Outram said he had been instructed by the planning board, as their secretary, to circulate residents of George St. within 200 feet of the proposed site. Eight did not disapprove, six disapproved and two did not reply. One of these had been away.

Another group, on Lake, Romaine and Crescent streets, consisting of 16 or 18 people, had got up their own petition objecting to the motel. This petition had not been solicited by the board, Mr. Outram said.

Mr. Sloggett said the petition had been gotten up by a Crescent St. man who had told him he intended to do so.

"He got it signed that day; so he must have been pretty busy," Mr. Sloggett said.

NO OFFICIAL REPORT

"I believe it would be irregular to act on this matter until council receives the official report of the planning board," Ald. Rehill said. "At times questions have been referred back to the board for reconsideration. I merely tell you for your information that Mr. Sloggett appeared at the planning board and was told his application would not be recommended."

"Although I'm not entirely sure what he intends to do, I think this man should be given something on which he can seek his remedy at law, whatever it is; I presume it will be a writ of mandamus," Ald. Gordon Farquharson said. "Once the new zoning bylaw is passed, Mr. Sloggett is finished. By delaying this matter further, you might be denying him his legal remedy. He has been very patient."

"I might say the city engineer attends the planning board meetings and is aware of their decision," Ald. Art Burrows said. "It seems to me we could pass a resolution saying we cannot grant a permit."

"I believe in all fairness to Mr. Sloggett an outright refusal is in order," Ald. McBride said, seconding Ald. Burrows' motion.

The resolution was carried, with only Aldermen Powell and Rehill not voting. Ald. Pat Anglesey was absent on city business.

Another objection to a refusal to grant a permit was taken by George Carphin who appeared for M. K. Reid. Mr. Reid had applied for a permit to build a service station on Park St., north of Chamberlain St.

Mr. Carphin contended that the classification of this site as residential had been nullified when council granted a permit for the erection of a taxi stand on it in 1948.

FORCED TO PURCHASE

Mr. Reid's option on the property was running out and he had been forced to purchase it to prevent it going to other interests, Mr. Carphin said. He understood it would be zoned as commercial under the new bylaw but there was a contractor waiting to put up the service station, which he had promised to build by May 15. Any further delay might make it necessary to call for further tenders.

Ald. Rehill said the new bylaw had been advertised and citizens were being given the opportunity to approve or disapprove it.

"I realize Mr. Reid has been held up, but not unduly," Ald. Rehill said. "Sometimes things do not move as fast as private individuals would like them to. I would suggest Mr. Reid be patient until we have had the public meetings."

"I believe our legal position is that we must wait until after those meetings have taken place," Ald. Burrows said. The public meetings will take place Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

"Mr. Reid's contention is that this property is now zoned as commercial," Mr. Carphin said. "That is the position that has been ignored for some time. It is felt that Mr. Reid is being prevented from erectiing his service station on a technicality which does not exist."

"Apparently Mr. Reid takes the position that because we granted permission for a taxi stand there, the zoning was changed to commercial," Ald. Farqquharson said. "I wouldn't necessarily go along with that. I think it's only common sense to wait this week to see if any people in the neighborhood object."

"In several cases we have departed from the zoning on the official plan adopted in 1947," Mr. Carphin contended. "I don't know that those changes have been recorded on the plan. My feeling is that they haven't. But the property is at present occupied by a conforming user. To be a non-conforming user, he would have to have occupied it before the plan was prepared."

Six of council voted to take no action on the request. Aldermen Powell, McBride and Holt did not vote.

"I understand that this does not in any way constitute a refusal," Ald. Powell said.

Seaforth Leading Contender In B Group

GODERICH (CP) — Seaforth shaped up as a leading contender in B group of the Young Canada Week Pee Wee Hockey tournament here Wednesday.

Mildmay, winner of the C-group title moved into the grand championship semi-final by defeating Grand Bend, D-group winners, 6-4.

The Winnipeg entry in the weeklong tournament for under-12 hockey players arrived Wednesday and was given a civic reception at the railway station, complete with a girls' trumpet band.

Vince Leah, night sport editor of the Winnipeg Tribune and coach of the Winnipeg Pee Wees, said of the tournament: "This sort of hockey is a marvelous thing for youngsters."

Seaforth played its third game, taking a 5-1 win over Port Elgin. The team defeated Clinton 12-0 and Wingham 8-3 Tuesday.

Elmira and Temiskaming, Que., have two games to their credit and are still in the running. Port Elgin and St. Marys were knocked out after winning two games. Port Perry and Strathroy were put out of contention in their second games.

The record 47 entries in this year's tournament are divided into four divisions according to population of their home towns. Winnipeg and Kingston, both in the A group, are scheduled to meet tonight.

Frank Dalton was the star of Grand Bend's unsuccessful attempt to enter the grand championship semi-finals. He scored all four Grand Bend goals unassisted.

BEST PLAYER

Vince Leah described Dalton as the best Pee Wee player he has seen this year.

The Lobsinger family took a big part in the Mildmay win. Dave Lobsinger put in three goals and Bob Lobsinger two. Doug Lobsinger looked good on defence. Mildmay's sixth marker was scored by team captain Fred McLean.

CRASH INTO CLOWNING—Bri Murphy, of Duncan, Wyo., left, above, and Kay Mitchell, of Salt Lake City, Utah, sought jobs as clowns with the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus when it opened in New York recently. Refused, they made home-sewn costumes, put on clown make-up and crashed the opening-night performance. After their turn in the ring, they vanished. Their bootlegged clowning made such an impression, the circus tracked them down and invited them to come back and do it again.

500-Year-Old Abacus Faster Than West's Modern Adding Machine

TOKYO (Reuters) — In Japan's business world, 92 per cent of all calculation is done on an adding machine developed more than 500 years ago.

For all its age, the Chinese abacus, or soroban as it is called here, is in many respects as efficient as the most modern calculating machine in the West.

Almost every commercial establishment in Japan, from street stall to department store, uses the beaded wooden frame.

It is just as usual to find the ubiquitous soroban resting on the desk of an accountant as on the crossed legs of a pot-and-pan dealer. In the hands of a skilled operator, it can perform monumental calculations just as easily and speedily as simple sums.

DO IT FASTER

In a competition involving addition and subtraction a first-class abacus operator can invariably solve the problems twice as fast as a proficient operator of a modern electric machine, no matter how many digits the numbers contain.

The abacus is not so efficient in problems of multiplication and division, although it can beat the electric machine in sums involving fewer than 10 digits.

Senate Committee Tackles Blood And Thunder Comics

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—A U.S. Senate sub-committee tackled the problem of blood and thunder comic books on Wednesday. It ran into testimony as contradictory as Superman at a tea party.

Most witnesses agreed there was too much stabbing, maimimg, torture, slaying and sex.

But up stepped a childless second-generation comic book publisher, William M. Gaines who boasted that he introduced horror into the playroom. Said he of comic books in childish hands:

"I don't think it does them a bit of harm."

HEADLESS WOMAN

Gaines was shown one of his covers. It depicted a man with a bloody ax standing over a woman and holding her severed head in one hand.

Gaines said he considered this in good taste.

What, then, asked the startled senators, would Gaines consider bad taste?

Replied Gaines:

"It would be bad taste if the head were held a little higher with the blood dripping out."

OPPOSING VIEWS

Richard Clendenen, staff director of the sub-committee on juvenile delinquency, testified that experts generally agreed that crime and horror books are most dangerous to the disturbed child, rather than the well-adjusted one.

But Dr. Frederic Wertham, senior psychiatrist of the New York City department of hospitals, testified just the opposite.

Wertham said abnormal children are too wrapped up in themselves to be swayed by comic books. He added:

"It is the good child who is tempted and seduced by the comic books. As long as these books exist, there are no secure homes. . . .

"Every type of crime and delinquency is described in detail. The whole point is that evil triumphs and that you can commit a perfect crime."

Glass Of Sea Water Good For Health

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP)—Wilfred Attwell, 74, says he owes his good health to his long association with the sea. His faith in the health-giving properties of sea water is virtually unlimited. He even drinks it.

"Best thing in the world to keep you in tip-top shape is a quarter of a glass of sea water every now and then," he said. "I've never had a single twinge of rheumatism or arthritis in my life. Only time I visited a doctor was in 1934 when I got the mumps."

Rain, shine or snow, he never fails to take his daily dip, never remaining in the water longer than 20 minutes. He doesn't need glasses. "I open my eyes under water which keeps them strong."

Holds Off Crowd

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A blind man's mongrel dog, sceptical of the motives of strangers, Wednesday night held off a crowd, police and ambulance men for 20 minutes after his master collapsed on the street. George Maudson, 58, was finally taken to hospital after a motorcycle policeman with leather gloves and leggings held the dog fast.

Find World Knowledge Poorly Developed For Children Under Social Studies Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Public school children's knowledge of the world is suffering under the present system of lumping geography and history broadly under social studies, members of a panel at an urban teachers' meeting said yesterday.

W. R. McVittie of Guelph, panel chairman, said many teachers have reservations about the social studies course. He said this was shown in a recent questionnaire sent out to teachers in his district.

W. E. Rowe of Galt said teaching of history and geography as separate subjects should be reinstitut d. Other panel members said under the present system there is too much stress on remote places and not enough on local geography.

The panel was one of a number held by educational groups meeting here in connection with the annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association. The convention concludes today after a four-day session.

ASK FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

Federal subsidies for education that would give children in remote areas the same opportunities as others were recommended by the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association. It was decided to ask the Ontario government to ask for such subsidies.

One argument was that the federal government is bringing many immigrants to Canada who require increased facilities that taxpayers must provide. Immigrants were welcome, but the government should help pay for the extra facilities.

The association also said Remembrance Day, not being a statutory holiday, should not be a school holiday. Appropriate services, however, should be held in schools on that date. This was to be recommended to Ontario's Education Minister Dunlop.

SUPRESS HOMEWORK

Dr. Earle Zeigler of the University of Western Ontario said public school pupils should not be asked to do homework. Children should be more active after sitting in school all day, he told a group discussing children's health.

To give children after-school activities, recreation should be given more attention by community planners, he said.

Dr. A. D. Holt of the University of Tennessee said teachers who fail to get across to children the difference between right and wrong have accomplished nothing.

He told a primary teacher's group that to do this, fear must be removed from classrooms. Fear of failing, he said, encourages cheating or lying.

EN JOY LIVING

Children must be taught to enjoy living, he said. He said he remembered teachers who appeared set to make life miserable, and who never cracked a joke in the classroom.

The Association conferred life memberships on three members for long and valuable service to education in Ontario.

Recipients were Miss Lena Monaghan, Ottawa, Dr. Margaret S. McCready, Guelph, retiring president, and Dr. Arthur G. Hooper, Toronto.

Favors Rearming

PARIS (Reuters)—Yugoslavia's President Tito, in an interview with the Paris newspaper Le Monde, has come out in favor of the rearmament of Western Germany within the framework of the European Defence Community. The Germans, he said, should be rearmed on an equal footing with the other states to safeguard their independence.

Reveal Settlement Proposal In Water Allocation Dispute

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Some details of Canada's proposal to end a long-standing international dispute over allocation of waters from the Waterton and Belly rivers have been revealed by the Alberta government.

The two rivers rise in Montana, flow north through parched sections of that state and southern Alberta, and never leave Canada.

Both the United States and Canada are anxious to obtain a generous location of water to feed irrigation - developed programs: Canada for the 510,000-acre St. Mary-Milk rivers development.

Canada has offered to deliver to the United States up to 200,000-acre-feet of water annually through the $40,000,000 St. Mary-Milk river development which stretches across southern Alberta. This amount would be graduated downward to be kept in line with any reduction in the flow of the two rivers.

RIVER WATER AFFECTED

Included in this volume of water would be up to 75,000-acre-feet of St. Mary river water. Under an earlier treaty, the U.S. is entitled to 236,000-acre-feet of water annually from the St. Mary river. However, it can not divert all of this allocation from the river in the U.S.

It is generally estimated that 1½-acre feet of water is required for every acre of land under irrigation.

Canada's offer was formally submitted last week at the Washington hearing of the International Joint Commission which has been considering the dispute for more than six years.

The settlement proposal is known as the "Foss proposal" after W.L. Foss of Lethbridge, a Prairie farm rehabilitation administration engineer who played a major role in drafting the plan.

DETAILS REVEALED

Details of the proposal are revealed in the annual report of the Alberta water resources office for the 1953-54 fiscal year.

The report said that by the end of March, 1955, the development will have canals constructed to provide irrigation for 315,715 acres but will be short water for about 97,000 acres. Additional water supplies will have to come from the Waterton and Belly rivers.

Must Post Bond Before Opening Paved Surface

COBOURG (ENS) — Regulations are being prepared which will compel anyone who opens up a paved surface to lay water pipes or sewers, to post a bond guaranteeing that the surface will be restored to its original condition, it was revealed at the meeting of town council.

Councillor Jeff Rolph said that he had brought the matter up last year and had suggested that anybody who broke up a paved surface should be required to pay a bond as a guarantee that it would be restored to its original condition. There was a bad spot on University Ave., he pointed out. Councillor Roy Dodge commented that the public utilities were the worst offenders and he felt that, wherever possible, the excavation should start outside the paved area and go underneath instead of cutting the surface. University Ave. in some places was just a series of bumps because of the fact that the pavement had not been put back the way it was before dug up. The town engineer told the council that a contractor should be required to post a good-sized bond before he dug up the pavement.

Councillor Jeff Rolph declared that in new housing sub-divisions the laterals should go in first and not as was the case on Abbott Blvd., where the public utilities would not permit the laterals to go in before the road was made and the result was a series of pot-holes, the councillor said.

Council turned down the application of a Port Hope ice company to do business in Cobourg. Grounds for refusal to grant permission was the fact that the company did not have a warehouse in Cobourg.

A local firm complained that the fire chief wouldn't let them burn waste back of th plant and they couldn't put it in the garbage because, under the garbage collection by-law, the collector does not have to take industrial wastes. The matter was referred to the fire, water and light committee.

Pierre Sauve wrote council to advise that the sewer at the west-end pumping station on Forth St. was overflowing and going on to his lawn, creating a health hazard. The town engineer said an additional pump was being installed and this might eliminate the trouble.

Martha Raye Weds Dancer

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Wide-mouthed Martha Raye of TV-movie fame was married Wednesday clutching a bunch of bedraggled violets, wilted by a hectic day of scurrying about trying to find a spot for a quick wedding. A planned ceremony in Maryland was stymied by a law requiring a 48-hour waiting period.

Edward Thomas Begley, 30-year-old dancer on her television show, became the fifth husband of the shapely comedienne. It was his first marriage. Miss Raye gave her age as 37.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the Arlington county courthouse by Dr. Arthur L. Maiden, counsellor of the juvenile bureau, a retired minister. Carl Eastman, a talent scout, was the best man and his wife was the bride's attendant.

Miss Raye's previous husbands were Nick Condos, her manager; Hamilton (Budy) Westmore, Hollywood makeup artist; David, composer, and Neal Lang, Miami Beach hotel manager.

Take Republican To Defeat Joe In Own State

By PAUL PETT

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—After all the furious debate, how strong is Senator Joseph McCarthy in Wisconsin today?

He will not come up for re-election until 1958. But, if he were running this year, could he win again where it counts most, among the people who already have given him two Senate terms?

Seeking the answers I talked with political figures, editors and people on both sides of the McCarthy fence. I found no one, even among the senator's bitterest opponents, who was ready to bet that he couldn't win re-election this year.

At a recent meeting, at which organizational plans were made for the "Joe Must Go" movement, reporters found that a heavy majority of the 500 people present were Democrats to begin with. Many people believe that if anyone is going to lick McCarthy in his own state, it will have to be a Republican, in a primary.

'52 PRIMARY DECISIVE

In the 1952 Republican primary, McCarthy won in a six-man field with 515,489 votes. His nearest Republican opponent, Leonard F. Schmitt, got 213,701 out of a total Republican vote of 759,000. The total vote in the Democratic primary, with only two men running, was 181,000. Thus McCarthy polled more votes than all other candidates in both primaries combined.

However, in the general election of 1952, McCarthy's edge over his Democratic opponent, Thomas E. Fairchild, was only 139,000, about 102,000 below his winning margin in 1946. In 1952, McCarthy trailed the entire Republican state ticket and was far behind President Eisenhower, who had a plurality of 357,000.

In his own home town, Appleton, McCarthy has lost some supporters because of his attack on Nathan Pusey. Pusey, who publicly opposed the senator in 1952, was head of Lawrence College in Appleton before he became president of Harvard University. However, editor John Riedl of the Appleton Post-Crescent says he believes McCarthy would again carry the town by about 5 to 1.

2 Men In Canoe Rescue Dog On Island

NORTH BAY (CP) Two men in a light canoe battled a half-mile of ice floes and high waves Wednesday to rescue a mongrel dog from an island in Lake Nipissing.

The dog was stranded Tuesday when it wandered over shifting ice to the small rocky island. It was coaxed into the canoe by game overseer William St. Pierre of the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Two previous attempts to reach the island in boats had failed.

Fur Bow Ties

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent sent a personal letter of thanks to Jack Carroll, president of The Pas Chamber of Commerce, for its gift of a fur bow tie. The ties, in various colors, first made their appearance at the trappers' festival here last February.

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Renovation of the court house here included installation of theatre-type seats in the jury box, built for comfort as well as style.

Gifted Children Should Have Special Classes

OTTAWA (CP)—A psychologist says municipalities should provide special classes for unusually gifted school children, in the same way care is given juvenile delinquents and mentally retarded children.

Dr. Agatha Sidlauskas of Ottawa University said Wednesday that gifted children needed special attention in school or their lives can easily be ruined long before they reach maturity.

She spoke before the annual meeting of the Ontario French Teachers' Association.

LOSE TALENTS

Children with superior intelligence often are blind to what goes on around them "because their little heads are working all the time," Dr. Sidlauskas said.

"They need less teaching than others. They only need a few ideas thrown out at them and the liberty to develop these themes under proper guidance.

"We are losing great talents who are going to waste because of improper direction."

Zoology Graduate Plans 18-Month Arctic Exile

MONTREAL (CP) — A McGill University zoology graduate plans to go into voluntary exile in Canada's Arctic.

Scottish-born Derry V. Ellis will spend 18 months in the north country with only a few Eskimos and their dog teams as companions. At the end of that time he hopes to know enough about the eating habits of seal, walrus and other Arctic creatures to write his doctorate thesis in the fall of 1955.

Ellis is one of 20 scientists from North America planning to go into the Arctic in the near future. The parties are being organized by the Arctic Institute of North America which has its headquarters at McGill. The scientists will gather knowledge of the conditions and life in the north.

Mr. Ellis will travel over rugged mountain country, across stretches of ocean and hopes to complete some 7,000 miles from west to east before he returns to the campus in Montreal.

TO EXAMINE WATERS

En route he will examine shelf waters and other areas of marine invertebrates, major food source of Arctic animals. The information will be passed on to the North American Institute and particularly, Prof. Maxwell Dunbar, under whose direction Ellis is working.

The student-explorer will fly from Edmonton Coppermine on the northerly fringe of the Northwest Territories.

Later he will make his way by boat and plane to North Fox basin, Baffin Island. From there he will begin an 800-mile journey by dog sled across mountainous Baffin island, and return by boat to Montreal.

Ellis thinks he might not be completely alone during the trip.

There is a chance he will run into an old colleague, Ian McLaren somewhere on the mainland of Baffin. McLaren has been established at Cape Dorset, on the island for some time on fisheries research work.

Slashed Subway Seats

TORONTO (CP)—Cyril Farrow, 54, was sentenced to 20 days in jail and fined $50 Tuesday for slashing a seat with a penknife in Toronto's new subway, causing $32 damage. A witness said 15 seats have been slashed since the subway went into operation 20 days ago.

Glass In Building Found Pitted

TORONTO (CP) — Glass-pitting, previously a "disease" of car windshields, was reported to have hit the glass in a building Wednesday.

An office window at Cargo Dockers Limited in east Toronto on the lakefront was found spotted with tiny holes over most of the 24-by-30 inch glass area. The window faced west.

Operators of used car lots have reported thousands of dollars damage done to windshields of automobiles on their lots by the pitting during the last two days. Cause of the pitting is still undetermined.

Woodside Restoration Nearly Completed

KITCHENER (CP)—Restoration of Woodside, boyhood home of the late prime minister Mackenzie King, as an historic site is nearing completion.

When the work is finished, the dwelling in which the prime minister lived for about 10 years before he went to university will look as much as possible as it did in the '90s when Mr. King's lawyer father leased it.

The residence and property near federal government. The 11-acre here have been taken over by the holding was donated to the government by the Mackenzie King Woodside Trust, made up largely of Kitchener and district citizens who undertook in 1942 to restore Woodside.

FAVORITE SPOT

Mr. King, who always looked upon Woodside as a favorite spot, spent several hours there in 1947 during his last visit to Kitchener.

John King and his family leased Woodside when the future prime minister was eight years old. Records at the Waterloo county registry office show the house was sold in 1890 while the King family was occupying it. During the early years of the present century, slices of the property were sold to a railway and to the city. The rest of the land and the house changed hands again in 1924.

The house was rapidly deteriorating when the trust took it over in 1943.

In the reconstruction which started in 1950 the grey brick structure was torn down. A new foundation was put in. Then the house was rebuilt with the same beams and bricks as in the original and as closely as possible to the appearance it had when the Kings occupied it.

The rebuilding was completed in Canadians of the present and of future generations who visit Woodside will find its landscaped ground set in a small bushland a few hundred yards off Highway 7. The trees, from England and Europe, were planted a century ago.

A covered porch at the centre of the house shelters the main entrance. Inside are a spacious library, a scullery, a gracious curving stairway and bedrooms under scalloped eaves. Furnishings include kitchen cupboards and the kitchen sink with its old-fashioned iron pump.

J. Harper Schofield, Kitchener lawyer who is president of the Woodside Trust, said in an interview that a government official has suggested the trust's directors might continue to serve as members of an advisory committee. This would enable Kitchener and district men who have carried the project almost to completion to participate in future development of the site.

Stole Overcoat Given 2 Months

LINDSAY (ENS) —A Toronto man who was convicted on the "most dsepacilebhcagr e"fsoia etn ing another man's coat from a public cloak room was sentenced to two months in jail when he appeared in Lindsay magistrate's court Tuesday. W. Donaldson 49 formerly of Kenora pleaded not guilty to the charge that he stole the coat belonging to George Hunter of Lindsay on April 15 while Hunter attended a service club meeting at a local hotel. Donaldson pleaded that he was too drunk at the time to be able to distinguish his own coat—a different model from Hunter's.

Magistrate Moore refused to believe Donaldson pointing to the fact that a set of keys in Hunter's coat pocke had been not ¼ pocket had not been found yet. Donaldson had been placed in the lockup for the night by police when he was apprehended on the theft charge. A charge of vagrancy was also laid but withdrawn by the crown. Soldier Sentenced To 7 Days In Jail

LINDSAY (ENS)—Cpl Clarence McDonald of Meaford and originall of Prince Edward Island was sentenced to seven days in jail when he appeared before magistrate Col. R. I. Moore in court here Wednesday. He pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. McDonald was charged following an accident last Thursday night.

According to the police evidence he had driven the car owned by his companion across a through highway at the intersection of Kent and Lindsay street, clipped one vehicle, rolled through a service station lot; narrowly missing the gas pumps; back across the road and stopped in front of a hydro pole on the other side of the pavement. McDonald had nothing to say in answer to the charge. A part case of beer, empties, caps and an opener were found in the car and constable John Henley said McDonald was very unsteady on his feet. Magistrate Moore in imposing sentence complained about the necessity of civil officials imposing sentence on military personnel that might jeopardize their standings in the service. Lieut. E. F. Allen of McDonald's unit said he would probably be charged as AWOL when he returned from serving his sentence. McDonald has signed up for a 20-year hitch with the army he said.

Then welcome HARDTOP self polishing floor wax into your home—and I'm sure you'll never let it go. HARDTOP is the new self polishing wax, especially designed to give a high gloss and longer wear. It's been perfected by the makers of CHAN—the harder more durable wax, so you know how right it is. HARDTOP gives that all-important hard surface and a shine that lasts for weeks. It's easy to apply and easy to clean. Put this fine, self polishing wax to work for you from now on! Look for CHAN HARDTOP in the "just right" size — 32 ounces — enough wax for many applications.

Now You Can Mothproof Woolens While They're In The Wash! Sounds miraculous! Yet all you do is this:—Ask at your drug or department store for REX EQ-53 . . . add a few spoonfuls of this amazing liquid chemical to the water in your tub or washing machine . . . then wash those woolens as you normally do. Rex EQ-53 is made by the makers of FLY-TOX. It can't harm washables in any way . . . leaves no odour or oily residue . . . protects sweaters, blankets, woolens against every fabric pest for a year or more. In the case of woolens which can't be washed I still recommend that reliable push-button Aerosol—the Fly-Tox MOTH PROOFER. But for washable woolens try Rex EQ-53.

How Long Is It Since you deliberately added "whiteness" to your white wash? Or, a better question, do you know how to actually add whiteness to your wash? It's really very easy. Whiteness can be added by using Laundry Blue. The point is, you should be making sure all your washday products are doing their right jobs. Soaps and detergents, regardless of their colour, take dirt out. Bleaches take out stains. But whiteness is only added by putting Bluing into your wash. You can do an entire washing for less than two cents — and it is extremely simple to use. So get some in time for your next wash. Ask your grocer for RECKITT'S BLUE.

TWO KILLED IN JET CRASH—Part of an Orenda jet engine is shown embedded in ground after an RCAF CF-100 jet fighter crashed and exploded in landing on a training flight at North Bay, killing its pilot and navigator. The twin-engine jet, a Mark III returning from a two-hour flight, overshot the main runway at the RCAF base at North Bay and exploded, scattering wreckage over a 500-yard area. Victims of the crash, both students, were identified as PO. Donald Freckleton, 22, of Tuft's Cove, N.S., and navigator Joseph Turpin, 23, a native of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., whose parents live in Ottawa.—(CP Photo).

Former Druggist, City Athlete Carl Weber Dies

F. Carl Weber, who died at Beaverton Wednesday, came to Peterborough from that town in 1913, and carried on a retail drug business at the corner of King and Bethune streets.

The first store in that building was opened by George Riley, also a druggist, and Mr. Weber succeeded him.

From King St., Mr. Weber moved to Charlotte St. about 1918, and was located in part of the Braund building, 218-222, which had been built in front of the curling rink. Part of that premises is occupied today by Eric Howard. Mr. Weber was a car salesman for a time, using part of the ample space in his store for that purpose.

Carl Weber was a natural in athletics, starring in any of the games that attracted him. He was the Peterborough singles champion in tennis in the early 1920's, captain of the Peterborough Golf Club in which he stood out as one of the most proficient left-hand golfers in the city. When softball was introduced here, he played with the Belmont Club team, and finally he was a clever curler, specializing in the points game, and also outstanding as a skip in the club schedules and in provincial competition.

BACK TO BEAVERTON

He returned to Beaverton about 1930, and returned to the Tamblyn store here during the war. Edwin (Buster) Johnson was an apprentice druggist with Mr. Weber, and recalls his skill at the various games he played here.

Young Hamilton Tenor To Be Guest Soloist

TORONTO (CP) — Sir Ernest MacMillan, who will direct the Mendelssohn choir of Toronto in New York's Carnegie Hall next week, said today the Edward Johnson who will appear as a soloist is a young tenor from Hamilton.

A New York report Wednesday night, later corrected, identified Mr. Johnson as the Canadian with a similar name who is the retired general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York.

Five Union Papers To Cease Publication

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—International Typographical Union headquarters said Wednesday five of six newspapers it started in opposition to papers on strike will cease publication Friday.

The announcement from the office of Don Hurd, secretary-treasurer, gave as reasons "political attacks" and "failure of a majority of the members to vote defence assessments."

The papers being discontinued are the Daily News-Digests in Allentown, Pa.; Meriden, Conn.; Huntington, W.Va.; Monroe, La., and Texarkana, Ark. The ITU said it will continue to publish the Miami Area Journal and Labor's Daily and that the Hamilton News will continue as a weekly.

Bride Has New Trouble With Mother-In-Law

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto bride developed a new type of mother-in-law trouble. She broke out in a rash every time she resided with her mother-in-law.

The case was described Wednesday night by Dr. Ralph F. Gerrad, a member of a panel sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association and the Toronto Telegram during a discussion on the nervous system of the human body.

Dr. Gerrad said the girl sought his advice about a severe skin complaint. He concluded that her trouble was emotional and advised her to stop living with her mother-in-law.

The girl sought other cures before finally returning to Dr. Gerrad. He persuaded her to take a holiday, without her mother-in-law, and within 24 hours the skin trouble cleared up. Finally convinced, the bride and her husband moved to another apartment.

HAVING AFTERNOON TEA ENGLISH STYLE, with delicious fruit cocktail and whipped cream the main course, was the pleasure of guests of the Evening Guild at St. George's Anglican church on Wednesday. Being served here are Mrs. Wallace Pakenham, who brought along Kathryn and Robbie, and her mother, Mrs. Joseph Gaskell. Tea convener Mrs. Walter Hall brings the cocktail and tea assistant Mrs. Frank Deller brought the buttered bread and small cakes that go with the tea.

Tea Served English Style At St. George's

The English-style Tea, which proved so popular last year, was again an interesting feature of the St. George's Day celebration Wednesday, arranged by members of the Evening Guild of St. George's Anglican church.

This time it was a delicious fruit cocktail topped with whipped cream that was served with bread and butter, small cakes and tea. Mrs. Walter Hall, tea room convener, prepared this food with the assistance of Mrs. E. Adkinson, Mrs. W. E. Reynolds, Mrs. Fred Greer, Mrs. A. Warren, Mrs Annie Siddall and Mrs. W. White.

Typically English also was the tea table setting with a bouquet of lovely red roses centring the white cloth, and the candles also white. Small tables were centred with carnations.

Mrs. Walter Bannon and Mrs. Clarence Harloff filled the tea cups and these were served by Mrs. S. R. Norman, Mrs. Don Ketchebaw, Mrs. Frank Deller, Mrs. Earl Hope, Mrs. Spencer Hope, Mrs. B. Syvertsen, Mrs. Harry Ferguson and Mrs. Tom Busby.

Mrs. R. J. Ross and Mrs. Andrew Fowler were hostesses in the tea room and the background piano music was provided by Mrs. George King.

The tea rom was the new parish hall and the bazaar room was the old hall where guests entered. They were received by the Guild president, Mrs. R. Pearson, and the rector's wife, Mrs. H. J. Scuse, and tickets were taken by Mrs. A. Quinn.

Bazaar attractions included taffy apples, available at the bake table in charge of Mrs. C. Crouter and Mrs. W. Wright, and a fish pond operated by Noreen Morman and Beverley Hall. Customers for both were mostly Easter holidayers home from school and they were not loathe to make return trips.

Very small children were put in the nursery in care of Misses Dorothy Watkins and Norma Branson.

Of interest was the display of prizes to be given on one evening at the forthcoming cooking school sponsored by the church in aid of the building fund. They included two men's shirts, two sets of glasses, two rubber floor mats, a pair of plastic rainboots, a kitchen shaker set and a knife set. Duplicates will be given on each of the three nights of the school, April 27, 28 and 29, advised Mrs. Donald Perks who was in charge of the display and selling tickets.

The "parcel post" table, in charge of Miss Pat Caccavella provided both mystery and amusement.

A bazaar table offering bath towels, tea towels, embroidered pillow cases and towels and also aprons was in charge of Mrs. Hugh Siddall.

Packed House For Concert By Russians

TORONTO (CP) — Six Russian artists gave a concert here Wednesday night before a packed house. Every seat of the more than 2,500 in Massey Hall was occupied and there were persons standing in many of the aisles.

The artists, who are to give concerts in six Canadian cities, were a violinist, pianist, soprano, tenor and two ballet dancers. They were sponsored by the Canadian Soviet Friendship Society.

Hugh Thomson, writing in the Toronto Star, called it "a strangely mixed-up concert with emphasis on technical brilliance and virility, but sensitivity in short supply."

George Kidd of the Toronto Telegram said "the audience was not well enough acquainted with concert manners to carry any sincerity for its boisterous approval of everything that took place."

John Kraglund of the Globe and Mail said "the event proved highly interesting and at times, enjoyable."

The concert was held without interference, although five police officers were stationed around the building to prevent demonstrations.

STAR-SPANGLED SOLUTION — Rep. Craig Hosmer (R., Calif.), centre, has introduced a bill in the House offering this design for a new flag, if Alaska and Hawaii are admitted to the Union. Conceived by C. Parker Ruff, of Long Beach, Calif., placement of the stars outside the blue field could save some fifty million dollars in flag replacements. Secretaries Pearl Ledford, left, and Janice Hall help hold the flag.

Doctor Fights For Epileptics

TORONTO (CP)—A doctor said Wednesday night that municipalities which won't hire epileptics and unenlightened trade unions which refuse them union cards are making a "terrible mistake" in regarding epilepsy as a form of insanity.

Dr. H. J. M. Barnett, staff member of the University of Toronto and neurologist at Toronto General Hospital, said many intelligent people persist in the ancient misconception that epilepsy is a disease of the mind.

He was speaking during a panel discussion on the nervous system, the last of a series sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association.

CAN BE CURED

Many epileptics can be cured and most of them can be treated to the point where their outbreaks can be kept under control, he said.

"Epilepsy is not a scourge. It is compatible with normal living. Every day I work with professional people, doctors and nurses, who suffer from epilepsy. They are doing efficient, valuable jobs."

Gay Scarves Spark Wardrobes

Fashion starts at the top this spring with colorful neckline accents that have never been gayer, never so varied! And never before has there been such a challenging opportunity for costume transformation! There are new scarfs, bibs, collars, ties, stoles and wraps —all calculated to bring an exciting change of fashion pace to your wardrobe this season.

Brilliant buoyant hues, such as orange nasturtium, "parakeet" turquoise, warm-toned cognac, electrict blue and sunny golds vie with glowing pastels—champagne, coral, skyrose, mint green—in making colorful neckwear news. But fresh sparkling white, as the major accent or as the background for color, leads the list.

New Look In Scarfs

Scarf prints have a new look, a new definition for the new year. Geometrics are crisp and clear, foulards patterns are concise—but all are unquestionably feminine. Dots, stripes, abstracts are importantly featured in every sparkling shade. Many are seen in companion squares of 18-inch and 36-inch, the design enlarged or reduced in proportion. The perennial polka dot reappears in many new guises —as smoke rings, solar dots, ring dots, reverse dots, balloons. And stripes, too, run the gamut of fashion variety from thin pencil lines and candy stripes that pattern a solid bordered scarf to bold slope stripes that edge solid-centered squares.

Borderline scarfs—wide border designs that frame solid color centres—are newsmakers for spring. They offer endless tie-way possibilities without "hiding" the design.

THESE SCREWBALL HATS should start the wolf whistlers off. Sylvia Wilson designed the one with the bunny on top. It is in Chinese coolie straw topped by an Easter bunny and little bunnies too. The stole is a silver blue mink. Audrey Cosgrave, Toronto, right, wears an inverted flower pot design with little chicks on top and artificial flowers as decoration. —(Federal Newsphoto)

Of Interest to Women

Men Should Carry Hat If They're Not Wearing One

TORONTO — Most young men know how to behave properly, but they are sometimes absent-minded about the finer points of etiquette. This is the opinion of Shurly Dickson, a Toronto cosmetician.

Some of the manners she sees bother Miss Dickson. For instance, there is the girl standing in a restaurant waiting for someone to pull out her chair while her date is talking to someone else. Another thing to remember, she says, is that the girl follows the headwaiter if there is one, otherwise the man leads the way.

Another annoying mannerism Miss Dickson calls "distraction"—a man shaking hands with someone he's been introduced to while his eye wanders off in the direction of a pretty girl.

She doesn't approve of a man who polishes his shoes on the back of his pants leg while he rings the doorbell of a girl's home—especially if he leans on the doorbell while he's doing it. He should have polished his shoes before he got there, and one ring is enough.

Some men have an irksome habit of no tbeing on time—and coming too early is much worse than coming too late, she says.

One of her pet peeves is the young man who honks his horn outside a girl's home instead of going up and ringing the doorbell. She calls this "paralysis."

Also to be avoided are talking in abbreviation—"Hya," instead of "How do you do," and whistling in the drawing room, even if the giry is pretty.

As to clothes for men, Miss Dickson reverses the rule for girls, and tells men to overdress rather than underdress. "It's pretty hard for a man to overdress, short of wearing tails to a football game," she says.

The safest rule when in doubt, is a dark coat and grey flannels, which are suitable all year round, and look fine at both sports events and dances.

The dinner jacket is fine, she says, for receptions, night clubs, evening weddings, and formal dances.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Family Of Cooks Convinced Life Begins At Sixty-Five

Your roving reporter has been roving and is now reporting.

When your busy doctor friend, Kay Bates, calls you on the phone and says "Mary I have a story for you" you listen.

Some ladies who are his patients had gone into the home baking business in a modest way, and before they were well aware of what was happening to their serene lives on the farm, they were in the baking business in a big way.

That's what quality does for you. All you have to do is make a better loaf of bread...

When I arrived at Kay's office he left word with his nurse where he was off to, and he and Margie his wife and I drove to the home of Mrs. Bertha Lewis (65), the manager and head baker. Her daughter-in-law Margeurite is her capable (and pretty) assistant and makes and ices all of the cakes. Her older sister Mrs. Maude Harrison, was up to her elbows in bread dough when we arrived and is the member of the team who keeps the place in order. Mrs. Lewis does everything else—tarts (butter and almond), nut loaves, cookies (thousands), muffins, etc.

The dining-room table was covered and loaded with boxes full of cakes—sponge, angel, sponge of the yolk and white variety called by some of us "sunshine" and white cakes in every guise. They were beautifully frosted by Marguerite in various attractive icings and decorations—indeed so much so that I didn't know where to start with my note-taking. One thing I did know though was that Mary wasn't going to do any baking over the weekend with all those goodies under her very nose to choose from.

The taking-down-of - facts was pleasantly interrupted by the offer of a butter tart to each of the visitors, which melted in our mouths. Two dozen more were a-baking in the oven. You cooks realize what a strain it was on me not to be able to ask for those recipes!

While we were munching on tarts two other members of the family came into the kitchen—Mrs. Lewis' grandchildren. Larry who is two and Anne who is a brown-eyed little beauty of six Susan who is eight was at schoo

To get ready for the Saturda market the ladies start makin cookies on Tuesday and Wednes day. On Thursdays they mak their cakes and an important thin to note is the fact that they do no use baking powder in them. Baking soda and sour milk are thei standbys because the cakes sta fresher longer. (I guess they can teach me a thing or three!)

How would you gals of 65 and over like to spend the evening o Thursday "in town" then come home around 10 or 11 o'clock and start making bread dough, so i will be set to rise by morning, ready for a Friday morning attack on their orders for bread?

If any of you who read this are over 65 and 70 don't get an idea in your dear grey heads that you are past your usefulness. These ladies get up at 6 A.M. on baking days.

And on Saturday morning at 6 A.M. Mrs. Lewis' son Lawrence loads all of the baked goods into his car, plus Maude and Bertha, and they set off for the city market. They arrive there at 7 a.m. and between that time and 11 A.M. every last delicious crumb is sold.

I asked Mrs. Lewis if she had any pies for sale for all of my children were coming home for the weekend. She said "Why do you fill your oven with 4 pies that would take you an hour to make and another hour to bake when you can make 12 or 15 cakes in the same length of time—and charge more for them?" She stumped me. The thing that amazed me the most though was those "4 pies in 1 hour". It takes me 1 hour flat to make a lemon meringue pie—just one!

...and that isn't all. Son Lawrence is a fine artist, for we saw ree samples of his beautiful deiled work, very like fine etchgs of the head of an Indian and rearing horse in charcoal and astel. He could doubtless sell iem in a very select market.

The wonderful thing about them ll is their modesty and serenity nd cheerfulness.

At 65 I thought I'd be dangling grandchildren on my knee. By the ooks of things at present I'll be doing that—but if cash runs short maybe I could take some breadmaking lessons from Mrs. Lewis, get a stall on the market and hope omebody would buy bread—or old pencils!

TEA CONVENERS AND TOP OFFICERS of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' Church enjoyed a few minutes together with a cup of tea during their Eastertime afternoon tea on Wednesday. Flowers And Symbols Deck Tea Room

The Easter symbols—chickens and bunnies; the Easter colors—yellow and mauve; and a bank of stately Easter lilies were pleasingly combined to make the setting for the annual Easter tea of the King's Own Bible Class at St. James' United church Wednesday afternoon.

Brightly painted pictures of chicks, ducklings and bunnies were on mauve wall panels, and the colors were repeated in streamers marking off the tea-room section, while everywhere in the hall there was sign of the artistic touch of some class member. The lilies had been put in the church on Easter Sunday by each of the adult Bible classes.

Mauve stocks and yellow 'mums and daisies made up the floral centrepiece for the tea-table and the flanking candles were a deep mauve shade. Presiding over the silver tea services the first hour were Mrs. Lloyd Shorten and Mrs. E. Kitney, and for the second hour Mrs. L. Gibson and Mrs. G. Pearson.

The tea conveners were Mrs. Roy Gilders and Mrs. W. K. Sloane and their assistants in the tea-room were Mrs. L. Ball, Mrs. E. Hunter, Mrs. M. Hess, Mrs. W. Floyd, Mrs. W. Stanbury, Mrs. A. Williamson, Mrs. P. Stewart, Mrs. H. Turney and Mrs. W. Downer.

The plates were prepared and the tea made by Mrs. G. Rowe, Mrs. E. Lillico and Mrs. E. L. Woodcock.

In the bazaar section there was a very handsomely made quilt which many of the tea guests were appraising and speculating on buying. It was finally purchased by the class president, Mrs. Austin Poast. This and other hand-sewn articles were for sale by Mrs. F. Turner and Mrs. C. Murduff.

The home-baking table was attended by Mrs. J. Freeman and Mrs. L. Bird and the candy table by Mrs. E. Morrison and Mrs. F. Finnie.

Mrs. Poast was assisted in receiving by First Vice-President Mrs. Lewis Webb. The tickets were taken by Mrs. E. Kent and Miss Mary Collins.

Assistance of some older girls of the Sunday school was appreciated in the nursery. These girls were Leona Jones, Ann Gibson, Pat Watson and Donna Harding.

Nancy Wood and Nancy Ball played the piano in the tea-room.

SPRING DRESS with sculptured pattern is practical fashion for small fry. The fabric is nylon with interesting dimensional look. High-midriff effect in front is achieved by use of attached sash that ties with big bow at the back.

Mrs. E. Graham reported gratifying results from the recent rummage sale.

Details of the community card and talent parties, to be held in members' homes, were discussed. Each member was asked to support this effort and see that collections are turned over to Mrs. D. J. Eldred before the June meeting.

Raffle tickets are now ready on two oil paintings which are the gift of Mr. J. E. R. Munro to the chapter. The winner will be announced at the Remembrance Day tea next fall.

A special events draw was another project approved.

As in the past, this chapter plans to purchase a silver trophy to be awarded at the PCVS cadet inspection.

SIGNING THE MARRIAGE REGISTER of the Glenview Presbyterian church in Toronto is the former Miss Brenda Joan Bowen of Peterborough, who has become the bride of Dr. Douglas Noel Crozier. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson Bowen of Peterborough and is a graduate nurse of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, where she has been a staff member the past year. Dr. Crozier, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Crozier, Toronto, is an interne at the hospital.

PAUL EPHGRAVE hopes he'll be the winner of the big bunny that was the draw prize at the Children's Bunny Tea at the YWCA Wednesday. Ticket seller Jean Anne Dobbin assures him he has a lucky ticket, and mother, Mrs. Frank Ephgrave, looks hopeful. (P.S: He didn't win.)

"Youngest Set" Attends YWCA Bunny Tea

Once a year it is the children's turn to go out for afternoon tea and mothers just to go along.

The Children's Bunny Tea, sponsored by the swimming department of the YWCA and held annually during the Easter holiday week, was again a tremendous attraction for the youngest "smart set" of Peterborough when it was held Wednesday afternoon.

Convener this year was a woman who had not even looked in on a previous tea, but the success with which Mrs. E. W. J. Collins carried out this big job proves there is something to that age-old remark "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

She had, however, as willing and helpful assistants all members of the swimming committee and Miss Roselyn Stone, director. Ladies of the Senior Swim Club and senior swimmers did the serving and Mrs. Rod McNab and Mrs. Clare Smith of the Heather Club made the tea.

A large stuffed bunny was donated for a draw prize by Mrs. Jack Lewis and during the tea there were three young Misses in costume selling draw tickets as well as giving out white felt bunny lapel pins as favors. Winner of the coveted bunny was Mrs. Earl T. Gordon.

Bunnies were the decorations everywhere in the two tea rooms, with bunny cookies served with sandwiches and cold drinks. Bunnies on the walls were liberally mixed with chickens and fluffy spring lambs that seemed to be cavorting in a meadow.

Among the young guests revelling in the profusion and confusion of this occasion were members of the handicapped children's swim classes, and children from St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Home, all of whom were sponsored on this occasion, and their transportation was provided by Y committee members.

After the refreshments had been served tables were cleared away. Then the children of six years and under, who were in the recreation room with their mothers, gathered themselves about Miss Eleanor Carroll to hear stories. The older children, who were in the gymnasium, joined in songs led by Mrs. John McColl and were entertained by drummer Murray Mander.

The Y Green Room was turned into a photographer's studio and quite a few mothers took this opportunity to get pictures taken of their children.

Proceeds of the tea are entirely for the World Service Fund.

Lions' Ladies' Club Told About Mental Clinics

The Lions Ladies' Club met for dinner Tuesday evening in the Kawartha Room at the Empress Hotel. Guest speaker was Dr. J. S. Pratten, of the Mental Health Clinic at the Civic Hospital, who was introduced by Mrs. Ron Magee.

Dr. Pratten stated that "mental illness is Canada's number one health problem." He added that there are 60,000 people in Canada's mental hospitals at the moment. An outline of the work being done for them showed that community services for the mentally ill have progressed greatly from the time when mentally ill persons were kept in the background and given little care.

Community clinics set up to aid the mentally ill can be assisted greatly in this work by the backing of service clubs and all other organizations, the doctor said in closing.

A discussion period followed, after which Dr. Pratten was thanked by Mrs. Vic Fredericks.

It was reported that hams and Easter eggs were sent to the children in the Children's Home at Easter and that children in St. Vincent's Orphanage had received Easter eggs and rubber footwear. A donation of $25 was voted to the Save the Children Fund.

Winners of the evening's draw prizes were Mrs. Harvey Wagner, Mrs. Jim Dutton, Mrs. Bill McFadden, Mrs. Walter Mortlock, Mrs. Vic Fredericks and Mrs. Ron Magee.

Retiring president Mrs. Bus Mitchell presented the proposed slate of officers for the coming year and it was adopted.

To be installed at the May meeting are president, Mrs. Jack Smyth; first vice-president, Mrs. George Murray; second vice-president, Mrs. Jack Duncan; secretary, Mrs. Kay Bleakley; treasurer, Mrs. Frank O'Neill; two-year directors, Mrs. Ray Clarke and Mrs. Harry Knox; one-year directors, Mrs. Carm Foster and Mrs. Vic Fredericks.

DOROTHY DIX

Hubby Sighs Of Lost Love, Wife Should Recall Beaux

DEAR MISS DIX: Do men always carry fond memories of former sweethearts? We have been married a bit over a year and have a two-month-old baby, yet Jerry still hasn't forgotten the girl who pilted him several years ago. He is forever mentioning her name (at least once a week), talks about what they did together, and almost breaks his neck to say "hello" to her when they meet in town. She's married, too, and has four children.

Could he possibly love me, or is he still carrying a torch for her? I'm torn to pieces by this and, although I've asked him to stop talking about her, he still does. However, if I mention one of my former beaux, he gets very angry. If I happen to meet one and we pass a casual greeting, Jerry says I'm flirting. How can I make him realize the seriousness of the situation without having him think I'm jealous?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: With jealousy sticking out all over like the quills of a porcupine, you certainly would have some job convincing Jerry that you aren't a victim of the green-eyed monster. You have some justification, sure, but don't let it show so glaringly. Every wife would love to see her husband's ex-dates exiled to Siberia. But alas, they go right on living—often in the same town. So what can you do but be sensible about it? After all, your particular Nemesis is married and certainly has no designs on your man.

Mentioning a girl's name once a week isn't exactly "forever," and greeting her on the street is merely a matter of courtesy. You are keeping the topic alive rather than Jerry. You've got to learn to ignore it; figuring out the best way to do so is your present problem. When Jerry brings up the girl's name, counter with a remark about an old beau of yours. Meet Jerry's irritation by saying that as much time should be given to your past as to his. Or, leave the room with the observation that you've heard just about all you can stand concerning the young lady. Or, best defense of all, bring up the subject yourself occasionally. If you meet her in town, be pleasant, then regale Jerry with a description of the girl, her children, your conversation, and any odds and ends. Possibly Jerry still feels hurt as he recalls the jilting, but he'll recover in time.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 38, and have been married for five years to a man who had been married and divorced. I have had to work all through our married life, not from necessity but because my husband is too stingy to buy clothes, furniture or anything that isn't absolutely necessary. He is a heavy drinker and extremely jealous. So, all in all, our life together has been anything but happy. We are both Catholic, and while I attend church regularly, he never goes. Would I be better off away from him?

Clarice T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A marriage so devoid of any semblance of compatibility, companionship, or love certainly hasn't much to its credit. Since your marriage to a divorced man probably has barred you from the sacraments of your church, it would be a good idea to take your problem to your priest and have him show you the way to a satisfactory solution.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a college girl 20 years old, informally engaged to a man in another city. Since our marriage cannot take place for another two years, he feels I should go out with other young men. However, my worry is that if I casually date boys from the college, they may get serious notions. How can I keep this from happening?

Lee F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your engagement is something new added to the book of etiquette. To the best of my knowledge, an engagement doesn't carry qualifications of formal or informal. Either it exists as an engagement or it doesn't exist. Your case is apparently one of casual attachment in the event, or until, someone else comes along. You'd be better off if you formally break this informal arrangement and date as you wish.

Bomber Top, Boxy Jacket Leaders In New Sportswear

Softer sports suits, many new sports costumes and a general feeling of youth and vigor typify this season's separates. This spring's fit is more pronounced softer and rounder. Shoulders are low and there is pretty top detail.

In sportswear the boxy jacket is leader; but even the box gives a suggestion of nipping at the waist. Coming up in the fashion forefront is the bomber top, which introduces back blousing or pleating.

The barrel jacket looks new in lightweight pastel-colored fabrics. All are cropped short and take well to ensemble combination.

The newest skirts are full all-'round pleated or with six to eight gores and lined with taffeta for flare. Most skirts are slim and darted or tucked at the top for smooth hip fit. Kick pleats front and back allow easy movement.

Soft tweeds and flannels make most slim sport skirts, and one-side detail — such as flanges or row-on-row pockets — is a spring signature.

FEMININE BLOUSES

Blouses this spring offer the utmost in sweet femininity. Because top interest is so important, blouses are styled to catch the eye and set the scene for many sports outfits. Soft, interesting necklines are prime features, backed up by shoulder draping or puffed sleeves.

Dressy blouses tend to be fuller through the back and sleeves, more prettily detailed in front. Ruffles around the collar or down the button placket are typical. Lace ruffles edge dark cottons. Eyelet borders the bib on a toreador blouse. Checked gingham shirts have strips of smaller-check ruffles.

Shirts will be man-tailored for a "little boy" look, but the fabric will be definitely lady-like. Tiny flower prints, pint-size Peter Pan collars, dainty pocket detail will contrast with the tailored cut.

White lingerie touches and pretty, soft bows provide additional top interest. Fabric favorites include fine broadcloth shirtings, calicoes and linens in the shirt division.

SUPPLE FABRIC

The dressier blouses will appear in silk surahs, shantungs, orlon-cotton and silk blends, batistes and pimas. Look for fabrics that take well to shirring, draping and tucking. Look for clear, light colors and light-hearted prints.

Active separates take a tailored turn toward poplin, sailcloth and linen — newly crease-resistant. Linen-like rayons and cottons look new in shorts, halters and jackets with square tab details, lots of stitching, sleeve pockets and an assortment of inspired trims.

Even the most on-the-go sports togs carry a feeling of schoolgirl gaiety and fashion-wise styling.

Stock Prices Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in light early afternoon stock market trading today.

Utilities, foods and refining oils led a slightly firmer industrial list in the lightest trading of the week. Papers, liquors and textiles were lower and steels and constructions were steady.

Canso Oil Products dropped 62½ cents and Canada Southern was off 30 cents to show the biggest western oil changes.

Base metals followed 75-cent and 30-cent losses by Hudson Bay and Consolidated Smelters. Juniors were down and Manitouwadge-area isses were also off. Golds were a little stronger in seniors and juniors while holding companies were steady in narrow-range trading. Uraniums were sharply off in light trading and Bathurst-area base metals continued their recent quiet slip.

Oshaw Driver Killed

OSHAWA (CP) — Fred K. Ostashewski, 22, of Oshawa, was fatally injured today when a panel truck he was driving went off the pavement of Highway 401 just inside Oshawa's eastern limits, ran onto the boulevard and hit an obstruction. Police said the man, alone in the truck, was thrown through the windshield.

He died in hospital.

THE MOST ADVANCED HOUSE of the six now abuilding on the Hatton property took 12 working days to bring to this stage. With current fine weather contractors are ready to start work as soon as financial arrangements are completed on other properties. The property owners, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, say that there are only ten lots left to sell out of the original 98 lots offered to the public Mar. 1. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Nervous Driver Not Guilty Of Drunkenness

A man whose friends said he is so nervous that he completely lost his reason when given a shock, appeared in court today charged with drunk driving.

After hearing lengthy evidence, during which the accused, William Trainor of Marg's Cabins, broke down in tears, Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, reduced the charge to impairment and entered a fine of $75, costs $2.50. A further charge of having no driver's licence cost Trainor $10, costs $2.50.

It was alleged in testimony by police constables Wilfred Perry and Louis Rodregue that they had found Trainor in a drunken condition at the scene of a collision on Queen St. at midnight, April 11. The Trainor car had rammed into the back of a parked vehicle causing fairly extensive damage. With Trainor, in the car at the time of the accident, was a Mrs. Margaret Smith.

The constables said that Trainor had been unable to walk steadily, was blurred of speech and could not seem to remember exactly what had happened.

Defence lawyer Trevor Clarke borught forward two workmates of Trainor who testified that he was an extremely nervous person and lost his reason when given a shock. They considered that his condition at the scene of the accident would be due to nerves, just as easily as liquor.

FIVE GLASSES

Trainor told of having five glasses of beer at a city beverage room during the evening in company with Mrs. Smith, who told the court she had consumed six glasses.

Driving down Queen St., Trainor said he had been blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, had been forced over to the side of the street, his dog had jumped from the back seat into the front and he had rammed the back of the other vehicle. He agreed with the constables' evidence that he had broken into tears at the scene. He said it was because Mrs. Smith "was chewing me."

Mrs. Smith told the court that Trainor was not staggering . . . "not like the officer said . . . he was nervous . . . he's always nervous . . . he drove good". She admitted yelling at him just prior to the accident, and went on to say that Trainor was always nervous when driving.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw: "You were pretty well under the weather yourself that night weren't you?"

Mrs. Smith: "No, I'd only had six beers."

WOMAN DRIVING

Mr. Bradshaw: "The officers tell me you tried to convince them that you were driving the car at the time of the accident. Why did you say that?"

Mrs. Smith: "The way I looked at it was that if he lost his car he'd have a long walk home . . . that's the way I looked at it."

After hearing Mr. Clarke's submission that nervousness was probably mistaken for drunkenness, the magistrate reduced the charge to impairment. He said, however, that Trainor should not be driving at all if he was in such bad shape.

The magistrate then entered the fines and told Trainor to pay one of the officers.

"I've got the dough here. I can do it," said Mrs. Smith.

you by the Trades and Labor Congress."

"Some members of the union came to my office," the mayor said. "I don't think you liked me saying you were AFL."

"I strongly object to this action of yours," Ald. Beggs said. "It's humorous to the people who have received this information; but I have devoted my time to trade unionism and I believe in the principles of trade unionism . . . It is those principles that I am upholding."

"You've never heard me say anything against a union," the mayor said. "I'm saying that they came to me. I think you should bring these men to my office where we can all hear them."

SPOKE TO ONE

"Who can hear them?"

"All the aldermen," the mayor said. "I'm aware of one person that I might have spoken to. What I said was that you wouldn't have had a council seat if I hadn't resigned. As far as I can see, there are two aldermen who have been riding me since the first of the year."

"Your Worship, I was just as anxious as you were to clear up anything that was wrong with the sanitation department," Ald. Beggs said. "I told you something in confidence but it seems you can't keep a confidence."

"Not with me you can't," His Worship said. "But you did admit there was something wrong but you couldn't put your finger on it. I could put my finger on it tonight."

"I just wanted to make it plain that you couldn't keep a confidence," Ald. Beggs said.

At this point the meeting came to a halt when a motion for adjournment was endorsed.

Union Opposes Ban On Lead Shipments

TORONTO (CP) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) today informed Trade Minister Howe that it opposed any restrictions against lead and zinc shipments to the United States.

A U.S. sub-committee raised the possibility earlier this week in reporting to the Senate.

In a telegram to Mr. Howe, the Canadian Mine Mill Council said it "is inconceivable that the Canadian government would agree to any proposals that Canada voluntarily accept curtailment of lead and zinc exports to the United States."

The council urged Canada to advise the United States in the event of any such restrictions that Canada would be prepared "to take retaliatory action on nickel, asbestos, uranium and tungsten."

Try Rain-Making To Slow Enemy

PARIS (AP)—The French high command is reported using artificial rain-making in north Indo-China to slow down Vietminh supplies to the rebel troops besieging Dien Bien Phu.

The French figure the start of the annual monsoon downpours, due by the end of the month, will slow the rebel fighters and their convoys from Communist China.

News dispatches from Saigon today quoted French military sources as saying: "Experiments to provoke artificial rain on Vietminh communications centres have been carried out by the French command in north Vietnam. First results have been encouraging."

What was done was not disclosed. Presumably planes fed rain clouds with chemicals.

Overcome By Fumes 2 Teen-agers Very Ill

COCHRANE (CP) — Two teen-agers are in serious condition in hospital today after they were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes in their parked car Wednesday.

Leo Paul Parent, 18, and Jacqueline Lamothe, 15, were found by two boys in a car parked on a side road five miles south of here. The motor was running.

Cochrane is about 40 miles north of Timmins.

Colombo Powers Prepared To Enforce Terms With Troops

Five Asian Powers Have Reached Agreement To Solve Indo-China Problem

By PHILIP DEANE
(London Observer Foreign News Service)

COLOMBO, Ceylon. — The five Asian powers (India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia), whose prime ministers are due to meet in Colombo next week, have already tentatively agreed to a plan for solving the Indo-China problem, I am authoritatively informed.

The plan, if finally accepted by the premiers at their meeting April 28, will call for a cease-fire on the basis of a "temporary territorial settlement"; withdrawal of all foreign troops—French and Chinese, if any, included; administration or supervision of Indo-China for a transitional period of up to five years by the five Colombo powers.

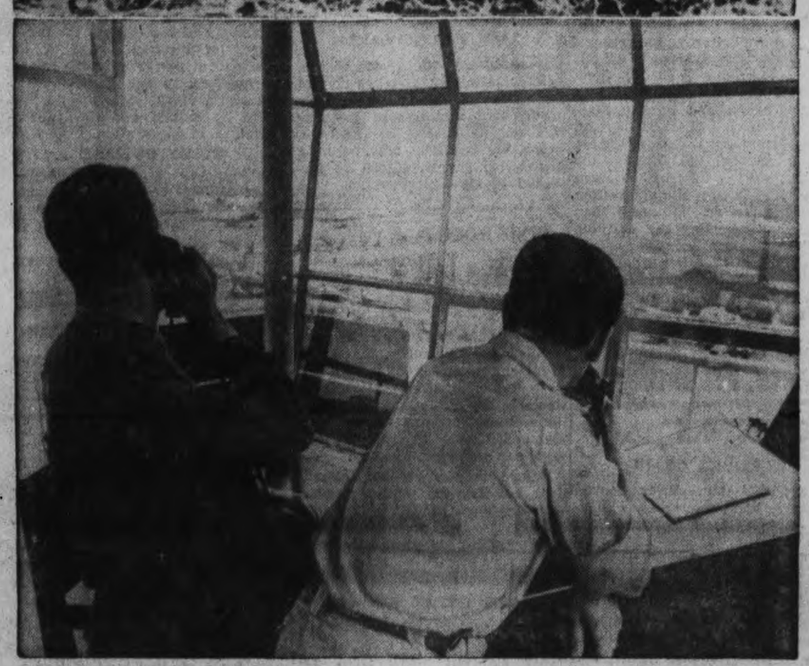
During the transitional period, the local Indo-Chinese government would be carried on by Vietminh in its area and the non-Communists in theirs.

Five Colombo powers would enforce the cessation of subversive and guerrilla activities and would withdraw after having achieved an agreed division of Indo-China or carried out general elections.

INDIA WOULD HELP

I understand India, which normally does not want international commitments, would agree to use her troops and administrators in Indo-China for the purpose of putting an end to a colonial regime.

The five supervisory powers in Indo-China would guarantee to keep out the Chinese Communists but would not proscribe local Communist leaders.



A "temporary territorial settlement" would give Tonkin and northern Annam to Ho Chi Minh.

PREPARED TO USE TROOPS

The sponsors of the plan are prepared to back up with troops and administrators whatever concrete detailed arrangements they work out after their plan is accepted. They do not expect that the West will reject the plan although they expect American criticism of the plan's practicability.

As for the Communists; my informant stated: "If they reject such a plan, it will be proof that they (the Communists) are aggressive and the Asians will be convinced then—they are not now—that Communist expansion is more dangerous than Western imperialism."

DOING THEIR BEST—Smoke billows skyward (top photo) from a burning French plane trying to aid the staunch defenders of the fortress at Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China. United States airstrip controllers of operations (lower) at the Indo-China airport of Bach-Mai, use phones in the control tower as they give orders for planes to leave for the besieged fortress.

Enemy Takes New Outpost

HANOI (CP)—Communist-led Vietminh tonight captured another French Union outpost in the northwestern corner of Dien Bien Phu fortress and drove to within 700 yards of the heart of the bastion. The French retreat across their shell-cratered air-strip followed some of the bloodiest hand-to-hand fighting since the rebels began their offensive last month.

At Saigon, United States-airlifted paratroopers from France began pouring into Indo-China today as the desperate French defenders of Dien Bien Phu battled new attacks.

The first of a fleet of huge U.S. Air Force C - 124 Globemasters stopped briefly in Saigon today with 220 French jump troops who were rushed out of France Tuesday.

Vietminh troops meanwhile smashed into the key northwestern defences of beleaguered Dien Bien Phu, and the French high command said fierce hand-to-hand fighting had been in progress.

A brief French communique did not indicate whether the continuing see-saw battle for the northwest defences marked the start of the anticipated third mass try at overrunning the battered French defences on the encircled plain.

HEAVY LOSSES

The Vietminh were driven out of some forward points in the northwest corner Thursday by fierce counter-attacks. The French claimed the enemy suffered "heavy losses."

But the rebels came back early today with renewed attacks at this

Cut Down Tree Rescue Woman

KENOGAMI, Que. (CP)—A demented, middle-aged woman clung precariously to the top branches of a huge tree here Thursday for three hours before the tree was cut down beneath her and lowered to the ground by cables.

She was taken, uninjured, to hospital at nearby Chicoutimi. Name of the woman was not released.

The woman climbed into the tree, apparently after suffering a mental fit, and clung to the branches some 110 feet from the rocky ground in the Price Brothers Limited park.

Then, while some 250 spectators gathered in a steady rainfall, police and fire department men from Kenogami and neighboring towns pleaded with her to come down. She refused to move.

A ladder was placed against the tree, but police who climbed it were unable to reach her.

Finally a net was stretched across the ground, cables attached to the tree to control its fall and the 18-inch trunk was sawed through near the base.

Blames Reds For Beating

LEEDS, England (AP)—Derek Kinne, 23-year-old British hero of the Korean war, today blamed Communist thugs for a vicious attack on his mother, and offered to fight them "one at a time or all together."

Mrs. Vincenza Kinne, 50, was kicked and slugged unconscious two days ago by three men who appeared at her house demanding to see her son. Kinne was not at home at the time.

He won the George Cross for courageous conduct under long mistreatment in a North Korean prisoner-of-war camp. He has since returned to civilian life.

Kinne said he recently received an anonymous letter declaring: "It is traitors like you that are creating misery all over the world." He told reporters:

"The only enemies my mother and I have are Communists. I suppose these cowards beat her up because she refused to take part in one of those phony Red 'peace' conferences in London while I was still a prisoner-of-war."

Will Lose Hour's Sleep

Millions Of Canadians Put Clock Ahead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Millions of Canadians will put the clock ahead an hour during the coming week-end as daylight time takes over for the spring and summer months.

In doing so, they will lose the hour's sleep, which they can catch up on when they go back to standard time Sept. 26.

A Canadian Press survey today showed virtually all areas making the switch will do so at 2 a.m. local time Sunday. In some other years, differences in the time of the changeover added to the confusion.

In two provinces, Alberta and Prince Edward Island, daylight time is banned by law. Elsewhere, many farming communities and a few urban centres ignore the "fast time" which city workers like because it gives them daily an extra hour of afternoon sunshine. Farmers object because they cannot change their schedule of chores.

Saskatchewan regulates daylight time by provincial statute. Cities, towns and villages which decide by local vote to go on daylight time must abide by the effective dates set by the province. All Saskatchewan cities — Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Prince Albert—set the clocks ahead.

Winnipeg and its suburbs put the clock ahead but rural areas of Manitoba stay on standard time. Daylight time will be in effect throughout British Columbia.

Quebec's cities and their surrounding areas use daylight time.

Every Ontario city and many of the towns and villages surrounding them will be on daylight time this summer. Windsor, which held to standard time last year, decided by city council vote Wednesday to join the rest.

Geneva Talks Remain Big 4 Meet

Western Powers Reject New Bid Include Red China

PARIS (AP)— France, Britain and the United States told Russia today that they consider that the forthcoming Geneva conference is a four-power conference and that Communist China will not have equal status in it.

The Western powers sent their note in reply to a Russian note received Thursday in which the Soviets insisted that China was to be considered to have equal status with the Big Four at the conference opening Monday to consider how to achieve peace in Korea and Indo-China.

The Soviet demand, made before and emphatically rejected by the Western Big Three, came again in notes delivered in Washington, London and Paris.

WON'T POSTPONE OPENING

French foreign office sources immediately indicated that they felt the new Russian note would not postpone the opening of the Geneva talks, now scheduled to open Monday. The French said the Russian communication does not necessarily require an answer, since it merely restates a previous Soviet position. London sources, however, feared the new note might endanger the conference from its opening session.

The Western powers contend that Foreign Minister Molotov agreed for Russia at the January Berlin conference that China was only "invited" to the Geneva meeting. The communique issued at the end of the Berlin meeting specified that Red China's attendance at Geneva would not constitute diplomatic recognition of Peiping.

FOREIGN MINISTERS MEET

The latest Russian move became known as the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic alliance met in Paris for a confidential preview of the Western Big Three's strategy plans for Geneva.

After remarks from Lord Ismay, their British secretary - general, the 14 - member North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Foreign Ministers closed their doors on outsiders to hear from State Secretary Dulles, Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Bidault.

Building Up Resistance Cells

BONN (Reuters) — A leading official of a Russian exile group in West Germany said today—following exposure of a Soviet "murder mission" plot — that the group has been building up resistance cells in Russia.

The official of the NTS organization said many of these cells were built through Soviet soldiers who had been stationed in Germany.

His remarks followed Thursday's revelations that Georgi Okolovich, a member of the NTS executive committee, had been earmarked for murder by Russian authorities.

American intelligence officials here have expressed the belief that Russia will be compelled to reorganize radically its intelligence and sabotage set-up in Germany and Austria because of Khokhlov's desertion.

The NTS official said Okolovich directed the psychological warfare of NTS against the Russians.

The official said NTS has been building up small groups, preferably not exceeding three members, in Russia. These are instructed to have no contact with other groups —to avoid a "chain reaction" if one member is arrested.

UNDER ARREST—In a surprise move today, RCMP officers arrested Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis, who guided Newfoundland's industrial development for two years. He is being held on an extortion charge.

Murder Mission Uncivilized U.S. Tells Soviets

BONN (Reuters) — The United States today accused Russia of a "deliberately outrageous and uncivilized course of conduct" for ordering a murder mission into West Germany.

U. S. sources said the protest was in a letter from the acting U. S. high commissioner, Walter Dowling, to Soviet high commissioner Vladimir Semenov. An official statement was expected later today.

Dowling referred to the cases of Capt. Nikolai Khokhlov, Soviet secret police officer who said he was sent to the American zone of Germany to murder a leading member of the anti-Soviet NTS organization, and of Dr. Alexander Truchnovich, West Berlin head of the group, who was reported kidnapped in Berlin April 13.

MASS ARRESTS MADE

Reliable allied sources said Khokhlov's information has already led to a wave of secret arrests and interrogations of Soviet agents in many parts of Western Europe. U. S. officials said he has given the "best ever" bag of information on the Soviet secret police.

They said the 32-year-old Capt. Khokhlov will be kept in hiding for "at least another three weeks" to give American authorities time to gain further information from him on the workings of Russian espionage.

Khokhlov broadcast an appeal in Russian over the Voice of America to the Russian people Thursday asking them to help save his wife, Yanina, who persuaded him to give himself up rather than commit murder, and their son, Alexander. Both are believed still living in a village near Moscow.

HAD SILENT PISTOL

Equipped with a silent pistol concealed in a cigaret case and firing poison bullets, Khokhlov was sent by the MVD (Russian secret police) to kill an anti-Communist Russian in Frankfurt, West Germany.

But, spurred on by the pleas of his wife, he decided even before he left Russia that he would not carry out his murder mission, and surrendered to the west with his

Bengough Retiring As TLC President

OTTAWA (CP)—Percy R. Bengough said today he is retiring this year om the presidency of the Trade and Labor Congress of Canada, the country's largest labor organization.

Mr. Bengough said in an interview he will no be a candidate for the office at the TLC's annual convention next August in Regina.

The 71-year-old president has been a congress officer since 1931 and head of the TLC since 1942. His twelve elections to the presidency have been by acclamation.

Full-Scale Inquiry At Burwash

Five Inmates Still At Large After Prison Escape

SUDBURY (CP)— Superintendent Charles Sanderson of the Burwash industrial farm said today a full-scale investigation is being made into the escape of five inmates from the prison establishment 20 miles south of here Thursday.

The escaped prisoners are still at large and provincial police throughout northern Ontario have been warned to be on the lookout for them.

Four of the men escaped from their cell block in the main building between 8:30 and 9 p. m. before lockup time. They were Arminas Lapierre, 37, of Cornwall; Clarence McRitchie, 37 of Toronto; Leo Bedard, 22, of Hawkesbury and Antoinio Robert 21, of Ottawa.

Roy Allen Wood, 21, of Oshawa, escaped from a work gang in the bush 1½ miles west of the main buildings at 3 p. m.

THREE SERVING MAXIMUMS

Three of the four who escaped from the main building were serving the maximum sentence possible at Burwash, two years less one day; and the fourth escapee, McRitchie, had just completed a

Believe Latvian Took Thousands From Industries

ST. JOHN'S,, Nfld. (CP)—Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis, the the economic mystery man who came to Canada as a displaced person and headed Newfoundland's post-Confederation industrial drive, was arrested by RCMP today on a warrant charging extortion.

Premier Smallwood, who once told Dr. Valdmanis he would erect a statue to his memory, said the former director-general of economic development for the province was arrested early in the morning in New Brunswick.

He said "these sums run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars."

HAD $30,000 SALARY

Dr. Valdmanis occupied the economic development post until early last year when he was appointed chairman of the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation at a $30,000 annual salary, an increase of $5,000 over the earlier position. NALCO is a crown-controlled corporation.

Premied Smallwood on Feb. 10 announced the resignation of the Latvian-born economist as chairman of NALCO, but reasons for the resignation were not disclosed. Today, however, Premier Smallwood said he had asked for Dr Valdmanis' resignation.

"Up to the time I asked Valdmanis for his resignation," said the premier, "I had no reason to suspect him of personal dishonesty. Soon after his resignation, however, my suspicions were

Take Valdmanis From Bed At 2 In Morning

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Dr. Alfred Valdmanis was roused out of bed at the home of his brother at 2 a. m. today by an RCMP officer and arrested on a warrant charging extortion while working for the Newfoundland government.

Dr. Osvald Valdmanis, brother of the former director of economic development for Newfoundland, said the RCMP officer allowed his brother 20 minutes to dress and then took him away.

He said he had no idea why his brother was arrested.

"I really don't know what it's all about. My brother didn't tell me anything," he said.

After Dr. Valdmanis left with the RCMP officer, his whereabouts became a mystery. It was presumed, however, that he was being flown back to Newfoundland

Woman Hears Thump

Nine-Year-Old Boy Saved From Ice-Box

Peterborough came very close to having its first ice-box suffocation Thursday evening, but an alert Water St. woman prevented the tragedy.

At dusk, Mrs. Annie Baker, 384½ Water St., was hanging clothes along a line extended into the alley back of her second-storey apartment. She heard small noises coming from the darkened yard below and investigated. Doing so, she quite probably saved the life of nine-year-old Carl Whalen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Whalen, 384½ Water St., who was locked inside an abandoned ice-box.

"I was hanging these old rags out on the clothesline," said Mrs. Baker, "when I heard a little thump, thump, thump coming from the yard. I thought someone was in the car below or was hitting it."

Mrs. Baker went back inside but again went out minutes later to the small balcony.

HEARD NOISE AGAIN

"I still heard the sounds and thought 'that's funny'. I called from the balcony and asked if anyone was in the icebox.

"I said: 'Is that you, Carl?' and he said: 'Yes'. I could just hear him call."

Earlier Mrs. Baker had seen several little children playing hide-and-seek in the yard and this made her think one of them might be in the icebox.

Mrs. Baker went to the Whalen's apartment and told the Whalens Carl was there.

"I ran downstairs and let him out", said Carl's sister, Jean, 15.

Quite unconcerned about his brush with death, Carl told neighbors today that "we were just playing and I was sitting in there when Keith (his playmate was Keith Ward) closed the door." The catch caught and Carl was locked in.

According to Carl, the six-year-old Ward boy then simply said: "We'd better go home", and then left, leaving Carl in the ice-box.

After about five minutes Carl began to thump the ice-box door. These were the sounds heard by Mrs. Baker and resulted in Carl's freedom.

BRUSH WITH DEATH — Nine-year-old Carl Whalen, 384½ Water St., escaped suffocation in an abandoned ice-box Thursday night, thanks to the alertness of Mrs. Annie Baker (at left). He had been playing and then climbed into the ice-box. Another little boy closed the door and then went home. While hanging out clothes Mrs. Baker heard Carl thumping in the ice-box. Carl shows his sister, Jean (right photo), how he could just sit in the ice-box.

Judge Rules Davies Guilty Of Passport Fraud, Sentenced To Two Years

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ottawa judge has ruled Montreal writer Raymond Arthur Davies is in fact Russian-born Rudolph Shohan, a name associated with past Communist activities.

Judge A. G. McDougall Thursday sentenced Davies—or Shohan—to two years in penitentiary for falsely declaring in an application for a Canadian passport in 1936 that he was Raymond Arthur Davies, British subject born in Montreal in 1902.

The county court judge said evidence at a two-day trial showed conclusively Davies is a Russian who emigrated with his family to Boston in 1921 and later became active in Canada and the United States as an organizer of the Young Communist League.

In sentencing the 46-year-old writer to the "rather light" maximum penalty, Judge McDougall said: "I can find no excuse for you."

Peter Newcombe, defence counsel, said today he plans to appeal the sentence. Thursday he described as a "red herring" evidence of Davies' Communist activities in the 1930s and said it had nothing to do with the charge.

Judge McDougall, who presided at some of Canada's spy trials in 1946, said he could take into account Davies' Communist past.

He said he discounted testimony given for the defence by Davies' wife, who had "done her best to assist her husband," because of her relation to the accused.

However, he said he gave considerable weight to the evidence of Cpl. John R. Abbott of Ottawa, RCMP photography expert, who said four photographs introduced as exhibits were all taken of the same person.

The pictures were: A police picture of Davies at the time of his arrest in 1952; a second identified as one of Davies in the 1930s; a third of a young boy found in Davies Montreal apartment in 1952 and a fourth taken from a group photograph of the Shohan family.

William O. Nowell of Detroit, former Communist, identified Davies as Rudolph Shohan, who made a speech at the 1930 national convention of the U.S. Communist party.

British Woman To Visit 'Boys'

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — A grey-haired, sparkling-eyed British woman who played mother to 40 Canadian servicemen during the war, is on a country-wide tour to visit her "boys."

During the Battle of Britain and in the later years of the war, Mrs. F. E. Simmons' Woodmansterne home in Surrey, became a haven for Canadians from the nearby airbase.

It was dubbed the "Dunnville Overseas Club," by flyers who had trained at Dunnville air base, Mount Hope, Ont.

Of the 40 Canadian servicemen who made her home theirs during the war, four were killed in action. During her month-long trip Mrs. Simmons will visit three of the men's mothers.

Mrs. Simmons has been in Canada since last May visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kerr of Woodstock. She leaves today for the West Coast, dropping in on families at Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, North Battleford, Edmonton and Victoria island as she goes. Her return trip to England is scheduled for July.

Could Mobilize 400 Divisions

PARIS (Reuters) — Intelligence reports on Russian military strength to be put before the North Atlantic Council here today show that the Soviet Union and her satellites could mobilize 400 divisions — about 8,000,000 men—within a month.

These reports show the Communist countries, excluding China, have more than 6,000,000 men under arms, of whom about 4,500,000 are in ground forces.

Soviet air strength remains at 20,000 planes, but in the last three years almost all piston-type fighters have been replaced by jets. Two-thirds of the light bomber force are jets, while medium bomber strength has doubled to about 1,000 TU-4s, similar to the U.S. B-29.

GREATEST STRIDES

Top allied military planners consider Russia's greatest strides have been in modernizing her air force and those of her east European neighbors. But they do not find the buildup either unexpected or perturbing.

They admit that the whole of Soviet air power exceeds that of the Allies in the crucial central European sector by about four to one.

But they point to the immense problems Russia would face in a global conflict when a large part of her forces would be dispersed for home defence and another part stationed on her eastern borders to meet Allied retaliation through "the back door."

Spring Weather Returns In U.S.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — New York state returned to spring today after its brief flirtation with summer ended in Thursday night showers, thundershowers, and a tornado scare.

The three-day stretch of summer-like weather that shot temperatures into the 80s in many areas ended on a note of tension in western and central New York when the weather bureau predicted the possibility of isolated tornadoes.

The danger was reported ended three hours after the warnings were issued.

The mercury reached a record 83 for the date in Syracuse Thursday, five degrees above the mark set two years ago. High today would be no better than the low 60s, it was predicted.

The 15 entries were judged by directors of the Sales and Ad club at the annual advertising night at Club Aragon.

SIGN STARTED FIRE

A small fire was quickly extinguished by firemen Thursday above the Churchill restaurant. Hydro wires contacting the restaurant's electric sign caused a short circuit which in turn heated the wires leading from the sign and ignited some moulding on the inner wall. Only a hand pump was necessary but Fire Chief Bill Sorrie told the Examiner a possible serious fire was avoided because of quick detection.

Promotion Earned General Insists

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, defender of besieged Dien Bien Phu, was quoted officially Thursday night as saying he is ready to give up his general rank if "the slightest doubt" exists as to the circumstances of his promotion from colonel.

The statement was issued by the military information office of the French Army headquarters in Hanoi.

De Castries was promoted to brigadier-general by the French government April 16 after it had been reported authoritatively that he was indignant at the delay in his promotion and was threatening to resign his commission.

Subsequently it was disclosed that it was his wife, Jacqueline, who in interviews in Hanoi, had authorized the report. She said her husband had authorized her to say he would quit the army unless he was promoted.

President Asks Co-operative Peace Built

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower likens Communist aims to those of Adolf Hitler, and counsels the free world to build a co-operative peace to avert Red domination.

"Aggression is still a terrible reality," he said Thursday night at a dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association's bureau of advertising.

"Either the nations will build a co-operative peace or, one by one, they will be forced to accept an imposed peace, now sought by the Communist powers, as it was by Hitler.

"If this is not to be an age of atomic hysteria and horror, we must make it the age of international understanding and co-operative peace.

"Even the most rabid Marxist, the most ruthless worshipper of force, will in moments of sanity admit that."

HEAVY POLICE GUARD

An unprecedented police guard was posted for the president, largely because the recent attacks on American public officials by Puerto Rican Nationalist fanatics were plotted in New York.

One thousand policemen lined the president's route between La Guardia airport and the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where he spoke.

Approximately 250 policemen, including 88 detectives, were stationed in and around the grand ballroom during his address.

Eisenhower disavowed any intention of telling the publishers "how to run your business," but suggested that the press can do more to promote domestic unity and international understanding.

More than 2,000 publishers, advertising men and guests applauded when he said "the press should give emphasis to the things that unite the American people equal to that it gives to the things that divide them."

SEES DANGERS

Without referring to current hearings on the McCarthy - army dispute, he said:

"If the day comes when personal conflicts are more significant than honest, debate on great policy, then the flame of freedom will flicker low indeed."

The president said some "foreign friends" regarded American civilization as "a collection of shiny gadgets" and Americans so immature in world politics as to be ready to provoke war recklessly and needlessly.

But "we know that we seek only peace, by co-operation among equals. Success in this great purpose requires that others likewise know this."

Stock Market Stronger In Light Trading

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market was a little stronger in light early afternoon trading today. Third-hour volume was a quiet 1,457,000 shares.

Most industrial categories were ahead and only utilities and refining oils resisted the higher swing. Papers, steels, liquors and manufacturing issues were the leaders in light trading. Minnesota and Ontario made one of the largest gains—62½ cents. Seldom-traded Goodyear dropped $2.50.

Western oils traded quietly. Pacific climbed 25 cents and Canada Southern 30.

Consolidated Smelters, up 75 cents, and Hudson Bay, ahead 50, led base metal seniors higher. MacKeno, up two cents as it traded 115,000 shares, was the junior feature. Manitouwadge-area issues were steady.

Golds were up slightly and uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals traded quietly.

weapons. With him were two East German aides whom he had chosen himself.

He brought information on the work of the MVD since the execution of its chief, Lavrenti Beria, and said it has two main advanced outposts for its agents in Western Europe—at Karlshorst, seat of the Soviet high commission for East Germany, and at Baden, in the Soviet zone of Austria near Vienna.

A slight man with fair hair and rimless glasses, Khokhlov told his story quietly and with scarcely a gesture at a huge press conference.

HOPED TO SAVE WIFE

He said he gave up his mission and came over to the West because his wife, still in Russia with their two-year-old son, had told him she would have nothing to do with an assassin.

"I asked her whether she realized what awaited her if I went to the West. She knew, and it in no way altered her decision. Then I made up my mind to come here," he said.

Khokhlov indicated he had hoped after his escape to bring his family to safety, possibly with American help.

But there were "found to be unexpected difficulties in the way," James McDermott, of the United States high commission, said. He did not amplify his remark.

"Hot" Dust

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP)—Dan Getman, a South Haven industrialist, reported that radioactive dust fell on this southwestern Michigan city last Sunday. Getman said he scraped a fine red ash from the top of his car, tested it with a geiger counter, and got a definite reaction.

TRIAL IN ST. JOHN'S

He said Dr. Valdmanis will be brought here for trial.

Premier Smallwood and Dr. Valdmanis together established about a dozen new industries in Newfoundland. Opposition members of the legislature often referred to the "Smallwood - Valdmanis government."

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Valdmanis said he was returning to Montreal to a job that "will keep me very much on the Canadian mainland and the U.S.A."

Mr. Smallwood said: "My decision to bring about the arrest of Alfred Valdmanis was the most unpleasant duty I have ever had to perform, and it will always be for me a matter of intense regret that one with his great talents should have to face such serious charges."

In announcing Valdmanis' resignation last February, Premier Smallwood commended the Latvian native for his efforts during four years toward expanding the province's industries and natural resources.

He said then: "Newfoundland will not soon again see so remarkable a man as Alfred Valdmanis."

SAVED BY KING GUSTAV

Dr. Valdmanis had held the portfolios of finance, economics, trade and industry in the Latvian government before the Second World War, having entered the cabinet for the first time in 1936 when only 29.

Forced to flee from both the Germans and the Russians in the war years that followed, he was said to have been saved once from death or long imprisonment by the personal intervention of King Gustav of Sweden.

He had been finance minister in the last Latvian republican government and strove to keep his little country independent. It was during the period of German and Russian occupations that his movements were clouded in mystery as he is reported to have worked underground in an attempt to assure that Latvia would continue its independence after the war.

During this period he is said to have been the financial brains behind various resistance movements to both the Russians and Germans. But his role has never been made clear and at one time a Jewish newspaper in New York questioned occupation forces.

Subsequently he served as civilian affairs adviser to the British-American forces in Europe, and with the International Refugee Organization. He was an immigration department adviser in Canada when Mr. Smallwood hired him to head Newfoundland's economic development program.

The charge against Dr. Valdmanis, a former Latvian cabinet minister, was that "he extorted very large sums of money from various firms with whom he dealt in behalf of the government of Newfoundland."

It appeared a hard announcement for Mr. Smallwood who made it after rousing this reporter out of bed shortly after 5 a. m.

Just a few days ago in the Newfoundland legislature a Progressive Conservative member said Dr. Valdmanis was investing money in New Brunswick fish plants while working in Newfoundlnd.

His salary as director of the economic development program and the government-backed companies developing the province's resources was far greater than that of Mr. Smallwood himself.

Mr. Smallwood and members of his Liberal cabinet receive $7,000 a year and $2,500 sessional indemnity.

Some officials here said Dr. Valdmanis was probably one of the highest paid civil servants in Canada.

Trenton Fears RCAF To Leave

TRENTON—This town, dependent to a large extent on the RCAF for its economic stability, today faced the prospect of losing one of its two big Air Force installations to Downsview Airport, Toronto.

No. 6 Repair Depot, which was established here in 1940 and which supports more than 1,000 personnel, is Canada's biggest and busiest maintenance base.

Air Force indicated that objections are being made to the increased traffic over that city which would result from the transfer of the air base to the Toronto area.

Planes of all types are ferried to the depot from every corner of the North American continent, and the base is a workshop for the servicing and repair of RCAF aircraft. Chamber of Commerce heads and retail merchants' exexcutives here have made representations to council and plans are being made to attempt to prevent the move.

ADVANCE PARTY

It is known, however, that an advance party will leave here in the next week or so to prepare Downsview for the influx of hundreds of RCAF personnel.

This Bay of Quinte town is faced with a critical situation. The closing of the depot would create a serious situation here. Representations will be made to Defence Minister Claxton to try to avert the move.

Trenton, headquarters of the RCAF Training Command, and the centre of the RCAF's vast program of maintenance work largely attributes its current prosperity to the presence of RCAF personnel here.

sector, trying for a break-through to the heart and nerve centre of the fortress' shrinking perimeter.

Already, by a series of night assaults and furious digging and thrusting, the Vietminh had managed to draw their steel ring tighter around the fortress. They have cut its girth from a broad six-by-four mile area to one not more than a mile and a quarter across.

The sudden Vietminh infantry assaults came after almost two days of intermittent heavy rains. When the skies cleared for a time, U.S.-supplied B-26 bombers plastered the rebels dug into a hill at the southeastern rim of the fortress. The French claimed "probably several companies" destroyed. Pilots reported blowing rebels by the score out of their trenches in the hill with 1,000-pound bombs.

BITTER FIGHTING

French Army sources here described today's fighting at Dien Bien Phu as "bitter and furious."

The French, Moroccans, foreign legionnaires and Viet Namese charged over the top of newly-dug trenches to strike at the rebels with hand grenades and bayonets. They were backed up by heavy machine-gun fire and artillery barrages from tanks.

During the times the skies were clear, transport planes flew over the besieged fortress again to parachute in ammunition, food and medical supplies.

Stepping up its aid to French Union forces fighting the Communist-led Vietminh, the United States Air Force hauled the paratroopers from Orly field near Paris Tuesday. Advices from the French capital said the Americans possibly would airlift 1,000 troops in 10 planes.

En route they were forced to detour from the direct Europe-to-Asia commercial route to refuel at the British base at Colombo, Ceylon. India's Prime Minister Nehru announced that his government would permit no foreign troops to cross Indian territory, by air or by any other route.

THREE LANDED THURSDAY

Dispatches from Colombo said three of the giant, troop-packed globe-masters landed there Thursday and two more came in today. Bangkok, capital of Thailand, was their next stop before Saigon.

Jump-troops—220 of them—wearing their characteristic berets, were aboard the first Globemaster landed here by the airlift's American crew.

The reinforcements are sorely needed at Dien Bien Phu.

The airlift leader stopped only briefly in Saigon. It later roared off towards an undisclosed airfield outside the combat area to deposit its burden of fighting men. Planes manned by pilots from the French Air Force or American civilians will drop them into Dien Bien Phu.

Dr. Valdmanis arrived in this resort town near the New Brunswick-Maine border from Montreal Thursday to carry out negotiations for opening of a new fish plant he bought in January.

The plant, formerly owned by St. Andrews Lobsters Ltd., is three miles from here. It has not been in operation for some time but residents said Dr. Valdmanis was making preparations to start fish processing.

Dr. Osvald Valdmanis, living here since 1952, was manager of the plant.

RCMP in St. John's announced that a Newfoundland officer made the trip here to serve the warrant.

Charge Children Being Neglected

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—The Westchester Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children today charged in children's court that actress Rita Hayworth's two children were being neglected.

The society brought a neglect petition before judge George W. Smyth. No details could be obtained from the closed-door proceedings.

Rita is in Key West Fla., with her third husband, singer Dick Haymes.

Her children by two previous marriages, Rebecca Wells, 8, and Yasmin Khan, 3, are being cared for here by Dorothy Chambers, a governess.

Judge Smyth ordered the children put under "the protective custody of the court." It was not learned immediately whether this removed them from the care of their governess.

Australia Refuses To Return Petrov

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government today refused to return Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet embassy secret police chief who has been given political asylum here, and asked for details of his alleged "crimes."

It added that the department of external affairs has "taken note of the embassy's statements, and requests that any detailed particulars of the matter referred to, which the embassy may be in a position to supply, should be furnished to the department.

Geneva Talks

With military plans for the year decided last December, the NATO ministers' attention focused today on world political problems, particularly the Korea and Indo-China questions to be discussed with Russia and China at the Geneva meeting beginning Monday.

Before they went into closed-door session, the ministers were welcomed by Bidault and heard from Lord Ismay that Western Europe still faces a military threat and the "Soviets will continue to do their utmost to divide us."

MADE GREAT STRIDES

Ismay said NATO has made great strides since its creation five years ago but "the threat remains, and it would be a mockery of all the exertions and sacrifices that have been made if we were now to be complacent or to relax, or, worse still, to fall apart."

The rest of today's session was to be devoted to a statement by each foreign minister of his views on the pressing problems facing the alliance.

Some of the smaller - power ministers already have been brought up to date on the Big Three discussions under way since Dulles arrived here Wednesday from Washington and Eden flew in Thursday from London.

The NATO gathering did not halt the work of the Big Three ministers on their strategy planning for Geneva. They met for two hours Thursday, but still had many points to agree on, informed sources said.

Dulles, Eden and Bidault scheduled another meeting for Saturday before leaving for Geneva.

West Hopes Conference Show Gains

Issues Too Big For Confidence In Reaching Solution

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)— The problems confronting Western statesmen in Asia come into sharp focus Monday when the 19-country conference on Korea and Indo-China opens in Geneva.

It will be a tough, complicated and important chapter in the struggle between East and West, and British diplomats make no secret of the fact that they approach it with hope rather than confidence.

The issues look too big, and the differences of view too wide, to encourage optimism about the outcome.

Though the rival sides have met across bargaining tables many times in post-war years, this will be the first occasion for full-dress political talks involving Communist China and Soviet Russia on the one hand and the major Western powers on the other. China made a brief appearance at the United Nations in New York after the outbreak of the Korean war, and had a part in later truce negotiations, but there was no discussion of broad political problems.

If there is a tendency in London to approach Geneva with some apprehension, it may be because of a feeling that the West is less united than the East in its approach to such specific questions as Korea and Indo-China. On Indo-China, for instance, there is an apparent disparity between what is described as the "tough" outlook of the United States, and the desire by Britain and France for flexibility in negotiation.

FUZZY OUTLINE

Seldom has a major international political conference seemed, on the eve of its opening, so fuzzy in outline. The detailed agenda is a matter of surmise.

Although it is called a 19-country conference, even that isn't certain. The associated states of Indo-China particularly Viet Nam, have not made up their minds whether they wish to attend.

Other complications are the physical arangements, the chairmanship, translation facilities, who is to sit with whom, and so on.

Canada will be represented, at least for the first two weeks, by External Affairs Minister Pearson, heading a delegation whose senior adviser will be John W. Holmes. Pearson, now in Paris for talks starting today among NATO foreign ministers, has said that Canada's principal interest at the conference is in discussions that would lead to a free, united and democratic Korea. This may prove as difficult of achievement as the West's aims at the Berlin conference for a simliar kind of agreement on Germany.

Indo-China appears an equally intractable problem. Statements from Peiping and Moscow in recent weeks have suggested the importance of a negotiated peace there, but nobody knows whether the overtures are sincere.

McCarthy Calls Monitoring Of Phone Calls "Illegal"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy threw the Senate investigations sub - committee into an uproar today by denouncing as "indecent and illegal" the action of Army Secretary Robert Stevens in monitoring a telephone conversation with him.

Testifying in the second day of hearings into his controversy with McCarthy, the army secretary started to detail a telephone conversation he said he had with the Wisconsin senator last Nov. 7.

Chairman Karl Mundt (Rep.-S.D.) ruled, after a verbal battle, that an army employee identified only as Lucas in the testimony must come before the committee and swear that he made a transcription of the phone call.

SUGGESTED WEEKENDS OFF

Before McCarthy exploded into action, Stevens had told the committee that McCarthy said to him on the phone that "one of the few things he had trouble" about with Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, was G. David Schine.

Stevens had charged that McCarthy and Cohn sought by "improper" means to get special treatment for Schine, a former subcommittee consultant later inducted into the army. McCarthy has denied anything improper.

Stevens quoted McCarthy as telling him in the phone call:

"Roy thinks Dave ought to be a general and operate from a penthouse on the top of the Waldorf Astoria."

Stevens said that McCarthy "thought that a few week - ends off for David Schine might be arranged, perhaps for taking care of Schine's girl friends."

When Ray Jenkins, sub-committee counsel, asked if the transcript of the conversation were available, McCarthy erupted with a point of order.

"This is one of the most indecent, dishonest things I have ever heard of," McCarthy began.

Jenkins started yelling at the same time that McCarthy was not making a point of order and Chairman Mundt told the Wisconsin senator to state it without embellishment.

"This is completely indecent — to monitor a conversation without telling the person on the other end that you are doing it," McCarthy said.

"It is completely improer, indecent and illegal under the law."

McCarthy sad that if the transcription were put into the record verbatim and was not merely a compilation of notes taken by someone who was listening in, he would not object to its being put in the record.

Mundt upheld this point.

In the upshot, the committee recessed until 2:30 p.m. EST with the understanding that Lucas, the man reported to have made the transcript of the conversation, would be called then to testify as to whether it was full and complete.

Stevens stated he believed the telephone notes to be an accurate verbatim report of the conversation, taken in shorthand.

The morning session of the hearing today was devoted to questioning of Stevens by Jenkins. Stevens testified that Senator McCarthy proposed last September, when drafted as a private, that Schine be given a special assignment digging out Communists in the army.

The army secretary said the proposition was made to him in the New York apartment of Schine's wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Schine. He said McCarthy invited him to the apartment.

The secretary also told the subcommittee that Schine—now 27 and a private in the army—told him last October that he (Stevens) was doing "o good job of ferreting out Communists" in the army.

Schine was formerly an unpaid consultant to the McCarthy committee. Key issue in this hearing is whether McCarthy and his top aides brought improper pressure on the army to get preferred treatment for Schine.

Stevens told the sub-committee Thursday that McCarthy was guilty of "perversion of power" in seeking military favors for Schine.

Stevens testified at the outset today that one of his first official acts as secretary was to order a checkup on security and loyalty procedures.

In response to Jenkins' questions, Stevens related that he took the oath as secretary of army on Feb. 4, 1953, and on Feb. 6 issued a directive calling for a complete review of loyalty and security procedures.

Stevens said that as a result of the review, many changes an improvements had been made in the army's effort to protect itself against espionage or subversives.

ARMY "ALWAYS ALERT"

Jenkins asked if Stevens thought the army had been "always on the alert" in that respect.

"That is correct," Stevens replied.

Stevens said the review of measures for protection against espionage or subversives covered both military and civilian personnel.

Stevens, under further questioning by Jenkins, testfied he first learned of McCarthy's investigation of communism in the army by reading a newspaper account while on a vacation in Montana.

Stevens said he later met with McCarthy for the first time officially in McCarthy's office on Sept. 8. He said they discussed the investigation of three men in the First Army area, which includes New York and New Jersey.

Stevens said he assured the senator of his full co-operation "in that regard or any other regard."

Stevens was called back to the witness chair before the Senate investigations sub-committee to confront cross-examination on the statement in which he repeated Thursday the charges which touched off the expanding controversy between McCarthy and the United States Army.

There was no noticeable backing down at Thursday's opening, in a jam-packed Senate caucus room and with millions looking on by television, of the long-heralded investigation.

"Absolutely false," Stevens said of McCarthy's contention that the secretary had sought to divert to the other U.S. armed services a hunt for Communists.

McCarthy has termed "completely false" army charges that he and his aides sought by "improper means" to win favors for Pte. G. David Schine. The senator indicated Thursday that he still holds this position.

"The Schine case," Stevens testified under oath, "is only an example of the wrongful seeking of privilege, of the perversion of power."

"The fireworks are still to come," Senator Henry C. Dworshak (Rep. Idaho) said in an interview. He replaced McCarthy as a sub-committee member for this inquiry.

Upon his return to the witness chair, probably for an all - day round, Stevens first faced questioning by the sub-committee's special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, followed by the seven members of the group. McCarthy's turn followed.

Word from the Wisconsin senator's camp was that he had laid out battle plans he hopes will bring back before the television cameras and into headlines his charge that the army has "coddled" some Communists.

NO CODDLING

On that point, Stevens said Thursday:

"I want to make it clear that the United States Army does not coddle Communists. This committee knows that. The American people know that."

Specifically, McCarthy was said to be whetting his inquiries for a review of the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, army dentist accused by McCarthy of having had Communist ties.

All McCarthy would say in advance of today's session was that:

"Sooner or later the American people will begin wondering why we are spending so much time on the case of a private who is still a private, instead of investigating communism."

STAR OF "THE SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS," first major production of the Peterborough Community Theatre, is Irene Campbell, the Man-Servant, here sitting on the knee of maidservant Shirley Silver. Left to right around them are Dorothy Sullivan, George Booth, Lyn Littlefield, John Campbell, Noreen Gill and John Mcdougall. The famous Italian masterpiece o fthe 18th century will be repeated tonight at the Queen Mary auditorium.—(Choate Studio Photo).

First Major Production Of Community Theatre

Peterborough Community Theatre gives the city a theatrical treat in its first major production. It is a colourful, bright and gay rendering of Carlo Goldoni's masterly comedy "The Servant of Two Masters". The company captured the essence of the wit and the humor of the period with clarity and intelligence. It is a very big, very good show, pleasing to the eye and the mind's palate.

Carlo Goldoni was the founder of modern Italian comedy. His lifetime spanned most of eighteenth century and "The Servant of Two Masters" is characteristic of his playwright's technique and the wit of the period, in Italy at Jonsonian rather than Dr. Johnsonian. The stylized production, the costumes, the posturing verging on parody, the delivery of the lines, and the comic business were delightfully attuned to theme and period. I thoroughly recommend the show to discriminating theatre-goers, and to anybody who wants two good hours of fun and fancy. Last performance is tonight.

Star of the performance was Irene Campbell who played the role of Truffaldino, manservant to two masters, who could reinterate how great a fellow he was, and think a great deal more of himself than he did before. Mrs. Campbell played with vivacity, nimbleness of gesture and word, and a real sense of the comic. Her turns and ballet-like movement, and their timing, gave the show a real lift and the audience much of its laughter. First rate acting and a fine use of the stage.

John Campbell, who directed the play, also took the major role of Pantalone, Venetian merchant. He looked remarkable and gave the part humanity without interfering with the artificiality required. His daughter Clarice was played by Dorothy Sullivan. Here again was an excellent realization of the style and humour of the play, and a rousing staginess. Her maidservant Smeraldina, a wholesome, earthy wench, was played by Shirley Silver with energy and sureness; her diatribe on the ways of men with women was uproarious.

John Macdougall played the handsome and gallant lover Florindo. His stance and voice was good, his gestures controlled; he looked and sounded both beautiful and virile. His beloved Beatrice was acted by personable Noreen Gill, who overcame a certain flatness in her big moments; her voice was generally a bit too quiet and her acting somewhat on one plane. Robert Macdougall was a suitable and district Doctor. Lombardi and George Booth as Silvio, his son, the lover of Clarice, made good use of posture and gesture, rhetorical interpretation with a small voice.

Michael Macdougall was the hearty innkeeper, the waiters were Pauline Howard and Michael Robinson and the porters were Lyn Littlefield and Frank Ball.

Ingenuity is needed in the design of the settings for this rapidly moving play and it was provided. The sets were interesting, good to look at, and convenient. They were done by Fritz Heilingbrunner and construction was under the direction of John Holt. The stage was well lit. The splendid, foppish and amusing costumes were made entirely by the Community Theatre group; designed and executed by Lyn Littlefield and Irene Campbell.

The pace flagged Thursday evening in parts of the second and third act, and the very funny dinner scene (Act 2, Sc. 2) did not quite come off, owing to some unfamiliarity with the stage. A bit of fatigue or under-rehearsal made itself known occasionally. It is a big play and a major production. See it tonight at the Queen Mary auditorium your last chance to enjoy and support a first-rate dramatic effort.

G. Murray of the Recreation Commission made some brief opening remarks of commendation.—T. J. A.

Matching Power With Purpose

The atomic bomb. The hydrogen bomb. The nitrogen bomb. The elements familiar from schooldays have taken on a terrible guise since their reduction to atoms in awful explosions. Nuclear energy and its use are now the fabric of daily conscience; we make no apology for referring to them frequently since the discovery of atomic energy is an ultimatum mankind has issued to itself.

* * *

The power of these new forces is a fact which we must recognize and walk with. Whether it is good or evil depends on the way we use it. Lady Violet Bonham Carter in the Falconer Lectures delivered to the University of Toronto last year showed her inheritance of mental and verbal gifts from her father Lord Asquith and her step-mother, Margot Asquith. She said: "As free human beings we must ensure that power is matched with purpose, knowledge with wisdom. If the fire we have stolen from Heaven is not to light our funeral pyre, if we are to build a world in which our children need no longer die for freedom but can live for it instead, we must learn to control not only the forces of Nature, but those forces which are embodied in ourselves."

* * *

We must have faith that somehow the noble stream of life shall not perish and to good and ill be lost forever. How? How is technology to be brought to understanding? How is the danger of overvaluing means and forgetting the ends for which they were created to be avoided? How is the gap between immense knowledge of the 'how' and deep ignorance of the 'why' to be bridged? These are terrible moments in history, but great ones too, for great opportunity as well as great disaster is open to us if right purposes go with the momentous developments in nuclear physics. John Bright gave a key to the problem a century ago: "How is it that any great thing can be accomplished? By love of justice, by constant devotion to a great cause and by an unfaltering belief that what is right will in the end prevail." Thus can humanity triumph over its technological monster.

Making NATO Keep Pace

Bored with NATO? Do not be. It is Canada's chief military alliance and actually came into being at Canada's suggestion. NATO is the arm of Canadian foreign policy. Today the Minister for External Affairs, Mr. L. B. Pearson, arrived in Paris for consultation with foreign ministers of other North Atlantic Treaty Organization members. There are fourteen nations in NATO. Their executive Council sits in Paris, and the meetings which begin today are actually sessions of that Council. It is significant to Canada that the NATO Council should meet prior to the Geneva Conference which is scheduled to begin next week and which Mr. Pearson will attend.

NATO has become much more than a military alliance, as the Hon. Halvard Lange, Foreign Minister of Norway, points out in the special article printed in our Third Column today. "A degree of political co-operation is taking place which was hardly foreseen when the North Atlantic Treaty was signed five years ago". Evidence of that co-operation is the Council meeting today. The NATO countries will discuss their approach to Geneva, and those members who will not be represented at Geneva will know what the attitude of the others is towards a settlement in the Far East. It is a united front, an important one, too, especially as regards Soviet foreign policy.

We invite our readers to study the Norwegian Foreign Minister's article on NATO's next task. Dr. Lange, Minister of Foreign Affairs since 1946 when his predecessor Trygve Lie became Secretary-General of U.N., is a Social Democrat and a scholar who has written several volumes on the history of Norwegian and international Labour. He has always looked to the West rather than Moscow. He spent most of the war as a prisoner of the Gestapo. Since assuming his present office he has done more than any other Scandinavian to make the Atlantic Pact more comprehensive than a mere military alliance. His point of view on internationalism is one which recommends itself to Canadians. Rather than an idealistic hope of a supra-national authority over states, he asks for allied co-operation on a Government-to-Government basis but which will have "the pace and authority required by technical developments" such as atomic bombs. The clean realism of Dr. Lange is calmly refreshing.

Gondolas On The Otonabee?

In the good old days—yes, some of them were good—one could board the steamer Stoney Lake at George Street wharf at nine in the morning, cruise through the Lift Lock and its sister locks to Lakefield, and thence all day through the Kawartha chain to Lindsay. There the six o'clock C.N.R. would be waiting to whisk the steamer passengers back to Peterborough in under an hour. This lovely ride, if you brought your own lunches and did not eat in the saloon, used to cost a dollar. Nowadays you cannot take the excursion even for five dollars, and that would be an attractive price, because nowadays there is no steamer Stoney Lake or any of her glorious little sisters; none at all. And farther over the waves there is no longer the Cobourg-Rochester day excursion so popular with Peterburians in other years. There are no longer any Cobourg-Rochester ferries.

Water travel and short holiday trips are now unavailable in this district so wonderfully endowed with water routes. This is a real loss to our own people, and to our tourists. It is a great pity, when the novelty and pleasure of it would be sheer delight now that the roads are marred by noise, fumes and traffic, and when there are tens of thousands of Peterborough people and their visitors with time and money enough for such modest pleasure trips. We venture to suggest that some enterprising person could find some lonely small ship like the Stoney Lake, refurbish her, set himself up in the daily excursion business and make a mint of money in a couple of months. He would probably go broke on the enterprise in the other ten months, but think of the pleasure he would have given the excursionist! Maybe the income tax department would allow him to incorporate himself as an untaxable charitable institution.

Now that Little Lake is being sweetened and cleaned there should be good opportunities for boat livery service, the renting of canoes, rowboats and dinghies to people who want to idle on nearby water in the summer sun, or croon beneath the June moon. A picturesque touch might be given to this gateway to the Kawarthas which has a navigable lake in her midst and a canal on her border, by importing a few gondolas from Venice. The gondola, we hear, is giving place to outboard motor boats on the Venetian canals. (Outboard motors that may come from Peterborough.) Let us reciprocate by buying some used gondolas (including one of the ceremonial ones used for weddings, funerals, and mayoral visitations) and setting them up on the Otonabee or in the canal.

Wonderful pleasure it would be to glide by gondola from the Lift Lock down the poplar-lined canal. There should be a good amount of business available, too, judging from the number of parked cars each fine evening on the canal bank. Ah, where would the gondolier come from? From Italy, of course. Thousands of Italians are emigrating to Canada now. Let the Department of Immigration ear-mark a couple of Venetian gondoliers for Peterborough, preferably ones equipped with large moustachios and tenor voices. Peterborough's tourist business would get such a fillip as would make Stratford wince. Think of the publicity! "O Sole Mio Under the Poplars of Peterborough! Gondolas on the Grand Canal Give Place to Gondolas on the Trent Canal! Come to Peterborough, the Venice of the North!" It's worth looking into.

Sacking From The Staff

The Canadian Cancer Society is appealing this month for funds. It is a worthy appeal, as we have already said in these columns. To remind citizens of it, the Society's Peterborough branch secured permission to fly its flag from the flag-staff at the City Hall. The words "Canadian Cancer Society" and its emblem are stamped on one side on a white background; it is not a woven flag. Therefore, approached from one side, the flag is readable and recognizable. From the other, puffed out from the pole and below the Union Jack, it looks like an improvised distress signal snatched from a child's crib; just a sheet of tired white cotton. It is no credit to the city, the Jack above it or to the Cancer Society. This brings up the whole question of the advisability of permitting any flag or bunting to fly from city hall staffs other than official civic, provincial or national colours.

The Next Task Of NATO

By HALVARD LANGE
(Norwegian Minister of Foreign Affairs)

THE striking development of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation as a military alliance may have distracted public attention from other aspects of its activities. The fact is, however, that a degree of political co-operation is taking place which was hardly foreseen when the North Atlantic Treaty was signed five years ago.

In Article IV of the Treaty member countries were given the right to consultation whenever, in the opinion of any of them, their "territorial integrity, political independence or security" were threatened. But the Treaty contains no explicit provisions for consultation regarding policies, actions and events which might lead to such threats.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE first year, political consultation mainly took place at the periodical meetings of the Nato Cabinet Ministers, and a "review of the international situation" was made a standard item on the agenda. With the establishment of the Council Deputies in 1950, a machinery was set up within Nato which enabled us to carry on political consultation as a continuing process.

The Deputies adopted the method of reviewing the situation in one area or country after the other in a general way and without specific reference to the problems of the day. This procedure was useful as a means of exchanging information, but it soon became evident that Governments were reluctant to take position on hypothetical problems.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PERMANENT COUNCIL, set up in Paris subsequent to the Lisbon meeting in February, 1952, adopted a different method of approach. Concrete problems effecting the immediate conduct of foreign affairs were increasingly brought under discussion with a view to harmonising the policies of member Governments. The study of Soviet foreign policy was intensified, and papers on this subject — representing the joint view of all Nato Governments — prepared and kept under periodical review. Exchanges of Notes with the Soviet Government are being discussed prior to their dispatch, and a number of other matters are brought up by member Governments whenever they feel the need of advice.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR a small country, in particular, political consultation cuts both ways. It is temptingly convenient to stay aloof and criticise decisions taken by other countries after they have been made and in the light of subsequent events. It is a different matter to have the opportunity to state in advance the point of view of your country and take your share of the responsibility. As far as Norway is concerned we have accepted the fact that with added opportunities for influencing policy goes added responsibility for the decisions taken. Political and military power varies from country to country within the Nato alliance, but the consequences of the exercise of that power fall with equal weight upon us all.

Another dilemma is that the North Atlantic Treaty is limited to a certain geographical area, whereas the problems of peace and war are global. Should consultation be limited to matters which directly concern the North Atlantic area? We had an illustration of this problem a year and a half ago, when the Council adopted a resolution on Indo-China. This resolution was afterwards strongly criticised in Denmark and Norway, where it was felt that the resolution implied an extension of commitments beyond our Treaty obligations — an extension unreasonable for small countries in North-Western Europe.

✧ ✧ ✧

PERSONALLY I have no doubt that a too strict limitation upon the subjects of consultation would be entirely unrealistic. Soviet strategy is a global strategy, and their foreign policy plays upon the whole register of world issues. A certain amount of flexibility is needed. There are some questions on which Nato has to take firm decisions, and there are problems where the proper role of the Council will be mainly to receive information from the member directly concerned.

In my opinion the development in the field of political consultation within Nato has, on the whole, been satisfacory. Member Governments are slowly and may be not altogether consistently developing the habit of bringing matters of common concern to all Nato nations up for discussion within the organisation before final decisions on national policy are taken. But I believe that we are still only at the beginning of the road.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS the common belief that we are now in a period of reduced international tension, at least as far as Europe is concerned, but we have no assurance that it will last. International tension may mount again any time, and quite independent of any action of ours. To perform its functions Nato must be able to take decisions which are both far-reaching and vital.

We can today foresee as a not-too-distant possibility a situation where a number of countries are in possession of atomic weapons, and so in a position to change the whole course of our civilisation, each by their own individual decisions. Our political machinery must be such that decisions can be made and implemented with the pace and the authority required by technical developments. It may well be, therefore, that present procedures will have to be amended in the years to come. We must always see to it that the Nato Council is in a position to make decisions before they are forced upon us, and we must make sure that these decisions are arrived at in a democratic way and that they are truly international in character.

✧ ✧ ✧

NATO decisions are no more than recommendations to member Governments. To be put into effect they require acceptance and implementation by national authorities in accordance with the constitutional procedures of the different member nations. In periods of crisis, however, speed in joint action may be essential and we cannot as yet be confident that our present methods of consultation are adequate.

Those of us who have held that allied co-operation should be on a Government-to-Government rather than on a supra-national basis—and that includes, I believe, most Norwegians and most Canadians—have a special responsibility to help make the present machinery ever more efficient. To develop the habit and the procedures of political consultation to the point where we can all feel confident that any important step will be a joint step—that is, in my view, perhaps the greatest task that is now confronting us in NATO.

Letters To The Editor

PLEASED

Sir: Thank you very much for your editorial, Death of a Chieftain, and for the article, H. M.'s Yacht Britannia.

Yours Sincerely,
W. H. HEWSTIN

UNNECESSARY LITTER

SIR: I was in full agreement with a letter which appeared in your paper a few days ago about dogs running free at this time of year. They are a nuisance in gardens, and destroy a lot of young plants just at the time of year when we are most anxious to get something in bloom.

I would like to protest also about the way in which people throw paper and trash on streets and lawns — cigarette boxes, candy wrappers, letters, wrapping paper, old magazines and every kind of trash, including sticks from popsicles and other bits. Somebody has to pick this stuff up, and it is usually some amateur gardener who does not want his place to look like a city dump. Let us have enough pride in our fine city, and enough self-respect, to keep it free of dirty waste paper. Let us show some thought for those who work hard to keep their lawns tidy and good to look at.

Yours,
AMATEUR GARDENER.

SUPPORTS UNION

Sir: I read the letter in Wednesday's paper headed "Alleges Union Coercion."

I would like to point out first the fact that the allegation is not true and secondly the indecency of the writer in not signing his name to such a ridiculous article.

It is my wholehearted belief that it is to a worker's own benefit that he belong to the union, and if he is part of the UE bargaining unit in GE then I believe he should belong to UE.

In spite of the tremendous gains won by UE for the production workers, there are still some individuals who will go to any lengths to save paying the equivalent of union dues.

They are in effect saying "let the rest of the workers pay the cost of negotiations and upholding the provisions of the Union Agreement, I get the benefits anyway."

For a person to take this attitude, I believe is wrong, but to stoop to writing such an article as appeared in your paper and not have the common decency to disclose his name, I believe is worse.

UNMOVED BY UNDIES

SIR: I was very glad to read Sam's letter deploring the display of female unmentionables in the store windows and agree with him that it is particularly embarrassing to be constantly seeing such things when one is accompanied by a female who is not his wife. The writer who is perhaps more unfortunate than the average has often had a great deal of explaining to do when someone has reported to his wife that he has been seen drooling over these exhibits when as Sam put it, with someone other than his wife.

Why, only the other day I saw a brassiere exposed quite openly in one window. Fortunately for my friends, I do not act impulsively on the ideas which might have entered my head, for this particular feminine accoutrement had multi-coloured toothpicks embedded all over it (or them).

As will be seen from the foregoing, I have no particular interest in viewing these intimate exhibits and the sight of Marilyn Munroe or Betty Grable modelling such things in a store window would have no impression on me at all. (Phew!)

Yours, etc.,
MacDUFF

DUMPERS ON TOWNSHIP ROADS

Sir: After reading your letter "Disgusted Rural Roader," I just had to let you know that you expressed my opinion so much better than I would have done.

I am wondering if the person or persons that dumped garbage on the old Norwood road ever drove out that road in daylight. If he did would his face be red and his head bowed in shame?

It would do the Sanitation Department good to take a drive out that way! These "humans" didn't get beyond the city limits before they started dumping on the road. Yes Sir—that is right it was on the road, not in the ditch as one might think. A pile of cans, bottles, glass, (broken glass). Yes Sir, this in the city!

Two men removed a bed, springs and all, from the roadway at the corner, a few feet from the city limits, to get by in the car going to work early one morning.

Wake up you township reeves and councillors; get busy and make a drive to clean our roads. Oh, yes our main roads near Peterborough are a disgrace.

Last summer one radio broadcast mentioned keeping off the highways for pleasure driving on Sundays, that the scenery and country views were well worth the drive through the side roads.

What about our side roads? Are they free of junk? Oh, no—by no means; they are much worse. It would give anyone sore eyes to look at our side roads on the outskirts of Peterborough.

The party that dumped a chesterfield, yes a chesterfield and the chairs to match, didn't lift the cushions off to dump it in the ditch or they would have noticed a book belonging to one of the family. If the George St. resident decides he would like it back, it is still there for him to pick up. That was several years ago, but it's still there.

Did we say thanks for the variety of plums, grapes, peaches by the basket? Indeed not. Later he treated us with cabbage, lettuce, celery, etc., by the bushel baskets, enough to supply the neighborhood. I wonder if he realizes what he did? Why was it dumped, it being in the best condition for eating? Children walking to school filled their pockets and no doubt ate some of the fruit. Also—the party that dumped broken bottles near a creek bed nearly got them back on his own doorstep, (but we didn't). Sure, he left identification that could be traced.

Come on, Otonabee, make a clean up and enforce your dumping laws and give us a road to live on that we can be proud of. (Yes we are ashamed of our road.) Packing boxes filled with newspapers, etc., littering our roads, looks nice for these pleasure drivers to see, doesn't it?

Yours truly,
DISGUSTED SIDE ROADER.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running and kneeled to him and asked him, Good Master what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?

And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God. Thou knowest the commandments. Do not comit adultery, mo not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother.

And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth.

Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come take up the cross, and follow me.

And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions. (Mark 10:17-22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister. And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence to the full assurance of hope unto the end: that ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises. (Heb. 6:10-12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him . . . And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. (1 John 4:9, 14.)

Home Sweet Home

(Washington Post)

Imagine an intrepid colonist from Mars looking this planet over from a space ship for the best country in which to settle. What would be his choice? The recently published United Nations statistical yearbook offers a global perspective that would help in his decision.

If he were a heavy eater, Ireland, with its 3,480 calories per person daily, would be his best bet. The best place for his children to survive would be Sweden, where infant mortality is lowest.

For medical care he might choose Israel, which has the highest number of physicians per person. If a radio fan, he would light on the United States. For movie going he would also choose that country, and especially avoid Australia.

If an avid newspaper reader, the United Kingdom would be his promised land, and Afghanistan the place to shun.

Residents of this planet also would learn many things from this yearbook — the most important being that no nation has all the advantages as a place to live.

Broadway Sees 4 Queens In Row

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway today has four queens in a row to enchant theatre-goers.

This triumph came sharply into focus with the arrival a few days ago of Shirley Booth in "By the Beautiful Sea," a musical beach party written by Herbert and Dorothy Fields with music by Arthur Schwartz. The critics immediately clasped Miss Booth fervently, a circumstance which the lady who has been called the "world's best actress" must by now find a delightful monotony.

Prior to her advent, this season saw three other damsels garnering equally enthusiastic kudos: Josephine Hull, the eloquently-visaged spinster of "The Solid Gold Cadillac"; enchanting Audrey Hepburn in "Ondine"; and the dazzling Jeanmaire of "The Girl in Pink Tights."

Recover Small Boat Used By Missing Men

WALLACEBURG (CP) — The small boat from which four Indians disappeared last Saturday, was recovered off the northwest tip of Walpole island in Lake St. Clair Thursday, RCMP said.

The boat was found partly filled with water. The 24-horsepower outboard motor was missing.

The missing men, Leonard Sand, 25, John Tooshkenig, 45, Silas Shobway, 60, and Gilbert White, 43, were last seen heading downriver.

A post-Easter service "He is Risen" was arranged by Mrs. Ivan Madill and those taking part were Mrs. Carmen Payne, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Sandy Millage, Mrs. Roger Charlton, Mrs. Earl Edwards, Mrs. C. S. Tanner and Mrs. H. C. Wolfraim A musical background was supplied by Mrs. T. E. Rath.

Mrs. Raymond Jackman sang an appropriate solo.

The "Travelling Bible", which will be owned by each Women's Association in the Peterborough Presbytery at some period, was presented by Mrs. Rath to the Young's Point ladies.

The Rev. H. C. Wolfraim then gave a short talk and Mrs. Wolfraim also spoke briefly, thanking the ladies for the work recently done by them at the manse.

The president, Mrs. P. H. Darling welcomed the guests and conducted the business. Mrs. Sherman Northey and Mrs. Madill were named a committee to be in charge of a rummage sale to be held in Peterborough, but a definite date was not set. Mrs. Northey was also appointed delegate to the WA convention to be held at Mount Pleasant, May 6. Afternoon tea was then served.

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, with a wide margin of pep and polish, moved easily into the Memorial Cup finals Thursday night with an 8-2 victory over Fort William Canadiens, winning the best-of-seven western series 4-1 and outscoring the Lakehead club 35-3.

Oil Kings now will meet either St. Catharines TeePees or Quebec Frontenacs in the Canadian junior hockey final.

It was speed and a smooth Edmonton passing attack that baffled Canadiens, whose only victory in the series—a 2-1 decision in Fort William—snapped Oil Kings' winning streak of 35 games, believed a Canadian junior record.

While Kings will be the first junior club to represent the oil capital in the national junior final since 1939, they have a record which promises to make their bid a husky one.

ONLY FOUR LOSSES

In 55 Western Junior Hockey League and playoff games they were beaten only four times. In four playoff series, involving 19 games, they scored 149 goals to their opposition's 32 while goalie Al Jacobson racked up five shutouts.

The Fort William series was the only one not won by Edmonton in straight games. The scores were 6-0, 1-2, 8-0, 8-1 and 8-2.

In their WJHL schedule, Oil Kings won 33 games, lost three and scored 263 goals to 84 against them, Jacobson earning four shutouts.

Western Canada has not held the Memorial Cup since 1948 when Port Arthur Bruins turned the trick.

And it has been 28 years since a team from Alberta, Calgary Canadiens, won national honors.

WON ABBOTT CUP

Edmonton won the Abbott Cup, emblematic of the western title, in almost a walk Thursday night. They led 1-0 and 5-0 before outscoring Canadiens 3-2 in the final frame.

The high-scoring line of Norm Ullman, Billy McNeill and Johnny Bucyk continued to supply the scoring punch for Kings. The 18-year-old Ullman, the WJHL's leading point-getter for two seasons, and left winger Bucyk each scored two goals. McNeill added one with others coming from Ray Kinasewich, Chuck Holmes and Ed Dia-

Fort William didn't score until Don Chiupka and Johnny Kowalchuk fired two goals within five minutes in the third period.

The final game saw 18 penalties handed out, Fort William drawing 11, including two misconducts.

A consolation cup manufactured by workmen at South Station was presented the runners-up. Seaforth Takes Title For B Group

GODERICH (CP) — The third championship of the Young Canada Week Pee Wee hockey tournament was decided here Thursday when Seaforth defeated Temiskaming Que., 5-1 to take the B-group title.

Winnipeg's entry, the Red and Whites, was defeated in its first game, losing 3-2 to Kingston in the AA group.

In A-group play, Goderich moved ahead by beating Simcoe 6-1 and tying Newmarket 2-2. Goderich was awarded the game over Newmarket on the basis of 22 shots on goal to Newmarket's 17.

In AA-group games North Bay eliminated Tillsonburg 4-2, North Toronto knocked out Stratford 7-1 and Waterloo beat North York 9-1.

Fred Curran was the leading goalgetter of the Kingston-Winnipeg game, scoring two for the Ontario team. Ron Brown scored a Kingston single. Pete Carnegie and Terry Clark put in Winnipeg's goals.

HANDICAPPED BY LOSS

Some observers said Winnipeg was handicapped by the loss of three leading players who were over 12 years of age. Western Pee play to 13 but Ontario sets the limit at 12.

In the B-group championship, Temiskaming got its only goal at 11:39 of the final frame when Don Szabo drove one home. Larry Dale, Jim Broadfoot, Ray Scoins, Bob Reith and Garry Ast scored for Kingston.

Goderich Lions Club, one of the tournament's sponsors, had its hands full finding accommodation for the players, with a record 47 entries in the tournament. Western Ontario teams normally need only overnight billets but teams from Toronto, North Bay, Winnipeg, Temiskaming and other distant centres pose a larger problem.

PUT UP WHOLE TEAM

Mrs. Fred Price, mother of Jackie Price of Chicago Black Hawks, put up the whole North Bay crew of 16 persons. North Bay officials said they made a point of getting in touch with Mrs. Price because her son formerly trained in North Bay and was well known to hockey enthusiasts there.

Mrs. Wilfrid Larder took in 12 players from Port Peery. Two Winnipeg lads were given the nickname of "The dead end kids" after they were assigned billets with an undertaker.

Goderich citizens took 120 boys into their homes Wednesday night and more Thursday night.

Vince Leah, coach of the Winnipeg team, said the Young Canada Week in Goderich is "a wonderful experience for young boys."

ARCARO WINS AGAIN

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Eddie Arcaro brought the favored Goyamo from far off the pace Thursday to win the $38,600 Blue Grass Stakes over 13 other Kentucky Derby candidates. Hasseyampa nosed out Black Metal for second place. But track stewards disqualified the latter horse and put him fourth, giving third money to Admiral Porter. Black Metal bore out in the stretch and bothered other horses.

The winner paid $5.40, $3.80 and $3.40.

HEADLINE FIGHT CARD—Welterweight Bill Twomey (right, above) has been matched against Toronto's Tony Brando on Monday night at the Alpha Club's card at the Brock St. arena. Meanwhile, a grudge bout will form the semi-final, another welterweight fight between Roy Bloom, of Toronto, and Emmett Crough. Crough won the first encounter on a close decision a month ago.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

It looks like baseball is really going to get a shot in the arm this season. The shot's in the right place—among the youngsters.

This corner's maintained for the past two years that if baseball is to be revived in this once-baseball-thriving city, the emphasis MUST be on the younger lads, NOT on the seniors.

Minor baseball did flourish for several years after the war when the seniors didn't operate. The juvenile and midget games then attracted crowds of 1,000 and more to the Saturday afternoon doubleheaders.

For some reason when senior ball was revived, the minor leagues started going downhill. The last three years have been pitiful.

Possibly the main reason for the decline was the lack of interest by adults who could serve as coaches and managers. Without support from the older folk, the youngsters couldn't carry on.

Shortage Too Acute

Far-sighted baseball enthusiasts could see what was going to happen to senior baseball under these conditions. Without youthful players coming out of the minor ranks, there resulted a shortage of senior players. In fact, the shortage was so acute last season that the Petes just didn't operate.

This season the baseball-minded citizens have finally seen the light. They're trying to make a double comeback by restoring the seniors and the minors.

The juniors of the past two years, who operated under many handicaps (most teams would have folded), have made the revival of senior baseball possible. Their youth, plus some of the veterans and imported pitchers, make enough for a senior club.

But it's the revival of minor baseball that's the most important. For the minors assure the seniors of baseball players for future years.

The appearance of Bill Sisler of the Philadelphia Phillies organization in Peterborough this season and his youth school program makes the minor scene shine brightly.

Bill, a former big-leaguer with Cleveland, Syracuse, Springfield and Memphis as a pitcher, then later as manager-coach, has developed a sound baseball school for fundamentals which this city could use.

$2,000 For School

The Phillies affiliate has offered the city his school this season for some $2,000 for four months. Today it looks possible that the offer will be accepted, providing the necessary funds can be raised; they are working on that now.

There has been a little misunderstanding by some that Bill will set up minor leagues. That isn't true. It's basically a school for fundamentals with definite hours set aside for age groups, nine to 17 years, for the boys to learn the sport from the very basic moves to the polished professional plays.

Away from baseball for so many years, the youngsters need such a school before they can step into teams and leagues. Therefore Sisler's school of fundamentals is ideal for Peterborough.

You can't play the game and not know the fundamentals.

Bill plans on a five-day week with one three-hour class a day. This will mean that each age group will have one three-hour lesson a week of intensive instruction in their favored positions.

His years of managing clubs in Granby, Quebec, Harlan, Kentucky, and Rehoth, Delaware, has given Bill experience in all ball positions. Therefore he'll be able to give sound instruction on each to every boy.

Every Position Has Tricks

The first classes will likely show the infielders how to field, outfielders how to go back either to the right or left, the catchers how to receive, step and throw and also how to shift with pitches, and pitchers how to stand on the rubber, how to hide the ball, how to deliver and follow through, and how to grip the ball.

As the weeks go by, the tempo increases.

No games will be played until late in the season when the youngsters are getting the fundamentals down pat. Each age group will be divided into teams and will play three-inning games, assuring every boy a chance to play during the class period.

The idea of going to school in the summer months may not sound appealing to the youngsters and the lack of league games might not be pleasing, but Bill assures the lads that he has a program which will keep them interested.

Let's hope that Peterborough takes Sisler's offer, seeing the opportunities the school offers.

PCVS Cagers Lose To Stamford

After defeating the Belleville "A" cagers by a 52-45 score in the Queen's invitation basketball tournament, PCVS dropped a 52-30 decision yesterday to Stamford. Albert eased out Regiopolis in "B" play as teams continued to tumble in the Easter holiday competition at Kingston.

Cournyea was high scorer in both PCVS games for the Peterborough squad, counting 21 points in the win over Belleville. Roberts had 12, Davis 10, McKinney four, J. Boorman three and Ash two. In their loss to Stamford, Cournyea tallied 17 points for Peterborough, five each going to Ash and Roberts, two to Davis, and one apiece to R. Boorman, J. Boorman and McKinney.

Peterborough Ousted 52-39 In Tournament

KINGSTON (CP) — Ten teams were eliminated Thursday in the second day of the Queen's University invitation basketball tournament.

Stamford, Kingston collegiate institute and Ottawa Glebe remain in the running for the A title. Stamford and Kingston are undefeated. The other two A teams who were entered in the tournament, Peterborouh and Belleville, were ousted Thursday by suffering second losses.

Kingston Regiopolis, Parry Sound, Napanee and Renfrew dropped from play in the B section. Oshawa and Perth are the only undefeated teams in this group.

Petes Applying For Entry In Viaduct Loop

With the COBL folding up for this season, since Oshawa Merchants and Kingston dropped out before the start of play, Petes and Belleville will seek entry into the Toronto Viaduct League, which presently has four Toronto teams in as well as Oakville and the Oshawa Transporters. The Quinte and Peterborough teams will send delegates to a Toronto meeting tonight.

A Viaduct League entry seems to be the only hope for the Petes to play senior ball this season, as Lakeshore League teams were not interested in stepping up to play senior in the Central League. If Belleville fails to get into the Viaduct League, that team may go into the Kingston Senior City League, along with Napanee. A local meeting at club president Hugh Campbell's house last evening made the decision to seek entry into the Toronto circuit.

Pittsburgh Will Tangle With Brooklyn After Hurdling N.Y. Giants

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's "Who" kids, the surprise of the National League baseball race, tangle with Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, hoping they can carry over at least some of the luck they had against New York Giants. They beat the Giants three out of four.

The four-game Brooklyn series is an important one, not only to the two clubs but to the rest of the league as well. It has been the Dodgers' almost unfailing ability to make the Pirates play dead the last two seasons that has eased the Brooklyn pennant path.

In 1952 the Dodgers beat the Pirates 19 times. Last year they beat them 20 times. The other clubs' chances of catching Brooklyn while the Dodgers had such hospitable "cousins" were just about impossible.

MANY NEWCOMERS

This is the first full scale series between Brooklyn and the "Who" kids, so called because who ever heard of them? More than half of the Pittsburgh starting line-up never had played in a major league park until two weeks ago.

Centrefielder Frank Thomas is the only member of the line-up that beat the Giants 7-4 Thursday who has played as many as 100 major league games in a season. And he's only in his second year in the big time.

Bob Skinner, fresh from the marines and 29 games in class-D ball in 1951, slammed Giant pitching for four straight hits—a double, triple and two singles.

The only other major league action Thursday was at Baltimore, where the Orioles tripped Cleveland Indians behind the five-hit pitching of Duane Pillette, 4-1.

Lamport On Way To Greece For Meeting

LONDON (Reuters)—The mayor of Toronto, Allan Lamport, arrived here by air Thursday night on his way to Athens to press for the 1960 Olympic Games to be held in Canada.

"We know that 32 American cities want to have the games for 1960," he said. "But we feel that Toronto should be recognized."

If Canada failed to get the Olympic games for 1960 it would ask for the 1964 meeting to be held in Toronto, he added.

Accompanying Lamport to Athens is Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric commission. He will attend the Athens meeting as a representative of the Canadian Olympic Association and thus will present the official Canadian bid for the 1960 Olympics.

Senators Wallop Quebec Aces 5-2

QUEBEC (CP) — Turk Broda's Ottawa Senators are sitting pretty today with a commanding 3-1 lead in their best-of-nine final playoffs against Quebec Aces.

The Senators had too much of everything for the Aces Thursday night, walloping them 5-2 before more than 7,500 disappointed fans. The victors are heavily favored to take the fifth game of the Quebec Hockey League series at Ottawa Saturday, and possibly win the playoffs here Sunday.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Lumley, Mosdell Make All-Star NHL Team

MONTREAL (CP)—Two 10-year men, never National Hockey League all-star choices, made the first team in selections anounced by the league today. Two other players are newcomers on the second team.

Harry Lumley of Toronto, with three clubs in his 10 years, snatched the goal-tending crown from Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, first-team choice the last three years. Ken Mosdell of Montreal, who just ended his 11th campaign, won the centre spot.

Second team newcomers are Tim Horton of Toronto and Ed Sandford of Boston.

In a close finish Gordie Howe of Detroit won first-team right wing place over Maurice Richard of Bontreal by two points. Howe is a repeater along with Detroiters Red Kelly and Ted Lindsay, and Doug Harvey of Montreal.

The teams, with points bracketed:

First team: Goal: Lumley, Toronto (127); defence, Kelly, Detroit (177), Harvey, Montreal (130); centre, Mosdell, Montreal (107); right wing, Howe, Detroit (144), Lindsay, Detroit (163).

Second team: Goal: Sawchuk, Detroit (95); Defence: Gadsby, Chicago (84), Horton, Toronto (84); centre: Kennedy, Toronto (43); right wing: Richard, Montreal (142)1; left wing: Sandford, Boston (64).

VOTING WEIGHTED

Voting on a 5-3-1 points basis for first, second and third choices, was weighted to give each NHL city equal voting strength. Balloting was done by hockey writers and broadcasters.

There were two votes in the season, midway and at the end Richard led Howe by one point Jan. 1. Kennedy won second-team centre place over his teammate Tod Sloan by half a point.

Maximum points for the season were 180, or 90 each half. Kelly was nearest to a perfect total with 177 points and was a unanimous 90 for the second half.

To Modify Grand National

LONDON (AP)—The bosses of steeplechase racing in Britain received a six-point plan Thursday for the modification of the Grand National — the world's toughest steeplechase.

It came from the influential Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA). The society's representatives put their points to the National Hunt Committee at a get-together Thursday.

The committee is the ruling body of steeplechase and hurdle racing in the British Isles.

The meeting followed a loud public outcry over the deaths of four horses in the March 27 Grand National.

The six-point plan:

1. Tightening qualifications for entrants; 2. Lowering top weights; 3. Tighter qualifications for jockeys; 4. Modifying the distance —increasing or decreasing — between the start and first fence; 5. Modifying certain fences; 6. veterinary examination of horses at first forfeit stage, including electro-cardiograph test to ensure no horse is liable to drop dead during the race from a weak heart.

SPEEDS DELIVERY—An army snowmobile makes a swift exit from an RCAF flying boxcar in a test drop 1,500 feet over the Canadian Joint Air Training Centre at Rivers, Man. Seconds after the vehicle was pulled out of the plane by the extraction parachute (extreme left) three giant parachutes blossomed from the bundle in front of the vehicle. They lowered the 12-passenger machine—minus passengers—then were automatically disconnected, leaving the snowmobile ready to be driven away. Guide lines at side and top are automatically imprinted by aerial camera which took this shot. They facilitate lining up pictures taken in rapid succession.—(CP Photo).

Sinatra Given Greatest Dramatic Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra, the Oscar winner, is playing his most dramatic role to date, but he says he won't give up crooning.

Portraying a would-be presidential assassin in a thriller called "Suddenly," he plays a war hero who has learned to kill by wiping out 27 Germans in battle. He is hired by unknown parties to kill an unidentified United States president for half a million.

That sounds like a heavy hunk of acting for a guy who used to sit on a bandstand all night. But Sinatra is approaching it with the same confidence that earned him an Academy Award for his role of Maggio in "From Here to Eternity."

"I don't aim to give up singing," he says. "'From Here to Eternity' was the greatest thing in the world for me because it opened up a whole new field. I never would have been offered this role if it hadn't been for 'Eternity.'

"But I hope to do a musical with Gene Kelly."

HIS WISEST INVESTMENT

His salary for "Eternity" came to around $10,000 — 1-10th or less of his usual salary for films — but it was the wisest investment he ever made. Now he has more work than he can handle.

Oh, yes, about his wife, Ava Gardner. He isn't talking. He does say that she'll be back in Hollywood soon. After that, it's anyone's guess.

AUSTRALIAN FLAG

Australia's national flag with the Union Jack and the Southern Cross was adopted in 1901 from 30,000 entries.

GET OUTTA TOWN—Roman A. Reuter holds a sign in his Sauk City, Wis., restaurant demanding that editor Leroy Gore leave town. Reuter is chairman of the "Give Gore the Door" club, an organization opposed to Gore's "Joe Must Go" club which is backing the recall of Sen. Joe McCarthy.

SayImprovement Only Temporary

TORONTO (CP)—The farm implement council of the Canadian Congress of Labor Thursday said that present improvement in the employment situation of farm implement workers is only temporary.

The council, composed of members of the United Steelworkers of America and the United Automobile Workers, said farm implement workers, being recalled to work on a short-term basis, face the prospect of new layoffs by midsummer.

Workers who have been recalled to their jobs were chiefly engaged in filling orders which will be completed by June or July.

Taking part in the council meeting were 25 representatives of the steel and auto workers from cities where farm implements are made. The two CIO-CCL unions bargain for farm implement workers in Toronto, Hamilton, Smiths Falls, Brantford and Woodstock.

Elect Canadian Officer Of Publishers

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Association, winding up its annual convention, Thursday elected Richard W. Slocum, executive vice-president of the Philadelphia Bulletin, as president. He succeeds George C. Biggers, president of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution.

Also elected was Walter J. Blackburn, of the London (Ont.) Free Press, as secretary.

Blackburn is the first Canadian newspaper man in the memory of ANPA officials to be elected an association officer. Twelve Canadian newspapers, mostly larger ones, are among the ANPA's 787 newspaper members.

INSTITUTE PLANNED

The convention heard a report on plans of a group of publishers for setting up a national newspaper institute, to provide training materials and research in various newspaper operations.

The institute, for which initial financial backing of $100,000 is sought, would be devoted to improving newspaper production techniques, developing training methods, job analysis, work simplification studies, appraising new equipment and similar purposes.

Member newspapers would pay annual dues based at the rate of $5 per 1,000 daily circulation up to a $2,500 maximum to support the institute, to be located probably in the midwest.

Expect Too Much Of School Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—A professor of education Wednesday accused the public of thinking of teachers as "not quite human and at the same time superhuman."

The average layman has a rather peculiar view of teachers—almost thinking of them as a third sex," Dr. Ernest G. Osborne, of Columbia University told the Ontario Home and School convention.

"If a pretty, young girl goes on a cruise, she isn't likely to confess to her fellow passengers that she is a teacher. She is afraid, and with some justification, that it might interfere with some of the normal procedures of Caribbean cruises. People might suppose she wouldn't be as comfortable or as effective in a moonlight situation as other people.

"Parents are often shocked if a teacher has a cigaret or the occasional cocktail—and yet they enjoy these same things themselves."

He said this attitude towards teachers is often shared by the teachers themselves.

Believe Prankster Carved Girl's Name

PICKERING (CP)—The name of Marion McDowell, who disappeared mysteriously from a parked car in Toronto last December, was found Wednesday scratched into a creek bank five miles west of here.

Police said they believed it was the work of a prankster.

Miss McDowell, 17-year-old typist, disappeared Dec. 6. Her boy friend was assaulted and left unconscious.

Pickering is 25 miles east of Toronto.

Will Ask Congress For India Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign aid chief Harold E. Stassen said Thursday he will ask Congress to approve a $104,000,000 aid program for India despite Prime Minister Nehru's refusal to let U. S. planes fly over his territory with battle-bound French troops en route to Indo-China.

"We must respect differences of view between governments," Stassen said, "and carefully analyze the long-term struggle of which we are a part."

Stassen made the statement at his press conference shortly after a storm of protest over Nehru's action broke out on the Senate floor.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.) of the Senate appropriations committee virtually challenged Stassen to justify any further American aid for India in view of that country's record of opposition to U.S. foreign policy.

Noting that the United States has "poured out millions" in aid to India, including $200,000,000 worth of wheat, Bridges said he was "amazed and shocked" at Nehru's attitude.

The senator said it was "almost unbelievable" that Nehru would object to American planes carrying French reinforcements to prevent the spread of communism in southeast Asia.

Florida Race Tracks Get More Dollars

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida squeezed a few more dollars out of racing enthusiasts last winter than in the 1952-53 season, the state racing commission reported today.

The state's four horse tracks, three jai-alai "frontons" and 15 greyhound racing plants attracted 5,437,696 fans who wagered $263,139,328 through April 19, the commission said. This was $4,223,021 more than the 5,346,306 who wagered $258,916,307 during the previous season.

Principal increase, the racing commission said, came from Hialeah's improved facilities which included a new $2,500,000 clubhouse, and from jai-alai activity—a murderous Spanish game that has attracted Florida tourists for the last few years.

Golf Course Refuses Admit Negro

TORONTO (CP) —James Marshall, 25-year-old Toronto - born Negro, was refused permission to play golf at the suburban Lakeview golf club Thursday. He was turned back when he sought to join two white companions at the first tee.

Greenskeeper James Firth said the refusal was in line with "a standing order" from owner William C. Purtle.

Asked if the club has any rule barring Negroes, Purtle said today:

"Why pick on us? Why don't you ask some other golf clubs the same question?"

GOES WITH FRIENDS

Marshall works at the A. V. Roe aircraft plant at suburban Malton. He went to the course with John Donoghue and James Izat, fellow workers, to practice for the company's golf tournament scheduled for May 1 at the course.

At least a dozen A. V. Roe employees were reported to have signified their intention to withdraw from the tournament unless it is played at some other course.

The executive of the 6,000-member A. V. Roe local of the International Association of Machinists (AFL) has called a special week-end meeting to consider the incident.

None of the trio was a member of Lakeview Golf Club, which is not a "pay and play" club.

NOT RAYMOND ARTHUR DAVIES but Rudolph Shohan, Judge A. G. McDougall decided Thursday in Montreal after hearing evidence against the man described as a left wing writer. Davies was sentenced to two years in penitentiary when found guilty of falsely claiming in a 1936 application for a Canadian passport that he was Raymond Arthur Davies, a British subject born in Montreal in 1902. The judge found that Davies was really Rudolph Shohan who emigrated from Russia with his family to Boston in 1921 and later became active as a Communist in Canada and the United States. Davies is shown here with his family. —(Federal Newsphoto)

She was ordered deported Jan. 28 as "unsuitable."

Mr. Brewin said in court Mrs. Brent was unable to obtain a satisfactory explanation.

"Objection to the applicant staying in this country was never stated in any intelligible form."

He said Mrs. Brent was in Canada validly as a visitor.

Geneva Last Parley Korea Will Attend

SEOUL (Reuters) — Vice-Admiral Sohn Won Il, South Korean defence minister, today said the Geneva Far East conference will be the last international meeting attended by South Korea to discuss the peaceful unification of the country.

If Geneva failed, it would be "the last peaceful attempt."

The defence minister told a press conference he is confident the United States will "eventually agree" that military means are the only way to unify Korea, and added:

"I am sure the United States will not leave us alone when and if we start fighting."

Sohn said that if war breaks out again in Korea, "both sides" will employ atomic weapons.

Doctor Dies Aboard Freighter

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. George Gushue Taylor, 70, former missionary for St. Andrew's United church here, died Thursday aboard a storm-tossed freighter off the coast of Japan.

Dr. Taylor was noted for extensive research in leprosy. He established the Happy Mount leprosy colony on Formosa with funds collected from members of the London church.

He suffered an attack of acute appendicitis on the freighter Canada Mail during a storm at sea. Several attempts were made to reach the ship but rough seas drove the rescuers back.

Dr. Taylor was born in Stratford and lived there for several years. His present home is Qualicum Beach, British Columbia.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Gordon Cardiff of Toronto.

Would Allow Germans Wear Iron Crosses

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German interior ministry today proposed a law to allow Germans to wear their Iron Crosses again.

If passed by parliament, such a law would allow the wearing of about 30,000,000 military and civil decorations and campaign medals.

But it provides that any swastika emblems must be removed first. It also prohibits the wearing of medals given for the annexation of Austria, the Czech Sudetenland and Memel.

The wearing of German medals was prohibited by the Big Four occupation powers in 1945.

Lawyers Adopt Resolution On Confessions

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Ontario lawyers Thursday night adopted by a narrow margin a resolution that confessions should not be admitted as evidence unless they have been acknowledged as correct by a justice of the peace or some other legally judicial officer.

The vote was 28 to 22 in favor with many abstaining. It was taken after a panel discussion on the admissibility of statements made by accused persons.

Norm Borins, prominent Toronto defence counsel and a former assistant crown attorney, spoke in favor of abolishing all such confessions.

Claude Savage, crown attorney at London, Ont., disagreed and said that the present system, in which the responsibility of presenting a statement lay with the prosecuting counsel, is the correct one.

COULD CARRY WEIGHT

G. Arthur Martin, who moved the resolution, explained that even if a justice of the peace approved a statement that would not necessarily make it admissible in court, although he conceded it could "carry some weight."

Mr. Borins said he suspected that many confessions were not true, although he agreed that police officers should be allowed to interrogate accused persons in "a lawful manner" and that the information they receive should be "used only to assist them in their investigations." He added that "the possibility of injustices far exceeds the benefit of society as a whole, in continuation of our present practice."

Police chief John Chisholm of Toronto said changing the present law "would seriously imperil the administration of justice. An accused person was "more likely to tell the truth at the time of apprehension than at his trial."

BABY ON FILE—New-born babies at a San Francisco, Calif., hospital are filed away for safe keeping. The infants are bedded down in a plastic-lined steel drawer that slides between the mother's room and the baby's nursery. This allows the mother to be with her baby, left, and permits her to watch above the drawer, as nurse, right, cares for child in air-conditioned nursery.

Bill McCarthy For TV Reply

NEW YORK (AP) — A bill for filming Senator McCarthy's television reply to CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow's criticism of the Wisconsin Republican's methods has been sent to the senator's Washington office.

A spokesman for Fox Movietone News, which made the film, said the bill was mailed at the request of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the Senate permanent investigations sub-committee. Cohn had engaged Fox Studios.

The film was presented on CBS-TV the night of April 6 in reply to Murrow's criticism of McCarthy last month. Murrow had invited McCarthy to appear in rebuttal if he chose, and the senator elected to put his answer on a 25-minute film.

CBS said it had not been asked to pay for making the film. Murrow said there was no precedent for such a case, but that he "certainly would not pay for it personally."

$7,500 BILL

Estimates have placed the bill at from $6,000 to $7,500.

In Washington, McCarthy told a reporter, "I'll submit the bill to Alcoa (Murrow's sponsor). They paid more for Murrow's attack on me than this would amount to, and they should pay it."

He said he had not seen the bill himself, and did not know the amount. But whatever the total, he said, the movie company "will be paid."

Ottawa Forgets Saskatchewan Report

SASKATOON (AP) — The federal government "has forgotten all about the report of the royal commission on the south Saskatchewan river dam," Agricultural Minister Gardiner said in an interview Thursday night.

The recent royal commission appointed by the federal government to investigate feasibility of the proposed dam "didn't tell us anything about the costs of the project in its report," he said.

"Some people might have the idea the dam would cost us $250,000,000," he said, referring to the figure mentioned in the adverse report of the commission. "It might cost us that over a period of 50 to 100 years."

The federal government now was satisfied the province had secured the water rights for the project. It also was satisfied the provincial government had a sound plan for use of the water that would be stored by the dam.

Watches Doubled Aboard Royal Liner

ABOARD THE GOTHIC (Reuters)—Watches were doubled early today as a heavy tropical thunderstorm broke over this royal liner which is carrying Queen Elizabeth to Aden.

Brilliant lightning and heavy claps of thunder were accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain which almost blotted out the four escort ships in the Arabian sea.

Radar apparatus was put into operation.

The weather improved two hours later, but the seas were grey and the sky overcast as the Gothic steamed at 17 knots. She is due to reach the port at Arabia's southwest corner next Tuesday.

Government Fires Loan Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing administration's boss of home repair loan insurance was fired Thursday as a Senate committee investigating the housing scandal heard about a deal in which a New York builder made $500,000 profit on a $1,000 investment.

Latest to get the ax was Arthur J. Frentz, assistant housing commissioner in charge of Title I operations, the program that insures private lenders on home repair and improvement loans.

In announcing that Frentz was through, housing administrator Albert M. Cole gave no reason for the dismissal.

Frentz is the fifth official affected by a shakeup of the Housing agency's top echelon since President Eisenhower started it off by "accepting" the resignation of commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday April 12. Hollyday was asked to step aside while investigation of the agency's affairs was undertaken.

First Fire

NORTH BAY (CP) — Ontario lands and forest officials reported Thursday that the first forest fire damage of the 1954 season was the destruction of 25 acres of bush, an abandoned house and a barn at River Valley, 40 miles northwest of here.

WHAT NEXT!—First it was automobile windshields; now it's spectacles that are being peppered with mysterious pock-marks. The rash of "glasspox" alleged to have left pock-marks on hundreds of windshields across Canada spread to William Vandewater's glasses. The North Vancouver electric company foreman claims the incident occurred while talking to fellow workers. Several theories for the phenomenon have been advanced, but the mystery remains unsolved.—(CP Photo)

Interest In TV Hearing Of McCarthy Shows Drop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public interest in televised sessions of the McCarthy-army hearings apparently lagged far behind the enthusiasm that crippled business and left household chores undone during the 1951 Kefauver crime hearings.

From city after city in the United States where daily routines had been stalled by the crime hearings came reports that business was normal during the Washington hearings Thursday.

However television industry officials still figure the audience was vast. It was potentially much greater than the one three years ago because of substantial expansion of TV broadcasting and number of sets since then.

Most reports agreed with one from Providence, R. I., saying the current hearing had nowhere near the popular appeal of the Kefauver sessions.

PREFER BASEBALL

Store owners there reported business normal, and some bars didn't even have their TV sets turned on.

"My customers didn't ask for it," said one bar owner. "They were all interested in the ball game, as usual."

In Detroit a department store had a set turned to the hearings but a spot check showed only 14 persons were watching, compared to 100 persons who gathered for a recently-televised baseball game.

The Detroit Times made a housewife survey and found they had not neglected their chores or put off shopping because of the hearings.

In New York there was a slight increase in sale and rental of TV sets. The C. E. Hooper organization, which measures radio and television audiences, marked up a rating of 10 for the afternoon sessions of the McCarthy hearing compared to 32 for crime probes in 1951.

Caught By Head

HAMILTON (CP) — Four-year-old Robert Griese was rescued by firemen Thursday when he slipped and fell between two garages on Harmony avenue, becoming wedged head-first. Residents summoned firemen who got him out none the worse.

Teachers' Ouster Upheld

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New York State's Supreme Court Thursday upheld by a vote of 4 to 3 the dismissal of 14 New York City teachers who refused to tell a Senate investigator whether they were or had been Communists.

The ringing of chimes in the tower of St. John's church was the only official observance of St. George's day. However, transplanted Englishmen remembered and thought of home and others thought of the legendary St. George who slew dragons in childhood fairy stories.

BURNED BY CIGARET

Weller Windsor, 61, of RR 2, Lakefield, suffered first degree burns to his chest Thursday night and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. It is thought that Windsor fell asleep in his car and was burnt by a smouldering cigaret. His condition today was reported as satisfactory.

NEW STARLING ROOST

Starlings found a new roosting place Thursday night crowding along the cornice under the eave of the Bradburn Building on the east side of George St. at the centre of the block between Charlotte and Simcoe streets. Maybe it was only a temporary location.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Among the 400 delegates to the seventh annual Key Club convention in Windsor today are 24 boys from the two Peterborough clubs, PCVS and St. Peter's High. Only one Peterborough member is running for office; he's John Martyn and has been nominated as lieutendant-governor of this district.

BOY HIT BY CAR

A small boy, John Thompson of 213 Simcoe St., was slightly injured about noon Thursday when he was knocked down by a car. The accident occurred outside the A & P store on Charlotte St. Driver of the car was Arthur Irvine of Sudbury. He took the boy to be examined by a doctor, who was unable to locate any extensive injury. Constable B. A. Howden investigated.

PLUMBING INSPECTIONS

City plumbing inspector A. G. Metheral reported 24 permits were issued during March for the installation of various sanitary conveniences. Sixty plumbing installations were completed during the month. There were 187 still unfinished. A total of 155 inspections were made, including 45 water tests, 16 layouts, 51 smoke tests, and 43 miscellaneous.

KIDDIES' DEATH-TRAPS are worrying citizens and city councilmen. Retailers Fail To Agree On Right Day To Close

The present confusing situation that has some city stores closing on Monday and others on Wednesday afternoon is likely to continue for some time.

Seventy members of the retail section of the chamber of commerce met for a buffet lunch Thursday night in the Empress Hotel. They all agreed it was a good lunch but the agreement ended there.

Result: the present schedule of store openings and closing will continue.

Here they are:

Monday — grocers, fruit and butchershops will be closed;

Wednesdays (all day)—Barber shops;

Wednesdays (afternoons only) —all stores but those closed Mondays. Beauty parlors have to close Wednesday afternoon but some close in the morning as well.

WOULD COMPROMISE

"Some of the merchants were willing to compromise—in any way they could—to try and bring about uniformity," said Harry Cherney, chairman of the retail section. "But we ended up with so many points of view that we couldn't work out any change.

However Mr. Cherney hopes that sometime in the future a uniform schedule can be worked out.

The stand-pat attitude was maintained in the face of a letter from the Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture who protested the variety in closing. Farmers are particularly put out.

In part, a letter from Harold Lewis, the federation's field secretary, said: "'We feel that some consideration should be given to the possibility of closing on the same day. It does not make any difference to use which day, but it is very inconvenient with the present setup."

One thing the retailers did decide on Thursday night and that was to let employees off the 49 of the 52 Wednesdays in the year. The exceptions are the two Wednesdays before Christmas and the Wednesday before Easter.

If a holiday falls within the week the employees will still get their Wednesday afternoons off.

(This provision, of course, does not apply to employees in grocery, fruit or butcher shops that close on Mondays.)

The various retail sections were canvassed as to what they considered their choice of a closing day; and they were given an alternative. Here they are: furriers —same days or close all Monday;

Beverage Rooms Visited Before Break-in

Three Peterborough men who were arrested at the scene of a break-in at the Steinkrauss tobacco warehouse on the evening of March 25, appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court Thursday.

Gerald Hogan, 24, of RR 3, Peterborough, was given a further remand to appear on April 26. Lorne Cromie, 26, of 492 Elm St., was also remanded to that date.

The third member of the party, a 25-year-old soldier, James Atkins, elected trial by jury and the preliminary hearing began Thursday.

An 18-year-old Peterborough girl, Noreen Ferguson, who was arrested with the men, and who has since been released from a charge of vagrancy, gave evidence for the prosecution.

WENT TO BEVERAGE ROOMS

She told of having met Cromie about 5 p.m. on March 25. In Cromie's car were Hogan and Atkins. The four of them spent some time drinking beer at the Queen's hotel and then had driven around the outskirts of the city from about 7 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Miss Ferguson said that the party arrived at the American hotel about 9.30 p.m. and drank steadily until they left at approximately 10.30 p.m.

Cromie's car was parked near the hotel and she and Cromie had stood near it talking for a few minutes. She did not remember seeing where Atkins and Hogan went to, but thought that they had gone down the alleyway. (She was referring to the alleyway that runs between the American hotel and the warehouse). Cromie had then disappeared down the alleyway for about a minute and on coming back, had backed his car down the alleyway to the rear of the warehouse.

DENIES LEAVING CAR

Miss Ferguson, who said she had kept company with Cromie for about six months, adamantly denied that he had left the car, once it was backed down the

Flooding Makes Death Traps

Recent heavy rains have caused flooding in certain spots throughout the city, such as ditches and excavations, which constitute dangers to children it was said in city council Wednesday night.

Ald. Stan McBride reminded council that a child had recently been killed in Sarnia and asked if anything had been done about clearing the ditch on Stormont St.

City Engineer A. E. Chalmers said he was aware of the condition of the ditch but hadn't received any instructions from council to do anything about it.

"I'm afraid we're in for some trouble, although I know the city engineer is very busy," said Mayor Norman Graham.

His Worship referred to a letter from a Highland Rd. resident complaining that three years ago a foundation was dug in an adjacent lot. The hole had been full of about six feet of water ever since. It was said to constitute a danger to the children of the street.

It was suggested that the hole should either be filled in or enclosed with a fence.

The city engineer suggested that the condition to which Ald. McBride had referred was on Wellington St. Ald. McBride said he was sure it was on Stormont St. but he would include both streets in his motion to have the culverts looked after.

STORM DRAIN

Ald. Art Burrows said a hazard existed at the entrance to the large storm drain at 592 Rogers St. It was three feet wide and a child could easily be drowned in it. He thought some bars should be put across it to prevent children getting into it.

Ald. Bob Knox said the drain went underground for about 500 feet before it emptied into the river. It appeared that a gate had been placed across it at one time.

"I wonder if this is the same drain that has been discussed in council several times before," Ald. Harold Rehill said. "The engineer told us the only way to fix it was to stop the water to East City. If you put bars up, East City would soon be flooded."

"I think bars could be put up so children couldn't get in there," Ald. Knox said.

"There is one at Romaine St. and Monaghan Rd. that has bars on it," Ald. Burrows said. "It is cleaned out every once in a while."

"I think it would clog up but I also think the engineer could make periodic inspections of it," Ald. McBride said.

Council passed Ald. Burrow's motion to have the drain protected in some way.

School Caretaker Contracts TB, Test Children

All children of the Omemee school are to undergo patch tests and x-ray examinations as soon as they return to school after the Easter holidays. The arrangements for the survey have been made following a tuberculosis alarm which has spread through the district in the last three weeks.

Parents of school children first became alarmed when it was learned that the elderly school caretaker, Harold Laidley, had been removed to a santitorium for tuberculosis treatment, two weeks before school closed. Many of the parents were afraid their children may have contracted the disease.

President of the Omemee Home and School Association, Mrs. A. W. Stevenson, said today that the Omemee MOH, Dr. George Earl, had arranged for the survey to be made. However, there was still chicken pox going about in the district and the doctor did not want this to upset the tests.

SCRUBBING SCHOOL

Meanwhile the school buildings are having a thorough scrubbing and cleaning over the Easter break. Although parents are not particularly happy about the situation, the children will go back to school as usual next week and officials do not consider that there is cause for any great alarm.

Treasurer of the Victoria County TB association, Frank Weldon, said that as far as he knew his association had not been notified of the circumstances. Certainly there had not been any meeting held by the association for at least a month.

50-Year Jewel Given W. Mowry

The Lansdowne Lodge of the Sons of England honored an old member Monday night when Bro. W. A. Mowry was presented with a jewel commemorating 50 years of membership.

The presentation was made at the home of Bro. Mowry at 189 River Rd. by Bro. George Benton, district deputy supervisor and Bro. Robert Starr, president of Lansdowne Lodge.

Bro. Mowry joined the lodge on April 18, 1904.

Included among those who attended the ceremony were Bros. W. G. Shiner, secretary, John Barnes, treasurer, and W. G. P. Benton, auditor.

Man Drowns In Scugog R. Trying To Swim To Shore After Canoe Turns Turtle

Companion Reaches Shore, But Collapses Before Reaching Farmhouse To Give Alarm; Tells of Hitting Stump, Capsizing

Provincial police today found the body of a 58-year-old Lindsay man who was drowned in the Scugog river about 4 p.m. Thursday. He was Pat Lamore, who lived with his sister at Lindsay.

Lamore was reported missing about 7 p.m. Thursday evening by his companion, Gordon McCabe, also of Lindsay. He told police that a canoe, carrying Lamore and himself, had capsized in the river after striking a submerged stump near No. 8 lighthouse. At this point the river is about a mile wide and a little farther down empties into Sturgeon lake.

This morning McCabe was able to direct OPP constables Jim Plumtree and Maurice Baker to the area where the accident occurred. Dragging operations were begun immediately and shortly before noon the three men discovered Lamore's body underwater in a swamp some 200 yards off the main river channel. The submerged canoe was found near the body.

GOING TO CAMP

McCabe told police that he set out with Lamore in the canoe earlier in the afternoon. They had intended travelling downriver to McCabe's camp which is near the outlet into the lake.

When the canoe capsized, both men were thrown into the water. McCabe says that they both struck out for the shore. He thought Lamore was right behind him, but apparently he went under before reaching shore.

McCabe stated that he collapsed on reaching the shore and was unconscious for about three hours. His watch was stopped at 4 p.m. and it was not until 7 o'clock in the evening that he was able to contact police by phoning from a farmhouse. He had struggled through a swamp to get help.

The body was brought to Lindsay at noon today and the coroner, Dr. W. R. Crowe, made an examination. There will be no inquest.

Lamore, who had lived in Lindsay for about seven years, came originally from the Hastings district. He lived in Lindsay with his sister, Mrs. N. J. Burke and her husband on Logie St. Lamore worked as a plasterer.

CANOE UPSETS

This incident is apparently not connected with another boat-tipping on the Scugog river that was witnessed by several Lindsay residents Thursday evening.

A canoe, manned by an unidentifed person, was seen to capsize in the river just north of Lindsay St. Bridge.

The lone occupant managed to get ashore and made a hurried departure in the direction of the CPR railyards. The canoe floated about half a mile down stream before police dragged it from the river. It was found to be the property of Bill Daynes of Lindsay, who said today that it must have been stolen.

The unidentified canoeman has not been located by police.

Contractor Buys 15 Lots In Manor Heights

The first out-of-town housing contractor has bought lots in the new Manor Heights sub-division on the Hatton property. Clarence McCullough, 948 Simcoe St., Oshawa, this week bought 15 lots.

Today Mr. McCullough, who has been building homes in the Oshawa-Ajax district for the past eight years, said that he plans to build homes, ranging from $11,000 to $15,000, under the NHA requirements.

Construction of the McCullough homes is expected to begin about June 1. The builder expects also to use as many Peterborough workers as possible.

"I'm quite interested in Peterborough labor," he said. His key men will likely be brought to the city from Oshawa.

With the sale of the 15 lots to the McCullough construction company, the number of lots now available has dwindled to only 10 since the division's total of 98 went on sale March 1.

When lots were first offered for sale, only to prospective home owners, the largest land sale in the city's history resulted. Since then 58 lots have been bought by prospective owners.

On April 1 the lots were made available to the housing contractors. Local builders have bought 15 and Mr. McCullough 15, leaving only 10 for sale.

A PUREBRED HOLSTEIN in the herd of Leslie Gilmore, Steventon, B.C., has established two Canadian and one world record for butterfat production in the same lactation. As a senior three-year-old she produced, on twice-a-day milking, in 305 days, 889 lbs. fat from 21,703 lbs. milk. Continued on test for the full year she gave 996 lbs. fat from 24,598 lbs. milk. Both these butterfat totals establish new marks for Canada and the 305 day figure is a world record. Thelma's 305 day milk record is second in the world and her 365 day record fifth in Canada in their classes.

Hog Producers Are Shown Wastage Of Excess Fat

"More vitamins and less carbohydrates."

It sounded like a text from the slimming section of certain magazines, but the circumstances were utterly different.

This was one of the kernels of advice offered by James R. Trunbull, federal government grader of meat carcasses, to 22 farmers of the Peterborough Hog Producers Association at Canada Packers Ltd. last week.

Among the carbohydrates are cereal grains, home grown wheat, oats, barley. Fed to hogs "unwisely but too well," they put excess fat where nobody wants it, and particularly the housewife representing the ultimate Canadian consumer.

"You can verify this by standing beside self-serve meat counters on a busy day, watching the women customers handle and inspect various cuts of meat, and listening to some of the conversation," Mr. Turnbull said.

In his position at the plant, Mr. Turnbull was a neutral commentator. He recalled that for the last two years warnings have been issuing from hog producer associations, Federation of Agriculture, government authorities, and generally leaders of the industry, against a decline in the number of Grade A (top quality) hogs going to market.

HAD HIGH STANDARD

During the war years, the Canadian farmer established a high standard in the Wiltshire sides that were processed for British requirements and for the fighting forces. Since then a gradual relaxing of carcass qualtiy had been reported. More hogs of B and C grades have been reaching the market, Ontario prices have been relatively high for the last year, but litters are suggesting that by the end of the year the supply of hogs is likely to be substantially increased with competition from other meats.

Hence, the plea for return to the type and quality of hog that is not laden with excess fat, by care in feeding and the period of feeding, that is not keeping hogs until they have passed the desired weight and are putting on surplus fat, with the likelihood of grading down to the second or third groups.

The meeting Wednesday afternoon was proposed from the executive of the Peterborough Hog Producers of which Bruce Graham of Westwood is president, and most of the farmers attending were directors.

After a demonstration of the unwanted fat with resultant decline in carcass value and net revenue, Lionel Browne, general manager, thanked the producers for their interest in the processing stages.

"We are happy to have you with us, and if you directors think that this kind of display is worth while to the industry we'd be glad to put on a similar demonstration any time," Mr. Browne said.

GRADES MARKED

In one of the cooling rooms a long row of hog carcasses were shown on the rail, ticketed with their grades and with those in the lower rating labelled for their defects.

On the way to another cooling room on an upper floor, the visitors must have noticed a push-cart load of wide fat strips, some thick, and in general dimensions about the size of the front of a goal tender's pads. That was a striking objective phase of today's recurrent pleas to producers to prevent turning out heavy, over-fat, over-finished pigs.

The visual presentation was continued in a neat and spacious cooling room against a background of halved beeves, later discussed.

This was the main demonstration, a general and detailed comparison of two sides or halves, one from a hog that had graded A and the other C. Each whole had weighed 158 pounds.

Elmer Godfrey did a smooth job as expert cutter and trimmer, with Fred Todd assisting in the demonstration, and George Shoniker explaining the routine job. Each side was cut into the standard parts. The parts were trimmed of skin and fat, were weighed and valued at present prices.

The return to the packer for 100 lbs. of the grade A was $42.62 and for the grade C $38.43, a difference of $4.19 per cwt. in favor of the top grade.

The difference to the hog producer would be approximately $6.50, on the basis of 3c a pound for 150 pounds plus the government premium of $2 for the Grade A pig.

The C grade side counted 15 pounds of fat and the A nine.

At the conclusion of the cutting and pricing, Mr. Browne remarked that the tabulated figures showed why the "C" hog was worth less than the "A" to the packer. With the prospect of more hogs coming to market towards the end of the year, it was plainly advisable that producers should try to market as many "A" hogs as possible.

INCREASE DIFFERENTIAL

Will Seymour of Cavan suggested an increase in the differential between the two grades, four cents rather than three cents. Leonard McNeill one of the prominent swine breeders of at least Central Ontario, said there was too little encouragement for keeping advanced registry boars for better breeding purposes.

In his talk to the visiting farmers, Mr. Turnbull said that during the last five years there had been a drop of 8% in the percentage of Grade A hogs marketed, and an increase of almost 4% in the numbers of "C's". He briefly explained that the determining of grade, which is his responsibility, is affected by weight, type and degree of fat.

During the week of February 27, more than 23% of the hogs that were handled, dressed over the weight range of 140 to 170 pounds. "There is much room here for improvement in the weight range at which hogs are being marketed."

Out of the B-1 hogs in the weight range of 140-170 lbs., 43% were over-finished; less than 1% under-finished, and 39% off type. Seven per cent were colored.

"Type can only be effectively improved by the careful selection of breeding stock," Mr. Turnbull said. "Since the pigs that will be coming to market this fall are already farrowed or on the way, there is nothing can be done about their ancestory now, but there is plenty of time to do something about how they are fed, the amount of fat put on them, and the weight at which they are marketed.

"Charles Newton, who addressed your producers' meeting here recommended that hogs should be marketed lighter this fall. If the possible 45,000 hogs per week, which might be marketed this fall in Ontario, were marketed ten pounds lighter than at present, it would lead to a reduction of 3,000 hogs a week. In Canada it could amount to 9,000 hogs per week."

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Typical of the Farms of the District in Readiness for the New Season is that of W. C. Mann on the Centre Line of Smith.... Norwood Hereford Heifers of 1953 are Reported Doing Well.... Hereford Auction at Morrow Park May 29.

In that sunburst Wednesday, Spring assumed a beguiling air of established occupation rather than of tardy and belated arrival on the Clarence Mann farm up the middle line of Smith.

Beyond the fence the pasture was firm under foot, drying fast and rising up in greeness. But, the light reddish mist in the stand of hardwood, like the brightness on the bush of Horeb, reflected the fulness of the budding stage, and the urgency of the unfolding of the leaves. Probably the rusty floor of the wood brightened the illusion.

Down at the house the pond is full, the creek is splashing along cheerily, and the 50 head of purebred Ayrshires of the Garmandale herd, still stanchioned in their winter quarters, must be as sensible of the change of sky and temperature and of the season of release, as the grazing flock of sheep and the meadow lark on the fence post piping his presence.

CLOSE TO THE CITY

Along the rising road toward the school it comes as something of a discovery that this farm on the west side with its gently rolling acres is only a couple of minutes from the edge of the city, and that as attractive agricultural property its days are indefinitely numbered.

The city is sprawling out in all directions, and that centre line of Smith is lovely country with its long view across the river.

The 12-acre field facing the county road was seeded eight years for a long-term pasture that has been as good as the phrase suggests. The mixture was perhaps entirely alfalfa, timothy, ladino and brome grass. Care of the pasture included fall fertilizing at the rate of about 150 pounds of 4-24-12 to the acre, and top dressing of manure, eight tons to the acre about every second year.

To repeat—the seeding was eight years ago, and last year's crop was 100 tons of grass silage, and 200 bales of hay as the bulk of the yield, not counting some ladino seed off the lower part that was put down six years ago.

There's nothing dear about ladino, Mr. Mann remarked. Eight dollars will do 10 acres, usually in a mixture, and after the first year the catch will do all its own seeding.

LAST OF ENSILAGE

An earlier seeding in another field was recommended 10 years ago by F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, but it is thinning out and mostly down to timothy. Incidentally, the last of the grass silage came out a few days ago, but there is still some tonnage of hay in the mow. Mr. Mann said some of his friends were wondering whether he really needed the height of barn when he was raising it. Last summer he filled it with cut hay almost to the ridge pole.

Mr. Mann was happy about getting two bushels of the new Simcoe oats from Garnet Rickard of Bowmanville. He has his own seed cleaning plant, equipped for treating with ceresan against plant diseases, does some cleansing for neighbors, and has some good Beaver oats available for any farmers who are short.

MORE THAN 19,000 POUNDS

The Ayrshires have wintered well with plenty of feed around them, and will come out onto the grass in good condition. There are some attractive young heifers, and one of the cows has close to 20,000 pounds of milk, well up in butter fat, to its credit.

Meanwhile, the sheep had found a way through a fence from common grass to an alfalfa mixture that was showing early growth, but not sufficient for their close grazing. If that Wednesday weather was a good sample of what is immediately in store, there ought to be a lot of busyness on the land about next week.

Debate Final April 26

The inter-county debating competition, the semi-final round of which was heard at the Central Ontario Spring Show in Peterborough, will be decided at the annual conference of the Junior Farmers of the province Monday night at the O.A.C. Guelph.

The eastern representatives are Miss Beverely Hunt and Orville Mussell of Carleton county, and the western Ontario contenders are Miss Marie Saunders and George Mowat of Haldimand.

Twenty-two teams entered the preliminary competition last October, and by the usual process of elimination the Junior Farmers debating honors will be decided Monday night. Subjects have been changed in each round. The proposition to be discussed at the annual conference affirms that an expanding foreign market for agricultural products is essential to the prosperity of Ontario's farmers.

In the semi-final at Peterborough, the Carleton speakers won the judges' favor from Lorna Hillyard and Barbara Watson of Peel. This is the third annual debating competition sponsored by the Ontario Junior Farmers Association. Judges for the final will be Prof. E. C. McLean of the English department, O.A.C., Prof. D. Ralph Campbell, and Dr. N. H. High also of the College.

Herd Brings $350,480

Purebred Holsteins averaged $1,040 at the dispersal sale of the Hickory Creek herd at West McHenry, Ill., two weeks ago. The 337 head sold for a total of $359,480.

Top price of $11,000 was paid for the four-year-old herd sire, Hickory Creek Gomar, the All-American junior yearling in 1951.

E. A. Thode of Saskatoon, Sask., was one of the big buyers, taking 26 head for a total outlay of $25,000. His top purchase was a yearling daughter of Gomar at $1,125. Thode paid $750 each for two-months-old twin heifer calves from H.C. Princess Flo, the All-American yearling in 1952.

Beef Club Organized

Gary Stewart was elected president of the 4-H Beef Calf Club Thursday night, with William Chamberlain vice-president and Miss Gaye Hancock as secretary-treasurer.

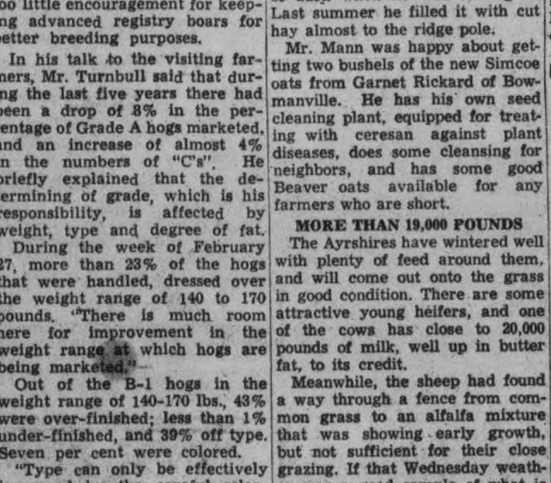
Ken Best, associate agricultural representative, welcomed the eleven members to their organization meeting, and the young people met their club leader, Lorne Pimmett. He suggested that apart from their regular meeting in June they should all try to attend the Shorthorn field day at Louada Manor Farms. Plans for the season include one or more Saturday visits to beef farms of this area, a bus trip and finally Achievement Day.

That is not the entire program, apart from the monthly meetings. Mr. Best reviewed responsibilities the members undertake, particularly in the feeding and care of their calves, the keeping of records of gain and cost, and generally doing a thorough job of management.

The members were also asked to recruit at least five or six more young people by the end of the month. Meetings will be on the fourth Tuesdays.

Gadfly M.H.J.'s Best Friend

Giving credit where it is due, but only in his official relationships, Melville Johnston took off Tuesday for a meeting of county weed inspectiors at Kemptville in the continuing conviction that his best friend has been the gadfly.



As inspector, of course, he has had a lot of co-operation from friends like Dick Stewart, Jim Humphries, Jim Gifford and many others in the municipal plane; Ken Fallis of the seeds and weeds branch of the provincial government, Frank Paterson, and others like that, but it was the zing of the warble that felled a lot of big burdocks and Scotch thistles.

The township councils have contributed their spate of help too, but in passing out tributes, Mr. Johnston hands the brightest to the fly that makes the cattle gad.

Therefore it must be the gadfly. Without that disturbance among the dairy cows and also the beef herds with loss of milk and meat, and hide value, there would have been no united farmers action to buy township machines for spraying the warbles in the spring time.

"And, a township council likes to get full value for its investments," Mr. Johnston said; "so, after the warble campaign, the spraying outfits were standing around idle; but not for long; the councils decided to send them down the roadsides killing weeds in addition to warbles."

There is no use straining this early reference to the weeds that are showing above ground, but it is still a fact that the gadfly has been the means of liquidating a great company of weeds throughout the southern townships of Peterborough county.

MAKING ELBOWS—When installing drain tile around foundations, chip the ends of two clay tiles at a 45-degree angle in order to form a right-hand elbow. Mark angle with pencil, break away waste with adjustable wrench. After tile is laid, cover the angle joint with strip of roll roofing.

Not A Warble Under 70 Hides

Roy Sanderson of Bailieboro mentioned at a recent meeting that he had scanned 70 cows and didn't notice one warble. That does not mean his inspection was exact to the last possible grub, but it was his impression that the treatment had been thoroughly effective in his herd.

"But we might as well keep them that way," was Mr. Sanderson's remark.

Spraying has proved worth while, and to such an extent that some farmers have been wondering why they shouldn't suspend operations.

Asphodel farmers down around Hastings are dubious about warbles hesitating to fly across the Trent. They see themselves as exposed to the insects from the tolerant townships of Northumberland. The Asphodel people are evidently convinced that they couldn't consider suspending spraying next year, after accomplishing a lot of good but with inlets along their southern exposure.

Those are several compliments to the spraying job, and for the present the warble control act remains the law for the very benefits which have been realized.

Hereford Heifers Thrive

The 40 Hereford heifer calves that were distributed among East Peterborough boys and girls through the fostering interest of the Norwood Fair board last year are "doing fine", as reported by President G. A. Brethen, president this week.

"They eat hardly half as much as the other cattle in our herd," said one of the boys recently visited by Mr. Brethen. Several others confirmed at Westwood Monday the information that the imports from the west are flourishing, and the young owners are highly satisfied with the progress of their heifers. Those are agreeable reports from two sources.

Mr. Brethen emphasized to the Examiner the fact that the 40 calves were bought from the McIntyre Ranching Co. of Lethbridge, Alta., whose entries picked off a lot of awards at the spring bull sale and show at Calgary. More than 800 Hereford bulls were entered.

"End to end they would make a line-up more than a mile long," Mr. Brethen said. "In this biggest sale and show on the continent, McIntyre Ranching Herefords won Junior and Grand championships, Reserve Sr., and first prize for the best two bulls, best three and best five bulls owned and bred by the exhibitor. It is intersting to note that the 40 heifers shown by our district boys and girls in the commercial feature class at the 1953 Norwood Fair were bought from Ralph Thrall personally, the owner of the McIntyre ranch.

They are practically 100% the same breeding as the winners at the Calgary show."

Asphodel In Action

An example of grass-roots democracy in action, and without any extraordinary aspect, was the meeting of fifteen Asphodel farmers in the Community Centre at Westwood Monday.

They were engaged in the details of giving effect to legislation which they had voluntarily accepted,—the aplication of the Brucellosis Control Act within their municipality. Cattle owners were virtually unanimous in the preliminary stage of petitioning. The township council then passed the enabling bylaw, and the meeting Monday was to mark out the township into convenient districts, appoint inspectors and engage veterinaries.

Dr. Harold Worton, Ontario Veterinarian, explained the duties of inspectors, and discussed the general scope of the Act. He expressed the hope that the vaccination of calves, six to nine months old, would be carried out as orderly as possible, following the spirit indicated in the petition of the Asphodel farmers.

YOUTH PROMINENT

Most of the group were junior adults, including two young councillors Arnold Stevenson and Everett Elmhurst. Others were James Moore, Ken Humphries, Ross Legge, and their companion in spirit Dave Walsh. Frank Paterson was chairman, and township clerk Breckenridge was also present. It may be that the "backward" weather was a factor in the active attendance. Quite evidently the township has quite a number of young men, of whom those meeting Monday were representatives, already experienced in community work. "Halter broken" in the public service might be a suitable phrase.

The township is being divided into four quarters, by the easterly road through Westwood and the line between the fifth and sixth concessions.

The members of the committee are William Mood, chairman Arthur Stinson and Charles Coughlin. Ex officio members are Frank Paterson and Dr. Worton.

$5,627 Spent On Welfare During Month

The city spent $5,627.71 on welfare last month. This included food, fuel, clothing, medicine, household sundries, shelter, and doctors.

Other expenses, such as hospital care, sanatorium aftercare, ambulance service and funerals, totalled $3,589.27. Administration costs of the welfare department were $732.22, bringing total expenditures to $9,949.20.

When welfare administrator A. G. Metheral presented his monthly report to the welfare committee Wednesday afternoon, chairman Ald. Stan McBride expressed his pleasure.

"That's a good showing,'" Ald. McBride said. "The way things were in January, I thought we would be spending a lot more that this."

Although the city spent more for welfare last month than during March a year ago, the amount of assistance per capita to welfare recipients was not as great this year. There were 297 recipients last month when the per capita cost was $18.94. In March, 1953, 259 recipients received an average of $19.10 per capita.

In addition, hospital care for indigent patients and relief recipients cost the city $229.35 less during the first three months of this year than in the first quarter of 1953. Total cost for the first three months of this year were $5,481.50, compared with $5,710.85 in 1953.

Total welfare costs for the first three months of this year were $17,237.51. The cost of administering the department was $2,222.44, making a total expenditure of $19,459.95. Of this, $7,671.42 was payable by the province, making the city's share just $11,788.53.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

A total of $46,000 was appropriated for the welfare department in the 1954 budget so that there is a balance remaining of $34,211.47. Thus with a quarter of the year gone, the department has spent slightly less than a quarter of its appropriation.

There were 18 applications for relief granted during March. Assistance was discontinued in 16 cases. The department made 56 investigations into welfare cases.

Fourteen persons were admitted to hospital as Peterborough residents. There were 22 hospital investigations made. Six applications for hospitalization were refused. Of the 297 people granted welfare assistance during March, 64 were heads of families, 171 were dependents, seven were single men and 55 were single women.

Pine Supplies Exhausted In 20 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario's supplies of marketable red and white pine will be exhausted within 20 years, the head of the University of Toronto's forestry faculty said Thursday.

Dean J. W. B. Sisam, discussing Ontario's forest policies before a general conference on conservation, added that spruce pulpwood is being cut "considerably in excess of its productivity, and the reproduction of this species is often inadequate."

The present Ontario policy, he said, was to ensure that the renewable resources are managed to serve the present and future needs of the people of the province. But past policies had left a heritage which had been damaging to Ontario.

For many years, the province's forests had been looked on more as a liability than an asset. The public considered the forests "on the one hand as being inexhaustible and on the other as a hindrance to settlement and agricultural development."

Fine Vancouver Paper $2,500 For Contempt

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne Thursday fined the Vancouver Province $2,500 and cost for contempt of court arising out of an article by columnist Eric Nicol condemning capital punishment. Nicol was fined $250.

The article followed the conviction of 19-year-old William Gash for the golf-course slaying of Frank Pitsch, 45. Gash was sentenced by Mr. Justice Clyne to be hanged June 22.

It was published March 20.

On April 2, A. W. Moscarella, Province publisher; H. C. Anderson, editor-in-chief; and Nicol were called before Mr. Justice Clyne. Mr. Moscarella and Mr. Anderson personally were not fined in Thursday's judgment.

After hearing the contempt proceedings two weeks ago, Mr. Justice Clyne reserved decision until Thursday.

EFFECT OF CONTEMPT

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Clyne said: "I cannot escape the conclusion that the effect of the writing and publishing of the article is such as to bring a court into contempt. . . or to obstruct or interfere with the due course of justice or the lawful process of the courts."

There can be no appeal in contempt proceedings of this kind.

In his written judgment, Mr. Justice Clyne said he would have imposed a more severe penalty if "it were not for the fact that the Vancouver Province possesses a long and respected background in this community."

Mr. Justice Clyne said the contempt was of an "unusual character."

It "consists in the publication, after the conclusion of a trial, of remarks which are said to be derogatory of the court and calculated to bring the court and the administration of justice into contempt and disrepute."

"EXTRAVAGANT LANGUAGE"

Dealing with the article, Mr. Justice Clyne said "from the extravagant language used by the writer there can be no doubt that it was written in opposition to capital punishment.'

"It is to be noted, however, that the article goes much further than a discussion of capital punishment and indicates that in the writer's opinion society is responsible for having caused William Gash to commit murder."

If the jury's verdict in the Gash trial had been perverse, the newspaper would have had a "perfect right" to criticize it.

"Under no stretch of imagination could the verdict be said to have been perverse," he said.

"Mr. Nicol and the publishers of the Vancouver Province have every right in the world to express their views on capital punishment, but in denouncing capital punishment they have chosen to include in their denunciation those who are charged with the duty of carrying out the law as it exists."

A resolution will be presented to Premier Frost by C. E. Janes, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Lambton East, asking the government to expropriate the area and later sell the inland section of forest to the conservation authority for $17,000.

A stretch 4½ miles long covering more than 1,200 acres would then be left under provincial ownership.

Roomers in the house called police when they heard the frightened crying of the boy whose mother, police said, was out at a party.

The mother denied being away and told police that she was at a party in another room of the house. The youngster's speech and mental growth were affected by a fall two years ago, police said.

McCarthy Steals Show In Army Investigation

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy, big, rugged-looking and confident, stole the show at Thursday's opening session of the investigation into his row with the army.

The Wisconsin Republican, a past master at grabbing headlines, didn't take the witness stand himself. But by raising points of order and in using cross-examination to bring a charge of prejudice against the first witness, he managed to keep his side of the story before the public.

Television cameramen, recognizing McCarthy as the dominant personality in the proceedings gave him considerable attention, constantly switching from the witness to the senator to catch his reaction.

FOCUS ON McCARTHY

Press photographers, on hand as the Senate investigating sub-committee prepared to begin its hearings, took some shots of Army Secretary Robert Stevens. But they saved most of their ammunition for McCarthy.

Senator Karl Mundt of North Dakota, the sub-committee chairman, rapped his gavel repeatedly for order, trying to get the proceedings started, but for a full three minutes of gavel-rapping, the cameramen ignored him, popping shot after shot of the smiling McCarthy.

With McCarthy was his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, who also faces army charges of using "improper means" in attempting to get a commission for his buddy, Pte. David Schine.

In contrast with McCarthy's confidence, Cohn, a short dapper man, seemed nervous. He kept fidgeting and looking around.

Meat Packing Industry Vital To Welfare Of Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Meat packing, started here 64 years ago and three years before city status was granted, is one of Calgary's main industries. And it continues to grow.

The first plant was built in 1890 by Patrick Burns to meet demands of railroad construction camps for fresh meat. There now are seven packing plants distributing fresh and cured meats throughout Canada.

Calgary plants employ about 1,300 workers and during the first three months of this year almost 50,000 head of cattle have been processed.

Between 80 and 82 per cent of cattle processed here are bought at the stock yards while the remainder are bought directly from farmers by packing house representatives. Only about 20 per cent of hogs, however, are bought at the yards.

Packing plants utilize virtually every part of a slaughtered animal.

NONE LEFT OVER

All meat suitable for human consumption is saved, the blood is used for blood sausage, most of the organs are sold as fancy meats. The hide is sent to a tanner, hooves become glue, glands are sold to pharmaceutical laboratories and the remaining parts are made into fertilizer.

At one time animal by-products accounted for a large part of the profit made by packing houses. Although by-products have recently dropped in value, they still play a substantial part in the economy of the industry.

During 1953 Alberta's 15 packing plants produced $86,370,151 in meat products, employed 3,799 workers and had an annual payroll of $9,000,000.

Total livestock production by Alberta farmers in 1953 was worth $156,348,510.

Bingo-Playing Mother Ordered To Go Home

KIRKLAND LAKE, (CP)—Police told a bingo-playing mother to go home Wednesday night after they learned, she had locked her two young children in her apartment.

Officers investigated a telephone call from a neighbor and found the woman's apartment locked and a child peering from the window. They found the mother in a local hall.

The neighbor told police the mother would often put the children to bed and then lock the apartment while she went out to play bingo.

Police said the mother thought there was nothing wrong with her action.

Fisherman Fears Hydro Plan Will Wipe Out B.C. Salmon

OTTAWA (CP) — A 45-year-old fly fisherman from British Columbia said today he expects to see Canada's Pacific salmon runs wiped out "within my lifetime" if Roderick Haig-Brown, magistrate, short-story writer and novelist from Campbell River, B.C., the hydro men have their way.

made the prediction before a national conference on Canada's resources as he urged immediate steps to protect wildlife and recreational facilities in Canada.

The conference, attended by representatives of some 50 private groups interested in conservation, turned to wildlife and recreation problems in the second day of a two-day meeting, after dealing Thursday with forest, soil and water conservation.

Mr. Haig-Brown said the use of water by fish and other wildlife is adversely affected by three major causes: Pollution, alterations of flow through change of ground cover, and dams.

LOSE ONE OF RESOURCES

"Canada's Pacific salmon runs are one of her most magnificent resources. Yet if the present plans of the hydro-electric engineers are realized, I expect to see them wiped out within my lifetime," he told the delegates.

"This is a national issue, of fundamental importance to all Canadians and to people outside Canada. It reaches into values beyond the reference of engineers and industrialists, and it is exactly the type of national responsibility we are attempting to define here today."

The public, he said, is entitled to a carefully planned, fully integrated and completely protected system of recreational and wildlife areas.

Turning to water pollution, he said "far more than enough is known about pollution to control it," but that it is much easier to prevent than control.

"Rivers are not drainage ditches or sewers, and no wise civilization will use them for these purposes. I believe that fouling rivers with waste is an intolerable expression of arrogance towards the present and the future."

He cited delays in handling pollution problems in British Columbia and the north Saskatchewan river. It had taken months to decide the origin of the trouble and get results.

NOT CONTROL

"This is not pollution control. It is a good way of allowing a situation to reach a point where it cannot be controlled."

Mr. Haig-Brown led off a panel discussion which included addresses by Dr. Harrison F. Lewis of West Middle Sable, N.S., president of the Canadian Conservation Association; Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto, field representative of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists; Dr. W. F. Tisdale, Winnipeg, president of Ducks Unlimited, and E. G. Oldham of Victoria, forester with the parks division of the B.C. lands and forests department.

MORE PARKS, SANCTUARIES

Dr. Lewis, former head of the federal wildlife service, also urged more parks, reserves and sanctuaries. He said however, that the main function of government is to provide guidance rather than performance of all that must be done or dictatorial control. Much important conservation work would always fall to private individuals and organizations.

NEED TRAINED WORKERS

Throughout Canada, there was a need for more specially-trained scientific workers in fish and wildlife fields. Legislation was needed to assure consideration for wildlife and recreational interests in any water project undertaken.

Dr. Tisdale reviewed existing work on the Prairies and urged delegates to "learn the lessons that many others have learned before it is too late." Research, education, and preservation of watersheds and wilderness were the main needs.

Mr. Oldham called for establishment by the federal government of an agency to undertake intensive study of management of recreation resources, incentive grants to assist the provinces in the work, and provision of advisory and consultative services.

If West To Win In Indo-China Must Provide Strong Leader

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indo-China can be saved from communism, but to do so decisively short of causing a new Korea situation will take time.

If time runs out, if the war is lost on the military, political and psychological fronts, the line of defence against communism may fall back to the Philippines, Formosa and Japan. The loss could mean all but the end of Western influence on most of the Asian mainland and a great upsurge of Communist economic and political power.

The Geneva conference opens Monday. Men of experience believe that at Geneva the West, with firmness and determination, can gain the extension of time needed to turn back Red expansion in the East.

What must the West do? I asked many people in Indo-China this. Most heavily stressed was the need to provide a band wagon for the apathetic, indifferent people of Viet Nam, give them an ideal and a leader.

HO HELD SAVIOUR

No matter what is said about Ho Chi Minh, the French and Viet Namese cannot dodge the fact he is looked upon by a large section of the masses as the country's saviour, a man who will drive out the foreigner, a man who stands for Viet Namese nationalism.

Some believe the French still could mold the Viet Nam chief of state, Bao Dai, into a leader, possibly by giving him a command. Bao Dai lacks much as a leader, but he is intelligent, and if he had been given a proper chance years ago to be anything but a puppet he might have become a true leader. One of Bao Dai's troubles is that the masses in the rice fields don't know anything about him.

Some starts have been made on the propaganda front. An example is the "Atlante" operation on the southeast coastal area where the Vietminh has been in control since 1945. Early this year, the French made a landing in force there. They were not out for annihilation of the enemy but sought to clear him out.

STRONGER MAN WINS

Then the plan was set up—control under native provincial leaders. People who had been under Vietminh control began drifting back. Some spoke of their disillusionment. But I asked a high French officer whether there had been any real widespread and violent feeling against the Vietminh. He shrugged and said:

"Cleared areas show mostly that the man who is stronger wins out—that's about all."

Atlante has been advertised as a sort of test operation to show whether in conditions of military stalemate the war can be won on political grounds. Some of the French think it might, given enough time.

It was repeated again and again that the crying need is for Viet Namese officers above company and battalion grade to relieve the French and take over command of the Viet Namese troops. Schools are turning out non-coms and lower-grade officers fast but not fast enough, not able enough.

REJECTS TRAINING HELP

Americans, whose government is spending $1,000,000,000 annually to support the Indo-Chinese war, say they think they can train officers and infantry more quickly than the French.

But Gen. Henri Navarre, the French commander, up to now has insisted he will not tolerate American training of Viet Namese. Partly, it seems a matter of French face and prestige, partly a throwback to French reluctance to see an independently operating Viet Nam army.

There are gruelling tasks ahead for the French and the Viet Namese if they are to win out. Militarily, the French must devise ways to keep cleared the areas they hold, to prevent constant infiltration. But at the same time, they must take the offensive. Both jobs at once are difficult with the forces available.

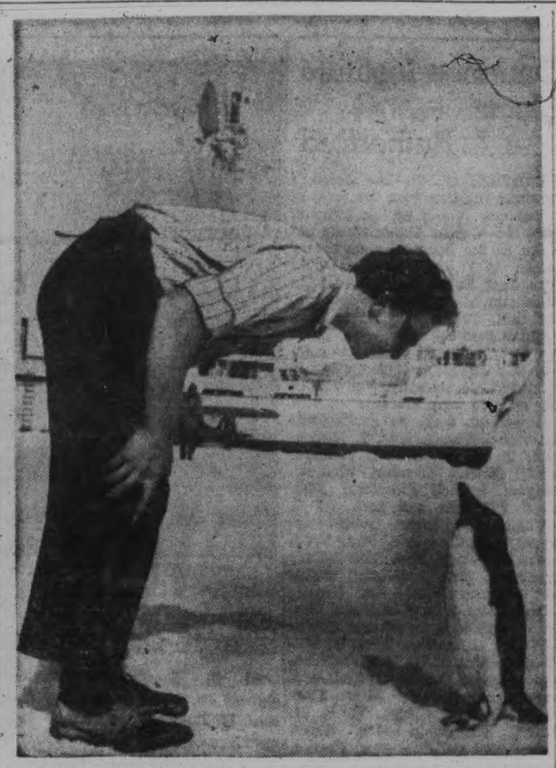
Prescott Only Opposition To New Bridge

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Officials of Prescott, Ont., Thursday expressed opposition to a proposed St. Lawrence river bridge which would connect Prescott and Ogdensburg, N.Y.

A delegation from Prescott, headed by Mayor James P. Doyle, declared that the bridge would "completely upset the residential development of the town." In answer to a question, however, Doyle said residents of Prescott probably would not oppose the bridge if the Canadian approach were placed half a mile east or west of the site now proposed.

The delegation appeared at a public hearing held by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. The engineers issue permits for all structures in or about navigable waters.

ONLY OPPOSITION



The Prescott delegates were the only witnesses who opposed the plan. They said the bridge would result in traffic hazards in Prescott, which has a population of 4,500, and would turn back streets into through highways.

A member of a Harrisburg, Pa., firm which designed the bridge, described it as a multiple cantilever bridge of five spans, carrying a 26-foot roadway. It would extend 5,400 feet from St. Lawrence Ave., and Main St., Ogdensburg, to a point about 700 feet upstream from Sophia Ave., Prescott. The main span over the navigation channel would be 836 feet long.

Hees Says Stuffy Meetings Must Go

TORONTO (CP)—George Hees, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, said Thursday night the party must hold the type of political meeting that will entice voters away from television, radio and movies.

The member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview said in a talk to the York Scarboro Federal Progressive Conservative Association that "stuffy old political meetings" must become things of the past. Emphasis, he said, should be on special activities.

Girl 23, Gives Self Up To Face Murder Charge

MONTREAL (CP)—Pretty, red-haired Gertrude Servant Thursday night gave herself up to police to face a charge of murder in connection with the bludgeon slaying of prominent Montreal restaurateur Burt J. McAbbie.

Inspector Henry Bond of the municipal police homicide squad said the 23-year-old girl will be arraigned today on the murder charge. She had been sought for more than a week.

Inspector Bond said the ashen-faced suspect surrendered with her lawyer.

Police described the suspect as the girl friend of Gerald McKuhen, also wanted in connection with the slaying Jan. 19, 1953.

Her brother, Leo, and Roy Colligan, were arraigned Thursday on the murder charge. A third man, Jonathan (Slim) Dawn, 22-year-old former private investigator, was arraigned on a similar charge last week.

PISTOL WHIPPED

McAbbie was pistol whipped during a holdup at his restaurant that netted his attackers $5,000. He died two days after the beating.

Dawn was arrested in Salinas, Calif., on a minor charge. After serving his sentence he was turned over to police officials here.

Miss Servant was picked up by police shortly after the killing for questioning but was released when her lawyer filed a writ of habeas corpus.

Police said the girl left the address at which she was staying. She was not heard from until she surrendered Thursday.

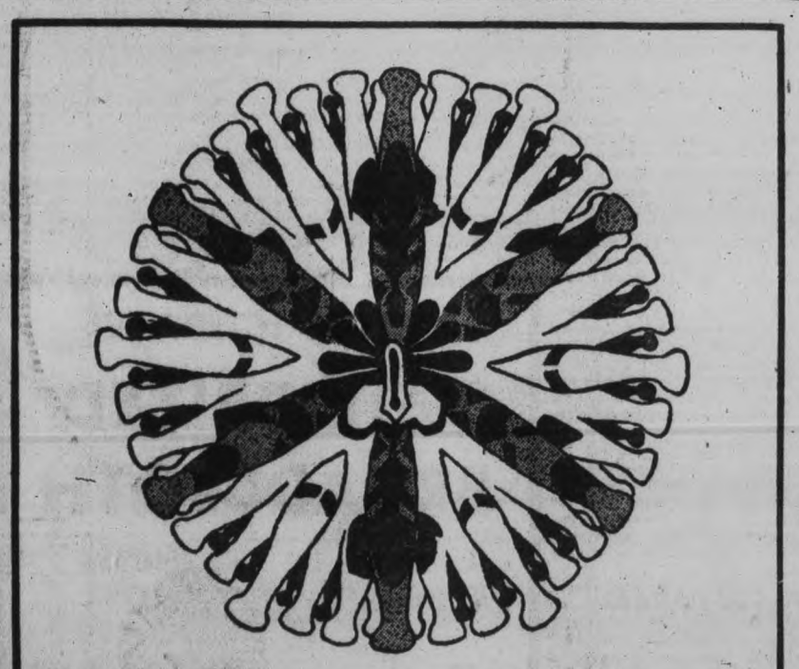
Say Stupid Children Read Most Comics

NEW YORK (AP) — A senate sub-committee probing the role of crime and horror comics in juvenile delinquency, heard a psychiatrist testify Thursday that the stupidity of a child is in direct ratio to his stock of comic books.

The sub-committee received assurances Wednesday from comic book publishers that they do not force the news dealers to accept comic books to get regular magazines.

Dr. Loretta Bender, physician and senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Hospital testified Thursday it was her experience that children with the least intelligence and reading capacity collect the most comic books.



Monroe Froehlich, Jr., business manager of a firm that turns out about 10,000,000 comic books a month, told the sub-committee the firm lost $29,000 when it tried to sell comics with a biblical theme.

The hearing was adjourned so that the sub-committee can study and evaluate the evidence.

Blood Stream Used to Combat Rheumatic, Arthritic Pain; No Pills
Penetrant Dilates Capillaries, Flows Fresh Oxygen-Rich Blood Through Afflicted Areas

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. This new method applies, for the first time, a well-known medical principle of pain relief to a product now readily available to Canadians for home use. The discovery literally calls upon the blood stream to bathe away pains of rheumatism, arthritis, sore muscles and joints of most kinds.

Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB", this new cream is odorless and greaseless. InfraRUB has the unusual ability to penetrate the skin and dilate tiny blood vessels deep down in sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh, oxygen-rich blood to flow freely through the afflicted area. The fresh blood, combined with InfraRUB's soothing medication, attacks pain at the source. Users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Another feature of this new product that appeals to many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

InfraRUB is now sold at all drug counters. No prescription is necessary.

Colors and materials strike the new note in shoe style for the suinmer.

PATENT LEATHERS POPULAR

While the basic shoe silhouette remains largely unchanged, patent leathers have ousted kid from first place in the popularity list and ever-popular white has given way to a new off-white shade which Rayne calls alabaster.

A lovely wedgewood blue is another newcomer to the season's color range, which includes shades from a delicate mushroom through sandalwood to benedictine. Other favorites are birth, sage and a variety of pinks.

In addition to gay prints, Rayne has introduced strawcloth as a shoe material.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband, 40, Insists Responsibilities Are Enough

DEAR MISS DIX: Frank and I are the parents of a darling 3-year-old girl. Our problem is the fact that he doesn't want a second child and I do. He gives as an excuse the fact that he's too old (40). I'm 31 and we've been married 10 years. We love each other and have absolutely no trouble, except over this one matter. I feel that Betty shouln't be brought up as an only child. Surely a man of 40 ought not to be ready to settle down to middle-age doldrums, and give up the joys of a family because of his age. Frank is in good health and so am I. His attitude just seems plain selfish; he's depriving his daughter of the companionship she needs, and me of the joy of bringing up a family. How can I convince him he's wrong? I've exhausted every argument I can think of. Myra T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You covered pages and pages with variations on your problem, which actually boils down to the few sentences I have printed. That you have an absolute obsession on the subject is quite apparent, and on this score alone your husband should give consideration to your viewpoint. It seems almost as if he takes pleasure in thwarting your desire for more children. The more you bring up the problem—and it seems to be your sole topic of conversation—the more determined he is to hang onto his theory. You might try pointing out that he's making himself old before his time by this uncompromising attitude. Forty is certainly not too old for fatherhood; why should he talk himself into being an old man? There's nothing like a growing family to keep a man young, to keep his interests alive and to brighten his home. Instead of continuing your arguments along the line of how much good it would do you or your daughter, to have another baby in the house, emphasize how much good it would do your husband. Your Frank is evidently a selfish person, and will be very loath to do anything unless it's going to do him some good. You should enlist the co-operation of both your doctor and clergyman in trying to make your husband agree with you. These men are in professions dedicated to helping people and I'm sure they can approach your husband in such a way that he'll feel another baby will make for an even happier home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For two years I've been going steady with a divorcee of 21; I am 28. We are in love with each other, but I know she goes out with other men, and she is very undependable about our dates. She breaks them at the last minute, often without giving a reason. Sometimes when I call for her she just isn't home and has left no excuse. Do you think I could count on her changing after marriage? Ronnie

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You can count on just the opposite, Ronnie. You are nothing but a convenient date while the young lady is looking the field over. If she does decide to marry you, because no one more to her liking comes along, she will, if anything, be less dependable as a wife than she has been as a friend. Don't risk it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: During 35 years of our marriage my husband and I raised six children and had a happy life together. However, a year ago he became interested in a neighbor with whom we were both friendly until it became obvious that his feeling for her had deepened into love. After a few months he said the whole affair was over, he was sorry he had ever been so foolish, and asked my forgiveness. However, I can't believe that things will go on as before, and divorce seems the only solution. Do you agree? M.C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No, my dear, I do not. Thirty-five years of happiness together can't be written off with a divorce decree. Naturally, you are very hurt now, but do accept your husband's contrition. Divorcing him won't mitigate his offense, and will leave you very lonely, insecure, and emotionally lost. Swallowing your pride may be difficult at first, but it's by far the happier solution.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is in the Army and we have one child. My mother cared for the baby while I worked, but I have been laid off temporarily and can devote more time to my daughter. However, my mother seems to resent the time the child spends with me. I have my own home quite a distance from my folks, so that when I have the girl, naturally she's away from mother. Do you think I should continue working, as in the past, leaving the child with my mother, or give up work and try to do something about keeping the youngster with me. G. G.

ANSWER: If financial circumstances permit, by all means give up work and devote yourself to your daughter. It isn't good for the child to be subject to divided loyalties.

WOOL JERSEY, a fabric that's full of surprises this spring, turns up in daytime dresses and a suit, all by top designers. This yarn-dyed gray-mixture wool jersey (left) is slim at front, has low-placed fullness at back. Short sleeve is all-in-one. A black silk band is worked through a pleat effect to create the high empire line. Creamy wool jersey in honeycomb pattern (centre) is used for sheath dress (centre) with straight front and back pleats that release at knee for fishtail effect. Navy blue and white wool jersey jajcket (right) with side vent and three-quarter set-in sleeve is worn with straight navy blue skirt.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Will you please print 2 recipes for me: Honey Dip Doughnuts and the honey dip like you buy at the baker's and Maple Tarts (with the icing on top) like you buy at the baker's. Mrs. E. H.

ANSWER: I have mailed you my recipe for Honey Yeast Doughnuts which has instructions for glazing doughnuts with icing sugar. I can't be sure of the method your baker uses for honey-glazing his doughnuts, but it would be safe to heat together ¼ cup each hot water and honey and add about ¾ cup icing sugar. Dip warm doughnuts into the warm glaze and drain on wax paper.

MAPLE TARTS

Again I am not familiar with your baker's filling for maple tarts but think you will like this one: Make 8 tart shells (strangely enough of these may be baked or unbaked) and fill 2-3 full with filling made by beating 1 egg and stirring into it ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 cup of ground dried blanched almonds and 1 teaspoon almond or maple extract. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes or until filling is set. If desired these may be iced with maple icing when cold: Break mape sugar into small pieces and measure 2 cups and add 1 cup cream. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved, then boil without stirring until soft ball stage is reached (238 deg. Fahr.). Remove from heat and beat until thick enough to spread. Heat must be low as this mixture will burn easily.

QUESTION: Can you give me a recipe for Snow Ball Pudding made with crumbled angel cake and orange and lemon flavored gelatine?. Also, what is the correct way for passing plates at a dinner—to the right or to the left? Mrs. S. B. B.

ANSWER: Place plates and remove them from the left. The only thing that is served to the right is beverages.

The closest I can come to the Snow Ball pudding you require is called:

ANGEL CHARLOTTE

Dissolve ½ package (4 tablespoons) lemon jelly dessert in 1 cup boiling water. Add shake of salt, ½ cup powdered sugar. Chill until cold and beginning to congeal. Add ½ teaspoon almond extract and 1 cup heavy cream. Stand bowl in bowl of cracked ice or ice water and beat with rotary beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Line mould with strips or slices of angel cake (or lady fingers) or carefully fold into the mixture about 2½ cups of crumbled angel cake.) Pour mixture into lined mould (or unlined if crumbled cake is used) and chill until firm in refrigerator. When unmoulded cut into wedges and garnish with maraschinos. If readers know the Snow Ball pudding to which Mrs. S. B. B. refers I would be grateful if they would send me the recipe for her.

QUESTION: ... I want to know how much honey will equal sugar ... if a recipe calls for 1 cup sugar how much honey would I use in place of it, I can't get any recipes that call only for honey. I believe marrow is a good nourishment for growing children... I use it in soup ...is it possible for you to send a few recipes.. Is it possible that in a fruit cake calling for brown and white sugar that white sugar may be omitted for honey... Mrs. J. S.

ANSWER: Last Monday in this column I gave you an address to write to for honey recipes. Since some recent publicity has kindled your interest in honey I will repeat: Write to Michigan State College, Extension Division, East Lansing, Michigan, for bulletin entitled "Honey Flavor Harmonies" No. 213. Honey is about 2½ times as sweet as cane suger so you should use only 2-5 of the amount of honey as you would sugar however it contains moisture and cannot be simply substituted without further change. The bulletin I refer to will outline all of the adjustments.

I have a feeling you are referring to meat marrow—not vegetable marrow. Have large marrow bones cut in 2 or 3-inch lengths. Cover ends of bones with thick paste of flour and water or wrap each bone in piece of cloth to prevent marrow escaping. Boil slowly 1 hour in slightly salted water. Drain bones, remove paste if used, serve at once on hot toast. Marrow is picked from the bones with fork. Of course it may be removed before serving but cools so quickly it might be unappetizing to some.
